WHY YOU SHOULD LIST YOUR HOME FOR SALE WITH WALKER & LEE, INC.

It is natural for any salesman to think that the company he works for is the best company in its field. If he did not feel that way, he would be working for another company. However, we feel that Walker & Lee offers many advantages to the person interested in selling his home that the average broker cannot offer. Here are some of them:

1. LARGER SALES FORCE: Walker & Lee have 60 trained salesmen in the Lakewood-Los Altos area working exclusively on selling Residential homes.
2. MORE ADVERTISING: Walker & Lee does more advertising in the local and Los Angeles papers than any other Broker in this area. In addition it has developed a system of advertising over the years that brings results — based on past experience. (See our big Ad today in this section.)
3. SECOND TIME CUSTOMERS: During the last 18 years, Walker & Lee have sold over 40,000 homes to people living in the Long Beach and Orange County areas. It is natural for many of these people to see us first when buying another home.
4. REFERRALS FROM OTHER WALKER & LEE SALESMEN: With over 200 salesmen working in the six Long Beach offices and Orange County area, we are constantly getting customers referred to our office by salesmen who have customers who for one reason or another cannot or do not wish to buy a home in the immediate area where that particular salesman is working. The salesman then refers the customer to our office.
5. INDIVIDUAL SALES CONTROL MANUAL: Over the years Walker & Lee has developed a sales system which keeps you completely up to date on the progress being made on your sale of your home. You are kept informed of how many times your home is being shown, what the prospective customers are saying about it, and the price opinions of Walker & Lee and other salesmen in the area.
6. TRADE-INS: We have developed a workable system of trading homes whereby if you are interested in purchasing another home, we can take your home in on trade on the new one of your choice. Even if you are not interested in buying another home, this benefits you in selling your home because it enables us to sell your home to that buyer who has to sell his other home first.
7. FINANCING: Walker & Lee makes available to any buyer the best and latest methods of financing the sale of your home through first and second trust deeds and in some cases actually helping the buyer finance his down payment.
8. OUR SALESMEN: The secret of any selling organization is in its salesmen. Walker & Lee has a staff whose main objective is to find and train outstanding salesmen and keep them up to date in the best and latest methods of finding buyers and placing them in homes in this area.
9. WHAT'S IN A NAME? Because of its 16 Resale offices and over 40 New House and Tract subdivisions that Walker & Lee is currently operating, they are one of the best known names in the real estate field in Southern California. Because of the every day appearance of the Walker & Lee name before the general public, it is only natural for many home buyers to contact their local Walker & Lee office when seeking a home.

Last but not least, it will be our sincere and conscientious effort to give you absolutely the best service obtainable in finding a new buyer for your home and we will greatly appreciate the opportunity of being of service to you.

Wife of Tourist Slain in Mexico Learns of Death

CECILLE ARNOLD

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The blonde wife of a free-spending Canadian tourist learned for the first time Saturday her husband was slain in neighboring Tijuana while she waited in a hotel here for him to return from his "shopping trip."

Pretty Cecille Arnold, 20, who wed Canadian heir Wayne Arnold, Vancouver, B.C., last year, said she heard a radio report Saturday that a "tourist" had been slain in Tijuana. She didn't learn Arnold was stabbed fatally Thursday night until a saleswoman, Mrs. Lucy Lara, and a fellow resident of the hotel where she was staying broke the news Saturday afternoon.

* * * *

MRS. ARNOLD, insisting she had no idea police had been looking for her since Thursday to tell her what had happened, conceded she had begun to worry Friday. "I didn't sleep well the nights he was away and I prayed for him," she said. "I had a feeling last night . . ."

WAYNE ARNOLD

Ramon Flores Figueroa, a Tijuana taxidriver, admitted he killed Arnold but said he did it in self-defense. He claimed Arnold asked him for a "shot of narcotics."

"My husband had nothing to do with narcotics," said Mrs. Arnold, who told newsmen she and her husband were sweethearts from the age of 14. "Wayne was an ideal husband. I loved him and he loved me."

Mrs. Arnold said that on Thursday, her husband took a bus to Tijuana, leaving her $125 for expenses. He took $300 or $400, she said.

The couple departed from Vancouver April 20.

With exception of a shopping trip, Mrs. Arnold said, she spent most of the time in the hotel.

"Mrs. Arnold said she stayed in the hotel, didn't read newspapers, listen to the radio or watch television," said Lt. William Schenck. "We have no reason to doubt her story. She is a young girl in a strange city."

* * * *

ARNOLD TOLD his wife he was going to "buy her a purse and some other things," police said.

Another resident of the hotel recognized Mrs. Arnold and notified authorities who questioned her Saturday afternoon.

Mexico authorities Saturday agreed to release the body after some delay over confirmation of the identity. The British Consulate in Los Angeles had sought for more than a day to obtain the release.

Arnold inherited $100,000 last June and has spent $59,000 since that time, attorney David Chertlow said in Vancouver. Arnold married in July.

Chertlow said he had warned Arnold about his high living, and said "you will wind up dead if you go on like you are, probably knifed in some alley."

Khrushchev Greets Cuban Delegation

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev received Saturday a Cuban delegation which has arrived for May Day celebrations.

Tass said Khrushchev wished Osmany Cienfuegos and Joaquin Ordoqui, members of Cuba's integrated revolutionary organizations, "new successes in their heroic struggle."

Dick Eats With Liz, Then Sybil

ROME (UPI) — Actor Richard Burton went home for dinner with his wife Saturday night after an intimate seaside lunch with Elizabeth Taylor.

It was the latest chapter in the game of "Burton, Burton, who's got the Burton."

Profile Story of Richard Burton Is on B-6

During Burton's lunch with Miss Taylor at Anzio, his English wife Sybil stayed home with their 4-year-old daughter Kate.

* * * *

TONIGHT, friends of the couple said, Burton and Sybil had a light supper at their villa, "seeking to work things out calmly and quietly." They did not elaborate.

Walter Wanger, producer of the movie Cleopatra in which Burton and Miss Taylor star, joined the Burtons for an "animated" after-dinner discussion, the friends said.

Several hundred yards from Burton's Old Appian Way villa, Miss Taylor was said to be spending a quiet Saturday night at home in the $3,000 a month villa she used to share with her estranged husband, singer Eddie Fisher.

* * * *

PHOTOGRAPHERS and newsmen watched Rome's nightspots for Miss Taylor or Burton, but by midnight neither had appeared.

Liz stayed home Friday and nursed her bruised nose and cheek while Burton made an unexpected appearance in public with Sybil who had flown in from London, apparently to look into reports of the Taylor-Burton idyll.

Miss Taylor looked happy and unworried at the intimate seaside lunch at a restaurant near the $2 million movie set where she and Burton lunched earlier this week. They chatted with great animation while three of her children by former husbands lunched on the set itself.

Burbank Man Tops Navy Law Students

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Naval Academy announced Saturday Midshipman William C. Miller of Burbank, Calif., will receive the American Bar Association award as the senior who stands highest for the course in military law.

Miller, a graduate of Bellarmine-Jefferson High School in Burbank in 1958, has been named to the superintendent's list for honor students all four years and will be commissioned an ensign in the Navy at June graduation exercises.

PANAMA, U.S. FLAGS GO BY IN PAN AMERICAN CEREMONY IN LAKEWOOD SATURDAY

Savant Says Body Repairs Ray Damage

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A government scientist disagreed Saturday with the belief that harmful effects from radiation accumulate in the human body over the years.

William L. Russell, principal geneticist at the biology division of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, said latest experiments with mice indicate the body can repair radiation damage naturally if the initial exposure was not too great.

Russell told the closing session of the American Philosophical Society meeting that the experiments showed "for the reproductive cell stages most involved in hazards, a given dose of radiation spread over hours or weeks produces fewer mutations than does the same dose delivered in a few minutes.

"This upset a long-held tenent of radiation genetics. It indicates that at low radiation dose rates, some natural repair can take place, presumably before the initial radiation damage in the cell is converted into a completed mutation."

Russell said the studies also showed female mice were more sensitive to immediate and acute doses of radiation than males, but the males appeared to be more sensitive to prolonged exposure.

Lake Trestle Burns

PROMONTORY POINT, Utah (UPI)—A pre-dawn fire destroyed a portion of the historic Southern Pacific trestle that spans the Great Salt Lake Saturday, but the blaze was reported under control.

Parade to Climax Lakewood Fete

A steady stream of high-stepping majorettes, marching bands, precision drill teams and prancing horses will strut along two miles of streets in Lakewood's big Pan American Parade, starting at 2:30 p.m. today.

The 1½-hour-long parade, concluding event of the Lakewood's week-long Latin festival, will present 122 units in five divisions. A delayed TV showing of the parade is scheduled from 5 to 6:30 p.m. on Channel 11.

Grand marshal will be DeLesseps S. Morrison, United States ambassador to the Organization of American States. Consular representatives of the Latin American republics will ride in convertibles.

The parade line of march will start down Bellflower Boulevard from South Street to Del Amo Boulevard, turn west on Del Amo to Faculty Avenue, and then north into the Lakewood Center disbanding area.

Rear Adm. W. H. Baumberger, USN, commander of Cruiser - Destroyer Flotilla Three, will review the parade units from judging stands on Bellflower at Hardwick Street.

Truman Blasts Capehart at Indiana Demo Dinner

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Former President Harry Truman got the November senatorial campaign in Indiana off to an early start Saturday with a bare-knuckle assault on Republican Senator Homer Capehart.

Capehart hasn't been renominated yet, although he is certain of the nomination in June and the Hoosier Democrats are currently battling over their nominee.

At the Indiana Jefferson-Jackson dinner here Truman called Capehart "the Republican opportunist in whose hands the happy and honorable art of politics has become a dismal science.

"He is cunning and he is clever, but I challenge you to name for me one single measure bearing his name that offers any comfort and hope for working people or their families, for the aged, the underprivileged or the unemployed."

N. Y. Law Demands Seat Belts for 1965

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — All new automobiles registered in New York State beginning with the 1965 model year must have two sets of seat belts in the front seat.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, announcing he had signed a bill requiring the installations, said the new requirement would "provide a large segment of our motoring public with this life-saving device."

TV Actor's New Motel Hit by Raid

NEOSHO, Mo. (UPI) — Three persons were charged with gambling Saturday after a fight at a motel owned by movie and television star Bob Cummings in nearby Joplin, Mo.

Sheriff Tommy Harbit said two persons also were charged with illicit cohabitation. Cummings and his wife, at Joplin for grand opening ceremonies of the motel, were not involved in the fight which broke out Friday night.

John Rice, prosecuting attorney for Newton County, said several other persons were involved in the gambling and fighting, but got away before officers could apprehend them.

Charged with illicit cohabitation and gambling were Kenneth Faey and Wilma Cunningham, who said they lived both at Wichita Falls, Tex., and Muskogee, Okla.

Charged with gambling was John Blair, Camdenton, Mo.

Magistrate Ray England set bond at $1,000 for Faey and Miss Cunningham and $500 for Blair. A hearing was set for May 8.

The Bob Cummings Motor Hotel, located in the Newton County portion of Joplin in southwest Missouri, opened for business two weeks ago. Official grand opening is this weekend.

Jobs-Boost Plan Offered Sea Unions

Two ship-operating subsidiaries of Bethlehem Steel Corp. said Saturday they have offered maritime unions a program aimed at replacing foreign seamen with American seamen on American - controlled foreign - flag ships.

The two concerns are Calmar Steamship Corp., a domestic intercoastal carrier, which has facilities at Berth 25, Pier C, Port of Long Beach, and Ore Navigation Corp., which operates from the East in the offshore trade.

Calmar is manned by American crews.

Ore Navigation has foreign-flag vessels under its control and employs foreign seamen.

* * * *

THE PROPOSAL calls for union agreement on acceptance of technological advancements Bethlehem Shipbuilding Division says can make it possible to operate ships with crews 50 to 60 per cent of the size of the "normal complement" of vessels of similar tonnage and service.

A Bethlehem spokesman said the talks with unions involved have been going on for several years now and that there was "hope that agreements will be signed in the near future."

The plan calls for participating shipping companies to make available to American seamen, at American wages and conditions, two jobs or foreign-flag ships under their control for every job which technological improvements make unnecessary in the manning of their American-flag ships.

ORE NAVIGATION soon expects to be operating two 51,000 deadweight-ton ore carriers now building in German shipyards.

Robert J. Jurgen, president of Ore and Calmar, said "it is now technically feasible to operate a large bulk carrier with a total crew of 26 to 32 men. With such a manning scale, the normal spread in wage costs between American and foreign seamen is greatly reduced. In fact, a 50,000-ton bulk carrier with 26 to 32 American seamen can efficiently compete with a time-chartered vessel of similar size manned by a normal foreign complement of 50 men."

Under the program, Jurgen said, American seamen would gain jobs.

Unions with whom discussions have been held are the Seafarers International Union of North America, National Marine Engineers, Masters Mates and Pilots and Radio Officers Union.

TO BUILD BANK AROUND THIS!

A real traffic-stopper is this 44,000-pound vault door standing in a vacant lot at Indiana Avenue and Artesia St. In a few months it will be protecting money of customers of a Farmers & Merchants branch bank which will be built on the site. The steel door is 92 inches in diameter but when set in place will be so perfectly balanced it will move via the pressure of one finger. Brought here from San Francisco, the door will be positioned and the vault—and bank—will be built around it. Kenneth Walker, 3100 E. 65th St., and Galen Roth, 3132 E. 65th St., are dwarfed by size of door.

Construction Started on New Hospital for Long Beach Area

Construction of a $1,500,000 hospital to serve the west Long Beach-Dominguez and Compton area is well under way on Susanna Road, between Artesia Blvd. and Bort St.

To be known as Dominguez Valley Hospital, the facility will provide 109 beds. While it will be a general hospital extensive 24-hour industrial and emergency units will be provided.

The project is being undertaken by a group of Long Beach and Compton doctors headed by Paul Cardey, M.D. of Compton. Architect is George Kirkpatrick.

* * * *

ALREADY THE walls have begun to rise, giving shape to the rambling structure. While the mail address will be Compton, the hospital grounds are on the Long Beach and Compton city dividing line, said Vic Morgan, spokesman for the doctors.

An open staff is planned, permitting all doctors to admit their patients. A new concept of progressive care will be introduced by the hospital, Morgan added. "The program was developed to provide greater care and attention than possible before, and at a lower over-all cost to the patient," said Morgan.

* * * *

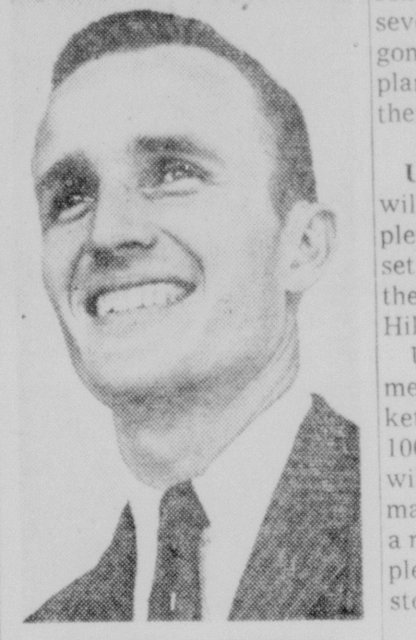
THE SURGICAL suite will consist of three major surgeries with separate cystoscopic room, fracture room, doctors and nurses lounges.

A complete obstetrical unit will be a feature, plus an intensive care unit with the most modern electronic and mechanical monitoring devices for continuous reporting of the physical condition of seriously ill patients. Convalescent units will have wide window walls, sliding glass doors to landscaped patios. Patient controlled electronic beds will be installed.

Television will be available to most rooms and the building will be completely air conditioned with all air electronically filtered. Each room will have its own bath.

There will be a complete clinical laboratory, pharmacy, geriatric unit and orthopedic unit.

Government Affairs New Chamber Dept.



RONALD L. WATSON
Heads Political-Action Move

The plan of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce to stimulate participation of local business people in political affairs, and to become more effective in representing business before legislative bodies, has reached full realization with the establishment of a new governmental affairs department, according to Harry Krusz, executive vice president.

Ronald L. Watson was recently appointed by Krusz as staff aid to the department. He will assist with promoting political-action courses which are now in operation by the chamber. Watson will also work with chamber committees which review all current legislation which affects Long Beach or its business interests.

* * * *

WATSON HAS been active in Long Beach civic affairs and organizations. His education at Long Beach State College was in political science and business management.

Co-chairmen of the chamber's political-action program are George R. Johnson and David Selcer. Goal is to stimulate interest of local businessmen in political affairs, and to furnish them knowledge on all aspects of government and how it functions.

The chamber will cooperate in setting up a one-night, 6-weeks study group for any local firm or organization. Individuals may enroll in courses now being formed.

PROMOTED

J. Frank Tobias of Fullerton has been appointed as general manager of Robertshaw-Fulton's Aeronautical and Instrument Division at Anaheim. Tobias has been product manager for the aeronautical products group within the division. During World War II he commanded the 390th Signal Company, 7th Air Force, in the central Pacific theater of operations.

'Free Bridge' Always Cost

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Seven large bridges over the Mississippi River link Missouri and Illinois at St. Louis and an eighth will soon be built.

One of the bridges is known as "The Free Bridge" —but it isn't.

The city built the bridge and intended it to be used without cost after bonds had been retired. The bonds have been paid off but the city has never removed the tolls.

The new bridge will be free.

Los Altos Site for Unimart

Plans for building a big Unimark Membership Store at Bellflower Blvd. and Stearns St., directly north of the Los Altos Shopping Center, were announced Saturday.

Located on a 12-acre site the store will represent an investment of $3 million.

The big vacant tract, of some 22 acres, was purchased several months ago by Montgomery Ward & Co., but plans for erecting a store there did not materialize.

* * * *

UNIMART'S construction will start this fall and completion has been tentatively set for spring. Developers of the shopping center will be Hilp and Rhodes, Inc.

Unimart, which was merged with Food Giant Markets last year, will erect a 100,000 sq. ft. building which will include a full-size supermarket with groceries, meats and produce, and a completely stocked department store.

Adjacent to the store will be a 12,000 sq. ft. house and garden center, and a service station.

OPEN HOUSE THURSDAY

Will Give Visitors Bank Teller's View

Long Beach residents will be given a teller's view of a bank Thursday when Bank of America holds an open house preview of its new Willow-Daisy branch.

The evening's activities will begin at 6:45 when bank officials and local dignitaries hold a colorful opening ceremony. Manager P. A. "Phil" Carey will be presented a gold key to the front door of the branch by Ralph E. Windsor, vice president from the bank's Southern California headquarters.

Among those taking part in the ceremony will include Robert Crow, councilman from the Seventh District; Joseph Kennick, district assemblyman; and Donna Kelly, Miss "Welcome to Long Beach."

Culminating the program will be the launching of a space capsule. The plastic capsule will be attached to a large cluster of helium-filled balloons which will carry it into the evening sky. Inside the capsule will be a scroll instructing the finder to return it to the branch in exchange for a $25 savings bond.

* * * *

VISITORS WILL then be invited to enter the branch for a behind-the-counter tour of the modern building. During the 7 to 9 p.m. open house the patrons will view the massive vault, glass-topped windowless teller counters, safe deposit boxes, and night depository.

The new branch is located at 600 W. Willow St., on the southwest corner of Willow Street and Daisy Avenue.

Income for Workers Up

LOS ANGELES — California's marked economic progress is reflected in the striking growth of personal income in the state, Cecil J. North, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., told members of his company's field force at a meeting here.

"Total personal income last year by Californians ran 50% more than six years ago, contrasting with 35% more for the entire United States," he said.

"Per capita income in the state set a new record of $2,800 in 1961, well above the national average of $2,300. In early 1962 and late 1961, earnings of the employed factory worker in California were running at a new high level between $110 and $112 a week. The average for the full year 1961 had been around $108.50 a week — a new annual record and more than one-quarter above 1955."

* * * *

NORTH POINTED out that the Los Angeles- Long Beach area has close to 2.5 million non-farm employes, and has continued its growth into 1962. "Much of this expansion in employment over the past year," he said, "has been contributed by factories engaged in making electronic, metal, machinery and allied products. From 1955 to 1961 total non-farm employment here has grown by one-fifth."

Life insurance owned by the people of California is equivalent to 16 months of their income, compared with only 12 months six years ago, the insurance executive noted.

North disclosed that his company's current investments in bonds and stocks in California amount to almost $556 million.

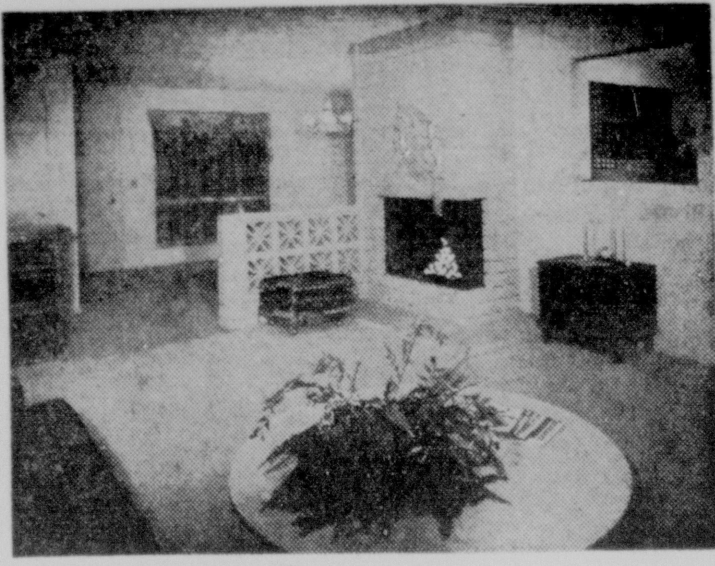
Report Heavy Sales for Cambridge Park



APPEALING HOME
Spacious living rooms, carpeted with wool or nylon, and terrazzo entryways are found in all Cambridge Park homes in Orange. Located on Cambridge north of Fairhaven, all homes have been built to meet the Balanced Power concept.

Cambridge Park, located in the Orange-Tustin area, is now one-third sold, it was announced by Don Schug, developer.

An exclusive suburban location for family living convenient to schools and shopping, is cited by sales agents as a prime reason for these brisk sales. Immediate occupancy is still available with a choice of five different color schemes and distinctive stylings. Three model homes are open at Cambridge Park, located on Cambridge Ave. just north of Fairhaven in the city of Orange.

* * * *

THE HOMES are a short distance from both the Santa Ana and Newport freeways, making it convenient to employment opportunities and industrial parks. Both parochial and public schools are close by with Chapman College just a few miles north. Santiago golf course lies adjacent to Cambridge Park on the south.

Both three- and four-bedroom models are available from $24,400. All have family rooms and two baths.

Offer Rental Units to Senior Citizens

The combined attractions of a Western "Ivy League" cultural environment, scenic beauty and a unique flat rental residence plan are attracting retiring senior citizens in ever-increasing numbers to Claremont Village Green.

Daniel Alvy and Seymour Sohn of Danmour & Associates, the developers, said more than 50 per cent of the original 119 one and two-bedroom homes on the 8½-acre landscaped site have been occupied since the formal opening.

Village Green is located in the heart of Claremont, a "city of trees" and headquarters of the five Associated Colleges — Pomona, Claremont, Scripps, Harvey Mudd and Claremont Graduate College.

RESPONSE to the Village Green rental plan has been so enthusiastic that Alvy and Sohn are negotiating for the purchase of nine additional adjoining acres. If negotiations are completed, the community eventually will be doubled in size.

Claremont Village Green is the first non-sectarian retirement community in Southern California operated as a private enterprise on a flat monthly rental basis without membership, life-lease or "buying-in" provisions.

Rent includes full privileges in the Village Green community buildings, hobby shops and recreational areas "which are operated entirely without a social director or coordinator," according to Alvy.

Many of the residents of Village Green were recent home owners in Southern California communities. A high percentage of the residents are retired or retiring professional people.

Montgomery Park Second Unit Now Selling

Proof of the exciting popularity of these spacious new homes offering the rare and desirable combination of rural charm and "downtown" living convenience is that the first unit was sold out in only six weeks and second unit is now ready to go.

Montgomery Park, on Harbor Blvd. just south of Bolsa Ave., within the city limits of Santa Ana offers three different "family engineered" floor plans priced from $15,950. For just $395 a non veteran can live in an area with all metropolitan facilities such as public and parochial schools, churches, modern shopping marts. Employment opportunities are to be found within minutes of its central location, yet homes are comfortably removed from urban congestion and noise.

* * * *

THE SOUTHLANDS' fabulous recreation and entertainment centers are close by —Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm, beach and mountain resorts—all just a short drive over fast, lightly traveled routes.

"The location, plus the low purchase price, plus the fact that the homes have three and four bedrooms, nine exteriors to choose from, hardwood floors, and two-car garages, plus front landscaping and fences is the reason for the fantastic appeal of these homes," said sales manager Dick Murray of Farrow Real Estate.

"Easy financing is another big feature when we can offer homes to vets with no down payments and keep monthly payments to as little as $88.35 including principal and interest."

Montgomery park has many extras found only in the finest homes: Kitchens with built-in Wedgewood-Holly ranges and 21-inch king-sized ovens, silent waste disposals, forced-air heating, glass lined water heaters, sliding glass doors, custom birch cabinets with deluxe hardware, and accoustic finish ceilings.

Butler to Talk

Speaker for the North Long Beach Real Estate Club Thursday morning will be Howard Butler, Realtor, who will tell of his experiences while serving on committees of the Long Beach Board of Realtors. "Four Years of Grievances" will be the subject. The club meets at Mayo's Restaurant, 5925 Cherry Ave.

Another Sherwood Sellout Now Near

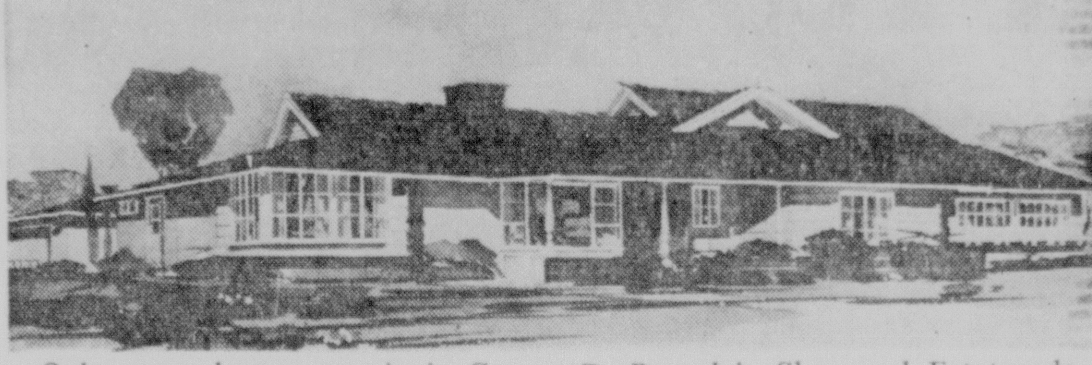
George D. Buccola, award winning developer of "Sherwood Estates" in Orange County, announced that only seven homes remain in his latest development in Tustin.

The Tustin development, located off 17th St. on Yorba just east of Tustin Ave. features 37 four and five-bedroom, three-bath, one-story, story and a half and two-story homes, with living areas from 2150 to 2500 square feet.

When asked why Sherwood Estates enjoy such great sales acceptance, Buccola said, "Perhaps I can best answer that question by quoting many of our customers."

* * * *

"WE HAVE LOOKED all over Orange County, and nowhere could we find so much quality and spaciousness in the Sherwood Estate price range of $28,700 to $29,950, so quite naturally we decided that the best buy was a 'Sherwood Estate Home.'"



Only seven homes remain in George D. Buccola's Sherwood Estates development in Tustin, so popular has the offering proven. Here is one of

Golden West Estates Offering Large Home With Twin Patios

CHEERFUL ENTRANCEWAY
Here is a view in the living room of a Golden West Estate in Huntington Beach looking toward the entranceway patio. This model home has two separate patios.

An unusual floor plan with two separate patios is popular with buyers at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said Jim McCarthy, vice president of McCarthy Co., co-builders with Sant Construction.

One patio serves as an enclosed front entranceway to the home, while the other offers outdoor seclusion at the side. The master bathroom has direct access to pool area. A lift-up boat door in the rear of the garage permits use of the garage as a cabana for the pool area.

The interior of the home features a separate formal living room and a separate family room which is distinct from the dining area. The plan is available in five exteriors, among them an authentic Spanish styling.

* * * *

"THE LIVING AREA in this Golden West plan may be inexpensively combined with the family room simply by removing the wall between. The front patio may also be economically incorporated to make one large living area, ideal for entertainment. To further expand the home, it's easy to add a room in the large side patio," said Jack Chase, sales manager.

Buyers may choose from 22 distinctive exteriors. Priced from $17,800, the homes are offered with 5¼ per cent, 35-year FHA terms featuring down payments from $800, GI no-down-payment terms, and conventional terms with down payments from $695. Trade-ins are accepted.

Buyers may take advantage of an unusual lay-away plan which permits them to reserve any home with a $100 deposit while they build up to their down payment.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached via Seventh Street east to Golden West St., then right to the furnished models.

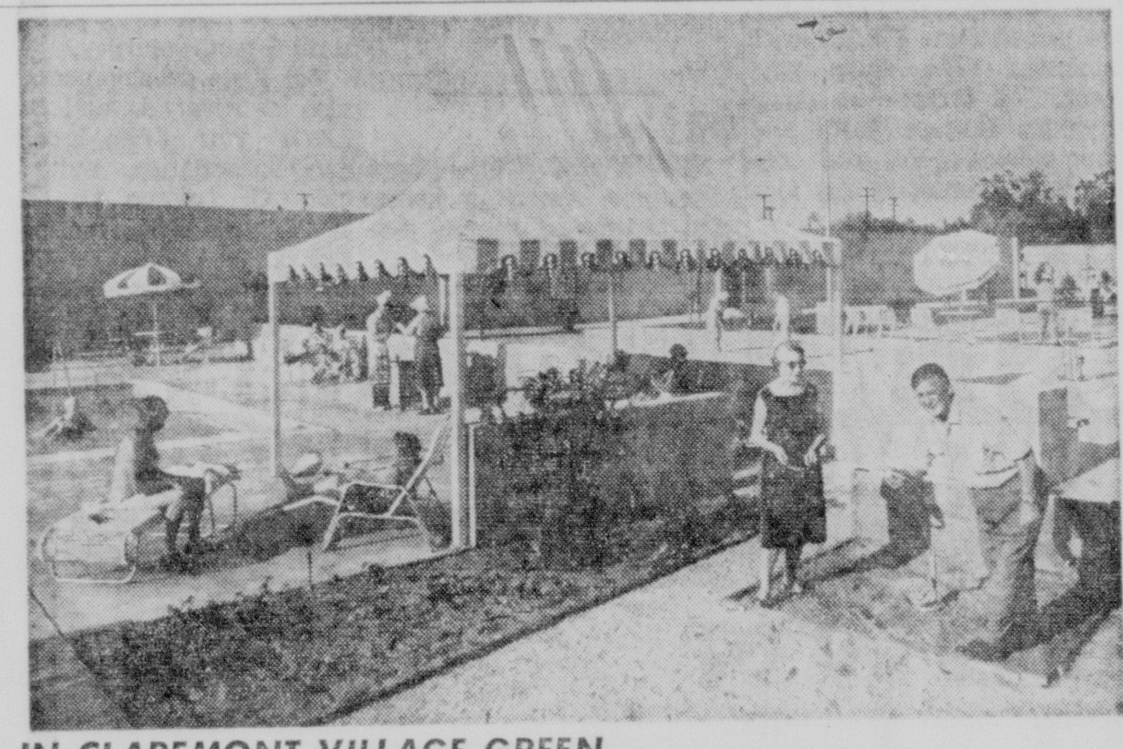
Plans to Build Fontana Plant

CHICAGO—Pipe Line Service Corp., a subsidiary of Amsted Industries, is planning to build a plant at Fontana, Calif., to apply plastic and bituminous coatings to steel pipe for protection against underground corrosion.

The plant will cover about 60,000 square feet on a 15-acre site immediately adjacent to the Kaiser Steel Co.'s Fontana pipe mill.

Cigarette Taxes Boost U. S. Revenue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U. S. smokers paid enough in cigarette taxes last year to meet the cost of the U. S. Space Agency's fiscal 1963 program, with enough funds left over to buy 40 Atlas missiles, the Tobacco Institute estimates.



IN CLAREMONT VILLAGE GREEN
Spacious recreation areas are one of the attractions of Claremont Village Green, senior citizens' retirement community which rents homes instead of leasing or selling them. Shown here are residents enjoying community pool, horseshoes, barbecue, shuffleboard and sunning and lounging areas.

'Law Day' at Realty Meeting

Reg F. Dupuy, program chairman for the Long Beach Board of Realtors, announced that Tuesday's breakfast meeting at the Crown Cafeteria will be "Law Day."

We will honor our three board attorneys—M. Ross Bigelow, Donald E. Grisham and Lawrence Lackman and also Judges Charles Smith and Joe Raycraft.

The program will consist of 15 minutes by the Franklin Junior High band directed by Jack Kroesen and a 15-minute talk by Dr. William Melchior, director of curriculum of the Long Beach Unified School District.

Tries to Quiet Noise of Building

NEW YORK (UPI)—Amid the clatter of New York's billion-dollar construction boom, there's one builder trying to muffle the noise.

Fisher's Brothers, now putting up a 40-story office building here, has replaced rivet guns with high tension bolts and has padded the slides of the dirt chutes with plywood and foam rubber.

Location Appeals to New Home Buyers

Location is one of the important considerations when selecting a home today, stated S. V. Hunsaker, prominent Southland builder and developer.

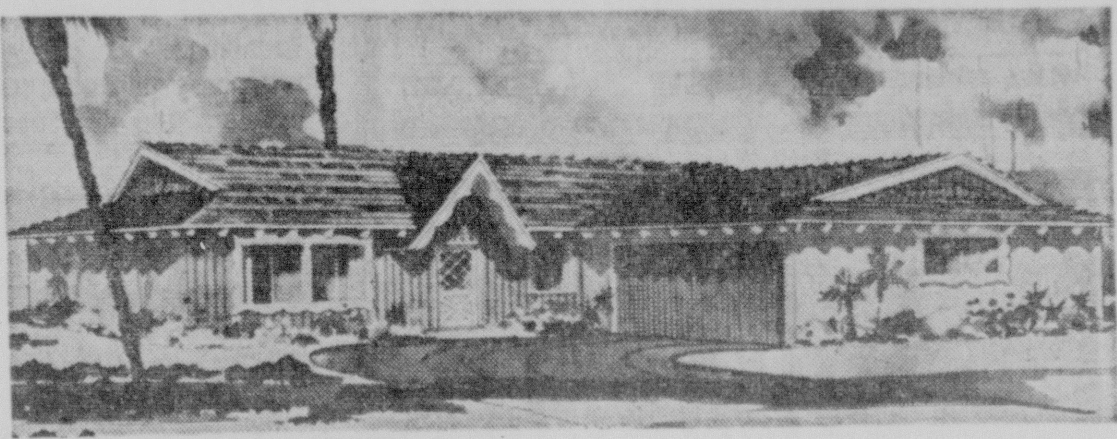
This is one reason the Lakewood East Sunshine homes have received better than average buyer acceptance, according to Hunsaker. These homes are located only minutes to the prime metropolitan industrial area and within easy driving distance to Southland major resort and recreational spots.

* * * *

OFFERING the home buyer the most popular of architectural planning, built-ins, and modern materials designed for lifetime satisfaction, these attractive homes have three bedrooms, two full baths, family room, large two-car garage and may be purchased with a down payment of $195.

Lakewood East Sunshine homes offer the home buyer many quality features such as wall-to-wall carpet, forced-air heat, metal sliding windows with screens, and ample closet space. The ultra-modern kitchens are equipped with built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan, disposal, Formica counter tops, plastic vinyl tile, and natural finish cabinets.

Home buyers who are seeking quality homes, centrally located, are invited to inspect furnished models daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Del Amo Blvd., just west of Pioneer Blvd.



BUILT BY HUNSAKER
Quality construction, combined with efficient floor plans, is stressed in Lakewood East Sunshine Homes such as this by builders S. V. Hunsaker & Sons.

Sol Vista Opens Another Unit of Homes in Huntington Beach

CHARM IN EVERY ROOM
This appealing kitchen in a Sol Vista home in Huntington Beach shows how Alco-Pacific builds charm in every room. A new unit of the Luxury Series of homes has been opened.

Alco-Pacific Construction Co., builders-developers of Sol Vista Luxury Series Homes, has opened another new unit in Huntington Beach, one of the fastest growing areas in Southern California where the population surge is being matched with growth in industry.

"Sol Vista Homes in Huntington Beach are in a most desirable area, close to beaches and other recreational and service facilities. The development is constantly luring those seeking a prestige residential community," according to Irving Solomon, executive vice president of the firm.

In addition to location, Sol Vista offers the buyer quality construction and originality in design. One may choose from 23 exterior elevations and five floor plans. These homes have three and four bedrooms with two baths and are priced from $18,150 with minimum FHA down payment. VA terms — no down payment (except costs and impounds) Cal-Vet and conventional financing is also available.

A MASSIVE brick or stone fireplace — of floor-to-ceiling design — is included in every Sol Vista Home. Kitchens have all-electric Frigidaire built-ins, natural grained ash hardwood cabinets and are color coordinated. A Frigidaire dishwasher is also included in the price.

Sol Vista Homes have hardwood floors throughout and are heated by forced air heat with thermostat control.

Other important but less visible features include Johns-Manville fiber glass home insulation, a lighter, softer, blanket insulation faced with reflective foil, acoustical ceilings, and American Standard Plumbing fixtures.

* * * *

SOL VISTA is near established schools and churches, close to thoroughfares and existing and proposed freeways. It is only a few mintues from shopping areas.

The development is on Hwy. 39 (Beach Blvd.) three miles south of Garden Grove Blvd. Model homes are also conveniently located in Santa Ana, on Sugar Street just west of Verano. They are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and until 6 p.m. Saturday.

Sol Vista developments are also in Riverside and Santa Maria. For free brochure and information write or call: C. LaFaye Co., Inc., 16601 Beach Blvd., Huntington Beach.

Pet Mynah Bird No Politician

OMAHA (AP)—The first rule of politics is to know when to keep your big mouth shut. Jasper couldn't get that through his head so he was fired from the mayor's office.

It just isn't good politics, says Mayor James J. Dworak, to greet women visitors with a raucous "Oh Boy," and a lusty wolf whistle. What made it worse was that Jasper stayed out of sight and left the mayor and his two male assistants to face the music.

Jasper, formerly Mayor Dworak's pet mynah bird, now resides at the Omaha zoo.

CHARM-FILLED HOME
Here is the interior of one of Dutch Haven's newest homes offered in Unit 20. The large living room is a feature of all Dutch Haven models.

Officials of Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of Dutch Haven communities, announced they are extending the preview of Dutch Haven Unit 20, on Edinger Ave. near Bolsa Chica at Huntington Beach, to accomodate the overflow crowds that have been thronging into the area to view the new subdivision.

This is Dutch Haven's 20th community to be successfully opened within the Southern California area. Present sales and traffic records indicate that it may soon develop into Dutch Haven's fastest-selling and most successful community.

* * * *

A SPOKESMAN for Luxury Homes, Inc., said that the new unit's location in the highly desirable Huntington Beach area is proving highly attractive to many buyers who have previously been unable to secure such a premium location at such moderate selling prices for both quality homes and property.

Just a few minutes away from Unit 20 are excellent facilities for boating, surfing and picknicking. Major department stores will soon be opened, is close by and schools are immediately convenient.

Dutch Haven homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Prices start at $14,950, with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at 5¼% interest rate are also available.

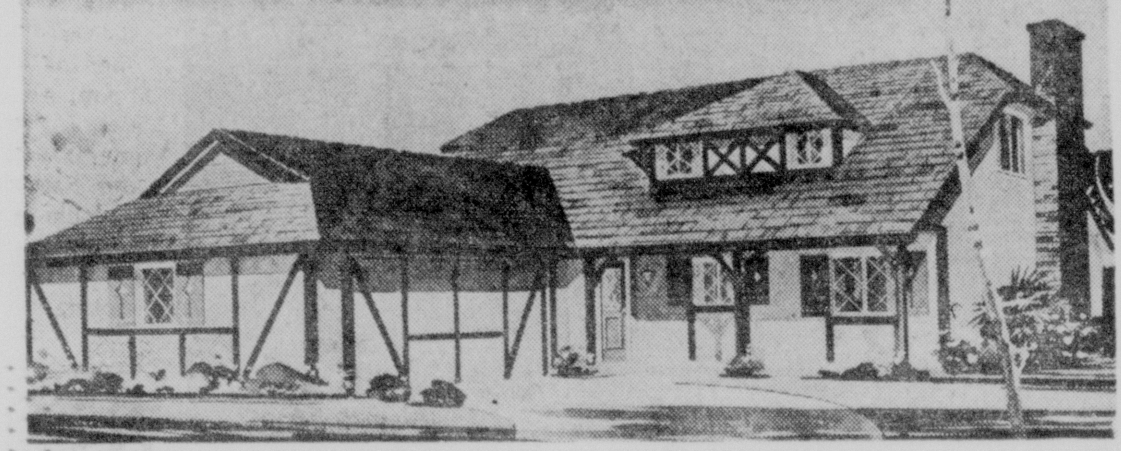
* * * *

MONTHLY PAYMENTS begin at $79.63, including principal and interest. There are no hidden charges, second mortgages or balloon payments.

"American Home Series" residences are being featured exclusively at Unit 20. Buyers have a choice of award-winning floor plans, all of which have unusually efficient room arrangements, spacious closet and storage areas and an oversized garage with additional storage space for larger items.

From Long Beach go east on Seventh St. to Bolsa Chica, then right to models.

Garden Park Estates Offering Two-Story, Five Bedroom Home



BIG LUXURY HOME
Two-story luxury homes are presented at Garden Park Estates on Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Boulevard. Discriminating home shoppers will find a range of plans that will answer the spatial needs of every size family. The new two-story dwellings have five big bedrooms, and the one-story homes are designed with choice of three or four.

Popular Garden Park Estates now presents selection of two-story luxury homes designed with five spacious bedrooms, officials of the community at Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Blvd., report.

These new residences give Garden Park Estates the added distinction of a range of flexible plans to meet the palatial needs of families of virtually every size, for the one-story residences offer three and four bedrooms, family rooms and dining area, and two baths.

Master bedrooms, which with two other bedrooms and an attractive bath, are on the second floor, have their own fireplaces. On the first floor the other two bedrooms occupy a separate wing for the maximum of quiet, and the living room (which also has a handsome fireplace), the dining room and the appliance-equipped kitchen are in the opposite wing. In the entry a stately staircase rises to the second floor, and the first floor bath in this center hall plan, is convenient both to the bedrooms and to the living area.

* * * *

"FOUR WAY" financing is still available, officials said. This includes veterans terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments from $98.50 including principal and interest, or Val-Vet loans. Non-veterans have choice of conventional or FHA loans. Full prices are from $17,800.

Highlights among the many fine home features include fireplaces, sliding walls of glass, forced-air heating, baths with colored plumbing fixtures, pullman lavatories and Italian mosaic tile, and sound construction with lath and plaster walls and ceilings. Quality detailing extends to concrete driveways for the large two-car garages.

Furnished models are reached from Long Beach by driving east on Seventh St. past Long Beach State College, to Knott Ave.

Many Homes Already Purchased in Del Webb's New 'Sun City'

SUN CITY—Anyone 50 or over, or nearing that age, is invited to look into the prospects of future retirement in the Webb Corporation's new Sun City in Southern California.

Construction, in top gear for weeks now, on this $20 million retirement community, is being pushed for an early June grand opening. Exclusively designed for "an active way of life" offered and already accepted in three other Sun City communities built by Webb in Arizona, Florida and at Bakersfield.

The site chosen for the newest Sun City is a 14,000-acre area of Menifee Valley just 25 miles south of Riverside. It is situated on U. S. Highway 395 between Riverside and San Diego. It is countryside consisting of rolling hills and valleys, small villages and ranches. Enjoying a warm hospitable climate, with summer temperatures softened by cool ocean breezes.

* * * *

SUN CITY IS ideally centered for California's recreational attractions and the mountain playgrounds of Lake Arrowhead and Big Bear are just 52 miles away. Los Angeles is 75 miles and Palm Springs 62 miles. Capistrano and the ocean beaches just an hour's drive.

Six model homes are nearly completed and a Webb Corporation bus takes visitors on tour of the project. Home prices start at $11,950 to $17,650 and many border on the golf course fairways. Cooperative apartments are also available from $10,950 to $15,750. Many have already purchased homes which can be acquired by cash, FHA or conventional purchase methods.

The "active new way of life" for a resident of Sun City will be provided by a community center which will have arts and crafts buildings, a Town Hall seating 700 for plays or meetings. A fully equipped kitchen in the Town Hall will lend itself to club style or "pot-luck" meals.

A complete shopping center will have a full variety of stores including a bank and Sun City's own post office.

Information about Sun City can be obtained by writing to the Webb Corp., Box 878, Perris, Calif. And visitors are welcome every day.

College Educations for Children of War Victims

Ten thousand California youngsters under the age of 18, whose fathers died as a result of military service will be eligible for a college education, it was noted by Mort Webster, manager of VA's Southern California Regional Office.

"This fine educational opportunity offered by the VA is available for children of veterans who died of service-connected causes," Webster said. In the Southern California area, Webster estimated 7,000 youngsters will become eligible in the next year or two.

Generally, the young people must be between 18 and 23 years of age, and the VA offers up to 36 months of classroom study and each orphaned youngster will receive an allowance from the VA of up to $110 for each month of school.

* * * *

"WHILE THE EMPHASIS is on college and university work, this is not just a college program," Webster said. "Training in a wide variety of schools above the high school level is also permitted."

"We want eligible youngsters to come to us," Webster said. The VA is prepared now to counsel and process applicants for the upcoming fall semester.

Begins Crack Down on Illegal Sales of Out-of-State Lands

By BILL BOYARSKY

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state real estate commissioner has launched a campaign against illegal land promoters who sell out-of-state subdivision lots from booths at county and district fairs.

Commissioner W. A. Savage said the efforts are directed against subdividers of distant and isolated land who offer lots without filing a report with his office.

It's against the law to sell subdivision property in California without such a report.

If the state finds the promoter's claims are fraudulent, it can refuse to issue a report.

* * * *

WITHOUT A report, the prospective buyer has no way of learning the true condition of the land. And often, officials say, the land bears little resemblance to the promoters' lavish promises.

"We've learned that these fairs are good productive spots for these operations," said John E. Hempel, assistant real estate commissioner.

He mailed letters to officials of every fair in the state telling them what to watch for when a land developer asks to open a booth.

He said the officials are being told of the need for the reports and that every salesman working in the booth must have a California real estate license and a permit to operate a branch office at the fair.

* * * *

THE STATE already has cracked down on one firm which operated at a recent Sacramento sports show.

Promoters of a Colorado subdivision were ordered to stop selling or offering lots after more than 100 persons complained they had won lots at a drawing and then had to pay $39.50 handling charges on the land.

Hempel called the firm a "hit and run operation" which had "left town with the money" before the state could take action.

Talk on Low-Price Housing

A proposed low-priced housing project will be the subject of a talk by Merrill Butler, Jr., president of the Butler Harbour Construction Co. in Los Angeles, at a meeting of the Appraisal Division, of the California Real Estate Association to be held in Room 333, Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles Thursday, it was announced by Gene Hoffman of Long Beach, chairman.

The proposed program is free enterprise's answer to government - owned housing for low income groups, according to Hoffman.

Butler's firm has completed and sold nearly 2,500 homes since 1955. Butler is a graduate of USC with a degree in civil engineering. He is currently serving as president of the Home Builders Association of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura Counties.

Appraisers interested in attending the dinner meeting may make reservations through the California Real Estate Association, 117 West Ninth St., Los Angeles 15; MAdison 7-0428.

Fair-Priced Homes Find Ready Sales

"The best salesman in the world can't sell a home for more than it is worth," says Mildred Stanley, Long Beach Board of Realtors representative of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers.

Mildred Stanley

Mrs. Stanley was quoting part of the information in the March bulletin of the Institute entitled "Selling Sellers Successfully." The booklet explains the advantage of a seller listing his property at a realistic price.

* * * *

"A HOME priced within 5% of the fair market value is 10 times as likely to sell as one priced within 15 to 20%, Mrs. Stanley said. "There has to be a sound reason for an owner to dispose of his property before he can be counted on to act reasonably and decisively. Where a seller's motive is weak, a realistic offer is difficult to obtain."

"The price problem is something anyone selling any product encounters," stated Mrs. Stanley. "Persons selling cars or clothes can do little to solve the price impasse but realtors can and should influence sellers to price their property realistically."

CONTEMPLATING erratic golf ball, Florence Linsley elicits laughter from fellow Altrusans, Teresa Parker (center) and Helen Smith in pre-match.

By BETTY WENTWORTH

We're off to convention! Wining and dining, reunions, touring the countryside, hotel room caucuses, elegant banquests, sports events, the whole punctuated with gavel rapping—visions of all these dance through delegates' heads as they pack for the big get-together.

Their destination could well be Long Beach, dubbed the "Convention City" for good reason. Last year there were 150 conclaves here ranging from little clambakes of 50 to huge regional and national affairs drawing eight to 10 thousand.

Behind all the fun and games and speeches, a vast and complicated piece of machinery is in action. Housing, entertainment, trips, facilities for meetings, all have to be planned. And at the Long Beach Convention Bureau, headed by Howard Jones, they know all the gambits for making visitors comfortable, happy and free from major problems.

* * * *

MAYBE THIS IS why they have two conventions going simultaneously, as is the case next weekend when annual statewide meeting of Pilot Club (about 500 expected) and District 11 semi-annual conference of Altrusa (about 300 attending) will find members converging here the same weekend at the Lafayette Hotel.

These clubs have a great deal in common. Both are international classified service organizations for executive business and professional women. Altrusa has 16,500 members in 500 cities; Pilot has 13,000 members in 430 clubs, and both are found dotted here and there in cities all over the world.

Altrusa's main local philanthropy is the Community Rehabilitation Center on E. Anaheim Street, and Pilot's service projects include many service hours to Veterans Hospital as well as furnishing a wing of Long Beach General Hospital.

WITH SEMINARS and elections behind them, where do our delegates hie themselves? They have a bewildering choice, so it's each to his own taste. For those from inland there's a real live ocean close at hand. Touring the harbor on "Princess" or "Shearwater" sniffing the crisp salt air, passing battleships and great freighters, is always a thrill.

Gourmets may try seafood spots and restaurants with marine views. You just can't find 'em in Arizona. Or they may go farther afield to Beverly Hills and Hollywood famed dining spots and nightclubs where they'll maybe spot a movie star or two.

They can find wares from all over the world at the Farmers Market and, for atmosphere, there's old world Olvera Street. They can see the marvels at Marineland, and of course there are the meccas for practically everyone, Disneyland, the gay and

In any language, the comment is "yum!" pronounced by pretty gourmet wahinis (from left) Mmes. Keith Card, William Anderson, Richard Warner and Tom Harrison.

Set for Light-Hearted Luau

Vivid print sarongs and muu muus will abound at the Elks Club on Saturday when Ebell Juniors, their husbands and guests, assemble for a light-hearted luau serving as a finale for a busy club year.

Delicate orchid trees and bowls heaped with colorful fruits will center tables for a Hawaiian buffet to be served at 8:30 p.m. Gene Walsh and his orchestra will play for dancing from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m.

Numerous pre-luau affairs have been planned. Among those bidding guests to their homes are Dr. and Mrs. John Sewak, Messrs. and Mmes. Keith Card, Ken Ragland, Robert Lindsay, William Anderson, Jim Shirley, Ray Green, Alan Kenady and John Turley.

* * * *

Still wondering what the Juniors are sampling in picture? A prospective luau sent them scurrying to cook-books and they unearthed several goodies (some from a member in Hawaii—others from those who've visited the Islands). Herewith are two.

Mattie Paine Named Year's Citizen

By MARY NETH

A vital grey-haired lady in pink flowered hat invaded the all male domain of Exchange Club this week—to walk off with one of the city's most coveted awards.

Mattie M. Paine, who retired from 42 years of teaching 14 years ago (and has been busy ever since), was named Citizen of the Year by the club at a luncheon in Lafayette Hotel.

It was the first time in the history of the Long Beach service group, comprised of top civic leaders and business and professional men, that a woman has been so honored.

But, though Miss Paine was a feminine newcomer to the club's 10-year-old award roll, she wasn't a stranger to many of its members.

She numbers several of them among "her boys." They are men she taught during her years from 1906 to 1948 as a member of the local school system.

* * * *

HARRY FULTON, as chairman of the awards committee, introduced Miss Paine and the luncheon speakers, her former students and fellow workers.

They included Mrs. Ruth Craig Merrill Rawn, a member of Miss Paine's Poly High class of 1911; County Supervisor Burton W. Chace, who belonged to her Adelphic Club at First Congregational Church; Russell R. Johnson, former dean, Long Beach City College; Margaret Kracke, League of Women Voters, of which Miss Paine is an active member, and Mary Bell, who represented Retired Teachers.

All agree that throughout her years as teacher, high school and college dean of women and civic leader, Miss Paine has been a vivacious woman who accomplishes what she sets out to do—and doesn't compromise along the way.

* * * *

SAID DEAN Johnson, "Back in 1927, City College was a young institution, suffering growing pains and struggling to find its way. Then, as dean of girls, Miss Paine was the college's conscience—and as such, like any conscience, was at times difficult to reckon with.

"Where the welfare of the students was at stake, there were no half-way solutions for her. She wouldn't let things slip by—she kept at us until a problem was solved."

Supervisor Chase first met Miss Paine when he came to Long Beach as a young bachelor. "I joined the Adelphic Club in 1923," he said. "It was a dynamic service group and Miss Paine, as its leader, really knew how to keep us boys working for high goals."

EXCHANGE CLUB'S 1962 "Citizen of the Year," Miss Mattie M. Paine, was greeted by friend of long standing, Supervisor Burton W. Chace, at award luncheon Wednesday. Her work as teacher, administrator, club and church woman (from 1906 to today) was honored. She is first woman to receive award presented annually since 1953.

Mrs. Kracke, who represented the League of Women Voters, added to the accolades by saying that Miss Paine is one of any club's rare finds: A member who continues to put out the work year after year.

Miss Paine herself had the final say.

Displaying a lively sense of humor, she glanced over the Exchange Club membership and remarked, "I always wondered what would become of those boys I taught."

"Sometimes I wasn't too sure. I used to have to scold them more than the girls—really lash out at them. But, perhaps they didn't turn out too badly after all."

ALTHOUGH delegates will be criss-crossing paths over the weekend, they share the same objectives, and probably the Altrusans on the golf course will be saying "Too bad the Pilots aren't here," and the Pilots out on their harbor jaunt will no doubt be wishing the Altrusans could have come along.

And here are bouquets to tireless organizers and conference chairmen: Helen (Mrs. Lloyd) Smith of Pilot and Eva Miner and Mary Lou Sipprelle of Altrusa and their umpteen hard-working committee members Happy convention!

Convention Schedules

Pilot Club's plans are as follows: Friday, champagne reception for head state officer, Governor Lucy Grimmesey, Sacramento, with floor show by husbands (co-Pilots). Saturday, morning business session; luncheon with Ivy Priest Stevens, former U.S. treasurer, as speaker; afternoon harbor tour; installation of Arlene Saltz, Los Angeles, as new governor at evening banquet. Sunday, workshops luncheon featuring Mrs. Ruth Cunningham, San Gabriel, first vice president of Pilot International, as speaker.

Altrusa's schedule for hostessing 53 clubs from California, Arizona, Nevada, Mexico and Hawaii is as follows: Friday luncheon with welcome by Mayor Edwin Wade; Seminars presided over by Mrs. Margaret F. Albert of Tucson, Ariz., district governor; luau and dinner with speaker, Mrs. Lucile S. Alexander of Jacksonville, Fla., first vice president, Altrusa International. Saturday, banquet with Marsha Hunt, Beverly Hills, speaker on refugee problems. Tours of harbor and city and golf tournament are on agenda. Sunday morning memorial service.

Speaks on Making Ends Meet

Money—and how to hang on to it— will be the topic of a lecture Monday at Long Beach State College.

Dr. Irving Pfeffer, associate professor of insurance at UCLA, will speak on "Putting Your Financial House in Order" in Lecture Hall 150.

With the assistance of six students, Dr. Pfeffer will show models for family financial planning at six income levels. He also will discuss wills, social security, family protection, whether to rent or buy a home, mortgage insurance, educational funds, investments and retirement plans.

THE LECTURE, which is free to students and the public, is sponsored by the LBSC department of home economics and family living in cooperation with the Industrial Arts Club.

SIGNAL AWS HONOR GOES TO STATE COED

Valerie Holwerda achieved a signal honor for herself and for Long Beach State College last week when she was elected vice president of Intercollegiate Associated Women Students, Region I.

Her selection came at the IAWS regional convention on the California campus at Berkeley. She was one of six LBSC delegates to the confab which drew representatives from 60 schools.

As one of four regional vice presidents serving under the national president, Valerie will be the coordinator of IAWS affairs for colleges and universities in 13 Western States.

Valerie is a social studies major, a member of Delta Zeta, is currently secretary of the campus AWS group, and lives in Rossmoor.

She is the first LBSC coed to be elected to such a high AWS post and, if our information is correct, is also the first member of a California state college delegation to be thus honored.

Congratulations, Valerie Holwerda.

Contract in Diamonds

Playing at five diamonds North will draw trumps and eventually take two club finesses. The second will work and he will make his contract.

The chances are, however, that every intercollegiate pair landed at the simple contract of three no-trump on the bidding shown in the box.

Three no-trump is not as easy a contract as five diamonds. West opens the king of spades. South should duck and win the spade continuation.

Next, he should lay down the queen of diamonds, then lead a diamond to dummy's king. At this point things will have taken a nasty turn for the worse. If he leads another diamond, his own eight spot will block the vital fifth diamond trick.

HOW CAN he make that fifth diamond? He has to find a parking spot for one of his two diamonds and the parking spot must be on a spade. He leads a spade from dummy and discards one of his diamonds. West takes the rest of his spades, but now South has his nine tricks.

Of course, if West had started with six spades South would have been set, but in that case he could not have made his contract anyway.

Foundation Has Meet Delegate

Mrs. Millard Nicholas, president of Long Beach Exceptional Children's Foundation, will be that group's delegate to the 12th annual convention of the California Council for Retarded Children next weekend in San Bernardino.

Registration opens Friday at California Hotel for the "Western Round-up of Tomorrow's Plans" themed convention. Session workshops are planned on summer camping, state hospitals, public relations and an all-teacher panel on education.

A high light will be Sunday's breakfast meeting when Dr. Richard Koch, CCRC research chairman, heads a panel on the "Diagnosis and Treatment of Mongolism."

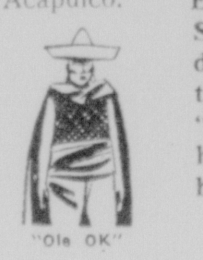
WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson • I, P-T Women's Editor

IT WAS fiesta festive and ole ok Saturday aboard the Mexican cruise ship Acapulco as she set sail for her home port Acapulco.



"Ole OK"

Mary Jane and Chuck Walker, Phyllis and Harold DeLance and Shirley and Howard Jones were all given a bueno viaje send-off by countless friends. Countless because in the milling throng of passengers and guests who tried to keep track?

For the Walkers the trip celebrates their 25th wedding anniversary. They had a you-all come see us off party in the ship's Continental Room for 100.

The DeLances are noting a 20th anniversary — (the actual date is May 3rd, the day they arrive in the resort city).

As for Shirley and Howard, well they're just keeping up with the Joneses.

* * * *

THERE'S nothing like a good old annual meeting to bring out the good new hats. And when Assistance League had its lunch and report session Monday at Lafayette the room was a sea of flowers, leaves, ribbon, straw, and silk chapeaux. Oh, it was bloomin'!

Lorraine Fulton was glamor-pretty in a hot pink picture hat. Ruth Dougherty can throw her elegant marigold yellow hat in my door anytime she's "threw" with it. Louise Voigt donned a sensational flowered bonnet for the day.

Doris Wood wore a crisp, fresh and fetching green and white topper while Margaret Rockwell's all white pillbox was chic and uncluttered. Other milliners of merit were those who hatted Dixie Millie (beige, with flower petal crown) and Dorothy Dunlap (a sophisticated green with orange band hat).

Although hatless, Ina Harris did some spotlight stealing with the best tan, to date, of the season. She built it on a spring vacation visit to Palm Springs with husband, Willie.

NEED FOR sudden surgery socked Gale Evans into Harriman Jones week ago Friday; sacked her plans for Easter Sunday festivities. She's probably home by today, though, and all's well that ends well. Husband "Cec," his daughters assured him, was a very fine foster bunny in mother's absence.

* * * *

PROJECT: Find Time. It took scientific calculation for those two race horse entrepreneurs and club women, Gladys Hayden and Patty Twining, to arrange a convenient week to travel to Hawaii with husbands, Jack (Hayden) and Ned (Twining).

The gals wouldn't go before St. Mary's "Day at the Races" Wednesday. Oh, heavens, no! After all, what would "Peteo" (their very own quarter horse) think of them, even although he wasn't personally involved in "Day." Then, naturally, they will need to be in town May 7 for Nightingales installation. President Gladys must be present to give back the gavel. Later in May? Well, shucks, that's when "Peteo" will make his debut at Tanforan.

So they left Thursday, will return May 6.

LAST Sunday Eddie Frank flew up to Seattle where he was to be a big chief in the meeting of the American Institute of Interior Designers. He was one of two main speakers Tuesday. The other was the prime minister of Denmark. Well, hoo hee!

"Chief speak"

Incidentally, Eddie's new house, currently being built on a canal front in Naples, has been selected as a case study house for Arts and Architecture Magazine. I don't know what it all means but it impresses me no end.

THE ROARING 20's roared again last Saturday at Petroleum Club. Particularly for those members who knew them well.

Preceding the costume party dinner dance Margaret and Bob Irwin hosted cocktails in their home. Margaret, as well as Avis Dudley and La Vern Huey discovered they were all wearing dresses they had purchased abroad during the fringe and flapper era. Marian Ten Eyck wore a dress saved from her trousseau. Which is a credit to their slender, slender ways.

The men broke out in a rash of bright jackets and wildly banded sailor hats. My informant was strangely silent on whether or not the boys had managed to get into THEIR original stuff, though. How's the old waistline, fellas?

"MOST ELEGANT yet" was consensus of opinion of localites who regularly count the Cardinal's Ball at the Beverly Hilton as a social highlight of the spring season. Marilyn and Doug Graham (Marilyn has been a patroness for the five years of the affairs existence) had at their table Monday Elinor and Joe Ball, Helen and Dr. Bob Heebner and the Graham's daughter and son-in-law, Mardel and Tom O'Brien.

Preceding the ball the Balls entertained at cocktails in their suite at the hotel. And for a very special reason. It happened to be their 31st wedding anniversary.

DECIDING to have a just-for-fun cocktail party, Betty and "Bix" Bixby gathered about 50 friends together Thursday, giving everyone a chance to catch up on conversation before summer vacations start scattering them all over the globe.

Then the next night, with Tina and John Biby, Betty and "Bix" were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Douglas at their Mandeville Canyon home with others of the men (and their wives) who served as crew on the Goodwill during the 1959 Honolulu race. Piece de resistance of the night was to be viewing the complete color movies of the trip, narrated by Preston Foster. Parts of it have been on TV but they had never seen the whole kit and kaboodle before.

Scouts at the Ready

Senior Girl Scouts from 33 Mariner troops will gather Friday at Marine Stadium for the annual Mariner Gam, yearly troop camping event which enables Senior Girl Scouts to demonstrate proficiency in particular skills.

The three-day meet also affords an opportunity for representatives from neighboring councils to participate in an out-of-door living situation. Gathering will be girls from councils including Long Beach, Santiago, Newport, Whittier, Aliso Grande and Green Willows. Long Beach Trailblazer troops have been invited as guests.

The event is entirely girl-planned. Senior Scouts have been meeting in committees regularly for five months during which time details of the outing have been developed.

* * * *

THE GAM will be open to the public Saturday from 9:15 a.m. until noon. Skills scheduled for that period include rowing, canoeing, paddleboard races and form events. Visitors also will have an opportunity to tour the camp sites. Other events which the girls will participate in include a Scout's Own, land skills, knots, charting, first aid and swimming events.

Members of the Gam steering committee include Myna Hastings, chairman, and Carol Duhon, Karen Whipple, Phyllis Supencheck, Barbara Mulvey, Sherry Stark, Joan Hammond, Suzie Tisdale, Diane Carner, Diana Horn, Gail Muneo and Susan Williams. Mrs. Fred Wagner is adult advisor of the committee.

SEAWORTHY SHIPS manned by seeworthy sailors will be order of things next weekend when Senior Girl Scouts from 33 area troops converge on Marine Stadium for annual Mariner Gam. Getting rowboat from land to water for event is concern of Mary Hancock (left), Dianna Horn.

Tea to Celebrate Founding

PAUSING IN FOYER of beautiful new home of Mrs. Thomas Shaheen (right) are provisionals in Children's Memorial Hospital Auxiliary (from left) Mmes. Bert Bond, John Roggeveen and Ernest Lockwood, who will attend tea in Shaheen home on Monday. Day also will honor members of auxiliary guilds and presidents of other organizations who further guild work of supplying medication and hospitalization for needy youth.

Hospital Group Greets Neophytes

The spacious new home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shaheen, 4681 Virginia Road, will be setting Monday afternoon for the annual Founders Day tea of Auxiliary to Children's Memorial Hospital, the group's only non-fund raising party of the year.

More than 250 guests, including new provisionals, Nightingales and members of Fiorella and Northern Lights Guilds, and presidents of Emblem Club 106, Spinsters and Bachelorettes, are expected.

GREETING guests and introducing new members in the receiving line will be Mrs. Harrison Moore, president; Mrs. John Kelly, president-elect; and Mmes. Ralph Eusden and Harry Witz, founders.

Provisionals being welcomed into membership are Mmes. Robert Kibler, Ernest Lockwood, John Roggeveen, Leonard Albrecht, John Lower, Vincent Bailey, John Williams, Bert Bond, Donald Baker, Oscar Contratto Sr., and Walter Wolf.

Hostessing duties will be assumed by Mmes. Joseph Kellogg, Dwight Sigworth, Charles Sander, Howard Dumm, Verne Holmes, Spyros Douglas, Leo McCreary, Frederick Jensen, Robert Dilday and Robert Whiteman.

THE AUXILIARY was founded in 1946 for the purpose of supplying medication and hospitalization for needy children. It contributes a minimum of $1,500 monthly to this cause, and will, in May, make its final payment on the original pledge of $56,000 for the Children's Wing of Memorial Hospital.

LOOKING UP AND AHEAD to their duties as provisionals in Children's Memorial Hospital Auxiliary are these five civic-minded Long Beach women (from left) Mmes. Leonard Albrecht, Oscar Contratto, Vincent Bailey, John W. Lower and Donald J. Baker. Quintet will be among special guests at auxiliary's annual Founders' Day Tea Monday afternoon.

Ellen Schumacher Is Bride of D. F. Baker

Ellen Schumacher, well-known director of volunteers for Memorial Hospital, became the bride of Dan Franklin Baker during a recent candlelight ceremony in the sanctuary of First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Dan Franklin Baker

She wore a street-length gown of pale pink chiffon over taffeta with matching net crown hat and a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom. She carried a white orchid surrounded with pink camellias.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, P. W. Schumacher.

Mrs. William Meents attended her sister as matron of honor. Completing the wedding party were Don McArt, best man, Dr. Richard W. Nixon, Dr. Leo Goodman-Malamuth, Dr. John W. Wills and Tom R. Gilliam, who seated the 400 guests.

* * * *

THE BRIDE attended Lindenwood College in St. Charles, Mo., Arlington State College, Arlington, Tex., and currently is taking night classes at Long Beach State College. She is a member of Altrusa, PEO and Order of Eastern Star.

Her new husband received his B.A. and M.A. from Indiana University and worked on his doctorate at Michigan State University. He holds memberships in National Association of Education Broadcasters and Western Speech Association.

Following a honeymoon in northern California, the newlyweds are residing at 2045 Pine Ave.

Floral Fountain

Copper and enamel fountain by Dextra and Charles Frankel is one of exciting works at California Designers' show currently at Pasadena Art Museum. Water plays from blown glass flower stamens.

California Designers' Show Huge Success

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Refinement and richness mark the hundreds of objects in "California Designers 8" which continues at the Pasadena Art Museum until May 6. If you have a home, patio, apartment, or terrace, or ever will, you'll be inspired by this show which, according to the N. Y. Times "firmly establishes the Golden State's leadership in design influences."

Furniture, fabrics, pots, patios, toys, tapestries, trucks, and tools only begin the list of items exhibited. Some are commercially produced, others are artist crafted, all are creative. Many, such as garden furnishings in cast concrete, are inventions that could only follow mastery of the technical aspects of today's materials.

* * * *

THREE WORKS particularly captivated us. "Working with Water" by Dextra and Charles Frankel is a large rectangular fountain filled with floral forms like a burgeoning garden. Each of these provides an avenue for playing water. Except for several stamens of blown glass, the whole is of copper in various shades of verdigris. How appropriate it would be if this could be viewed by a wealthy philanthropist who wished to donate something fabulous for the grounds of the Long Beach Museum of Art!

June Ray Laury's hanging panels are ingenious departures from an ancient and humble art. Of fine cotton in harmonizing shades, they are hand-appliqued and embroidered. One of these, a five-panel room divider, illustrates the parable of the Wise and Foolish Virgins. The wise are in shades of beige and apricot, each with her lamp held high. The reverse side, in blues and purples, are the sad ones. Wit, beauty, and exquisite sewing characterize these.

* * * *

MALCOLM Leland is the designer of a cast concrete screen wall. The blocks curve in and out in baroque pattern making not just a functional and decorative wall, but handsome sculpture which captures a marvelous play of light and shadow.

The LBSC Art Faculty is well-represented by Ken Glenn, Robert W. Ramsay, Tom Ferreira, Mary Jane Leland and Robert Trout. The work of California designers is not just "decorative accessories," rather it creates environments for richer living. Designer-crafts are moving away from both adamant Puritanism and stark simplicity toward exciting finesse.

In Concert

Two young artists from Long Beach will perform in the final season concert of Redlands University Community Symphony on Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in the university chapel.

Joyce Franklin will play the violin and Keith Thompson, bass singer, appears with the concert choir. Brahms' "German Requiem" and Bach's Suite No. 3 will be played.

Show Films at Libraries

"Romeo and Juliet," a magnificent 16mm color picture of Shakespeare's classic, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Ruth Bach Branch Library, 4055 Bellflower Blvd. and Thursday at Dana Branch, 3680 Atlantic Ave. The public is invited.

Miss Alice Appell, assistant librarian in charge of branches, will introduce the programs.

Filmed in Italy, the picture takes full advantage of the Italian countryside. Castles, marketplaces, costumes and monasteries are depicted and sensitive performances are given by the cast which includes Lawrence Harvey, Susan Shentall, Flora Robson, Mervyn Johns, Bill Travers, Enzo Fiermonte, and Norman Wooland.

Jazz at Shrine

Modern Jazz Quartet will appear at the Shrine Auditorium next Saturday sharing billing with Julian "Cannonball" Adderly, his quintet, and Ernestine Anderson, young jazz singer.

L. B. MUSIC FESTIVAL IS CULTURAL STRIDE

By RACHEL MORTON
I, P-T Music Critic

With "the flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la" (The Mikado) come a rash of spring music festivals. Both the flowers and the festivals are equally welcome and both bring beauty and new inspiration.

Ojai Festival opens in Ojai Valley on May 18 and continues through the 20th. The Aspen, Colorado, Music Festival has an eight week season beginning July 6, and Carmel Bach Festival will celebrate its 25th anniversary from July 20 through the 29th.

Our own Long Beach Music Festival is well under way and this coming week will find us in full swing of interesting musical events. This afternoon at 3 p.m. in the Elks Club, Charles Payne will conduct the Long Beach Band in a program of contemporary music.

Tuesday night at 8:15 in First Congregational Church an organ recital will be given by Richard Purvic of Grace Cathedral, San Francisco.

* * * *

IN THE Little Theatre of Long Beach State College on Wednesday night at 8:15 a concert of the compositions of Knut Nystedt of Norway promises to be interesting with outstanding musicians performing.

A highlight of the Festival will be the concert by the celebrated soprano, Eileen Farrell, in the Municipal Auditorium, Thursday night at 8:15; admission only to Community Concert ticket holders.

At the Museum of Art on Friday at 8 p.m. a concert by Mu Phi Epsilon Sorority will feature Iris Eshelman, contralto; Laura Griffing, violin; Harriet Payne, viola; and Katherine Shreves, cello.

* * * *

FOR A GRAND finale there will be a joint concert May 6 with the Long Beach Symphony, Lauris Jones conducting, and the Schola Cantorum, Wayne Gard, conductor. The famous pianist, John Browning, will be soloist with the orchestra playing the concerto for piano and orchestra by Edward MacDowell. Marvin Cloyd will be the narrator.

This is sumptuous musical fare and bespeaks cultural strides for our city. Let us avail ourselves of this opportunity and so encourage bigger and better music festivals for the future in Long Beach.

'Reynard' Will Head Trio of New Plays

A trio of plays will open May 6 at the Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave., and run four successive Sunday nights at 8 p.m.

The first, "Reynard," is based on medieval animal legends and was written by Bernard Wilets. It introduces Reynard, the fox, as a sort of picaresque hero who outwits and overcomes the various more conventional animals.

BERNARD WILETS

Medieval humor tends to be broad and earthy and Wilets has tried to preserve this feeling. Also, in a highly religious age, it tended to be sacrilegious in a good-natured sort of ways.

* * * *

THE LEGEND of Reynard has been widely used as subject matter, as for example in a Stravinsky one-act opera and by Goethe in a novel.

Jon Terry will play Reynard; and filling other roles are Bob Hanrahan, Richard Moore, Dave Kettles, Marge Norton, Loren Means and Vern Thomas.

Playwright Wilets is the composer of two operas as well as other music. He was librettist and stage director for "The Zodiac" composed by Arnold Freed which was presented at Millikan High School under auspices of the Ford Foundation, as well as "Aurelius," a one-act play also performed at the Off-Broadway.

* * * *

SECOND PLAY will be "Minus Three" by Walter Crockett written orginially as an avant garde television fantasy about a circus animal caretaker and his charges.

Third play is "Any Time You're Ready, Mr. Freed" by Dixie Rinehart, a farce having to do with a typical Little Theater director and his actors.

Symphony to Play

One of the most important concerts in its history will be played by the city's own orchestra, the Long Beach Symphony, next Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium.

This will be the final event of the second annual Long Beach Music Festival and will be a concert of American music. Over 200 musicians will perform, including the 90-piece orchestra and the 120-voice Schola Cantorum of Long Beach City College.

Lauris Jones, conductor, will direct a program of brilliant American music of interest to every American who is proud of his country's developing leadership in this international world of the arts.

* * * *

WELL-KNOWN local actor Marvin Cloyd will be narrator for "Lincoln Portrait," a stirring orchestral vignette of the great president, composed by the dean of American composers, Aaron Copland.

The family lineage of our vast nation will be shown through the varied rhythms of "Dance Overture" by Paul Creston with its colorful square dance. Spanish and other regional tempos.

John Browning, one of the finest American-born pianists, will perform Concerto No. 2 in D Minor by Edward MacDowell. This well-loved work will display the fine technique of the artist who has won such major honors as the Leventritt Award, top-ranking American competition previously won by Van Cliburn.

* * * *

THE CHORUS, directed by Wayne Gard, will perform Stravinsky's "Symphony of Psalms" honoring the 80th birthday of the most famous of living contemporary composers. Two pianos will be featured also.

Triumphant climax will be Howard Hanson's "Song of Democracy," with its challenging choral finale, "Sail thy best, ship of Democracy."

Tickets for this impressive concert may be obtained at Humphrey's Music Store or the Long Beach Symphony Association, 5336 Appian Way. Special rates are available for groups.

Play at UCLA

Beginning a four-week run at UCLA on Thursday will be "The Child-Buyer" adapted by Paul Shyre from John Hersey's latest novel. The play is directed by Shyre, here from New York, and will be taken by him on a national tour following the UCLA showings.

It will be performed in Humanities Building on campus and play nightly to June 3, with no performance on May 14.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

He Takes the Scenic Route

DEAR ABBY: Do they sell donkey blinders for men? I need a pair for my husband. He never watches where he is driving. Instead, he's busy gawking at the women along the streets. He drives about ten miles an hour to be sure he doesn't miss anything. He's come close to a lot of accidents. How can I make him keep his eye on the road?—THE WIFE

ABBY

DEAR WIFE: Even donkey blinders would be useless for this breed of donkey. If you can't get his mind off the "scenery," take the wheel. If he doesn't like it, let him trot.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is going steady with a boy we object to very much. Here is the reason. His family is loaded with divorces. His own mother and father are divorced. (His mother is remarried.) He has two sisters and they have both been divorced. One was married a second time and was divorced from her second husband, too. We heard that his grandmother on his father's side had also been divorced. He seems like a very nice young man, but the history of his clan is so bad with all those divorces we are fearful of our daughter's happiness.—FEARFUL

DEAR FEARFUL: Divorce in the family frequently inspires the offspring to succeed in their own marriages. Don't condemn the boy because of his family. Judge him on his own merits.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school teacher. I recently picked up a note written by one of our students. Here is an excerpt from it:

> "Hi, Sue:
> Yesterday Donna and I skipped school. We went to her house and watched television. Her mother works which makes it nice. When I went home at 4 o'clock Mom told me the school had called to see if I was home. Lucky for me she said I was home sick."

A child broke the rules and her mother lied to protect her. This prevailing attitude is very discouraging. What is happening to the integrity of people today?—WORRIED TEACHER

DEAR WORRIED: The integrity of some people has not changed. Mothers who lie to protect their children have always been with us. And always will be. But I believe this is the exception—not the rule. Most mothers would have told the truth and let the child face the music.

'Discover Yourself' Series to Begin

You learned to walk before you were two years old. But according to Wilma Hastings, the prominent authority on beauty, charm, and poise, many women need to learn all over again.

In a revealing 15-part series entitled "Discover Yourself," she tells how to acquire the "great lady" look through correct posture and carriage.

She explains how to sit and stand and even how to profit from the example of the baboon, who has his points when it comes to walking.

Look for Miss Hastings' description of the "baboon walk" and her hundreds of other practical, effective secrets of personal improvement — including valuable tips on weight and figure control, hair styling, skin care, make-up application, and clothing selection.

The series, based on her booklet, "Discover Yourself," will start in the women's section of the Independent, Press-Telegram next Sunday.

Foasberg's Fabric Care Counselor

Spots on the Rug — Do not try to remove mud from a rug or carpet. Let it dry; then brush out. For spills we have HOST Drycleaner for Carpets. Pour this powder on spot, brush in, allow 5 minutes for drying. Then vacuum up the powder and usually the spot is gone. Beauty of this drycleaning is that even in the middle of a party you can catch spills before they set and stain.

Painted Stripes — Check patterns with stenciled or painted stripes. Cleaners can't usually guarantee they won't come off. Ask your store.

Club News — If you'd like an unusual talk and demonstration on fabrics, tell your program chairman to phone me.

After a Fashion

New Denims Go Everywhere, Do Everything

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Dame Fashion has taken denim out of the doldrums, has given it new dash and derring-do.

This onetime workhorse of the garment world, now refined, is turning up in summer stunners for island-hoppers, job-goers, supermarket shoppers, sneaker-addicts, sun fadists, beachniks.

A new lightweight version, called chambray denim, is cool and soft — a fashion-natural for children's toggery, country dance dresses and at-home culottes. Extra bonus: it virtually "irons" in the wash. Medium weights, easy-care and crease-resistant, are favorites for sailing togs and rainwear. And the heaviest, a cowboy jeans weight, goes nautical in bell-bottom pants and breeze-resistant jackets.

Favorite colors: "faded" shades of blue and charcoal, also denim with ticking stripes. Their special attraction: all "mellow" with age, improve with washing!

UP-DATED DENIM turns danceable in new lightweight easy-care Surftone, embroidered in matching or contrasting colors.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER fashions in lightweight denim, by Pepperell, feature fringed shorts, shirt for mom; appliqued version for small fry.

FUN-IN-SUN SUIT for small fry is designed of sturdy cotton denim, appliqued with baby ducklings. Fabric, by Pepperell, is easy-care, drip-dry.

DASHING COTTON DENIM takes to sea in striped jacket teamed with bell-bottom sailor pants in sturdy blue jean fabric, matching bag. Jacket lowers to cover bathing suit or shorts; hood raises to shut out sea breezes.

I, P-T Food Editor

Apparently he's been airborne most of his life! This writer, too, is far-out and way-over-her-head, what with swing-tail jets, DC's this and that, wing cords, turbo compound, configuration, etc.

Anyway, today's Chef of the Week, Jackson (Jack) R. McGowen, knows what it's all about, because he's vice president-general manager, Aircraft Division of the Douglas Aircraft Co. Need we add that his colleagues contend that he was born to be a top-flight, capable administrator and manager.

Born in Sipsey, Ala. McGowen left there at the age of 17 and enrolled in the Indiana Technical College at Fort Wayne, from which he graduated with his B.S. and A.E. degrees.

Though McGowen decided at the age of 10 to become a pilot, we must qualify an earlier statement. He WAS underground for a time . . . in the coal mines in Alabama, during his school years.

Following college, his career as a pilot was again held in abeyance. He enrolled in a special course for diplomatic service.

* * * *

AVIATION finally won out, however, and from 1939 to '46, he served as Civil Aviation Administration liaison engineer at Douglas. In 1946, he became assistant chief project engineer for the DC-6 program and subsequently was named chief project engineer. In '52, he was assigned as chief project engineer for both the DC-6 and DC-7 series.

His progression was continuous, and from '52 to '59, McGowen acted as manager for an aircraft early warning system and as manager of the swing-tail jet transport program. Early in March of that same year, he was appointed assistant to the senior vice president-manufacturing, with responsibility for the coordination of the DC-8 program.

He was named director of commercial sales in September 1959; and in October elected a Douglas vice president and named director of commercial programs. In April of '61, he became a member of the board of directors; and after 22 years of aircraft experience, was appointed to his present position. McGowen is a member of the National Aviation Club, Washington, D.C.

A GOLFER with a hole-in-one to his credit at Bel Air, he is also an avid reader and bridge hound. He has a mania, too, for adding and subtracting walls. A zealous remodeler, he redoes each new home in which they move. Even the new buildings at Douglas fascinate him.

Serious and intensely devoted to business, he rarely takes a vacation. And, inasmuch as he travels widely throughout the world for Douglas, his absences from home unfortunately are numerous. But he still finds time to get-away-from-it-all with his wife, the former Dolores O'Connor, and three teen-age daughters, Margaret, Catherine and Elizabeth.

In fact, he's so fond of the recipe he's sharing with us today, that he calls it "Beef Dolores." It just might be that she whipped-it-up!

BEEF DOLORES

5	lb. 7-bone roast (2 or 3 inches thick)
½	tps. EACH—black pepper, mace, red pepper and allspice
1	tsp. EACH—meat tenderizer and Ac'cent
1	tblsp. salt
2	medium onions, chopped
2	cloves garlic, chopped
2	cups salad oil
	Juice of 3 lemons
2	tblsp. Tarragon vinegar
2	bay leaves
1	cup cooking Sherry
2	large boiling potatoes, diced
4	large carrots, sliced lengthwise
1	cup flour
1	can consomme

Wipe meat with damp cloth. Pound or slice every-half-inch (¼" deep). Mix dry ingredients with 1 tblsp. flour and rub thoroughly into meat.

Marinate meat for 6 or 8 hours in mixture of onions, garlic, lemon juice, vinegar and 1½ cups salad oil, and ¾ cup Sherry. Baste or turn from time-to-time with flour and sear in remaining salad oil. Add tomato paste, consomme, bay leaves marination juices. Simmer for 3 hours in covered pan. Add carrots, potatoes and simmer for 30 minutes. Remove meat, add remaining flour and stir. Return meat to gravy, add Sherry, and simmer in open pan until potatoes are soft. Cover and keep hot until served.

WHY GROW OLD?

Nature Becoming More Beautiful--Why Not You?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Spring Fever is a confusing and contradictory malady, consisting of romance and floor polish; a relaxing, stretchy laziness, and a frenzy for self-improvement! Fortunately, it is not fatal and one recovers in time.

As you look around you can see that the birds are in the trees, the flowers are blooming or are on the way, and I bet there is a bee in your bonnet!

All nature is becoming more beautiful, is being made over so why not you? WHY NOT? You probably spent a week or more spring cleaning your house. Why not spend that much time on yourself? You can accomplish wonders with a short, concentrated self-improvement program.

* * * *

YOU MAY realize that you are only five to 10 pounds away from a lovely figure. These may have slipped up on you during the winter, or may have lingered on from last summer when you were uncomfortable and self-conscious in a swim suit. You probably said to yourself, "Never again!"

If you are in the mood for a spring makeover (and who isn't?), I am here to help you. I am bringing you my 9-Day Reducing Diet which gives you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days.

* * * *

ACTUALLY, this is a happy diet. Thousands of readers have told me that they were happy while following it because of the results, and also because they were well fed.

Monday the menus for Tuesday will appear in this column, so that you can shop a day ahead for the prescribed food.

That will be the procedure for nine days—each day the following day's menus will be printed.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK EVENTS SET AT CITY

Special activities in connection with the 43rd annual Public Schools Week are scheduled Monday through Friday at all three divisions of Long Beach City College.

Monday evening the Business and Technology Division ASB Council will sponsor the annual Advisory Committee Dinner to honor business, labor and industrial representatives who serve on 40 subject-area committees. Student speaker at the program, which starts at 6:30 in the cafeteria, will be ASB secretary Jan Mason. Elsewhere on campus, the same evening, more than 2,000 visitors are expected to tour the annual Industrial-Vocational Arts Exhibit.

Also on Monday, the General Adult Division student body will be hosts for special evening programs and exhibits scheduled at Polytechnic, Wilson, Jordan, Millikan, Lakewood and West Adult Centers. Classrooms and facilities will be open to the public throughout the week.

* * * *

MEMBERS of the Liberal Arts Division ASB Cabinet will be hosts on Thursday to some 125 members of the Uptown Kiwanis and East Long Beach Kiwanis clubs at a luncheon program in the student lounge. ASB president Jerry Schulte will be master of ceremonies. Music will be provided by the College Choir, which is also scheduled to sing for the Long Beach Rotary Club on Wednesday.

Other events of the week on the LAD campus include Mother-Daughter Tea on Wednesday sponsored by the Order of Kassai, women's honorary service group. Faculty sponsor Alice Marie Garrison will show color slides taken on her recent sabbatical tour of Europe. Kassai members will also be hostesses for the Kiwanis luncheon on Thursday.

* * * *

JOINTLY sponsored by the ASB Cabinet and the Associated Men Students will be the showing of "Going My Wave" (latest color surfing film by John Severson) at 8:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the college auditorium. Proceeds go to the AMS welfare fund.

BTD students are looking forward to another Co-Rec program Saturday night, sponsored jointly by Kisab, International Club, Norsemen, and the Society of Technical Writers and Publishers.

Winners of BTD's month-long "Best-Dressed Contest" were finally revealed at a gala assembly last week. Winners in the business and general education category were Mrs. Adelene Wing of Voksens and F. B. Lewandowski of Associated Junior Retailers. From the technology classes, the two prize winners were Dave Bleasdell of Airframe and Powerplant Club and Cindi Burrill, ASB Council representative.

Sold's in a Head Over Heels Hurry

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm so in love I'm miserable. Can't sleep, can't eat, have nothing to say, stare into space — but I'm happy.

I found the girl of my dreams just last night. We danced, rode the roller coaster and I'm still riding the clouds of outer space.

This morning I woke about 5 a.m. I tried to wait, but by 6 I was on the phone. You'd think she'd be cross, since I didn't get her home much earlier, but she wasn't.

I want to propose before she gets away. It's too good to be true. But is it too soon? Would she be shocked?—SOLD

DEAR SOLD:

Get off the roller coaster, Buster, before she makes you dizzier. Don't you dare propose. Tell her anything—you love her, adore and worship her, will do anything for her, but don't be more definite than that!

Suppose she feels just like you do. And suppose she accepts the offer of your humble but hot hand in wedlock. And then suppose you, or she, has a change of mind. Some do, you know. Wouldn't it be embarrassing to retract a proposal?

I'm treating it lightly, but it's a weighty matter. Very serious, this uniting for a lifetime is! It takes thought and more thought and still some get caught in a mismated maze.

So keep your love and dreams shining clean and don't rush things when spring's orbiting through your veins.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm so darned lonely. I'm 51, and my husband has many outside interests, although we do keep fairly busy evenings. But during the day I just don't know what to do with myself.

I'm a college graduate. I should have many ideas on what to do. But so far I'm what you might call "swinging on a limb."

Any suggestions you have I would appreciate.—MRS. F.P.C.

DEAR MRS. F.P.C.:

I had a letter the other day from the Veteran's Administration which impressed me deeply. It simply outlined the work that over 100,000 volunteers are doing for hospitalized veterans. These volunteers are devoting six million hours to their work!

And still more workers are needed — men and women from teenage to golden age.

If this interests you, you might inquire at Long Beach VA Hospital, or write care of Information Service, Washington D.C., Attention: Fred Panzer, Assistant Director of Special Projects.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Please don't think I am overly sentimental, but a few short months ago I broke up with my girl friend. I know now I will never be able to forget her.

I've tried going out with others, but it doesn't help. I have also tried hard to get her to talk to me, or even write to me, but she is very stubborn.

You see, one night a short time before we broke up I went on a party and did get a little tight. Nothing bad happened, you understand, but she won't forgive me.

Molly, her lips are like the sweetest of vineyard wines, her eyes the twinkle of every star in the heavens, and her heart is as solid as the greatest mountain, yet as soft as a silken thread.

Am I not entitled to a few mistakes, my love, my dove, M.V.? (Ask her for me, won't you, Molly?)—CURLY

DEAR CURLY:

Surely your plaintive plea will touch the marble heart of M.V. But probably not half so deeply as proof that you won't goof again. CAN you prove it?—M.M.

THE APPROPRIATELY NAMED SWIFTS ARE PROBABLY THE SPEEDIEST OF BIRDS ON THE WING LIVING ENTIRELY ON INSECTS CAUGHT IN THE AIR, THESE FEATHERED "FLY TRAPS" SPEND MOST OF THE DAYLIGHT HOURS IN FLIGHT...
AND SOME HAVE UNIQUE METHODS OF MANEUVERING
CERTAIN MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY–FOR EXAMPLE, OUR OWN CHIMNEY SWIFT–POSSESS SHORT, STIFF TAILS WHICH ARE INEFFECTIVE AS RUDDERS...
SO, TO CHANGE DIRECTION, ONE WING IS MOVED MORE RAPIDLY THAN THE OTHER...
AND THE SPEED OF THE ACCELERATED WING BEAT DETERMINES THE ARC OF THE TURN
TRAIL WAYS
THE LARGE, SPINETAILED SWIFTS OF ASIA HAVE BEEN REPORTED TO EXCEED SPEEDS OF 200 M.P.H. IN LEVEL FLIGHT
THOUGH THE WINGS BEAT SO RAPIDLY THEY ARE HARD TO FOLLOW WITH THE EYE, THE SWIFT IS CAPABLE OF SPENDING MANY HOURS IN THE AIR WITHOUT REST
SHORT, WEAK LEGS WILL NOT SUPPORT THEIR STREAMLINED BODIES IN NORMAL FASHION, SO THESE BIRDS USUALLY PERCH UPRIGHT LIKE WOODPECKERS

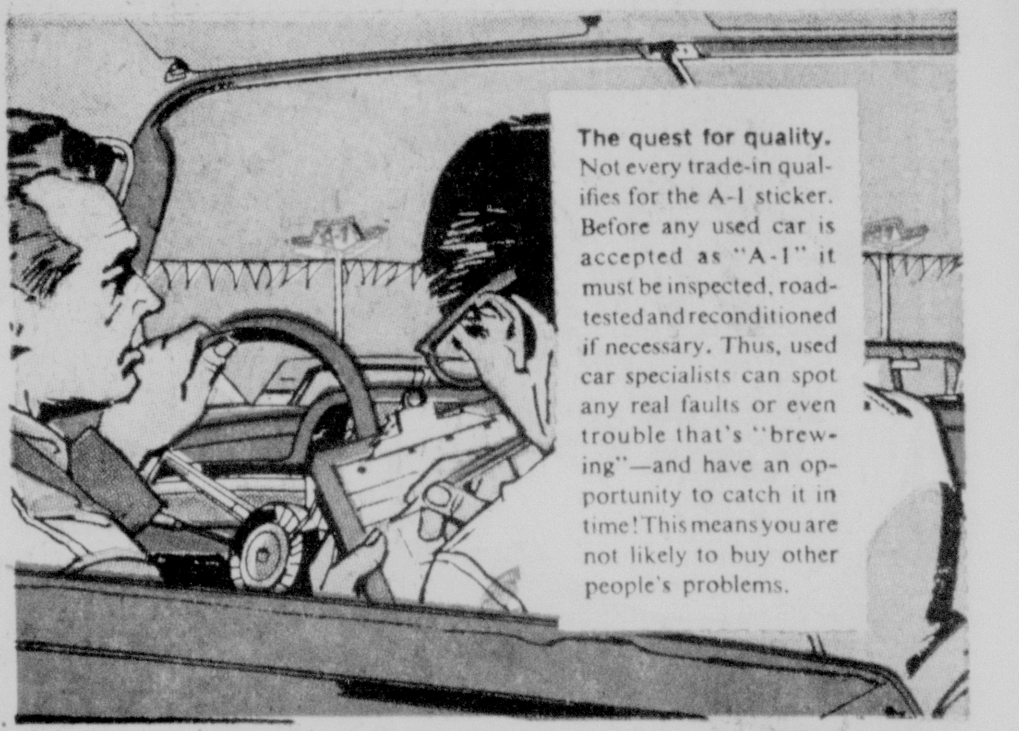
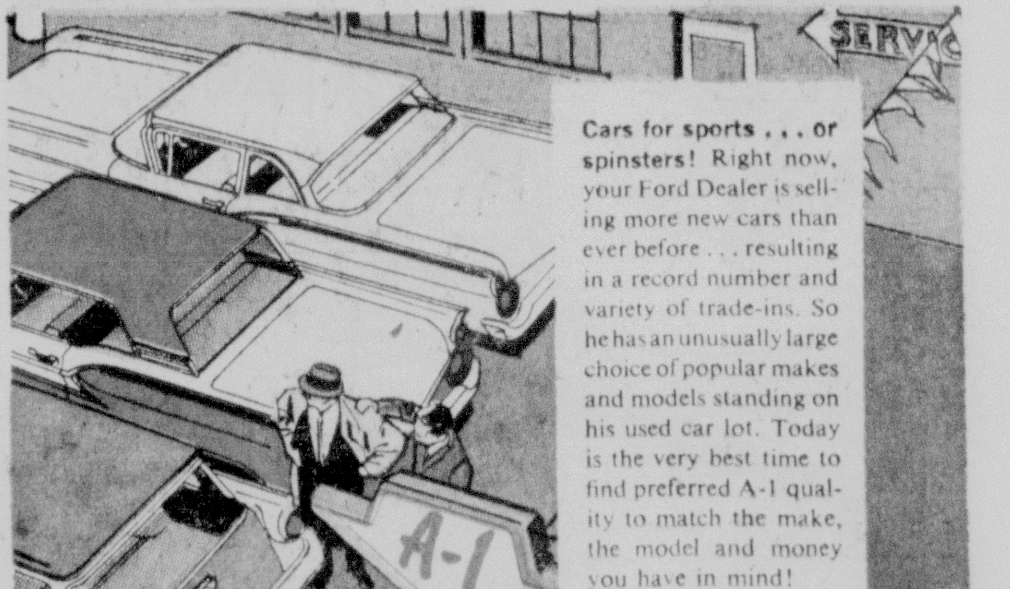
Why do A-1 used cars get extra attention from your Ford Dealer?

Because he believes in treating his customers in a way which will keep them as customers. Your Ford A-1 Used Car Dealer is in business to stay. Someday he is going to want to sell you a new car, and that means the used car he sells you today must be satisfactory. That's why only trade-ins of superior quality receive the special processing that makes them A-1 used cars.



The quest for quality. Not every trade-in qualifies for the A-1 sticker. Before any used car is accepted as "A-1" it must be inspected, road-tested and reconditioned if necessary. Thus, used car specialists can spot any real faults or even trouble that's "brewing"—and have an opportunity to catch it in time! This means you are not likely to buy other people's problems.



Cars for sports . . . or spinsters! Right now, your Ford Dealer is selling more new cars than ever before . . . resulting in a record number and variety of trade-ins. So he has an unusually large choice of popular makes and models standing on his used car lot. Today is the very best time to find preferred A-1 quality to match the make, the model and money you have in mind!

The man who makes A-1 work. Your Ford Dealer believes the important thing is to offer you A-1 Quality as an A-1 Value. That's why only the better used cars can make the grade. And as your dealer must make room for more trade-ins, he prices his A-1's at low, attractive costs to move quickly. Day in, day out, he has the best used car buys in town. See him soon!

The used cars with more future...from your Ford Dealer

OUR COVER

Welcoming a new Ramona to the cast of the Ramona Outdoor Play has become old hat for Maurice Jara, who will appear in this year's dramatic classic for the 12th time as the ill-fated Indian hero, Alessandro. This year's Ramona, appearing in the role for the first time, is Hollywood movie and television actress, Pamela Grey. The 22-year-old beauty is the 12th girl to play the role in the pageant's 35-year history. On our cover Jara and Miss Grey pose in a scene from the play. On Page 7, Hal Wiener takes you behind the scenes of the colorful classic, which opened yesterday in the Ramona Bowl at Hemet, to show how the everyday citizens of the little town prepare for their unique presentation.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to LaReina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief genealogy on WALTON — Mrs. E.W., E.J., Long Beach.

E.W., E.J.: WALTON portrayed an old "Walled farmstead" in 11th century Britain. Twenty-five villages called Walton are in various parts of England. The coat-of-arms of the Waltons of Essex has a red fleur-de-lis on a silver shield. The Rev. William Walton was among the first Massachusetts settlers in the 1600s.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you information on RAMIREZ.—T. D., Long Beach.

T. D.: RAMIREZ, a family from Spain, is traced to a Gothic settler from eastern Europe who settled in Spain over 1,000 years ago. This outstanding person was known as Ragin-Mar, meaning "Family counselor." Spanish alteration of his cognomen produced Ramar, then Ramir. The Ramirez family (Sons of Ramir) were granted a coat-of-arms in old Castile. Their shield is silver, emblazoned in the center with a rampant lion standing by the trunk of a green tree. The border of the shield is decorated with a red band embossed with eight gold semicircles.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain STAR. — L.S., Bellflower.

L.S.: STAR had a variety of origins in early England. The early spellings of this surname were Ster, Sterre and Stare. Ster and Sterre mean "Star," and were derived from ancestral ownership of an inn called "The Star." The original of Stare, meaning "Starling bird" was the same, from a shop or an inn trademarked with a picture of a starling. John Le Ster was an Oxford resident in the late 1200s. The family coat-of-arms has a red heart below a red, fur-covered stripe on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like history on LEONARD.—Mrs. I.S., Long Beach.

I.S.: LEONARD may be English or Irish. English Leonards are traced to a Saxon warrior ancestor called "Leon-hard" meaning "Lion-brave." Early records list William Leonard of Huntingdon in 1273. The English Leonard coat-of-arms has three silver fleurs-de-lis on a blue stripe across a gold shield. Irish Leonards Anglicized their name from O'Leannan, an ancient Gaelic cognomen for "Sons of the man who wore a cloak." The primary American ancestor was Henry Leonard who obtained a large land grant near Boston, Mass., in 1626, following his arrival there. Irish Leonards were represented by James Leonard of County Fermanagh who settled in Westmoreland County, Penn., in the mid-1700s.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the analysis of ROOD.—F.L., Long Beach.

F.L.: ROOD, linguists and philologists say, alludes to a family who lived by a wayside shrine that consisted of a "Rood" or "Crucifix" in medieval Britain. Old records list George Roode of Oxford, 1554. I find no coat-of-arms for Rood. Number of this family were 17th century settlers of New England.

Guide: Don't Push

By Harry Karns

Education Research Associates

HERE'S ONE of the ironies of life: Some parents, in their desire for their child to succeed in school and in his career when he gets out of school, push him so hard that he falls short of the mark he is capable of making.

Such parents need to learn the difference between motivation and push.

Excessive pressure by teacher or parent on the child tends to make him nervous and give him a feeling of inadequacy; these feelings distract him; the result is exactly the opposite from what the teacher or parent intended.

Normally, a child has a priceless, fresh enthusiasm. He is ready to go down the roads of learning that are opened to him.

But find out what his best speed is. Evaluate his ability and the stage of his development. Remember that these factors vary widely in the average elementary school class. Some students are as much as four years ahead of others. The student who develops slowly may eventually catch up with his more advanced classmate. Meanwhile, he needs guidance rather than a firm shove.

THE PARENT who really wants to help will provide an intellectual environment that creates respect for and interest in learning. The number of books in the home and the quality of the conversation have a direct bearing on academic achievement.

Don't merely scold. Open up new avenues of thought. If you don't want the youngster to waste away his precious minutes, provide him interesting and constructive experiences. Take him to art galleries, museums, libraries. Answer his questions.

But you may be sure of this: If you try to thrust an art, a career, or a book upon him, he will resist. In the end, the choices must be his. Otherwise, he will feel that something has been hung around his neck.

YOU CAN challenge his mind (but make sure the challenge is not too big). You can open new worlds of thought. You can guide and suggest.

If you do these things, the chances are good that you will produce a scholar.

If you depend on push and force, the chances are good that you will produce a rebel.

(If you wish assistance in helping your child to do good work in school, mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in this "Grade Card" column.)

MEDICINE AND YOU

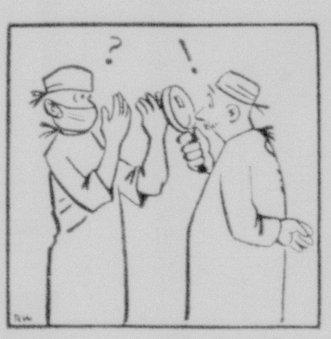
Find New Aid for Hemophiles

By Ben Zinser

Independent, Press-Telegram Medical-Science Writer

A TEAM of researchers reports the value of the cortisone-like drug prednisone as an aid in preventing the bleeding of hemophilia.

Harvard School of Dental Medicine researchers used the drug as an adjunct to plasma replacement in the treatment of 23 patients with hemophilia who underwent more than 40 oral surgical procedures.



Result: A decrease in the amount of bleeding after surgery. A firmer clot at the place of extraction. A shortened hospital stay.

The report is in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Hemophilia is an inherited disease in which the blood fails to clot and abnormal bleeding occurs.

FOLLOWING a standard 10-minute presurgery scrub with surgical soap, researchers counted the staphylococcal bacteria count on a surgeon's fingertips.

Surprisingly there were more staph on the fingers after the scrub than before.

Possible explanation: Scrub procedures may force deep-lying microorganisms to the surface of the skin.

VA researchers in Albuquerque, N.M., who reported the findings in "Annals of Surgery," say that a five-minute soak in Zephiran chloride solution after scrubbing reduced staph count to what is considered a reasonably safe level.

MORE THAN a year and a half ago surgeons at St. Louis Children's Hospital were forced to remove 80 per cent of a 5-week-old boy's small intestine.

The child has survived and grown at a normal rate without nutritional defects, the surgeons report in "Annals of Surgery."

HOW LONG you boil an egg has no effect on its cholesterol count.

So says Philip L. White, Sc. D., secretary of the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association.

One egg contains about 340 milligrams of cholesterol, a fat-like substance that also appears normally in the body.

SLIDING should be banned in Little League baseball for boys 8 to 14 years old, insists Dr. Robert L. Larson of Eugene, Ore.

Dr. Larson, in an interview with Pediatric Herald, a doctors' newspaper, says that sliding is responsible for most major injuries in kid baseball.

Before a boy reaches high school age, he lacks the coordination necessary to master skill in sliding, Dr. Larson asserts.

ON THE ISLAND of Bali, men are the traditional attendants at childbirth, the World Health Organization reports. No one knows how the practice of "midhusbands" began.

Some observers have suggested that religion may be a factor. Bali is the only Hindu island in predominantly Moslem Indonesia. Yet in Hindu India most village midwives are women.

According to a report in "The Practitioner," one Balinese midwife—midhusband, that is—gives this explanation:

"You cannot trust women with important matters."

FACTS about baby weights, from a report in "Obstetrics & Gynecology:

Non-white babies weigh less at birth than white babies. Boys are usually heavier than girls. Second babies weigh more than the firstborn of similar sex.

Townsfolk of Hemet and San Jacinto again produce their famous play . . .

Curtain Time for Ramona

By Hal Wiener

"FIFTEEN MINUTES," comes the call over the loud speaker.

There is a flurry of excitement. Costumers, make-up specialists, and fitters scurry back and forth helping this girl into her gingham dress, and that boy to adjust his Indian wig.

It is time for the start up the long trail, from the cast house, to open the 35th anniversary edition of the famed Ramona Outdoor Play which opened yesterday and which will be staged again today and Saturday and Sunday afternoons, May 5, 6, 12 and 13, at the Ramona Bowl near Hemet.

The townfolks of Hemet and San Jacinto devote endless hours of work, preparing the 350 costumes, hundreds of wigs, boxes and boxes of make-up, the hundreds of other items, and props that go into this production. It's their show and theirs alone.

"Don't let your jeans roll down, because they'll show under your dress," one fitter cautions a girl of 14, making her first appearance in the play.

"Be sure to spread that blanket on the ground behind that rock. And do you have enough comic books? It's quite a spell before you're called on to pop up from behind that boulder. Now, you know your cue. Be sure to listen for it. On your way now," a motherly helper says to a young "Indian sprout" not over 8 years old, also making his start in the play as a rock Indian.

"This effort takes coordination from many different sources," says Ralph Freud, director, who is always calm, even in the face of many emergencies, which, for some reason, always seem to arise at the last minute.

"We've got a sell-out," says Kathleen Gilman, assistant director, who pops her head in the cast house door. "Now remember that change we made, in rehearsal last week, where you start up the hill after your farewell speech," she says to Robert Taylor, dressed in the flowing robes of Father Salvedierra. "There's no way to cue you, but I'm sure you have it right, now," and she smiles, as only Kathleen Gilman can, and leaves for the director's booth at the top of the amphitheater.

"This is it. Hit the trail, folks. Good luck. Here we go. Jose Arias, lead your musicians. It's all in your hands now. You're on," it was Freud's voice coming over the "squawk box" in the cast house, from the director's booth. The 35th opening of the Ramona Play is underway.

The cast house that was crowded a minute before is suddenly empty. The unsung heroes of this and the many productions that have gone on before, are alone, and have time to take a breather.

There is Berte Paisley, chairman of the make-up department, a resident of the San Jacinto Valley for many years, who studied art in the Los Angeles schools; Mable Hight, serving her 15th year on the costume committee, a long time resident of the valley, who is active in home economics work at the Hemet Farmers Fair; Eva Dunham, who has lived in San Jacinto for a long time, serving as director of the children of the Rancho; Mrs. Bernice Sly, who directs the Spanish dance group; Lewis Barksdale, who is part Indian, and directs the Indian dancers, who is active in Boy Scout work; Mrs. Norma Gibbel, chairman of the all important properties committee; and John Gilbert, who directs the chorus of the play.

GWEN SORENSON, stage manager, is like a right hand to both Freud and Kathleen Gilman.

"Things went very smoothly this year," says Grace Weed, who assists in the wig and make-up department. "Isn't that new Ramona (Pamela Grey) a sweet thing?" asks Myrtle Decker.

"There goes the bell, they'll be coming back soon Myrtle, have you enough of that No. 4 make-up? I think Maurice Jara (Alessandro) will need some additional touches. Alma, be sure to tell Fanchon Jennings to put a bit more eye shadow on," and busy Berte Paisley, who never seems to stop working, prepares to have things ready for costume changes, as cast members begin returning.

And so it goes for the next two weekends. Organized confusion, one person called it. But that's show business, and these people love it. They are already talking and making plans for next year . . .

Hollywood beauty turned Indian girl, Pamela Grey plays "Ramona," the tragic heroine of the famed outdoor pageant.

Candid camera catches Miss Grey adding touches to make-up for play lead, getting helping hand from Grace Weed.

There's really no mystery why LBCC swim teams always win . . . it's the

Poppy Seed Caper

By Jerome Hall

IF MONTE NITZKOWSKI can come up with something to top his poppy seed caper, Long Beach City College is going to make it seven in a row.

Seven state junior college swimming championships in a row, that is.

The poppy seed caper and the leg shaving gimmick and the "runny honey" trick and a few other pieces of ingenious psuedo-psychology have made LBCC aquatics stars the most famous jaycee performers in the country.

Long Beach City College is to the two-year schools what USC, Yale and Indiana are to the four-year institutions—the best.

But if the Long Beach school is to maintain its position, the young coach is going to have to come up with a brainstorm between now and next weekend when the state finals are held at El Camino College.

NITZKOWSKI, who at the age of 34 has made a national reputation for himself and the school, is working on it.

This year's team has not compiled the impressive records and the victory streak of the recent teams Nitzkowski has produced, but there is hope for that seventh state crown in a row.

Last year's team didn't look like a world beater, either, until the state finals.

The 1961 Vikings lost the Metropolitan Conference meet by 70 points and as Nitzkowski says, "That's really getting clobbered." That's like losing a football game by five touchdowns. Then, in the Southern Cal championships, LBCC lost to the same team, Santa Monica, by only 21 points.

In the state meet Long Beach beat Santa Monica by 8 points and won the crown.

THE EXPLANATION is simple. Monte Nitzkowski is a master at underwater psychology.

"We build our entire season around the one meet, the state meet," says Nitzkowski. The reason is that when the four-year colleges hand out athletic scholarships, they check a boy's record in his toughest competition of the year. LBCC swimmers invariably achieve their peak performances in the state finals.

In addition to a training routine that puts the LBCC swimmers at their physical peak for the big finale, Nitzkowski has come up with some remarkable "assists" in his seven years of coaching the Vikings.

Like the time his team was on a road trip to Cal and Stanford. When bus connections became entangled, the boys lost most of the night's sleep before opposing Stanford, which had not lost a dual meet in 10 years.

NITZKOWSKI saw the need of a stimulant. So he rushed to a health food store and got some supplies. In the locker room before the meet he concocted his brew. He mixed orange juice with soya bean flour and sprinkled some poppy seeds over the top.

"Here," he commanded, "drink this and you'll win."

The boy entering the first race downed his and ran for the pool. "That kid did the best time in his life," recalls Nitzkowski. The weary LBCC team went on to hand Stanford its first defeat in a decade.

Coach Monte Nitzkowski relieves swim training routine with a comedy bit for LBCC mermen Larry Loganbill, Frank Sutherlin, Russ Poe, Walt Weaver.

Later that season, USC beat Stanford and it was a big event in intercollegiate athletics. Nobody mentioned the accomplishment of the poppy seed kids.

Monte's next idea was for his swimmers to shave their legs. "I had a terrible time getting the first one to do it, as you can understand," says Nitzkowski. "But finally Butsy Wyre from Jordan High School agreed. Luckily, he did better than ever before that day. So all the kids on the team shaved their legs, and now its done all over the country. Now they even shave their heads."

Last year when Nitzkowski's team failed to win the conference title for the first time in five years, he recognized that drastic steps were needed. So he mixed a new potion and delivered a stirring lecture about its energy value.

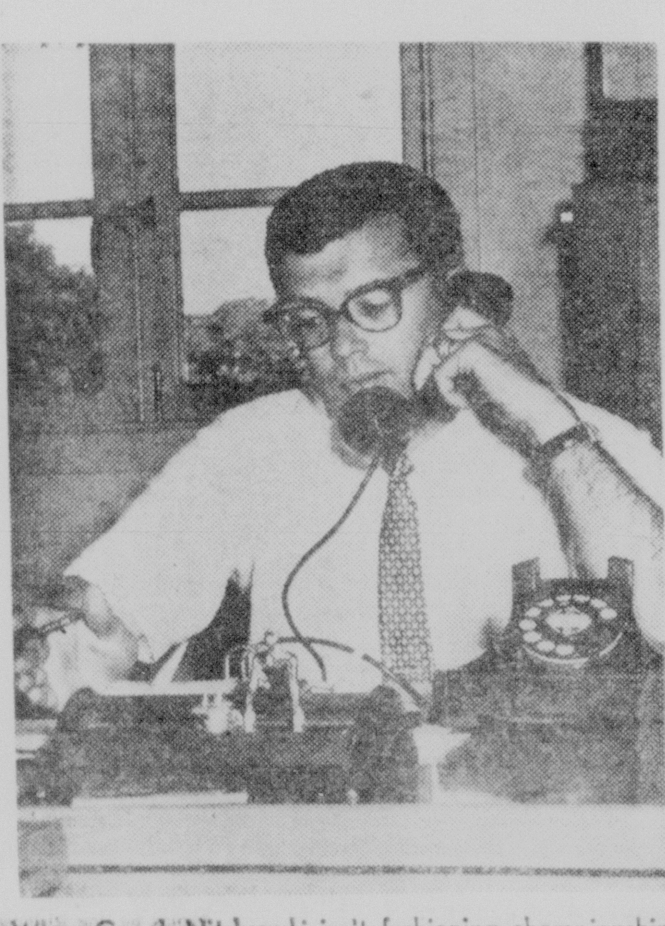
THE POTION was wild flower honey combined with jasmine tea.

"I've read reports by doctors claiming there's value to drinking this combination," says Nitzkowski, "and I've read reports saying its just imaginary. But one thing I know: it did a good job."

City College swim teams have so dominated jaycee competition the past half-dozen years that they rated headlines only when they were beaten.

The current team is determined it will not make that kind of headlines in the state finals beginning Friday.

Even if they have to hold their noses and swallow a new Nitzkowski nectar.



When Coach Nitzkowski isn't fashioning championship swim teams, he is busy as school's men's counselor.

No magic potion to absorb through pool porthole, but Coach Nitzkowski peps up morale with such antics as this in which he offers an "elixir" to Terry Humphries Anyway, LBCC swim teams have topnotch record.

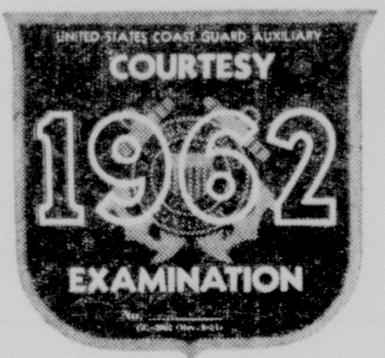
WHEREVER BOATMEN GATHER . . .



The Sign of a Taut Ship

By Vint Mader

THE TIME is a pleasant Sunday afternoon and the place is the waters off Alamitos Bay, where an outboard motorboat churns along as its owner and family enjoy their sea jaunt.

There is a hail from a patroling Coast Guard cutter. Coast Guardsmen board the boat. The pleasure craft is about to be inspected for compliance with the laws governing equipment and safety devices.

"So I guess here goes for a citation, sighs the owner. "I should have paid more attention to that auxiliary man and his checklist."

The man he is thinking about is a member of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, who offers a free "Courtesy Motorboat Examination" that exempts the boatman from a boarding unless he is observed in some glaring violation of boat-handling rules.

BOAT examinations are one of the busiest functions of the auxiliary's 11th District, headquartered in Long Beach.

A boat owner whose craft meets the auxiliary's staff requirements is awarded a decal—the sign of a taut ship, be it large or small. It is this large decal, showing through the boat's windscreen or cabin glass, that spares the owner a routine boarding—because the auxiliary's courtesy checkup is more thorough than the law-enforcement inspection made by the Coast Guard itself.

For instance, there is no legal requirement that a small boat have an anchor and line, but no auxiliary examiner gives a decal until that elementary equipment is aboard.

"Too often the examiner finds a boat supplied with suitable anchor, but minus the line to throw it out on," says Cmdr. Richard H. Hagadorn, professional Coast Guardsman who is assigned to the 11th Coast Guard District as full-time director of the 1,100 auxiliary members.

LAST YEAR examiners from the 11th district auxiliary conducted about 12,000 of these safety checks—all at the invitation of the boat owners. The Coast Guard made 22,000 boardings in the district.

With the springtime upsurge of boating activity, the auxiliary hits its busiest examination season. Around marina moorings, at launching ramps and on the waters, auxiliaries who have themselves been rigidly examined on their qualifications will be talking about safety with thousands of boat owners.

They will be seeking invitations to give the courtesy examination. For it is only at the owner's request that an examination is made.

OF THE 12,000 boats examined in 1961, only about 4,000 qualified for the coveted decal.

The other 8,000 failed to meet the required standards in lifesavers, lights, warning signals, fire extinguishers, elimination of fire hazards and so forth.

Regardless of the great number of failures, the examiners report deficiencies only to the owners of the boats.

The checklist is given to the owner. The examiner does not even keep a copy of it.

While the examination program is the auxiliary's big contribution to the world of pleasure boating, the organization conducts many other activities around the calendar, both serious and social.

The regular meetings of all levels from officers of the district to general meetings of the local basic units—the flotillas—are as much social as business. The auxiliary elects all its own officers.

HAND-IN-HAND with this democracy and sociability goes informality; there is none of the Coast Guard's military organization and discipline. Members have an authorized uniform, resembling the Coast Guardsmen's and distinguished by a shield insignia, but wearing or owning it is entirely optional.

Boating outings are, of course, a major auxiliary diversion, including an annual

Registration number is checked by Coast Guard Auxiliary member doing a courtesy examination of this boat. Size, color, styling of numbers are established by law.

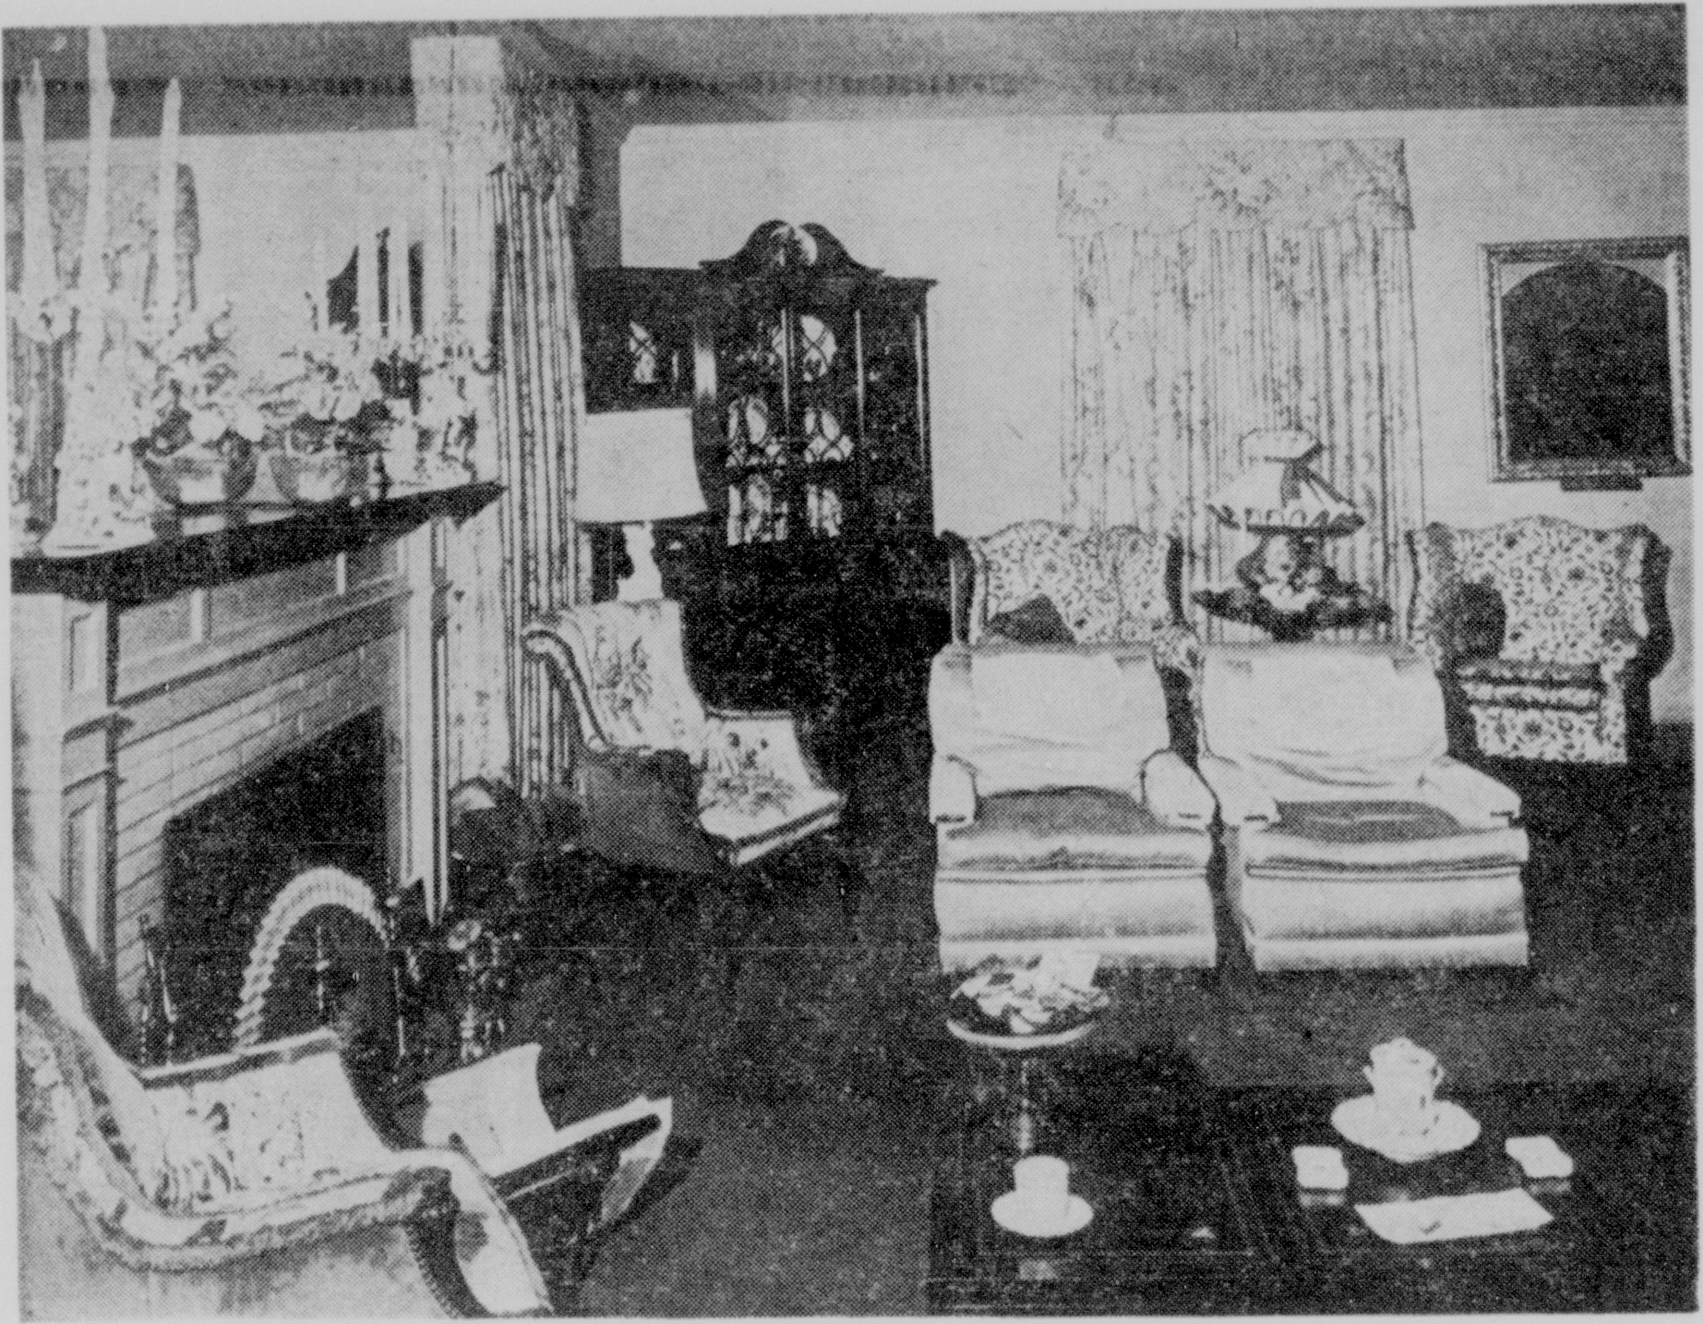
HOMES

Its Mood



Mediterranean decor themes the formal living room of the interesting home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Amar.

By Stella George

ON A CORNER lot in the exclusive, quiet residential area of Bixby Knolls stands the stately, two-story home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Amar, 4470 Olive Ave. It is the type of home that demands respect and attention, not only because of its gracious elegance, but because it is obviously not a typically California type of residence. It could be Mediterranean.

Curiously enough however the home has many features (not apparent from the outside) which lend themselves perfectly to the Southern California way of life. Among these are an enclosed barbecue room adjacent to the rear garden and a downstairs rumpus room furnished with casual rattan pieces in direct contrast to the formal upper rooms.

The home is built on a de luxe scale and includes a drawing room of large proportions, a dining room, study, out-sized kitchen, separate dinette, downstairs bedroom and bath, and, on the second floor, three large bedrooms, bath, spacious powder room, and a sewing or work room.

IN THE FORMAL entry, a tall French clock ticks softly in the corner near the winding staircase. Valuable pieces of bric-a-brac from all over the world are used as part of the decor and, in some cases, for definite and useful purposes. With professional adeptness and good taste, Mrs. Amar did her own decorating.

The decor is Mediterranean. Because this theme represents a blend of the best in so many countries, the end result is true elegance. In the case of the Amar home, the elegance is skillfully designed to produce a homey quality that is rare in many such surroundings.

Floor-to-ceiling drapes in the living room are topped with quilted cornices that match one of the couches. There are five different conversation groupings in the large room. Two chairs are covered in velvet, two others in silk with silver and red stripes. A broad mahogany breakfront in one corner holds countless small treasures in china and glass. Two small chairs, family heirlooms, in one corner date back to the 1880s.

THE FIREPLACE is framed in mirror above and to the floor on both sides. Twin Meissen candelabras adorn the mantel. An antique Syrian game table, inlaid with pearl, that unfolds for various games, stands in one corner. Carpeting is a forest green shade.

Photos by Joe Risinger

Basement space is ample, providing for this rumpus room. Furnishings are of blond rattan in sharp contrast to the formal rooms in the upper portion of the dwelling.

The dining room is gracious and formal — large enough to accomodate all the extras: china cupboard, tea cart, sideboard, and serving table. A large bay window in the room faces the rear garden.

The study, located to the left of the entry hall, features the finest in mahogany wall paneling. Furnishings are tailored; this is a man's room. Bookshelves are recessed behind the desk. The walls are decorated with trophies and awards. The comfortable couch and chairs are leather. There is a TV in one corner. A camel saddle, upholstered in an avocado shade similar to the chairs, serves as a footstool or magazine table.

THE DOWNSTAIRS bedroom is a room of sentimental charm, furnished with pieces which the Amars had when they were married more than 50 years ago. An adjoining bath also serves as a downstairs powder room.

In contrast to the old-world formality of some of the other rooms, the kitchen and dinette are as modern as jet age. Streamlined and sparkling, with pink perfection everywhere, the rooms were recently redesigned by top kitchen designer, Kay Langen.

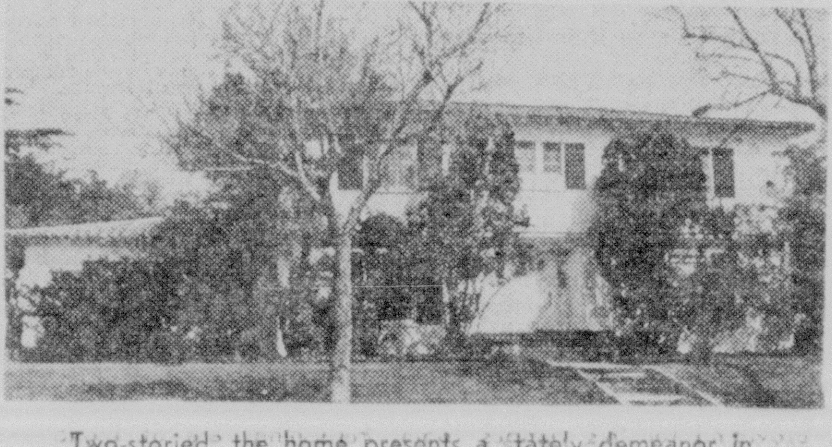
Upstairs, the master bedroom is large enough to accomodate twin four-poster beds, five occasional chairs including Victorian Mr. and Mrs. chairs, a desk, television set, and chests of drawers, with plenty of room to spare. A mirrored dressing room adjoins the room at one end, a bath on another.

The guest bedroom is done in French Provincial style. The headboard of the bed is recessed into one wall, and the alcove is papered with flowers.

Another bedroom employs purple touches in the French decor. A small sewing room nearby is bright and cheerful with windows overlooking the back garden.

THE DOWNSTAIRS basement is a large and spacious play and entertaining area. At the foot of the stairs, a walk-in bar, handsomely paneled in mahogany, faces the rumpus room. The latter is furnished with blond rataan down to the smallest accessory. Fireplace and piano add to comfort and interest. Lights can be dimmed to add to the atmosphere when parties are on the program.

The barbecue room, adjoining the garden, is entered from the outside of the house. It is appropriately furnished and is equipped with all the extras required for its purpose. The garden is expectly landscaped with full grown trees, blooming flowers and carefully tended shrubs.



Two-storied, the home presents a stately demeanor in exterior composition, a bit on the Mediterranean side.

Wildlife Gets Help

By Enola Chamberlin

ALTHOUGH wild creatures have always had to contend with man for their right to live, it has generally been because man killed on purpose. He killed for food, for hide, for feathers or because the animals threatened him in some way or another.

But now has come a time when these wild things are killed only because they are in the wrong place at the wrong time. And to give man credit, he is helping to prevent this slaughter whenever and wherever he can.

Cars on the highways take their toll of animals even so large as deer. In an effort to prevent these accidental killings signs are posted wherever deer abound, warning motorists to watch out for them.

FRESHLY SURFACED tar roads are a hazard to chipmunks and squirrels that may try to scurry across them. Even birds, no doubt mistaking the shine of the tar for water, drop down and become stuck. To keep these tragedies from happening the forest service often allots men to patrol the areas while the tar is fresh. These rangers drive the small animals back where they can. Otherwise they rescue them.

In Florida, where the tiny key deer like tobacco to their death, men scout the roads picking up cigarette butts which lure these elf-like animals into the path of speeding cars. Signs are posted asking motorists not to discard their cigarettes. At the time this program of keeping the roads clean was started these deer were so nearly extinct that 25 were all that could be found. But now, within only a few years the herd has increased to 125.

Migratory birds also come in for their share of protective care. Laws have been passed to protect many of them. In this category, the hawk deserves especial mention. These birds that do so much more good than damage were rapidly being killed off as they roosted in trees on their north-south flight. Now in many states it is illegal to shoot or molest them during their migratory months.

BUT THERE are accidental hazards to flying birds. Ordinarily bird flight is high enough that nothing man has ever built extends into their fly way. But low clouds sometimes cause the birds to drop down. Since most land birds fly at night so they can feed by day, any light in the sky can confuse them, and they may fly into a solid object that holds it. And so man puts out his high lights in deference to the winged travelers. From April 15 to June 1, when birds are heading north, the beacon light atop the Empire State Building in New York City is turned off. It is extinguished again between September 15 and November 1, when the birds are heading south.

Such consideration by man for wild life. Combined with our efforts at conserving birds that may prevent further extinctions such as the great auk and the passenger pigeon.

Bus Tours Grow in Popularity

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

WITH the first of its fleet of 500 sleek new Scenicruiser Service buses ordered for 1962 delivery now in service, Grayhound Lines appears to be stepping up its vacation tour planning.

These tours—long highly successful with Greyhound—already are rolling throughout the country, and more are in the works.

More than a few of the tours have new gimmicks which should give them added appeal to the vacationist.

For instance, there's the "Across America Escorted Tour" — starting from the West Coast with New York as the goal—which offers Americans the opportunity to see their own country, and at the same time enjoy this pleasure in company of visitors to the U.S. from Australia, New Zealand and other Pacific area countries drawn here by our own "See America" program.

DOM COPPOLILLO

Appointed manager for the western United States of Alitalia, the national airline of Italy, is Dom P. Coppolillo, with headquarters at 611 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles. One of the carrier's youngest executives, he has made travel his business since 1953.

TWO SUCH TOURS are now open, leaving Los Angeles on May 3 and May 31. Of 16 days' duration, the jaunts will move through Las Vegas, Grand Canyon, the Navajo country, Texas, Oklahoma, St. Louis, Chicago (two days), Detroit, Niagara Falls, and Washington, D.C.

Greyhound also has mapped 10 Seattle World's Fair Escorted Tours, each of nine days duration, with departures from Los Angeles scheduled May 9, 17 and 30; July 5 and 25; Aug. 8 and 22; Sept. 5 and 13; and Oct. 3.

Everything is included on these junkets—de luxe bus transportation, hotel accommodations at all overnight stops, monorail trip from downtown Seattle to the Fair, admission to the Fair and a complete land and water tour in and around Seattle. This trip includes the services of a trained escort who serves as guide and who relieves members of the party of such details as baggage handling at overnight stops.

EN ROUTE, scenic features will include an overnight visit in San Francisco and the scenic Mt. Shasta-Cascade area. Altogether, four nights will be spent in the Pacific Northwest and three full days in Seattle.

(In addition to the World's Fair tours, Greyhound again has planned a similar type of trip to the Canadian Rockies and the Pacific Northwest which will include the Seattle Fair.)

A series of four-day escorted tours to Yosemite National Park likewise is planned: June 12 and 26; July 12 and 24; Aug. 7 and 21; and Sept. 11. Included in the package are round trip transportation from Los Angeles by de luxe, air-conditioned coach; all meals en route and during the Yosemite stay; three nights in Yosemite with room and private bath; and escorted tours to points of interest within the park. As with the other tours, a trained escort will go along.

Any good travel agent can get you aboard the tour of your choice.

LARRY MACARAY, 1955 graduate of Long Beach State College and now a member of the art staff of El Camino College, will conduct a nonprofit tour of 15 European cities — June 27-Aug. 9 — for the Danish International Student Committee. The nice thing about the tour, and one which should make it popular, is that it is planned to provide first-hand impressions, insights and facts about European culture, plus exciting bonuses such as a visit to Nymphenburg Castle in Munich, rides on the famed roller coaster with the fun-loving Danes in Copenhagen, and a steamer tour through the Greek Islands. Macaray now lives in Anaheim (P.O. Box 536).

REPLYING TO rumors that there is a shortage of rooms, the Seattle World's Fair asks prospective visitors to the exposition to apply for rooms through Expo-Lodging, Inc., Seattle 9, Wash.

"We have yet to refuse a reservation or change a date for any request for accommodation," Expo-Lodging chairman Ralph Lee told Canadian Pacific Railroad, which operates in the area.

Indian World to Display Art

By Winifred Layton

ONLY an arrow's thrust from the towering Wallowa mountain range, in the heart of the rugged Grande Ronde Valley of eastern Oregon, the third annual Indian Festival of Arts will take place June 22-26 in La Grande.

The setting, as well as the participants, radiates historical significance. Here the vacationist who is enamored by details of the Old West, the Oregon Trail, early customs of Nez Perce, Walla Walla, Klamath, Cayuse, Umatilla, Warm Springs and other tribes who inhabited the Northwest, will find a treat waiting.

REPRESENTATIVES of these tribes will play host to Indians from all over the North American continent who are at least one-half blood and who wish to compete for scholarships and other prizes. Featured entertainers, who are paying their own expenses to make the festival a success, will include Fred Beaver, baritone from Ardmore, Okla., who has studied voice in Italy; and the Indian choir of the Indian Presbyterian Church at Phoenix, Ariz., under the direction of Victor Manuel, a Pima Indian.

Among Northwest Indians participating as host entertainers are June Poitras, Klamath contralto who lives in Portland; Art Motanic, Umatilla baritone of Pilot Rock, Ore.; and the Boy Scout dancers from the Warm Springs Reservation.

In the field of visual art, George Cochran, Cherokee artist of Eugene, Ore., will display portraits of outstanding Indians.

Indians will compete for scholarships and prizes in contemporary and traditional media, both visual and performing. Not only is the purpose of the festival one of brotherhood between races but an incentive for the red man to keep alive the beautiful traditions of his heritage.

TO REACH La Grande, situated 280 miles southwest of Portland, travelers will find U. S. 30, the interstate link between Portland and the East, a modern new freeway. The section crossing the Blue Mountains between Pendleton and La Grande is supposedly the only mountain freeway in the world, and is a part of the Federal Highway Program. At intervals it runs parallel with the Old Oregon Trail, designated by historical markers. For those desiring to travel from California through desert country the entire trip, the route through Klamath Falls to Bend is picturesque. Information regarding the many state parks, including some with overnight camping facilities, may be obtained by writing the Oregon State Highway Department, Travel Information Division, at Salem, Ore.

When only Indians lived in the Far West, Wallowa Lake centered Nez Perce realm. It's now vacation attraction.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

"What documents do you need to drive in Europe? And do you save money buying a car and how do you ship it home?"

NOT ALL countries but some require an International Driving License — $2 — and two passport pictures at an AAA office.

The old carnet de passage, that involved documents at each border, is no longer needed, thank goodness. Whether you rent or drive, the place where you get the car should give you the right papers — the most important is liability insurance good in any country.

(The documents are not so easy in Iron Curtain countries. Better get AAA to advise you on those.)

Shipment home and import duty is usually handled by the seller. British Motor Corporation, for instance is handling all of it on the car I bought. It runs from $200 to $300 shipping with U.S. Customs charging you $100 to $200.

You still do better on a lot of cars than if you bought at home. However, on the Austin 850 I bought, I could do $135 better in the U.S. when you figure shipping and so on. But on the Austin-Healey, you do about $500 better in England.

On a Ford and Fiat you don't gain anything. You don't lose much either. You do very well on a Jaguar, Mercedes, Renault, Volkswagon, Triumph. The first two are a saving of about $600.

You should consider the gas mileage. Gasoline runs up to 90 cents a gallon — though in France and Italy you can buy cut-rate tourist coupons through the auto clubs. So I figure the $135 difference on my Austin 850 is recovered by its low gas consumption. And the fact I like it better than a bigger, hard-to-park car.

". . . a hotel in London that has TV. We have to keep the children quiet."

NEARLY all London hotels have TV available at small rentals or free. Nobody seems to buy TV sets. They all rent. You'll find the yellow section of the phone book full of rental ads — about $1 a week. Only two channels though and only part of the day.

". . . anything special we might need on the road in Europe?"

I find one of these travel kits with two Thermos bottles is a great help. You're always having a problem finding

Catalina Island's Fun-Sun Season Opens

By Sparky Saldana

CATALINA Island opens its summer season next Friday with a 3-day Spring Festival and, inaugurating the Festival, is the resumption of daily sailings to Avalon by the SS Catalina, long a favorite vacation vessel.

The Festival, which continues through next Sunday, will feature colorful pageantry, starring King Neptune and his court, a mammoth treasure hunt, parades, an array of marching bands and singing groups.

The opening of the 1962 season of fun-in-the-sun at Catalina, in addition, offers a wide variety of outdoor and indoor entertainment, including a boat and water ski show, a comic diving exhibition, brass band concerts, a gala King Neptune's Ball in Avalon's famed Casino, as well as dozens of other special events during 72 hours of weekend family fun.

JAY NORTH, television's Dennis the Menace, will be grand marshal of the parades, appearing as King Neptune Jr. There will be a contingent of movie stars and other personalities who will participate in the festivities.

Yacht clubs and boat owners from all along the Southern California coast will converge for a nautical rally in Avalon Bay. The boating fraternity will stage a dinghy parade, reviewed by King Neptune, and prizes will be offered for the best-decorated entry.

For the yachtsmens' safety, the U. S. Coast Guard will be on duty patroling the channel waters between the mainland and the island with picket boats from Friday night to Sunday afternoon.

There'll be a ceremonial bonfire and free marshmallow roast on Friday night, a bathing beauty contest Saturday afternoon and King Neptune's Ball Saturday night in the Casino, featuring a gala floor show and the selection of the king and queen of the Festival.

Catalina Spring Festival director Bob Barton extends a welcome to Hollywood starlets, Patricia and Barbara Lyon as Avalon prepares to host the 3-day island fete.

THE S S CATALINA, known to generations of Avalon visitors as "The Great White Ship of Romance," has been completely re-decorated and re-painted during the winter. The 2,000-passenger ship again will feature the chic Fantail Room, a smart cocktail lounge, myriads of comfortable benches and a miniature ballroom near the vessel's bow. Stainless steel vending machines containing sandwiches and all sorts of soft drinks will be available on all decks. Catalina Cappy, famous sea-going clown, will be on hand for all voyages to entertain the children.

The S S Catalina will sail daily from her berth at the Catalina Terminal at the foot of Avalon Boulevard, Wilmington, casting off at 9:45 a.m. The return voyage leaves the dock at Avalon at 4:45 p.m.

water and you can fill the other one with coffee.

You could start out with learning to convert kilometers to miles: Multiply kilometers by 6 and forget the last digit. Example: 12 kilometers times 6 is 72 or 7 miles plus a few feet. A km. is ⅝ of a mile if you want to be exact.

"What was the name of that enormous night club and dance hall in Mexico City?"

You must mean "Waikiki" — where they had the sign: "Don't throw cigarette butts on the floor. The Senoritas are dancing barefoot." The Federal Governor, "Mr. Flowers and Fountains," closed that down. Too slummy for the Reforma. But any taxi driver can find you a half dozen like it off the boulevard, Rosa or Mil y Una Noches.

"How do you have a geisha party in Japan? What does it cost?"

It will cost you about $30 per person. You have to reserve room and geishas at a chai-dai — a tea house. (There is no such thing as a "geisha house.")

You'll need to be introduced probably. I think the desk at the Imperial Hotel in Tokyo could handle this for you. You might ask for Cho-ya in the Akaska district. Fashionable, wonderful and expensive. And worth it.

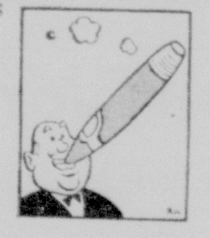
You Ask, We Answer

By Haskin

Q. Why are bands placed on cigars? T. M.

A. The early cigar manufacturers burnt their name and brand on the lids of cigar boxes, but this practice enabled unscrupulous people to use the boxes for inferior cigars. It was therefore decided to mark each individual cigar by pasting on it a small label or a star of colored paper, but when these burned they spoiled the flavor of the cigar. The removable paper ring was then devised.



Q. What is the place on the West Coast where monarch butterflies return regularly during migration? S. N.

A. For more than 100 years, monarchs native to the northwestern coast have migrated to a pine grove near Monterey Bay, in Pacific Grove, Calif. These winter visitors are protected by law, and a stiff fine or jail sentence is imposed upon anyone who molests them.

Q. How do stage magicians make people seem to float in the air? P. W.

A. As described in print some years ago, the secret of this trick is that the person who "floats" wears a specially constructed iron or steel corset, which is attached (out of sight) to a lifting mechanism. Some magicians have concealed the lifting mechanism in a hollow pole. One arm of the "floating" person rested on one end of the pole, thus concealing the rigid right-angled joint which connected the lifting mechanism and the body-supporting corset that held him in a "floating" position in air. The levitation illusion is a very old one, probably originating in India, and was once a specialty of the famed magician, Robert Houdin.

Q. Was Chief Justice Warren confirmed unanimously by the Senate? V.F.

A. About 40 Senators were present when the Chief Justice was confirmed by voice vote on March 1, 1954, and there was no dissenting vote.

Q. How does Dr. Hans Bethe, atomic physicist, pronounce his surname? Where was he born? D. U.

A. Bethe is pronounced BAY-te. Dr. Bethe was born in Strasbourg, Alsace-Lorraine, on July 2, 1906. He came to the U.S. in 1935, after teaching at universities in Germany and in England, and has been a professor at Cornell University since that year.

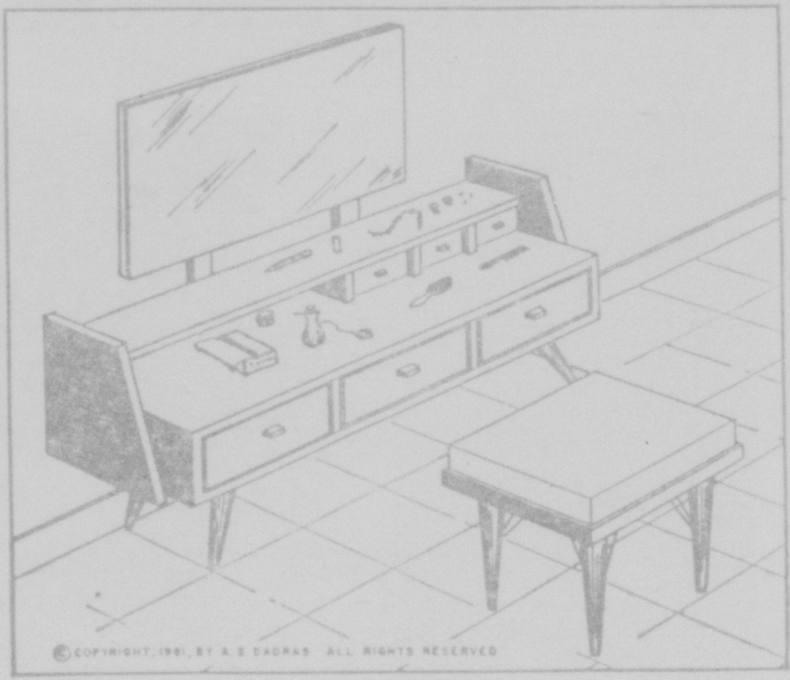
ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook



Simple and uncluttered modern design make it easy for anyone to make this vanity and stool at home.

By Ursula M. S. Dadras

FOR MANY young people, life's small luxuries often get crowded off the budget.

How many women, for instance, would love to have a bedroom vanity but have to wait until a dozen less glamorous necessities are bought (or paid for) first?

Do-it-yourself plans are available showing how you can make economically in your own home the luxuriously long and low vanity shown in the illustration. The graceful modern lines—without a single complicated curlicue—make it far easier to build than heavily decorated old-fashioned furniture.

If your handyman has trouble sawing in a straight line, you can have your lumber dealer cut all the parts to size. With the parts cut, assembly is quick and easy.

The vanity is 60 inches long and 18 inches deep. It's made of pine and easy to handle plywood. The tapered modern legs may be purchased ready-made with metal brackets which make mounting a cinch. The plan includes instructions for the neat and simple vanity stool.

TO OBTAIN PLAN, send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., and specify Bedroom Vanity Plan S-55.

CLAUDIA'S LETTER...

a letter from the wife of Pontius Pilate

Claudia's Letter is an intensely dramatic document written by the wife of Pontius Pilate to Fulvia, a close friend.

Relive through an eyewitness the drama of the moments Claudia cannot forget . . . the intimate moments she shared with the unhappy man who condemned Jesus Christ to the terrible death that has become symbolic to all Christianity.

Rarely does the opportunity arise for one to possess such a magnificently compelling and inspiring message . . . carefully and dramatically transcribed against an accompaniment of full orchestra and choir, with music especially composed to enhance the literary beauty of the ancient manuscript.

This ancient manuscript was found in an "old-world" monastery where it was known to have lain among other archives for centuries. Theologians and historians agree it was an important discovery in the history of Christianity, since the letter is a first-hand account of many events which occurred during the birth of the Christian Faith.

Claudia's Letter is a recording you will hear not once and forget. You may forget her words . . . you'll never forget her message.

Claudia's Letter is more than a collector's item . . . a conversation piece; it is a rare thing, an achievement . . . an event . . . an experience. It is a golden thread in the vast tapestry of literature, art and music.

Dramatically Portrayed by MARJORIE LORD
Music composed & conducted by EARLE HAGEN

If you do not agree that CLAUDIA'S LETTER is one of the most inspiring and dramatic recordings you have ever heard, we will gladly refund your money instantly!

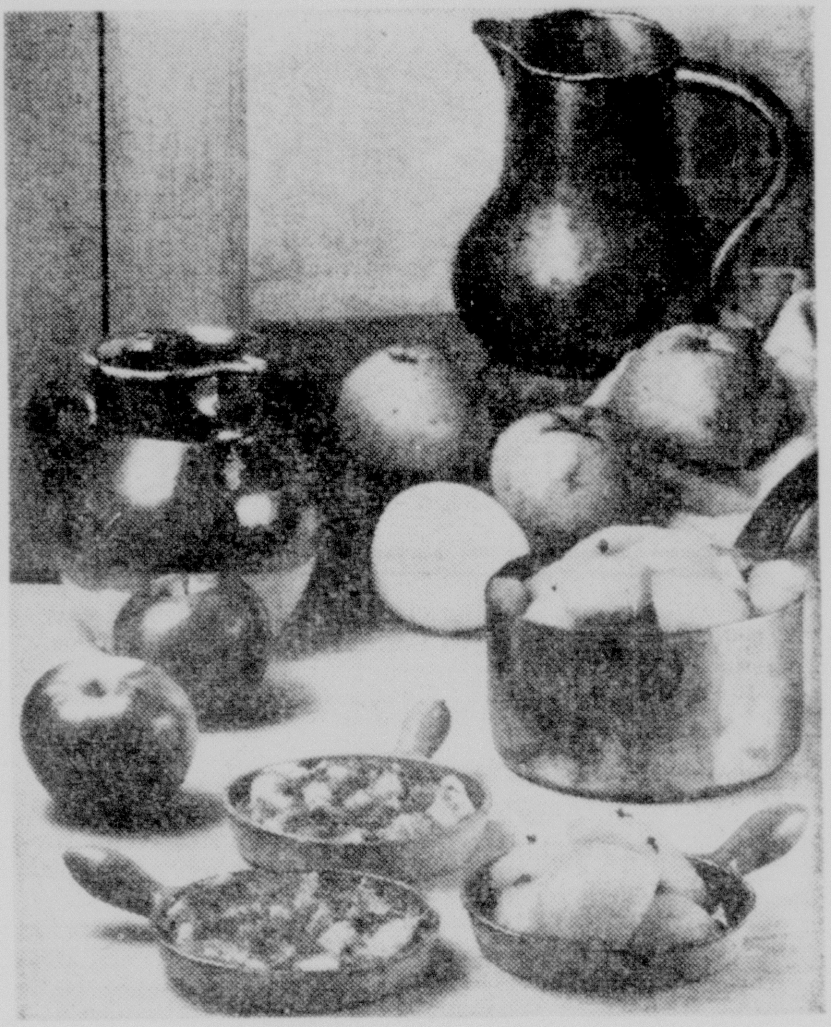
Apples Are for More Than Cider

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor



Apples, simmered with spice and cider and scalloped with bananas, are two interesting items for the table.

APPLES are becoming shinier and more efficient each day, but their claim to fame continues to rest on the wonderful foods and memory-tickling fragrances that emanate from them.

Apples may be fried, poached, stewed or baked, and used in a wide selection of recipes. Four selected recipes, featuring apple uses from sun-up to sun-down, for youngsters and oldsters, are presented below. Washington winesaps are suggested for use.

Clove 'n' Cider-Simmered Apples

4 apples, peeled, cored and quartered
16 cloves
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup water
Juice of 1 orange
1 Orange, thinly sliced
1½ tbsps. lemon juice

Insert one clove in each apple quarter. Combine sugar, water, orange juice, thinly sliced orange and lemon juice, bring to a boil. Boil one minute and lift out orange slices. Simmer apple quarters in this syrup until translucent and tender but not mushy—about 5-10 minutes. Chill in syrup. Add orange slices to apples and serve as dessert, salad, or meat accompaniment. Serves 4.

Apple-Banana Scallop

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
4 tbsps. melted butter or margarine
¼ tsp. salt
4 bananas, diced
4 apples peeled, cored and diced
2 tsps. lemon juice
⅓ cup brown sugar, firmly packed

Blend together graham cracker crumbs, melted butter or margarine and salt. Sprinkle bananas and apples with lemon juice and brown sugar. Add to crumb mixture, toss gently. Spoon into buttered ramekins and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25-30 minutes, or until apples are tender. Serves 6.

Apple Calico Salad

1 cup finely shredded cabbage
⅓ cup mayonnaise
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. lemon juice
2 apples, cored and diced
½ cup halves, seedless grapes
½ cup diced celery
1 apple, unpeeled, cut in crescents
Few bunches grapes

Place shredded cabbage in a bowl. Blend mayonnaise with salt, sugar and lemon juice. Combine remaining ingredients with cabbage, add mayonnaise mixture and toss lightly. Serve immediately on crisped lettuce, with unpeeled crescents of fresh apple and little bunches of grapes for garnish. Serves 4.

Freshest Apple Cake

2 cups sifted cake flour
2½ tsps. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
⅓ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1 egg
⅔ cup milk
6 cups sliced apples, peeled and cored

Combine and sift flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Cream shortening, add sugar and mix thoroughly. Add vanilla extract, egg and blend well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, beating until smooth after each addition. Place apples in a greased 9x13 inch pan. Cover with cake batter and bake at 350 degrees F. for one hour. Serve with ice cream or whipped cream. Serves 10.

$5 for Your Recipe

Producing Art From Plastics

Detergent bottles lend their varied shapes to making of decorative vases, similar to those pictured above.

By Lorena Fleissig

IT IS NOT surprising that you ask yourself if you ought to throw away the colorful detergent bottles when they are empty. And so you save them hoping an idea will come along.

Well, you may make immediate use of them as vases. Since the detergent bottles come in all shapes and tints, you may acquire an assortment on which to use your imagination and materials.

To prepare the vase, the top is cut away with a kitchen paring knife. Simply push the point of the knife into the shoulder edge and slice it off all around. Of course the edge will be a bit jagged, so it must be trimmed off evenly with scissors.

The paper labels are soaked off and all the bubbles rinsed out of the bottle.

IF THE printing is directly on the plastic, try scraping back and forth with the knife held at right angle, then finish scouring with an abrasive pad.

Now the vase is ready to decorate. There are probably 101 ways to do this. The easiest is to cut flowers, birds, butterflies, etc., from wallpaper or greeting cards. Paste them on smoothly. The illustration shows a large pink wallpaper rose on a blue background.

Have some fun trying out your ideas. You might try making a design of flowers using watermelon and muskmelon seeds. Lightly pencil in the pattern first. Make a thick circle of white glue and let it become a bit tacky. Then simply lay the seeds on the glue and lay aside to dry.

FINISH WITH pen and ink and add a yellow dot to the center of the watermelon seed flowers. The muskmelon seed daisies were glued on a pink bottle and, when dry, painted with white. The scrolls are soft blue. It is dainty enough for a boudoir.

These containers make sturdy vases and after you've had the fun of decorating them you will have the fun of giving them away to friends or to the bazaar coming up. They are really worth saving.

For a really gala evening, give a dance here — string some lights and turn on the phonograph. (Flexalum awnings have no ugly nuts-and-bolts look to mar the effect overhead.)

Upkeep? Forget about it! Flexalum aluminum awnings take care of themselves. Their two-coat, baked enamel finish won't chip, crack, peel or rust. And only Flexalum rigid awnings—for patios, porches, windows and doors—give you this security: the Bridgeport Brass Company 5-Year Guarantee bonded by the Continental Casualty Company.

BOOK REVIEWS

Life on a Freighter

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

KATHERINE Anne Porter, a master story teller, says 20 years of work went into her new novel "SHIP OF FOOLS" (Atlantic - Little, Brown, $6.50), a gripping, tremendous work likely to outlive all of her short stories.

It's about a widely assorted group of passengers on an ocean voyage, but the voyage represents life, and the passengers portray various aspects of mental and cultural development. Most of them, it must be admitted, are pretty seedy. The best is a nameless woodcarver in the steerage.

As the German vessel, combining freight and passenger service, moves in August 1931 from Vera Cruz, Mexico, to Bremerhaven, Germany, the characters unfold. Many, of course, are Germans returning to their homeland. There are the authoritarian ship's captain, a pompous professor, a brow-beaten German widow, a pre-Nazi publisher, a supercilious race-mad woman who writes unspeakable things in her notebook, a German chagrined because he has married a Jewess, goose-stepping officers . . .

The ship's doctor, a member of the Junker class, finds himself betrayed into realizing his own falsity by a Spanish contessa being deported for political activity.

The four Americans are pretty bad, too. A boor from Texas, a disillusioned divorcee, a couple of painters who interminably fight and make up. The Spanish dancers specialize in prostitution, shoplifting and swindling. The steerage is full of peasants being hauled back to Spain because of a failure in Cuba's sugar crop.

RICHARD FISHER

"Judgment in July," a new historical novel by Richard Fisher, takes place in the town of Deadwood in the Dakota Black Hills after Custer's Last Stand (Doubleday, $4.95). Fisher also is author of another fine novel, "The Very First Time."

Mercifully, a cast of characters is printed in the front of the book. If a reader gets lost, he can turn to the list, the same as in Russian novels.

The book is long, 497 pages, but it is not dull for a minute. Possibly Katherine Anne Porter writes about human beings and good and evil—principally evil — better than any other woman writer in America.

"A FUNNY THING HAPPENED TO ME ON MY WAY TO THE GRAVE" by Jack Douglas (Dutton, $3.50) is an autobiography that gives another peephole look at Hollywood.

Douglas, a night club comic and comedy writer, has known the great and near great in show business — from Rudy Vallee to Bob Hope and Jack Paar.

Douglas pictures radio-television comics as insecure creatures who never are sure a line will be funny till it scores on the air.

MANLY WADE WELLMAN, author of "Giant in Gray," "They Took Their Stand" and "Candle of the Wicked," has written a new novel, "NOT AT THESE HANDS" (G. P. Putnam's Sons, $4.50).

Set in the American South of 45 years ago, "Not at These Hands" presents a very different view of Southern life from the decadence-and-degeneration formula readers have come to expect.

summer cruise to Avalon. More active members also turn out with their craft for all kinds of water events, including local regattas and international yacht races to Acapulco and Mazatlan. All their "duty tours" are voluntary.

Whenever there is an official Coast Guard patrol assigned to any event, the auxiliary is directly under control of the patrol commander. The Coast Guard delegates no authority to the auxiliary to give orders or enforce regulations.

MEMBERSHIP in the auxiliary is open to all United States citizens over 17 years of age who own a quarter interest or more in a motorboat (inboard or outboard), yacht, private plane or licensed amateur radio station.

The group consists, of course, primarily of boat owners, the 1,100 members having about 650 boats among them. However, it includes 50 "ham" radio stations and an air wing of 32 aircraft centered at San Diego.

Cmdr. Hagadorn says membership is wide open for uncounted scores of thousands of pleasure boaters in his district, which embraces the populous areas of Southern California, plus Clark County, Nevada (Lake Mead) and the whole state of Arizona. There is one landlocked flotilla in Phoenix.

At present, 80 per cent of the membership is from the Long Beach-Los Angeles metropolitan area.

"We're striving for more membership," says Hagadorn, "very hard as a matter of fact.

"We particularly want membership of people who have time to participate actively—those who have the interest, the qualifications and the time—but we welcome anybody who is a serious boatman."

Sled Dogs to Strut

By Eleanor A. Price

DOG FANCIERS gather at La Palma Park, Anaheim, today for the big spring unbenched show and obedience trial of Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club. Joseph Murphy of South Gate will select best in show. There will be other top judges on hand including Mrs. Milton Seeley, owner of the Chinook Kennels at Wonalancet, N.H. Mrs. Seeley will judge Alaskan malamutes, Siberian huskies, and Samoyeds.

Ch. Wonalancet's Baldy of Alyeska is the first Siberian Husky to win working group in a show and first of breed to be AKC registered in Alaska.

Chinook Kennels is a real "dogtown" in which reside character dogs of older ages on down to purebred AKC Huskies and malamutes. So famous is this village of sled dogs that there is a project afoot to erect a National Polar Museum there, the purpose being to depict the true life of sled dogs in polar regions. Chinook already is the assembling place for dogs used in the antarctic, and Mrs. Seeley has been chief consultant for "Operations Deepfreeze." At Chinook there is a tablet dedicated to Adm. Richard E. Byrd and his sled dogs, and another tablet will be dedicated soon in memory of sled dogs that have given four-footed service to our armed forces.

CHINOOK KENNELS are open to the public from May to late October and well worth a visit. Wonalancet is situated near Chocorua Lake and Mountain on the Chinook Trail road leading from Tamworth (5 miles). Children in particular are thrilled by the dogtown, for the animals are friendly, always ready to entertain.

Mrs. Seeley, oldest woman sled-dog racer and former Olympic racer, has many other interests centering around Chinook, not the least of which is loaning dogs to local children who learn to drive and later purchase their own dogs to race in the Junior New England Sled Dog Club. Mrs. Seeley is also completing her book, "Sled Dogs In This World."

Another big interest at the Anaheim show is the California Collie Clan sweepstakes featuring both shortcoat and longcoat collies. Judge will be Dr. Greathouse of Kentucky, president of Collie Club of America.

"TOURING With Touser," Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park Ave., is available for 25 cents, to travelers. Thousands of motels and hotels that will accept dogs are listed.

OPEN 5 NIGHTS MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY 9:30 A.M. TO 9:15 P.M. TUESDAYS 9:30 A.M. TO 5:30 P.M.

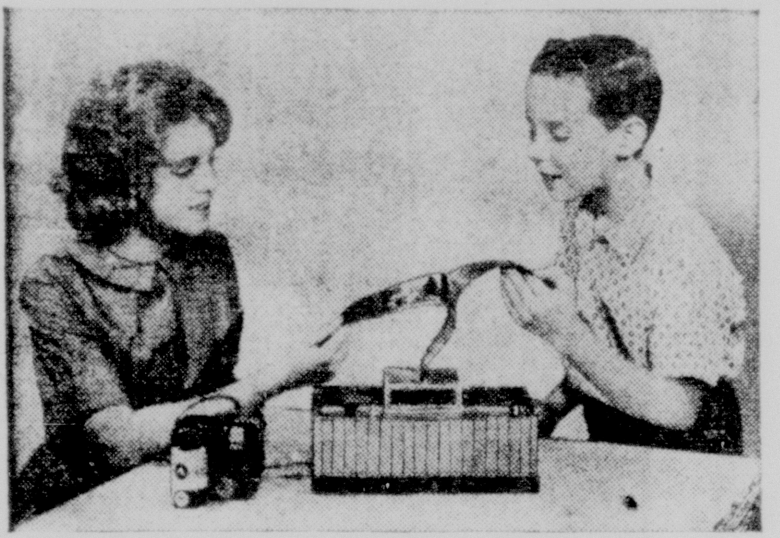
'Instant Prints' Are New Feature



Special film material, exposed normally in a roll film camera, can be processed in 30 seconds in a new device.

By Irving Desfor

SPEED is the password as photography advances in this jet-space age, new devices speeding up and easing the tedium of taking, developing and printing pictures. Here are some new items:

A new method of producing a roll of instant prints without a darkroom was demonstrated by Anken Chemical & Film Corp., Newton, N. J. It requires a roll of special negative material and a unique portable processor.

The negative roll in the Ank-a-Matic system, as it is called, can be used in any camera which takes a 127, 120 or 620 roll of film. It is loaded and exposed just as conventional black-and-white film is done.

AFTER exposure, it is put into the processor along with a roll of positive print paper. The developer, in a three-ounce plastic container, is poured into its special compartment and is used only once. When the electric switch is turned on, the development process starts as the rolls of negative and positive materials are brought tightly together. In a few seconds they emerge from a slot, pressed together in one continuous strip.

After 30 seconds they can be peeled apart. The negative roll is useless and is discarded. After drying, the roll of finished prints can be cut apart or accordion-folded to form a continuous snapshot folder.

A FAST identification method for 35mm slide fans was demonstrated by Viewlex Inc., Holbrook, Long Island, N. Y. In a few moments, a

After Spring Bulbs Are Gone

By Joe Littlefield

AFTER spring-blooming bulb plants have cast their fragrance and beauty into the garden scene, there are still other bulbs that come into bloom in late spring, summer and fall. are hybrid amaryllis, tuberoses, gladiolus, amarcrinum, pancratium, dahlias, and pink triumphant nerine.

The summer blooming bulb that continues to flower the longest of the all, from four to five months, is amarcrinum, a cross between two types of bulbs, the fragrant amaryllis and crinum. Amarcrinum is evergreen. The foliage reminds of corn leaves. Leaf ends are likely to freeze back several inches during frost.

Once the bulbs develop into a cluster of plants and start to bloom usually along in June, they'll continue to send forth tall and handsome new flower spikes topped with fragrant, pink, lily-like flowers. Because they don't all blossom at once, the cluster of a dozen or more buds on one stalk slowly continues to open over a period of ten days, sometimes longer.

Amaryllis is a member of the bulb family yielding late season bloom. A crossed cousin, Amarcrinum, is another.

THEY GROW in milder areas of sun, or partial shade. These bulbs are slowly becoming popular, but are not yet found at all nurseries. There are four wholesale sources where they may be obtained by the nurserymen. Bulbs are expensive, about $2.50 each, but they're worth it because they are a lifetime investment — provided the gardener keeps sharp lookout for possible mealy bug infestation.

One of the fall perennials that should be planted in sunny flower beds are chrysanthemums. Your nurseryman has well rooted young plants in plant bands or packs. They're a good buy now, in this size. Later, most mums will be sold in tin containers and prices will be higher.

Check with your nurseryman as to their season of bloom. Some mums such as the low, cushion mums flower early either in August or September. Northland daisy mums bloom a bit later. Then, along come the hardy type, pompom; later the large, spoon, and several other types. Two of the late varieties are Elsie Kramer and Treasure Island, both of pompon form. They start in December and overlap into January, if grown in milder areas.

BY SELECTING some mums that blossom early, some in mid-season, and some late, the flowering season may be extended four months or more.

After first cutting back new growth, thereafter pinch mums you want to grow bushy. Pinch tips out each time two or more sets of leaves develop after the previous pinching. You won't pinch those you want to grow into exhibition flowers, or the cascade low growers.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . Begonia seedlings may be planted now. Stake the tender young plants and feed them twice monthly with liquid fish.

Caterpillars often show up on wisteria and on a few other favorites this time of year. Spray them before they get started. Ask your nurseryman what to use.

Plant annuals for late spring and summer bloom.

Container grown fuchsias should be fed and watered more frequently than those in the ground. Pinch the growing tips back, too, to promote bush growth.

Pot up pelargoniums and geraniums for bright color on sunny decks and terraces.

Plant fuchsias this month. You can use them in hanging baskets, in pots or in the ground.

Susan Learned displays Hawaii Marigolds, huge glowing orange flowers.

Bright Days

MARIGOLDS annually gain new friends among Long Beach area gardeners, bringing happier days to hybridizers who are now reapings their reward for years of tedious experimentation. The flowers, themselves, are brigtening days for those who grow them for their brilliant colorings.

Giant hybrid Climax marigolds are in the forefront of this floral beauty parade, among them Hawaii, a glowing orange, and Alaska, soft primrose pink.

Marigolds are best sown into the garden outdoors in the spring. Sow seeds thinly and cover with a quarter-inch of soil. Thin or transplant the seedlings when they are large enough to handle, watering them thoroughly an hour or so before transplanting them. Leave a saucer-like depression around each plant for holding water at later application. Plants should be spaced 1½ to 2 feet apart.

Newer hybrids embrace a wide range of colors, habits of growth, flower form and heights, as well as having been purged of almost all of their original odor that was objectionable to some gardeners.

Book for African Violet Fanciers Revised

African violet fanciers will be happy to know that a full revision of Sunset Magazine's popular guide to the growth and care of these favorite plants has just been published.

Titled "How to Grow African Violets" (Lane Book Co., Menlo Park, Calif., $1.75) the book is profusely illustrated with photos and drawings. It relates in easy-to-understand language the newest information on techniques of culture, hybridizing, mutations, propagation and pest control. The revised edition contains a new chapter on species of the plant. The author is Carolyn K. Rector.

Flower Show

Spring Flower Show of Belmont Heights Garden Club is set for 1 p.m. Tuesday in Wesley Hall, Third Street and Mira Mar Avenue. Plans include a musical program with Mrs. Doris Longfellow as soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Shelby Barnard, and a flower preparation talk by Mrs. Addie Keating. Anyone interested in gardening is invited.

Hostess committeewomen are Mrs. Nannie Woods, chairman, and Mmes. Mildred Hubbell, Mabel Wilson, Melissa Konnight, Nina Parr, Millie Allen and Edith Jackson.

DOROTHY DIGS in the garden

By Dorothy Jonson

There are a few things we sometimes like to do in our gardens that can be done only at certain times. For instance, if you happen to want to transplant certain tender shrubs like bougainvillea or hydrangea, it should never be done while there is the slightest danger of frost.

And if you would like to plant a citrus or an avocado tree in your garden, now is a good time to do that, too.

In planting any kind of fruit trees, I like to warn people against a common practice of planting them too close to other shrubs or right in the middle of a lawn. Fruit trees, you know, require long, slow, deep, occasional irrigation, and so the method of watering them properly is very different from the way in which you would water your lawn.

Incidentally, now is the time to fertilize both avocado and citrus trees.

It's all done with a novel unit which looks like a portable typewriter but is very light in weight. It can be used only on 35mm (2x2) cardboard mounted transparencies which are horizontal in format.

The unit is packed with sufficient supplies to inscribe 50 slides. Refills are obtainable after that.

In a literally revolutionary move, the new Sekonic "Dual Run" movie camera has a film chamber which pivots around.

Other features: automatic single lens reflex zoom camera with a sensitive cadmium sulfide exposure meter; manual control if desired; f1.8 zoom lens with 11.5mm to 32mm range.

HAROLD SOLOMON
Restful

AT THIS TIME of the year, with the perfume of spring everywhere in the air, city folk occasionally suffer from an overpowering desire to get away from it all, to visit a restful forest glen and be calmed by the sounds of a bubbling brook.

Perhaps this is why the large new dining room at Hoefly's 4911 E. Second St., has become so popular and has received such unstinting praise from its visitors. Owners Irving Solomon and his son Harold have brought a beautiful bubbling waterfall to Long Beach, making it unnecessary for their guests to trek out into the countryside in order to be calmed and soothed by the gentle forest sounds of nature.

Opened two weeks ago, Hoefly's Waterfall Room is a magnificent extension of the rear of the restaurant. With seating for nearly 150 persons, the room is dominated by the waterfall and tropical garden on the north wall. With 1,600 gallons of water pouring happily over stones and rocks each hour, it is at once cooling and refreshing to all who view it. Among the rare plants growing there are a stunted Japanese pine tree which is 40 years old but only 12 inches tall and a 20-year-old sago palm which is 10 inches tall. The Waterfall Room's long north wall is entirely of decorative stone, 8 to 12 feet high. Other handsome touches include diamond-tufted leather work and shutters on the south wall, and a daring color scheme of various reds, ranging from the rich wine color of the rug to cardinal and burgundy hues on the walls.

The food at Hoefly's, always wonderful, has never been better. Chef Charlie Cole has a master's touch in the preparation of prime rib au jus, which is $4.75 for a large luscious cut. Other splendid dinner items include charcoal-broiled steaks, $5.25, and sea foods, $3.25.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Judy Says 'Westerns Need Women'

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

You know the bit.

Daughter of famous actress makes grade on her own. Conceals mother's identity and lands role on television series.

You've heard it before.

You never know whether to believe it.

In the case of Judy Lewis, the daughter of advertising executive Thomas H. Lewis and movie-television actress Loretta Young, I prefer to believe it.

Because when you talk to Judy, she comes across as a pretty believable girl—believable and sincere.

Judy plays the role of Connie Masters on NBC-TV's "Outlaws" Thursday night series.

She won the role after being sent by her agent to producer Frank Telford. The producer selected her from four girls whom he considered as finalists for the role. The producer later said he did not know Judy was the daughter of Loretta Young.

It doesn't really matter whether he knew or didn't know.

What matters, from the viewers' look at the screen, is that Judy has been able to capably perform the role.

* * * *

IT IS A ROLE, like those of women in other westerns, that is not too demanding.

"I realize," said Judy, "that it is very difficult to write for women in westerns.

"But women definitely should be in westerns. They were an important part of the West. The men needed women to start a new way of life.

"I feel that a woman in a western should have a very positive character — I don't mean that she has to get involved in fast-draw shoot-'em-outs.

"But why must a woman in a western be either doing a can-can, serving coffee or telling the sheriff, 'They went thataway.'?"

Judy feels that westerns need love scenes, "but not kissy, mushy stuff." She thinks women in westerns should be portrayed with very positive character, with inde-

BERLE GUESTS ON 'BISHOP SHOW'

Uncle Miltie Considers Joining Ranks of TV Vets Returning With Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The television viewer may feel like Rip Van Winkle next season as he watches Lucille Ball, Jackie Gleason, Loretta Young, Sid Caesar and Roy Rogers return to the air with weekly shows.

Those returnees may be joined by Mister Television himself: Milton Berle.

"The network has been talking to me about it," said Berle of his parent (or is it partner?), NBC.

"I'll admit I'm interested. In fact, I have been thinking about an idea for the last two or three years. It would combine the elements of the old Tuesday night show with an entirely different factor. I can't say now what that factor, is, or it would be on the air tomorrow.

* * * *

THE MAIN thing I want is the proper time slot. I don't mean it has to be a sure fire time—there's no such thing any more. But I don't want to be stuck with an impossible time, as I was with 10:30 Mondays on 'Jackpot Bowling.' It was a good show, but I myself recommended that the sponsor cancel. You can't build a rating at that hour."

MILTON BERLE
May Return

Berle's announcement that he's thinking of returning to regular television may or may not be occasioned by the fact that he is guesting on "The Joey Bishop Show" at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, channel 4.

After all, he was television's top banana for a half-dozen years, and with the medium regressing to its old-time favorites, why not Uncle Miltie? Besides, NBC might not be adverse to putting him to work. The network is still paying him $100,000 per year under a contract that lasts until 1981.

* * * *

BERLE reminisced about those fine, frantic days when television was young and so were we.

"You wouldn't believe how we put the shows together in those days," he said. "We had two cameras and a drop-roll curtain. We had acts like Harry Richman, Sophie Tucker, Martin and Lewis, Lucille Ball, Red Skelton.

"I paid Pearl Bailey $150. Why, the whole show, talent, technicians and air time—came to $12,000.

"You know what a good variety special costs? Half a million. And that doesn't include air time.

"Try to get some names today and their prices start at $40,000."

* * * *

BUT EVEN if prices have gone up, it's easier to do television nowadays, said Berle. Facilities and technicians are vastly improved. That's why he'd be willing to return on a regular basis. But it couldn't be before November—he has a long-running role in Stanley Kramer's super-comedy, "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," which starts in June.

Milton's other interest these days is his 3-month-old adopted son, Billy, whom he displayed with paternal pride.

"Look at that Irish kisser," he glowed.

The comic admitted that Billy's advent had mellowed him: "Punch lines don't seem quite that important any more."

ANN-MARGRET guests on "The Andy Williams Show" at 9:30 p. m. Friday in COLOR on channel 4.

Godfrey Specials

Arthur Godfrey will do three specials for CBS-TV next season. The announcement dims reports that he was planning a move to another network.

TV Series Kill Individualism

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Individualism, in case you haven't thought about it, doesn't have a chance on television these days. Never before in all history have there been so many assistant heroes. It's just lucky for individualism that television didn't arrive until it did.

Fellows famous for solo deeds never would have made it. After being exposed to television early in life, they wouldn't have dared tackle anything alone.

Take Michelangelo, for instance.

Under television influence, he probably would have joined a firm of three other "Chiselmates." They would have alternated on such epic jobs as David, head of the Madonna and Descent from the Cross to avoid exhaustion and overexposure.

Somewhere along the way Michelangelo also would have organized "77 Sunset Colors" to get the Sistine chapel ceiling painted in 13 weeks, and the Creation of Adam and of Eve, and the Sacrifice of Noah ready for delivery in 26.

"TARGET: PARIS"—not Lindbergh—would have flown the Atlantic for the first time. Lindy would have been the top billed chief pilot, of course, but the plane would have been a four-seat job, giving him three co-pilots and a chance for a little shuteye.

Custer would have been saved by his three "Army Train" partners and even that scene of Washington crossing the Delaware, I bet, would have been different. There would have been three other fellows standing up with George in that boat—his alternating partners in "Valley Forge '77."

THE MULTIPLE LEAD SERIES which does not depend on one star to carry the show is the television gimmick putting individualism down the drain. It was devised to release pressure on human endurance caught in 39-week cycles. "Maverick" first introduced the idea, alternating James Garner and Jack Kelly as its stars.

Now, like everything else on home screens, the multiple lead idea is being copied to the point where every show has so many heroes you don't really get to know any of them.

Whether western, big city police or private eye shows, it's all group activity.

Except for a few exceptions, it has become the day of heroes SWARMING into a room. When a doll needs help on "Precinct 87," for instance, she's surrounded by so many of the show's leads the scene looks more like Marilyn Monroe at a fraternity house tea.

TELEVISION ROTATES its stars like Kansas farmers rotate crops—and it's just as corny.

The physical demands of week-to-week television acting are so great, it is said, that young actors must be hired in teams. But what is so exhausting is a puzzle because even when they act, a majority of today's hardly move a facial muscle.

Richard Boone and Raymond Burr, twice the age of most television actors today, are notable exceptions who prefer to say, "I'll do it myself and no help, thank you."

Perhaps Michelangelo and Lindbergh and Washington would have used the same words. But Madison Avenue would have turned thumbs down on them. They would have had trouble attracting sponsors even for one-shot specs.

CLIFF Robertson is a ventroliquist and Edy Williams a showgirl during "Twilight Zone" at 10 p. m. Friday, channel 2.

Rick Nelson Regrets He Can't Play Football

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Rick Nelson soon will be 22, girls, and unmarried—but that's not his big regret.

"I'm a pretty happy fellow the way I am," says the handsome youngest son of Ozzie and Harriet. "The only regret I have is that I never had a chance to play college football."

Rick, a natural athlete, was a promising end at Hollywood High School but he never had the chance to go to college, despite a B average. It just isn't realistic for a bobby-sox idol to hope for a normal collegiate life.

RICK NELSON

Rick's buddies are all college or Los Angeles Rams grid stars. And he comes by his love for the game naturally. Ozzie was once a quarterback for Rutgers.

"I know Dad would have liked either Dave or me to play college football but what are you going to do when you're either acting or singing all the time?"

Ozzie is the first to admit that college for Rick is not realistic. When he makes public appearances—such as he will do this summer—at the state fairs, girls mob him.

RICK USES his football buddies to run a new kind of interference for him. Else his clothes would be stripped off him.

What if the success bubble would burst?

"If I'm not too old, I might go to college but the way the series keeps going, it looks as if it will go on until it's called 'Rick Knows Best.' "

Rick has been on the Nelson family show since he was eight. He will be 22 on May 8.

Meanwhile, his love for football even extends to girl friends. One of his best girls is Chris Harmon—daughter of Tom Harmon, the alltime Michigan great grid star.

SCOUT FLINT LEAVES 'WAGON TRAIN'

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Bob Horton's Five-Year Ride Ends Without Fanfare

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Horton, the scout named Flint, has dropped off the "Wagon Train" after a five-year ride.

How does he feel?

"Older, wiser, richer and full of enthusiasm."

Bob was relaxing at his Laurel Canyon home. I asked him to enlarge on the four elements.

"Older? The calendar takes care of that element, the less said about it the better (he's a vigorous 37) . . .

"Wiser? I've learned how a big outfit operates in this business. I once read an article by Kirk Douglas in which he said an actor is nothing more than a commodity in Hollywood.

"I found out that is true. As long as you are a studio's commodity, they are interested in you. After the relationship is over, you mean nothing to them. Friendship doesn't count for a thing.

* * * *

"FUNNY THING — I didn't look for any special celebration on my last day on 'Wagon Train.' But some of the crew said rather apologetically that they wanted to give a party for me, but the management of Revue, offspring of the giant agency MCA wouldn't allow it . . .

"Richer? I feel enriched by the friendships I made during those five years — with the crew members, not the executives. I respect the crew, and I think they respect me.

"Yes, I'm richer in money, too. It has been a very profitable engagement. I'm not fabulously rich, but I am well enough off to be able to pick and choose. For instance, I turned down a lead with Rock Hudson, not because the money wasn't right but because they wanted to tie me up in the future. I'm not going to do that again."

* * * *

THE FOURTH element — enthusiasm — stems from Horton's view of the future. He has a brand-new deal with NBC that ties him to the network for 10 guest appearances on different shows each season. They may well include "The Virginians," the 90-minute western which NBC will throw against "Wagon Train," on ABC next season.

"But I won't be a regular on 'The Virginians,'" Horton declared. "I won't do any regular series for at least a year. If I do decide on another series after that, NBC will put up the money for me

A ham at heart, Horton hits the road this summer to play "The Man" in Chicago, Ill., "Pajama Game" in Atlantic, Ga., and Charleston, Tenn., "Oklahoma" in Columbus, Ohio, and Pittsburgh, Penn., and possibly "Brigadoon" in Kansas City, Kans.

BOB HORTON

Station Rejects TV Special

NBC-TV's affiliate station in San Francisco refused to carry the network's recent "Special for Women" feature titled "The Indiscriminate Woman."

Executives of the local station issued a statement saying:

"It is our opinion that the portrayal of sex is too vivid for television."

The program dealt with promiscuity.

'Tonight' Show

Bill "Jose Jiminez" Dana, Louis Nye and Pat Harrington Jr., all former members of the old Steve Allen gang, will serve as hosts for NBC-TV's "Tonight" show June 25-29.

DALE ROBERTSON CLAIMS CHANGES 'KILLED'

'Wells Fargo' Nears End of TV Trail

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Television's "Tales of Wells Fargo" ends this year when Dale Robertson parks his stagecoach and unloads the last trunkful of money hauled safely despite maurauding bandits.

For six years, Dale has been like the local postman, hauling "Wells Fargo" dough through thick and thin, facing adversity and coming out smelling like a rose. Hardly anything stood in Dale's way.

DALE ROBERTSON

Robertson overcame everything except the vagaries of a fickle television medium which doomed "Wells Fargo" to end this year.

* * * *

"IT'S BEEN dropped," said Dale, who has two more shows to complete this season. He looks at the situation "with mixed emotions."

"It's kind of like seeing an old friend die," he added. "I've never regretted working an hour of any day on this show. But I'm looking forward to what we'll do in the future.

"In 16 years, I've never known what it is not to work in this business. We had a good career in motion pictures. Before the series I made 42 pictures."

Television's masterminds fooled around with "Wells Fargo" this year, changing the program's format. The cast was increased. The show was lengthened from 30 to 60 minutes and switched to a new time slot.

* * * *

ALL THIS, Dale believes, did the show more damage than make-believe holdup men he encountered.

"I think the thing that hurt us most was moving up from Monday to Saturday," Dale said. "Had we known they were going to switch that time slot, we would never have changed our format. The changes were too much."

Dale's earnings from the show and pre-series movies have made him independently wealthy. But Robertson doesn't intend to sit back "and whittle," as he puts it.

* * * *

"WE'RE going to pick up up where we left off before the series started six years ago," he said. "I'm going back into pictures and will do 'The Thousand Guns of Justin Malloy.' We were planning to do this picture before the series began."

When cowboys unhitch "Wells Fargo's" horses for the last time and put the stagecoach away, Dale will be thinking of new friends he met along television's make-believe trail.

"In the last six years I've shook hands with thousands of people and signed thousands of autographs," he estimated. "And I knew a lot of those little people never saw pictures in which I appeared before 'Wells Fargo' because they weren't born yet."

BERT'S EYE VIEW

'Westerns Need Women'

pendence, with the pioneering spirit.

"Above all," she added, "they should let a woman be a woman and use her warmth, her feminity, sensitivity and guttsiness."

* * * *

JUDY IS NOT unqualified to talk about what she feels are writing needs in television scripts.

For two years she was an assistant to the story editor—a job she frankly admits her mother got for her—of "The Loretta Young Show."

During this period she discovered two things:

1. A great admiration for writers.
2. She couldn't write.

"I would sit down in front of a typewriter," she said, "and the first thing I knew, I was editing before I was writing."

So she turned to her first love—acting.

"I really wanted to be an actress ever since I can remember," she said.

"And the most important advantage of being the daughter of an actress was to realize that acting is a lot of hard work."

In 1957 she went to New York where, according to her, producers were more inclined to take a chance on an unknown.

But not enthusiastically inclined.

Judy put in her apprenticeship sweeping out a little theater and selling tickets at the box office.

She studied with Agnes Moorhead. She got a part as an extra. She got a four-line role on a Kraft Theater television program. She landed a running role in a TV serial. She was on her way.

* * * *

"MY STEPS in the business have been very slow," she said. "But I'm in no rush."

To be a successful actress, Judy believes, a girl must have 10 per cent God-given talent and 90 per cent desire.

"If a girl feels she has that 10 per cent, she should first decide whether she thinks it will be worth the heartaches and decisions," said Judy.

"Certainly, if she's going to be married, she must consider whether she can do both well, have an acting career and be a wife."

Judy is the wife of TV director Joe Tinney. They have a 3-year-old daughter, Maria.

Judy claims that marriage is her most important career. It's a claim that's been heard before, but I like the way she puts it.

"Supposing I've had a long, hard day at the studio," she said. "When I leave there, I must cut that off.

"I must walk into our house as my husband's wife."

Pan and Fan Mail

I agree 100 per cent with J. Paul Gleason about namby pamby "What's My Line?" I never saw such a mutual admiration society as on that panel.

Who cares about Cerf's publishing or Mrs. Gable's show on Broadway or pouter pigeon Martin?

The poor guest panelist must have words stick in his throat with whomever he has to introduce.

No one laughs at Bennett or John but themselves. As Gleason says, half-hour lost and nothing gained.

If you like it, you keep it.

John B. Bush, Long Beach.

I don't watch it often enough to dislike it.

* * * *

I am just one of many that enjoyed last Monday's "Hennessey" show.

Although I'm an avid Soupy Sales fan already, his guest appearance was excellent.

Not only did the story show his ability to be a comedian, but it brought out the wonderful person he is.

I agree with Jackie Cooper in saying, "Soupy's a guy that loves people and wants people to love him."

I think he's accomplishing that, too.

Peggy Morrison, Seal Beah.

In your case, Peggy, it's obvious.

* * * *

You really call a spade a spade—good for you.

We need more men like you who can see things for what they are and who aren't afraid to say so.

If the moral decline is to be arrested in this country, I'm afraid a few more of us are going to have to voice our opinions.

Thanks for yours.

Helen Hermestroff,
Long Beach.

Thanks for yours.

GEORGE MAHARIS goes to Joanna Moore's rescue when she jumps off a yacht during "Route 66" at 8:30 p. m. Friday, channel 2. The sequence was filmed at Catalina Island.

Everybody loves a WARM BATH and a PROFESSIONAL MASSAGE
NOW YOUR WHOLE FAMILY CAN ENJOY BOTH FOR ONLY A FEW CENTS A DAY!

IMAGINE! a Trained Masseur at your beck and call 24 hours a day! That's what you'll have with a

Jacuzzi
WHIRLPOOL BATH

Never before could your family enjoy professional whirlpool massage in the home bathtub. Before the development of the portable Jacuzzi, whirlpool massage was available only at clinics and expensive health clubs. Now your entire family can enjoy whirlpool benefits, in your home, for a few cents a day. It offers long lasting relief from daily aches, pains, nervous tension and fatigue.

Water massage is not a new idea. Ancient civilizations — the Romans, the Greeks, the Japanese — used water and water baths for relaxation and for the treatment of many human ills. The healing and curative powers of warm, agitated water were well known.

Today, throughout Europe and America, better hospitals, clinics, health spas, and private clubs provide whirlpool water massage for those who can afford it.

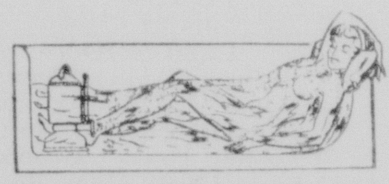
Now you and your entire family can enjoy the same beneficial water massage in your home bathtub — every day, several times a day. You can whirl away sagging tiredness, feel like new again with a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath.

HOW IT WORKS You simply set the Jacuzzi unit into the bathtub and fill the tub with water. The unit starts automatically.

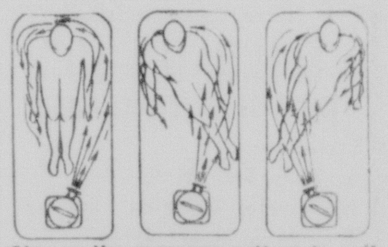
In the morning, use cooler water and full force of the Jacuzzi to wake up the blood stream, the brain and the ambition.

In the evening, use warm water and gentle hydromassage to calm jittery nerves, massage away pain, and prepare you for deep restful sleep.

Use the Jacuzzi 15 to 20 minutes each time. You determine whether you want vigorous massage for stimulation or gentle massage for relaxation.



You relax in the tub of water. Like many tiny fingers, the moving water filled with millions of vibratory air bubbles massages every part of your body.



Change the massage pattern to suit yourself. Adjust the unit for vigorous hydromassage or gentle whirlpool bath. Unit maintains water temperature.

DON'T SUFFER NEEDLESS PAIN

Many everyday aches and pains may be unnecessary. Hydromassage provides heat and massage at the same time to stimulate local blood circulation. It relaxes and brings temporary relief of minor pains associated with

PERSONALITY PARADE

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N. Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Sorry, the volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. I heard that all of Elvis Presley's associates carry guns to protect their leader. Please check out this rumor.—D. Wheeler, DeSoto, Miss.

A. Two of Elvis' employees, Joe Esposito and Robert Smith, were recently indicted by a grand jury in Memphis for carrying pistols without permits.

Q. Has any Wave ever married an Admiral?—Janet Briskin, Springfield, Ohio.

A. Yes. Captain Winifred Q. Collins, former head of the Waves, married Rear Admiral Howard L. Collins last year.

Q. I am told that the press plans to boycott Roger Maris, the baseball star, this year. True or false?—Dean Brown, Cleveland, Ohio.

A. False. Maris says he plans to boycott the sports-writers.

Q. When I was in Rome recently, I mentioned something about the reported food poisoning which sent Elizabeth Taylor to the hospital. People howled at me. "How naïve can you be?" one Italian asked. "It was too many pills because of unhappy love." My question is: Will Liz ever tell the truth about the men in her life?—Elaine A., Detroit, Mich.

A. When and if she ever writes her memoirs, Miss Taylor will probably describe in detail her relationships with Nicky Hilton, Mike Wilding, Mike Todd, Eddie Fisher, Joe Mankiewicz, Richard Burton, and other intimate friends.

Q. Is it true we plan to send a woman astronaut into space shortly?—Bill Townsend, Chicago, Ill.

A. Twelve women astronauts have passed the same tests given our men astronauts, but thus far James Webb, Chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has not scheduled a flight for any woman astronaut.

Q. I read that the Democratic incumbent Governor of Michigan, John B. Swainson, and the Republican gubernatorial candidate, George Romney, are both Mormons? Is this true?—F. R., Lansing, Mich.

A. Gov. John Swainson was born a Mormon, his family belonging to the "Reorganized" church with headquarters at Independence, Mo., followers of Joseph Smith, founder of the Mormon faith. Since his marriage, however, Swainson has been a Lutheran. Romney is a member of the Mormon faith with headquarters in Salt Lake City, followers of Brigham Young.

Q. Two youths, Loeb and Leopold, kidnapped and killed a boy in Chicago in 1924. Loeb died in prison. Leopold was paroled in March of 1958. What has become of him?—Elsa Avila, San Ysidro, Calif.

A. Nathan Leopold shortly after his parole went to work as an orderly at the Brethren Service Hospital in San Juan, Puerto Rico. In February 1961, he married a San Juan widow, Trudi Garcia de Quevedo.

Q. I was told that Sir Laurence Olivier had gendarmes guard him against plastic bombs while working in Paris recently. Why does he rate more protection than French citizens?—D. Lund, Boston, Mass.

A. A request was made for six policemen to keep sightseers from disturbing Sir Laurence, Simone Signoret and others while filming Term of Trial. Because of increasing numbers of plastiqueurs, Paris authorities were unable to spare the gendarmes, so six "extras" were dressed for the parts and did a masterful job of keeping order around their charges.

Q. Rochester, the comedian on Jack Benny's show, had an adopted son, Billy Anderson, who used to play professional football with the Chicago Bears. What's happened to the boy?—L. Carlisle, Chicago, Ill.

A. Unfortunately, he's in the Los Angeles county jail, serving a one-year sentence for second-degree burglary. In 1956, after he had finished playing pro football, Billy Anderson was convicted of possessing and selling narcotics and was sentenced to five years in prison.

Q. Is the Connie Stevens-Glenn Ford reported romance for real, or just publicity? Ugh! He's old enough to be her father!—Elizabeth Eaton, Hayward, Calif.

A. For real.

Q. Edda Mussolini, daughter of the Italian dictator and wife of Count Galeazzo Ciano, had a lover who helped her escape into Switzerland during the last days of World War II. Can you identify the lover?—V. J., Atlantic City, N.J.

A. Marquis Emilio Pucci.

Q. Can you give me the immediate plans of George Chakiris, the lead dancer of West Side Story?—Mary Beth Lewis, Bethesda, Md.

A. Mr. Chakiris is currently filming Diamond Head.

Night calls—whether doctors should make them or not—are a matter of concern to every family. To get the facts, PARADE Medical Editor Robert Goldman assembled a panel of six doctors (see photo below — that's Goldman at the right), requested their frank views. For the results turn to Should Doctors Make Night Calls? on page 4.

On the same pages you'll find a special offer of a new booklet to help you improve your family's health. It's a collection of articles published in PARADE over the years on relations between you and your doctor. In it you'll find candid, authoritative answers to many medical problems.

Correction concerning Mr. Ernest Modarelli

In the issue of PARADE dated January 21, 1962, there appeared an article entitled "The Untold Story—Our Government's Crackdown on Organized Crime." It was stated therein that Ernest Modarelli, at a time when he was police commissioner of the Town of West New York, N. J., had sent his police captain with a "$1,000 bribe" to "fix" someone's ticket. After a careful and further investigation into the facts, we have found no conclusive evidence to support such charge and it is with sincere regret to Mr. Modarelli that the matter was published. It has also since been learned that Mr. Modarelli has been vindicated by a jury of charges of misconduct in office.

SHOULD DOCTORS MAKE NIGHT CALLS?

Some do and some don't. Read their reasons

Dr. Clarence Dore: "The majority of needless night calls come from people who have no regular doctor . . ."

Dr. Samson Fisher: "Before the automobile, distance was a factor in night calls. Now it no longer is . . ."

Dr. George Robertson: "Under certain circumstances, a conscientious doctor will discourage night calls . . ."

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

SHOULD DOCTORS make night calls?

Do people who phone a doctor at 1 a.m. really need him or are they just neurotics seeking a willing ear?

Recently, a New Jersey doctor declared that night calls are unnecessary, a waste of time. Almost any ailment, according to this physician, can wait till morning.

These remarks made many people hot under the collar. They also affected many doctors the same way—especially those who are accustomed to working into the early morning hours.

All doctors, of course, have strong views on night calls. To find out what they are, I interviewed a panel of six doctors affiliated with the Thayer Hospital, Waterville, Me., a typical medium-sized American community.

Doctors—most family doctors—do make night calls. They believe night calls are important to overall medical care.

However, they see some problems arising from making night calls. The Thayer general practitioners and internists made these two important points:

1 Many people don't know when or why to call a doctor at night.

2 Doctors want patients to understand the problems of night calls, when they will or won't come to the house, fees involved and other aspects.

When Calls Are Needed

When is a night call necessary? It is always needed, says the Thayer panel, in cases of serious accident, significant blood loss, and severe pain or discomfort.

"Patients have to use their judgment," adds internist Dr. George Robertson, "but a call also is justified if you have a chronic disease such as heart trouble, asthma or ulcers and fail to get relief from your usual medication."

Dr. Jacob Jackler, another internist, says he believes a patient may be justified in calling at night if he is extremely anxious, worried about his condition or that of a relative.

Some doctors disagree with him. "If patients call just because they're anxious, we'll be swamped," the panel commented. "Patients should call when they think they're in serious trouble and need immediate attention."

As far as pregnant women and children are concerned, doctors offer some rules of thumb. A call is expected if a pregnant woman goes into labor, bleeds or her "waters break." Many doctors expect to be informed if a child's temperature exceeds 101 degrees and the child is extremely uncomfortable.

A Silly Phone Call

Of course, doctors are accustomed to unnecessary calls. Dr. Clarence Dore, a general practitioner, tells the story of a woman who phoned around midnight. She demanded he come immediately. Asked for the symptoms, she refused to discuss them over the phone.

"Are you in pain, bleeding or have you broken a bone?" Dr. Dore asked.

"No," she replied, then added: "Well I guess I can see you in the morning."

The next day, she said she had called the previous night because her stomach itched and it bothered her. This was all that troubled her—and was the only reason for her distress call.

"You get a few like that," Dr. Dore says, "but fortunately not too many are from your regular patients."

The doctors explained that most practitioners instruct sick patients to call at certain times, especially if their conditions should change. "Panic calls," Dr. Dore says, "come usually from individuals who have no doctor—who fail to understand their ailment, and are alarmed by the slightest symptom."

Doctors admit they are griped by certain types of night callers.

A chronic offender is the patient who calls and yells "Come quickly, Mother is sick" and slams down the phone. Dr. Stanley Beckerman points out that the physician has little recourse other than to call back and "try to determine if Mother really needs the doctor."

Then there's the relative who calls and tries to describe symptoms. He ends up shouting at the patient, trying to elicit a clear description of what to tell the doctor.

"This is why doctors prefer to talk to the patient himself—if possible," says Dr. Samson Fisher. "Even the patient's voice can provide a clue to his condition."

The patient—or his spokesman—should relay the following information: the symptoms and signs, location of pain, if any, the nature of the pain and other pertinent facts. Has the patient lost blood, vomited? Has he taken drugs? Did he lose consciousness?

The doctor wants to know exactly why he's receiving the call.

This is important, explains Dr. Harold Willard, "because the doctor wants to know if he's really needed or if the patient is better off going directly to the hospital." Here, for example, is a typical situation:

A wife calls and wants the doctor to come immediately. She describes her husband's symptoms—shortness of breath, pain in the chest, pale complexion, vomiting, and perhaps fainting.

The doctor surmises a heart attack. He may order the patient to the hospital. Knowing the symptoms in this case has saved precious time—and maybe the patient's life. A house call would be a waste of time.

Night callers make significant mistakes that can easily be avoided, the Thayer panel points out.

Failures at Home

Many fail to take the patient's temperature—in fact, don't even have a thermometer in the house. Also, they "destroy the evidence"—blood, or other bodily discharge, before the doctor arrives. Such bits of evidence may be helpful in making an accurate diagnosis.

While patients may not as a rule exaggerate symptoms, they omit important facts. They tend to be vague about subjects such as how much they've been drinking, what kinds of food they have eaten, whether they've been overworking, overexerting. To patients with ulcers, high blood pressure, heart trouble, or allergies, these questions can be vital.

Most patients want the doctor to come to the house. They do not want to be "treated" on the phone. Some doctors are exasperated to find that a patient just wants to chat.

Dr. Dore once got a late-at-night call from a woman who said she wanted to know why she kept getting hungry at night. Dr. Jackler got a night call from a patient asking if he was going out of town. She was anxious and just wanted to make sure that another doctor would be available and "covering" him if he did leave town.

Are there doctors who refuse to make night calls?

Yes, a minority do refuse, says Dr. Robertson, and "they stick out like a sore thumb." These "daytime doctors" throw the burden of night calls on their colleagues. Patients soon learn which doctors make night calls and which don't. They steer toward those who do.

What do you do when a really sick patient calls and says he cannot reach his "regular" doctor? "We either make the call," Dr. Fisher points out, "or arrange for another doctor to go to the house."

Doctors do this partly as a favor to colleagues and partly because they feel some day the tables will be turned and the colleague will reciprocate.

I asked why there is a popular notion that young doctors make most of the night calls.

"They do make many," Dr. Robertson says, "because the young doctor, just establishing practice, is eager to make any calls he can. Also, some of the older practitioners seek out the younger practitioner to 'cover' them at night."

What about fees?

Dr. Robertson candidly admits fees are upped (after 9 or 10 p.m.) "to discourage night calls." There is a tendency to forget that the doctor is a human being who wants some time with his family, to socialize and to sleep, too.

Dr. Fisher declares, "Some doctors look at the increased night fee as extra payment for extra work, a sort of time-and-a-half for night work."

Night calls present hazards to the doctor's equilibrium and to his physical well-being.

Dr. Dore cites the type of individual who calls several doctors "just to make sure that one will get there." On a couple of occasions he arrived in a hurry—only to find another doctor already at the house.

At times, too, the panel believes, there is a definite danger in making night calls, especially in big cities. Not infrequently, doctors have been mugged and robbed.

When the phone rings late at night, what is the doctor's first reaction?

"Experience shows that about half the calls you receive at night mean one of your hospitalized patients has 'gone sour,'" Dr. Robertson said. "More often than not, you're prepared to rush to the hospital."

I asked if a conscientious doctor would ever discourage night calls. Here, the doctors reveal a serious personal conflict.

"There comes a point," they say, "when you have so much work, so many patients, that you cannot care for new ones efficiently. Additional patients mean that someone will be neglected.

"When that point is reached, the conscientious doctor actually performs a service for all the patients concerned by discouraging night calls."

A Compromise Plan

Actually, doctors who are always likely to be fighting fatigue and demands of conscience are finding ways to ease the night-call problem. In communities throughout the U.S., groups of two, four or more doctors work out "covering" arrangements so that one doctor will always be available for night calls.

Should the patient ask a new doctor if he makes night calls routinely? Yes, was the unanimous reply, and the patient should think twice about accepting a family doctor who does not make them.

Obviously, as the Thayer doctors point out, everything is not black or white when it comes to night calls. Even doctors disagree on some of the fine points. This much is certain: the patient must use his judgment. What can wait until morning—and what cannot wait?

The patient must decide because the initiative for the night call almost always resides with him. ■

PRINCESS GRACE

Why is she returning to Hollywood?

by LLOYD SHEARER

MONTE CARLO.

BACK IN THE DAYS when Her Serene Highness, Princess Grace of Monaco, was a commoner, posing as a photographic model for PARADE, her father, the late wise and witty John Kelly of Philadelphia, told her, "There are two words no prudent woman uses—'never' and 'always.'"

From her dad, who rose from Philadelphia bricklayer to multi-millionaire, Grace Kelly accepted and retained that bit of advice, which is why when anyone asked her during the past six years, "Will you never again star in another motion picture?" or some variation thereof, Princess Grace made sure not to use the words "never" or "always."

She always hedged with, "I am much too busy with my husband and children," or "I have left that all behind," or "I am afraid my movie-making days are part of my past."

But the truth is that ever since her marriage to Prince Rainier, the former Grace Kelly has retained a Hollywood press agent, has kept in communication with the film colony and had talks with her agent Jay Kanter of MCA. Film stars shooting on the Riviera have always been welcomed by Princess Grace and her show-business-minded husband.

Urge to Come Back

In addition, as proven by Hollywood history, it has been an unwritten rule in this industry that no actress can resist the lure of a screen comeback. And that applies even to the great Garbo, last of the holdouts, for whom several producers are preparing comeback vehicles.

The announcement a few weeks ago, therefore, that Princess Grace was returning to Hollywood this summer to star in Marni for Alfred Hitchcock came as a surprise to no one.

What is surprising, however, are the reasons offered for Grace's comeback.

There are two sets of these, one emanating from the Princess and her entourage, and the other from the people of Monaco.

Because she is now, at 33, well versed in the ways of royal protocol, Princess Grace deferred to her husband in explaining her comeback decision. Treating the entire affair in a jovial, light-hearted manner, Rainier revealed that like former President Eisenhower, he, too, is a golf-addict, in fact loves to spend his vacation playing golf. "The Princess does not," he pointed out, "so this is really my little holiday treat. While she is making her film, I will play golf.

"I know," he added, "that she would very much like to see whether she can still act as well as she used to. After all, she spent many years of time and effort in establishing her screen career, and then she gave it all up for marriage to me."

When asked if the Princess might not be fed up with life in Monaco or simply bored, Rainier quickly denied it. "She has many interests here," he declared, "our children, the Junior Girl Guides, the Red Cross, many interests. But I think," he went on understandingly, "that every talented woman derives satisfaction from doing a creative job, a piece of work which she can pursue enthusiastically. And that is why she wants to act—if only temporarily—in another film."

When I asked Grace's press attaché at the palace whether money might have been a motivating factor in her planned return to Hollywood—Grace will receive at least one million dollars for the film—he laughed. "Of course not," he said. "She will give all the money to a charity for children. She is doing it merely as a divertissement . . . a diversion. Right now we do not know whether she will take the children to Hollywood or not. But it is merely a divertissement approved by her very understanding husband."

GRACE KELLY
Born with a silver spoon

As cover girl in 1952 issue of PARADE, Grace was brunette, and was 10 lbs. lighter than she is now.

According to the Monegasques, however, Grace Kelly Grimaldi is departing Monte Carlo "in the year of the blow-up with Big Charlie."

The "Big Charlie" referred to is Charles de Gaulle, President of France, who doesn't like Prince Rainier on a personal basis and would just as soon force his abdication.

By making Monaco a virtually tax-free principality, Rainier has attracted so many people that land in Monaco, much of which he owns, has tripled in value.

Now what de Gaulle contends is that Monaco is being protected by France, that the Monegasques enjoy most of the privileges of French protection and neighborliness and that Prince Rainier and his subjects should pay their fair share of taxes.

What De Gaulle Wants

In addition, de Gaulle wants the right to countersign Prince Rainier's decrees. Three years ago Rainier suspended the Constitution, dissolved the elected Parliament of his little 370-acre country, banned all political meetings and began to rule by decree. Three weeks ago he restored the old constitution of his vest-pocket principality. He also proposed that Monaco have its own "flag of convenience" and that Monte Carlo become a free port attracting a tremendous amount of trade and tourist business, all of which would detract from France.

De Gaulle quickly snuffed out these proposals and at one point threatened to throw a cordon of troops around Monaco and cut off its supply of water and electricity.

Eventually the French president relented but he has made it no secret that he regards 38-year-old Rainier as an autocratic upstart.

Another bone of contention between these two is Emile Pelletier, French-nominated prime minister of Monaco and a personal friend of de Gaulle who had chosen him for this soft, tax-free $35,000 per year job. Recently Rainier fired Pelletier and de Gaulle fumed.

Most Monegasques are frankly appalled at these developments. If French taxes are imposed upon them, they will scream bloody murder and accuse Rainier of ruining their tax-free principality.

Many of them do not like Rainier—they accuse him of being petulant, autocratic and dictatorial, although they do admit he is a great promoter—and they suggest privately that he abandon his throne and let a regency rule for his son Prince Albert, the heir apparent born March 14, 1958. They insist that Rainier is personally unacceptable to de Gaulle and that practically any other leader can get them a better tax deal with France.

Rainier at this writing has asked de Gaulle for a meeting to settle French-Monegasque disputes and claims he will give his people a modern constitution. Many of the more cynical Monegasques say the promise is merely an attempt to win them to his side in the fight against de Gaulle.

As for Her Serene Highness, Princess Grace, they say she knows all about the trouble in Monaco and wants to get out to Hollywood with the kids. Some of the older Monegasques say it is unbefitting for a Princess to act in films but many others insist she has a perfect right to do what she likes best.

Says one hotel manager, "The way things are going, who knows how much longer she will remain an active princess?"

The facts concerning Princess Grace's comeback vehicle are: She has never renounced her screen career and from time to time her agent Jay Kanter has sent her story properties she might be interested in.

Grace Takes a Job

"Six months ago," says Jay Kanter, "I sent her a copy of Marni, the story of an English girl who spends her life lying and stealing and avoiding love until the real thing accidentally comes along. I told her Alfred Hitchcock owned the property. Grace and Hitch have made several films together, and I felt that was an added attraction. Sure enough, Grace sent word back that she'd like to do the film some time this summer. Since we handle both her and Hitch, it was a cinch to work out the deal."

Director Alfred Hitchcock, who also described Grace as "generating wholesome sex appeal and sexual elegance" and said of her, "There is nothing more exciting on the screen than an iceberg that is about to explode," may find it a bit more difficult to direct Princess Grace this summer than he did Grace Kelly in 1954 when she shot To Catch a Thief on the French Riviera.

Back then, I remember Hitch waddled up to her one morning and in a particular two-shot with Cary Grant, said, "Darling, we need a little more sex in your eyes."

Surely, one cannot demand the same thing in the same way from a young woman who has been a Princess and a Serene Highness for the last six years.

Watching them shoot Marni this August should prove an interesting experience—interesting indeed.

Up in the air together, lady helicopter pilots converge on Washington.

LADIES IN A WHIRL

DID YOU EVER HEAR of a woman's club without officers, dues or social affairs—whose members never 'meet' but merely hover together? That's the way it is with the Whirly-Girls, shown on this page. The nation's first organization of women helicopter pilots, they'll be hanging around Washington this week during their annual three-day hovering.

The Whirly-Girls have been chopping along since 1955. Their aim, according to "den mother" Jean Ross Howard, is to promote more heliports and dramatize the role of women in flying. Members include Janey Hart, wife of Michigan Sen. Philip Hart, who has volunteered as an astronaut; Massachusetts Aeronautics Commissioner Charlotte Kelley; Edna Gardner Whyte, who learned to fly at 50. The girls now are recruiting junior members. One member recently taught her daughter, 15, to solo in a plane and a helicopter. Any day now, the girl will learn to drive a car. —TREVOR ARMBRISTER

Down on the ground, 11 of 12 Whirly-Girls gather for photo. All are licensed fixed-wing pilots. One has broken sound barrier.

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

RIO DE JANEIRO. Veteran observers here claim a revolution is inevitable. Brasilia, the new inland capital, is rapidly becoming the world's largest ghost town. Former President Juscelino Kubitschek has become one of the world's richest millionaires. Graft and corruption are endemic, sweeping the country at every level. Brazilian politicians have deposited tremendous sums in Swiss banks.

The situation here is similar to the one which existed in pre-Castro, pre-Communist Cuba. The U.S. may pour limitless funds into this bankrupt nation in an effort to save it from Communism and anti-Americanism, but all of it will go down the drain unless the character of the nation's leaders changes.

For example, a mayor of Sao Paulo while campaigning for office told the people, "Sure I steal, but I also achieve." Brazilians claim that Janio Quadros, the President who resigned, is personally honest -- "but drunk with power and sex." Things here look terrible.

BEIRUT, LEBANON. Women are taking over the white slavery run in the Near East. Interpol, the international police organization, reports that this constitutes the single largest headache in trying to crack the existing vice ring.

Here's how the system works: Lebanese and Syrian women recruit girls from France, Austria, and Germany. Under contract these girls "sell" themselves for a specific period of time, usually from a week to six months.

The girls come to Lebanon and from here are sent to rich protectors in Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, and Qatar. They stay with their buyers for agreed periods of time, then have the option of renewing their contracts, being sold to another buyer, or returning home.

The woman agent who arranges the deal receives 20 per cent of the selling price plus a bonus from the buyer if the "merchandise" turns out to be exceedingly attractive.

TOKYO. Each year 220,000 new residents move into Tokyo, a city which cannot care for its present population of 10,000,000. The government is frantically trying to find a solution to the problem since Tokyo today doesn't have enough housing, transport or water to maintain decent standards. One solution: have the government develop a group of suburbs within a 100-mile radius of Tokyo.

BARCELONA. Biggest demonstrations yet against Dictator Franco are currently under way in Spain. At Barcelona University recently, a $2500 portrait of Franco was ripped to shreds, a dummy hanging from a gallows put in its place. Franco's police have been court-martialling students for writing "Liberty and Democracy" on classroom blackboards.

'Love begets love,' says Bashir, kissing his camel. While he is now the owner of a new truck (see cover), Bashir's heart belongs to 'Camel.'

Meet Bashir Ahmed—he's a

YANKEE DOODLE CAMEL DRIVER

by ROSALIND MASSOW

KARACHI, PAKISTAN

Bashir Ahmed, one of the world's best known camel drivers, is turning out to be one of America's most promising ambassadors-at-large. The 48-year-old Pakistani, who came to know the U.S., and vice versa, when he was the guest of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson last October, is creating more good will for the U.S. along camel row than foreign aid. Everybody here from the donkey-cart driver to the sweeper tells and retells the story of how Bashir, the common man, was treated like a king in "Am'rika." Bashir says, "Am'rik'ns are wonderful, they treated me better than my mother." I went to Pakistan to find how Bashir's life had changed since his great adventure in the U.S. I also wanted to know if he was still the same charming fellow Johnson picked up on a hill here last May.

On becoming a celebrity
"I am dust. It's up to God to honor you or do you disgrace. If God favored me before others for this trip, I say God's secrets are known to God alone. I am grateful this has happened to me."

On intelligence
"Do you think only educated people have brains? God gave us common people brains too. There are many with literate educations who are ignoramuses. They don't understand people."

On false impressions
"There is a false notion that I have become rich, and so people come to me for financial help. I went to the United States in these garments and I'm still wearing them. I can only give advice."

On sending a message
"What I have to tell Americans is so important I can't trust anyone to deliver my message. I'll tell them myself when I return there. I will say, however, that it's the best country in the world."

Now he wants an education—for his sons

I found Bashir fully as clever as his news clippings indicate. Many people in the U.S. doubted that an illiterate man like Bashir could speak so eloquently. When asked about his poetic answers, Bashir told me: "Do you think only educated people have brains? God gave us common people brains too."

Bashir's American visit may have changed his life, but not his address—one of the worst slums in Karachi. His hut, made of burlap scraps, straw matting and wrapping paper, is a far cry from his $30-a-day room at the Waldorf Astoria Towers in New York and the guest room at Lyndon Johnson's ranch in Texas. Bashir lives here with his wife and three of his four children in a community made up of 800 Moslem families, refugees from India after the 1947 partition.

Bashir's hovel is different from the others in that it has a table piled high with a suitcase, a Pan American overseas bag, souvenir of his 15,000-mile flight to the U.S., a box that once contained a Kissy doll, and gift clothing from the U.S. Another souvenir is a supermarket cart, which Bashir uses as a baby buggy.

The camel driver returned from the U.S. with a new interest—politics. Despite the fact that he can't read and can write only his name (he learned how in the U.S. so he could sign autographs), Bashir is a candidate for election to the Provincial Assembly in Lahore, a 150-member body akin to a state legislature. He is also president of the newly-organized City Railway Colony Social Welfare Organization, a community-improvement group. Bashir admits he can't really afford to be a politician, but he feels it's more important to do something for the people.

"I'm a poor man myself, but as people want me to contest the election I will do so," Bashir says with all the aplomb of a drafted candidate.

Prestige Up—Pay Down

All this may enhance his prestige and celebrity status, but it has diminished his take-home pay. B. J. (Before Johnson), Bashir made 25 rupees (about $5.50) a day picking up loads of coal and wheat from the railroad terminal near his hut. He was able to save about five rupees daily.

Now, with little time to drive his camel, Bashir pays a jobber four rupees a day to do his hauling. Bashir's main occupation is learning how to drive the red pickup truck sent to him as a gift from Ford.

I went with him once when he was having a particularly hard time with his driving lesson. While he can do figure-eight turns, he has a heavy touch with the brake pedal. After a sudden jolting stop, he turned to me in exasperation. "This truck is for engineers and big officers," he said, "it's not for a man who has to labor to earn his living."

Bashir intends to go into the carting business with his truck—but he will also keep his camel. The camel cart hauls more. Such a "fleet" will make him a real entrepreneur in the eyes of his Pakistani neighbors.

Until recently, Bashir had no idea of what an education could do for a man. His philosophy was that of millions of other Pakistanis—that it was "not his lot" to be schooled. It's good fortune to be educated, but if you're not, you're not.

Bashir's visit to America changed this view. "I wanted to earn enough to keep my family happy, but I see now that it is not enough. I am a camel driver because I have no education. I use my hands, but now I want my sons to be educated in 'Am'rika', so they could earn a living with greater ease and less toil."

Bashir has a more traditional goal for his five-year-old daughter. "In my country it it not necessary for girls to be so learned," he said. "I am sending her to a religious school and I would like her to read and write, but more is not necessary."

Shoes and a Pilgrimage

If Bashir had his own Aladdin's lamp, he couldn't have done as well for himself as he has in the last year. With Vice President Johnson's help he's fulfilled the Moslem's sacred dream of visiting Mecca. His wife and four children now have shoes, American-made clothing and he owns a Polaroid camera, which he doesn't yet know how to use, also a portable transistor radio and a wrist alarm watch. The watch, with the Golden Rule inscribed around the dial, is his most prized possession, because Johnson gave it to him. The Vice President also taught him how to tell time.

When Bashir talks about the watch, he closes his eyes in reverence, and says, "This watch is my heart, it was given to me by a friend."

Bashir also closes his eyes when he talks about "Am'rika" as if to capture the sounds and sights of the admiring crowds, the subways, the friendly faces. "I almost feel like an American," he said proudly. "I was made a citizen of San Antonio and they gave me the keys to all of Kansas City. Your country is first class."

Bashir's children pose all dressed up in their American best outside their hut in Karachi.

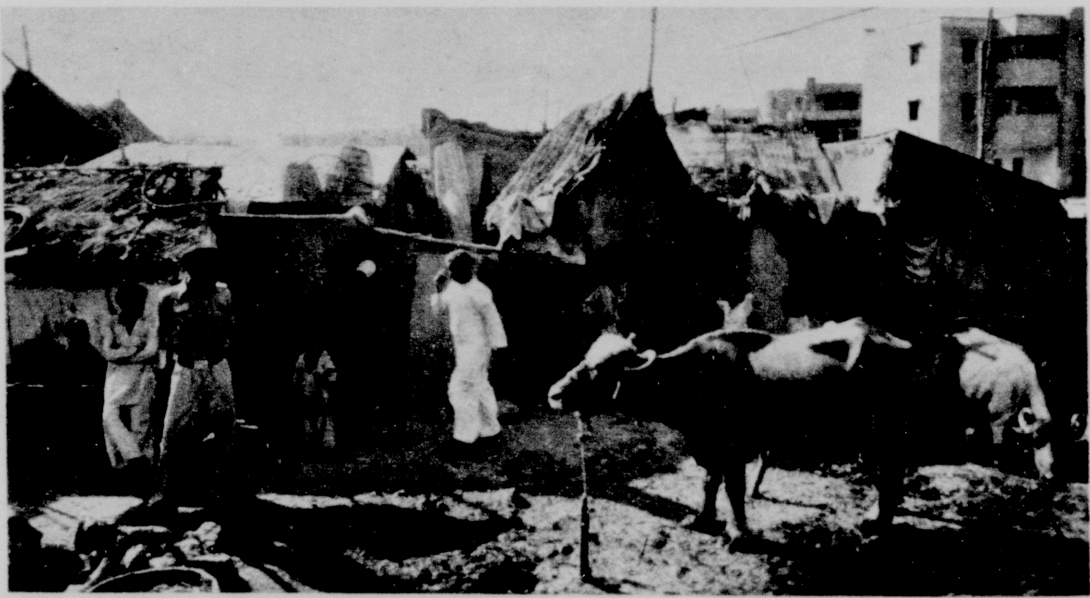
Bashir's immediate neighbors are proud of him. They renamed the little shop in the square "Bashir Chowk". Others are jealous. When Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy rode a camel recently led by Bashir, the whisper was out that Bashir borrowed the camel. Detractors said his camel was "too mangy."

The upper class, which didn't want Bashir to go to the States because they feared he would make a fool of Pakistanis, are still angry that a "nobody" got all this publicity. "Oh, him again," they say.

Everybody Says 'Salaam'

The man in the street, however, takes warm pride in Bashir—loves to hear Bashir's stories of America—and identifies with him. One told me: "He's not my friend, he is not my relative, but I tell you Bashir Ahmed is a good man. Nobody asked his name before he went, now people come to see him. It was time to change his luck. Now when he goes, everybody says 'salaam, salaam'. He no pride man, he simple man."

The account of how the uneducated camel driver was plucked from anonymity to become a friend of a great American named Johnson is the most popular living fairy tale in Pakistan today. As for Bashir himself, his real-life adventure has just begun. ■



Bashir comes home to hut made of burlap and straw, a far cry from luxury he has seen.

'OUR MIRACLE BOY'

Rodney Brodie, born a Siamese twin, made medical history 10 years ago. How is he today?

by SID ROSS and ED KIESTER

Rodney's 'legs,' big brother Steve, carries him to yard. Rodney recently lost his sense of balance, can't walk.

FERRIS, ILL.

TWO LITTLE GIRLS, aged 3 and 4, every day swarm over Rodney Dee Brodie. Their favorite brother is 10 and far bigger than they, but he is never too busy for Julie and Jill. He reads them nursery rhymes or builds with their blocks, and when he finishes they shower him with kisses.

Yet the remarkable thing about Rodney is not that he reads and plays, but that he is alive at all.* As PARADE readers may recall (PARADE, July 26, 1953, We Risked Our Babies' Lives), *the son of Royt and Marjorie Brodie was born a Siamese twin—joined at the head to a brother, Roger Lee. In a history-making operation, the two were separated in 1953, but Roger fell into a coma and never woke up.

Thus, Rodney Brodie is the only known Siamese twin ever to survive such surgery.

Today Rodney, at 10, is a frail, friendly boy, loved by his family and popular with playmates. In many ways, his life is not too different from that of any other 10-year-old. He reads and writes and loves to draw. He attends "school"—a teacher comes to his house every day and he greets her with his favorite song, a quavering Good Morning, Dear Teacher. He watches TV a lot and he peppers strangers with questions—"Do you go to school?" . . . "What do you do?" . . . "What do your mother and father do?"

Of course, Rod has had to be a "fighter" since the day he was born. His history is one of setback and gain. Recently, for instance, he unaccountably lost his sense of balance and now cannot walk unaided. Bone grafts in his skull never have completely "taken," so that a flap of skin is all that covers the top of his head. He is small for his age and moves slowly, but his dark eyes are alert and intelligent.

Brave Rodney Brodie, 10, attends home classes with teacher Margaret Swain (l.), smiles from family gathering (above). Rodney, a dedicated student, is in his fourth year of school.

Rod spent the first five years of his life in hospitals, with only rare visits home. When he finally came home to stay in August 1956, he had a lot of catching up to do.

"He could tell you how to use a stethoscope or an X-ray machine," Mrs. Brodie says. "But he didn't know the difference between a brother and a sister, a car and a tractor, or an apple and a potato. He'd never had any experience with any of these things and he had to start learning at the age of 5."

He also was starved for companionship, but his seven brothers and sisters immediately provided that in quantity. "We just love Rodney," says Linda, 15. The neighborhood children feel the same way. In summer, the yard of the rambling white house is full of children.

Rodney usually sits in the sandpile or on the swings and watches them. He cannot always keep up with them, but they always include him in their games. They even mock-wrestle with him, being careful not to bump his head.

Rodney and His Friends

Actually, Royt and Marge Brodie wish the other children would be a little less solicitous of Rodney. The children are so eager to be nice that they do many things for him that he could do for himself. "Rodney learned to be dependent in the hospital," his mother says. "We'd like him to be more independent, strike out more for himself."

Rodney doesn't talk too much to the other children. He saves most of his conversation for Jill and Julie and for his favorite playmate, brother Kevin, 7. Rodney's idea of happiness is to sleep with him. Conditioned to early hours in five years of hospitalization, he used to wake up at dawn and then rouse his brother by tickling his feet or blowing in his face. Needless to say, Kevin's feelings did not jibe with Rodney's.

What's an Operation?

Rodney has no clear conception of his past. "I don't 'member the hospital," he told PARADE. "I just 'member being home with my brothers and sisters."

"He never has asked why he can't play like other kids," Marge Brodie says. "All he asks is why he has no hair on the sides of his head. We tell him he had an operation when he was a little boy and won't ever have hair there. He doesn't know what an operation is but it seems to satisfy him."

Rodney, meanwhile, seems a happy boy, looking forward eagerly to school every day, reading his books, thinking about the future. "I don't know if I can play ball when I grow up," he says, "but I would like to drive cars and trucks."

"We'd be lost without Rod," says his mother. "He's one of us, an important member of the family. He's not special—we just let him be Rod, the same as the others are whichever ones they are. We love them all the same."

The whole "miracle" case remains mystifying to doctors, who do not know what to expect from Rodney from one day to the next. For every hurdle Rodney Brodie overcomes makes medical history. ■

CACTUS CURTAIN

MILLIONS upon millions of spiky fingers like those above are the latest barrier between the Communists and the free world. Nicknamed "bayonet grass" or "maya grass," they are now being planted by Cuba's Fidel Castro regime around the 45-mile perimeter of the Guantanamo Bay U.S. naval base in eastern Cuba. American military personnel call them "the Cactus Curtain."

Like Russia's Iron Curtain and Red China's Bamboo Curtain, the 15-foot-deep screen aims more to keep insiders in than outsiders out. The sharp, saw-toothed leaves could inflict a nasty gash on anyone caught in them. Yet rumors are rife that escaping Cubans already know how to come through safely. Whether the curtain is iron, bamboo or cactus, freedom finds a way.

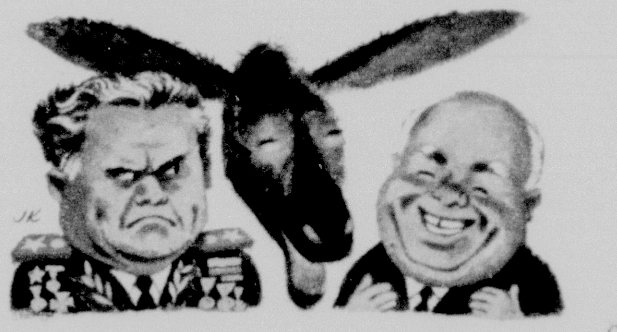
ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK



Soviet Premier Khrushchev once told a joke that laid an egg. It so troubled him that he told Eric Johnston, the American movie mogul, about it months later.

On Khrushchev's visit to Belgrade, he had regaled Yugoslav President Tito with a story about animals who took refuge in the hills to keep away from mankind.

One day, they became bored and decided to find out what was going on in Belgrade. First they sent the dog to reconnoiter. He returned quickly and reported, "They put me on a leash and wouldn't let me bark. It was awful."

Next the cow set off. She also came back mooing with dismay. "Before I got inside the city limits," she said, "they started milking me."

Finally the jackass went down to Belgrade and didn't return for days and days. When he eventually rode up, he was in great spirits, kicking his heels. "Belgrade is great," he said. "They made me President."

Khrushchev laughed uproariously at his own joke, but Tito received it with a glare as cold as a Siberian winter. Relating the incident later to Johnston, Khrushchev confessed mournfully: "I think I hurt Tito's feelings." ■

FOR THE WELCOME TO SAILORS

Navy Gives L.B. Citizens a 21-Gun Salute

The Navy gave Long Beach citizens a 21-gun salute Saturday.

In simple dignified ceremonies aboard the USS Topeka, flagship of Cruiser-Destroyer Flotilla 3, Rear Adm. Draper L. Kauffman, USN, flotilla commander, cited Long Beach and eight individuals for their efforts in making Navy men feel at home here.

Presented with plaques and scrolls were:

Clinton T. Furrer, Chamber of Commerce Armed Services Committee;

George R. Johnson and Kenneth W. McLaren, Navy League officials;

George F. McLean, former director of the Armed Services YMCA;

Robert McNulty, chairman Armed Service Commission, City of Long Beach;

Raul R. Rioth, president, Independent Business Men's Association;

Edwin W. Wade, mayor, City of Long Beach;

Herman H. Ridder, publisher, Independent, Press-Telegram.

The program, started by the flotilla, was designated "Long Beach Appreciation Day."

Speaking on behalf of the 11,300 officers and men of the flotilla and their more than 12,000 dependents, Admiral Kauffman said:

"We in this flotilla can never repay you, never repay your organizations, and never repay the citizens of this fine community, for the welcome you have given us. We can only say thank you from the bottom of our hearts and repeat the theme of our Long Beach Appreciation Day—We Have Never Felt as Strangers Within Your Gates."

Admiral Kauffman said the idea for Long Beach Appreciation Day came about when he was discussing the excellent showing of the men of the flotilla in Long Beach Community Chest contributions.

"It was agreed," said Adm. Kauffman, "that this was not too surprising because of the wonderful reputation Long Beach enjoyed throughout the flotilla as a true home port, a real home away from home—not only for the men themselves, but also for their dependents."

It wasn't always like that, said the admiral.

"Old timers in the Navy told us of the undeclared but virulent war that used to exist between the Navy and the city police force. "... The war between sailor and policeman is, thank heaven, a thing of the past," he said paying tribute to Police Chief William Mooney and former Police Chief William Dovey.

In citing each of the eight men, Admiral Kauffman listed their accomplishments:

FURRER—"We call him 'Mr. Navy' ... Whenever we have any community problem affecting the officers and men of this flotilla or their dependents, we know we can take it to this Committee (the Cham-

First Lady Gets Rid of That Horse

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy has sold the horse that threw her in Viginia's fox hunting country.

Miss Pamela Turnure, press secretary for Mrs. Kennedy, said Saturday that the President's wife no longer has Bit of Irish, the bay hunter that balked at a jump and heaved her over a fence last November.

The horse, which also goes by the name of Canamara Irish, has been bought for Russell M. Arundel, a Virginia sportsman.

Webb Moore, Arundel's farm manager, said he paid "in the neighborhood" of $3,000 for the animal.

Paul R. Fout of The Plains, Va., who who had kept the horse for Mrs. Kennedy, said the well-publicized spill of Mrs. Kennedy had nothing to do with the sale of the horse.

Mosk, Cranston, Betts Endorsed

By BOB HOUSER
I. P-T Political Editor

FRESNO—The California Democratic Council—now officially 71,000 members strong—acclaimed its preprimary endorsement Saturday of incumbents Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, Controller Alan Cranston and Treasurer Bert A. Betts. Gov. Brown and Lt. Gov. Anderson were endorsed Friday.

The endorsements were expected, routine and enthusiastic but lacked the firepower of late evening consideration of two-dozen resolutions and policy statements winnowed down from about 200 presented in committee Friday.

Mosk, in accepting the important political token of the CDC, recognized California's abundances in both good and bad features—more good people and "more socially maladjusted too; more autos and freeways but more accidents on freeways; more children and schools and the need for more teachers; more arid areas and more need for water; more growing cities and more urban problems."

* * * *

HE PLEDGED continued effort to expose frauds, including "those promotions of traveling circuses known as schools of anticommunism. We don't need an Australian (Christian Crusade leader Fred Schwarz) to come to California and tell us how to be better Americans."

Mosk pledged continued cooperation with peace and law-enforcement officers under the constitutions and laws of the state and nation, "but will never join those misguided and uninformed opportunists who say we can have effective law enforcement only by tearing up the Constitution ..."

Moonshot Can Outdo Russ Lunik

GOLDSTONE TRACKING STATION, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists indicated Saturday America's Ranger III, although missing its target of the moon, could possibly get nearer and better pictures of the dark side of the celestial body than Russia's Lunik.

The Soviet Union boasted triumphantly of its spectacular picture-taking of the moon's far side by Lunik II, which the United States has found impossible to do so far.

But U.S. scientists stressed they would not want to make a prediction because "so many" complex factors were involved.

The 727-pound spacecraft was performing all its commands properly and scientists believed orders given early Saturday for a change in course and increased speed would send Ranger III to within 25,000 miles of the moon. This would permit television cameras to take the nearest and possibly best photographs yet of the moon's far side and relay them back to earth.

If all goes as expected, cameras in Ranger III would begin taking pictures of the moon late this morning.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Five members of a Bellflower, Calif., family were injured, four of them critically, Saturday when their car smashed into a light pole in the community of Draper near here.

Reported in critical condition were Lewis Jones, 10043 Walnut St., 46, his wife Neone, 48, and daughters Christine, 11, and Nancy, 21. Another daughter, Marilyn, 15, was admitted to the hospital for observation.

Polio Sufferer Becomes County 'Mother of Year'

By ED KENYON

A San Pedro High School teacher who refused to let a crippling disease ruin her budding career Saturday was named Los Angeles County "Mother of the Year" by the March of Dimes.

But Mrs. Dorothy L. Sanders, 31, of 1860 W. 181st St., has a good example when it comes to displaying pluck. The example: her husband, Ron, 31, whose blindness as the result of a scarlet fever attack at the age of 7 never has stopped him from leading an interesting and active life.

Still, life for the mother of three young children did seem dark on Halloween Day of 1960. That was the day she learned what she thought was an attack of the flu was really polio.

She was stricken just as she was starting her second year as a business teacher at San Pedro High School after a tough struggle to train for teaching.

Mrs. Sanders recalled the darkest day of her life Saturday as she sat in the living room of the family's modern three-bedroom home in North Torrance.

"The Friday before I had struggled to school with what I thought was the flu. I thought if I could finish out the week, I might not have to miss any time," she said.

"Actually I wasn't able to get back to school for a year."

The following Sunday, she wasn't able to get out of bed. The next day she went to Los Angeles General Hospital, then went home after three days. But her case was worse than doctors had believed. She returned several days later to Orthopedic Hospital in Los Angeles, a stay that was to last 71 days.

After her return home she had to make return visits to the hospital for therapy, at first three times a week, then gradually fewer and fewer visits until she finally was told three months later that the rest was up to her.

Mrs. Sanders took up the challenge. Wearing a brace on her right leg and moving around with the aid of crutches, she began the struggle of working her way back

Skiing Crowds Break Records

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — U.S. forest rangers reported that more than 60,000 Southlanders enjoyed the snow Saturday at five major recreation areas in Angeles National Forest.

The crowds reportedly were the largest in years.

The rangers said even more visitors were expected today at the recreation areas—Big Pine, Charlton-Chilao Flats, Mt. Waterman-Kratka Ridge, Mt. Baldy and Crystal Lake. Tire chains were recommended.

OAS Delays Program to Punish Cuba

Go-Easy Nations Fight Eviction of Red Republic

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — The deadlocked inter-American foreign ministers Saturday postponed for two days their deadline for resolutions on how to deal with Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba. The move will carry their conference well into a second week.

The 48-hour extension decision was reached at a meeting of all delegation chiefs who sought desperately to hammer out a formula for punishing Castro that would be satisfactory to all.

But they continued wrangling on how and when to throw the Castro regime out of the councils of the American family of nations.

* * * *

EARLIER the ministers agreed to brand Castro's regime a Western Hemisphere outlaw but this apparently was the only major point approved by all 20 ministers.

Crux of the debate causing the deadlock is a policy declaration sought by the United States and 12 other members reading Cuba out of the Organization of American States.

But a seven-nation go-easy bloc, led by Brazil and Mexico, stubbornly oppose quick action. The seven argue there is now no legal basis in the charter of the Organization of American States for eviction of an offending member.

JFK Approves Orbit Delay But Is Disappointed

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — President Kennedy voiced disappointment Saturday over postponement of America's first manned orbital flight but said space agency officials showed "good judgment" in calling it off.

The chief executive's endorsement of the delaying decision was relayed to newsmen by Associate Press Secretary Andrew T. Hatcher who said Kennedy agreed it was unwise to proceed "unless it was going to be a good test."

Pictures of Astronaut Glenn, Page A-8

"He wants it to be a complete and real test," Hatcher said, "and evidently it wouldn't have been if they had made the test this morning."

* * * *

LIKE MILLIONS OF other Americans the President watched the launching attempt on television while aides kept close touch with launch site by the means of a special telephone connection.

Shortly before 9:10 a.m.—about two minutes before the rest of the world was advised—the President was told that weather conditions had forced a postponement of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight around the earth.

At Cape Canaveral it was announced that Glenn will make another attempt to orbit the planet "not earlier than" next Thursday or Friday.

The new take-off time was announced by the federal space agency soon after Glenn was forced to cancel his flight by heavy clouds that blanketed the tense launch area.

Unable to assure the astronaut the double safety of early stage optical tracking, scientists called off the epochal journey only 18 minutes to firing time. Glenn already

JFK's Candidate in Texas Triumph

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI) — A Kennedy-endorsed Democratic district judge won a sweeping victory Saturday over a conservative Republican businessman in a special runoff congressional election in the Texas 13th District.

The winner, Graham B. Purcell Jr., 42, announced that he will leave for Washington today and expects to be sworn in Monday. He replaces Democrat Frank Ikard, who resigned to become executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute.

Returns from 328 of 343 precincts, including 328 complete, in the 19-county north Texas district gave Purcell 23,820 votes to 14,060 for Joe Meissner, Republican businessman.

"I REGARD my victory as a reflection of the attitude of the voters toward the leadership of President Kennedy and Vice President Johnson," Purcell said.

"The economic situation in the country as compared with a year ago shows the caliber of the leadership of the administration."

But Purcell declined to say whether he will follow the administration line or the Southern Democratic line in Congress. He said he does not plan to "prejudge anything."

"I am not in favor of medical aid under Social Security," he said. Medical aid un-

Site Readied for 21-Story Beach Tower

Another, on Shore of Marina, Will Have 14 Floors

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business, Realty Editor

Plans for construction of two towering beach-front hotels, each costing $6,000,000, were announced here Saturday.

One will provide approximately 350 luxury rooms, suites and apartments with three plush dining areas on an 1,100-foot frontage at the entrance to the Long Beach Marina.

The second will tower 21 stories from beach level, is designed largely for senior citizens and will provide 288 rooms or suites.

* * * *

THESE NEWEST additions to the expanding Long Beach skyline both will be financed by Beverly Hills area investors who already have purchased the land and plan to start construction as soon as possible.

Marina Shores Hotel will be a luxury resort development by Barry H. Taper, who also is to build a 33-story apartment on the beach in the Belmont Shore area. It will be a 14-story hotel with adjacent three-story garden apartments and will be at the end of Appian Way, fronting on the channel and entrance to the Marina.

Pacific Holiday Towers, 1900 E. Ocean Blvd., probably will be the first to get construction started of the several recently announced high-level building projects.

Vincent Sherman, film director for 20th Century-Fox and two Beverly Hills contractors, Myron Bayer and Herb Klein will build Pacific Holiday Towers, designed for senior citizens as part of the Federal Housing Administration program.

* * * *

THE DEVELOPERS already have expended in excess of $400,000 to purchase the site, clear it and to make deep soil tests.

There will be 17 stories of the hotel rental rooms and suites above Ocean Blvd., and four stories in the bluff.

Details of both hotel projects and artists' renderings will be found on page R-1.

L.A.C. Says:

Who Me? They Say

Attorney General Stanley Mosk condemns 55 mayors in the San Francisco Bay area for endorsing the Christian Anti-Communist School to be opened in Oakland this week. At the same meeting another speaker said: "There are better ways of fighting communism than by oratory of right-wing radical extremists." The school referred to is to be the same as the one conducted in the L. A. Sports Arena a few months ago. It is not the Birch Society and in our opinion far from being a radical organization. It teaches a brand of Americanism we all can use.

We agree there are better ways of fighting communism than by oratory or right-wing extremists. But these left-wing members of the governor's cabinet and their state organization, the California Democratic Council, have shown little activity in this respect in the past. All of a sudden they cry out against radicals of either right or left. But in the past they have supported many of the measures the conservatives of both parties consider radically left-wing. They are indignant when charged with this and say, "Who, me? You are a radical to make such an inference."

Two years ago at its Fresno meeting the CDC adopted resolutions which Mr. Mosk, Gov. Brown and his party endorsed. They may not seem radical to some people, but they are to us much more radical than the Americanism proclaimed at the Anti-Communist School. They are issues on which the two groups are opposed. For our part, we stand with the group that opposes the California Democratic Council program—some of the points being as follows:

"The House Committe on Un-American Activities should be abolished."

"All state and federal non-disloyalty oaths should be abolished, including the oath provisions of the National Defense Education Act, as being inconsistent with the principals of American freedom and useless as well."

"Police powers should not be extended and individual rights infringed even in narcotic cases."

"Capital punishment should be abolished."

"We specifically encourage the formation of more consumer cooperatives and we call on Democrats to use the ones that exist."

"Consider the needs of the people of a given country and not the character of its government as the primary test in granting aid."

"American economic problems cannot be brushed aside by such platitudes as 'balancing the budget or holding the line on wages'."

This writer considers many of the CDC proclamations as being extremely left-wing. We recognize the right of the organization and the Democratic officeholders to support it. But it seems to us they have little reason for being so indignant over the statements and speakers who oppose these programs. We do not suggest the CDC program is communistic—but it certainly encourages the left-wing elements that are subversive.

Like most so-called "liberals," they can hand it out—but they can't take it. Now they are forced to take it and charge their opposition with right-wing radicalism. But who among them have openly opposed any of the CDC programs shown in its 1960 policy statements?

These are issues it is apparent the Democratic candidates would like to avoid. But when Mr. Mosk and his fellow candidates call all anti-Communists radicals—they should ask themselves—what have we done to openly oppose radicalism of the left-wingers.

told the 4,000 convention delegates the "talented team" elected to head state government in 1958 has kept its commitments and has achieved progress with fiscal responsibility.

He said the controller's office has become active in new areas of endeavor including civil rights and education. New safeguards protecting information on taxpayer returns is an innovation of his regime, Cranston said.

* * * *

BETTS SAID his initiation of an orderly, flexible policy on the sale of state bonds has saved tens of millions of dollars for taxpayers and has restored to the state a competitive bond-sales situation "lacking for many, many years."

Official membership figures, announced by Ben Held, of Los Angeles, put the state CDC membership at 71,000 among 735 clubs as of last Dec. 31.

Region 2, Los Angeles County's 15 congressional districts, and the 13th District of Santa Barbara and Ventura counties increased clubs by 20 per cent (to 290), and membership by 29 per cent to 30,000.

* * * *

UNDERSECRETARY of the Interior James K. Carr, of California, substituting for the absent U. S. Treasurer Elizabeth Rudel Smith, spoke generally on conservation, warning that "what we save in the sixties for future generations may be all that we will save."

* * * *

PRESIDENTIAL aide Ted Sorenson, often a Kennedy phrase-maker, delivered a volley of his own Saturday. The phrases had the same ring as those his boss uses and, in most cases, were as effective with the liberal-oriented CDC.

Sorenson touched a sensitive CDC nerve and drew a scattering of boos at one point however, when he said "our defense budget for this year includes, for the first time, a program for fallout shelters."

He recovered the crowd's applause and esteem directly afterwards as he continued:

"The President has no illusions about that program. He does not believe it will either prevent or provoke any attack, and neither strengthens nor weakens our national will or our deterrent force. It will not save everyone from fallout or anyone from blast.

* * * *

"IT IS NOT a substitute for our efforts to achieve peace. Nor are they (efforts) a substitute for shelters. In the history of this country there has never been anything cowardly about community efforts to save our families from Indians, floods, fires or fallout.

"No president responsible for the lives of 175 million people could fail to take out this minimum insurance."

State Sen. Richard Richards made an unscheduled speech on fallout shelters at a floor caucus requested by the two-month-old Committee of 1,000 for Peace. The committee was formed before Richards' announcement for U. S. Senate and was designed to secure a "peace" candidate for that office.

Endorsement of Richards is scheduled for today's closing session of the CDC, whose official convention attendance was announced as 2,366.

* * * *

U. S. SEN. Clair Engle, scheduled to do the nominating honors for Richards, called for a fighting campaign in a Saturday address, saying, "We have Dick Nixon on the other side, and I say to you that we've owed him a beating for a long time."

Saturday endorsement activity included uncontested acceptance of four Democratic incumbents on the State Board of Equalization—Richard Nevins, George Reilly, John W. Lynch and Paul Leake.

Only apparent contest in store is today's three-way race for the endorsement for secretary of state.

TEXAS IS entitled to 22 members in the House of Representatives. It started this session of Congress two short. Purcell's election will raise the delegation to 21.

The second vacancy—left by the death of Sam Rayburn—will be filled Tuesday in a runoff between two Democrats in the 4th District. It adjoins the 13th District.

President Kennedy endorsed Purcell Wednesday in a telegram which said "The nation needs the kind of representation you can furnish in Congress."

WICHITA FALLS is the home town of Republican U.S. Sen. John G. Tower. Tower had not campaigned extensively for Meissner, though Republicans are in the midst of a campaign to make Texas a "real two-party state."

Meissner emphasized his conservatism over his party affiliation and charged Purcell turned down four offers to debate him on television.

After Kennedy endorsed Purcell, Meissner challenged Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to debate. Neither replied.

Purcell is a district judge and a horseman. During World War II he was a member of the Ninth Cavalry, commanded by Henry Cabot Lodge, who was the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1960.

The first special election in the 13th District was Dec. 16. It eliminated three Democrats and left Purcell and Meissner in a runoff.

Khrushchev's Son-in-Law Calls Americans Greedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alexei Adzhubei, son-in-law of Soviet Premier Khrushchev, managed to stir up a ripple of annoyance in official Washington Saturday, three days before his luncheon with President Kennedy.

ALEXEI ADZHUBEI
Known to Be Outspoken

The editor of Izvestia, who recently interviewed Kennedy, is on a Western Hemisphere trip with his wife, Rada.

Reports from Mexico City said that when Adzhubei arrived there Thursday, he made a statement to the Mexican press to the effect that he knew and liked Americans but has found them to be greedy people who have everything.

Furthermore, according to reports sent back to Washington, Adzhubei said the United States had obtained its wealth at the expense of Latin America. For example, he said, Mexico had lost Texas to the United States just as Russia had lost Alaska.

Like his father-in-law, Adzhubei has a reputation for being outspoken. When he interviewed Kennedy late last year, he spent more time making statements on Soviet policy and criticizing U.S. policy than he did in asking questions. Kennedy welcomed the interview, however, because it was to be published in Izvestia, giving the President an unprecedented opportunity to put across his views to Russian readers.

Officials said the President is glad of an opportunity to talk with Adzhubei next Tuesday because it gives him a chance, as one informant said, to "state some plain facts in plain words" with the thought that Adzhubei will report the conversation to Khrushchev.

Adzhubei might also throw some light on the disappearance of former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, but diplomatic officials did not hold much hope on this point.

They said, however, that Adzhubei's trip, like Saturday's news of the obliteration of Molotov's name from towns, streets and buildings, is new evidence of Khrushchev's pre-eminent power in the Soviet ruling group.

Senate Unit Eyes JFK-Ike Conflict

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Apparent conflict between statements of President Kennedy and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower on one aspect of the alleged military "muzzling" controversy was under quiet scrutiny Saturday by a special Senate subcommittee.

Involved was the question of the basic authority under which military officers and military facilities have been used to alert the public to the menace of communism. Such activity by military officers is one of the issues being looked into by the subcommittee headed by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss.

• • • •

IN A STATEMENT issued Saturday night, Stennis announced that the group will resume hearings Tuesday morning. Chiefs of staff of the Army, Navy and Air Force will be heard.

Also to be called are the assistant secretaries of state and defense for public affairs, Roger Tubby and Arthur G. Sylvester, and their aides. Their testimony, however, will involve "close examination" of present speech clearance procedures and not the question of military participation in educating the public to communism's threat.

President Kennedy was asked about congressional controversy over the role of military officers in public education at an Aug. 10 news conference. He said some of it "arose because of an N.S.C. (National Security Council) decision in 1958 which placed special responsibilities on them . . ."

But in a letter read to the subcommittee last week, Eisenhower said that while he feels the efforts by military officers are "desirable," it is an "error" to say they stem from a national security directive.

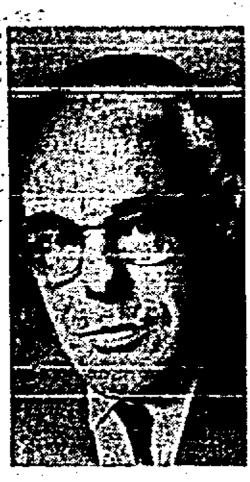
He wrote that "to the best of my recollection there is no national security document specifically directing military involvement in the internal problem, and unless material has been taken out of context, or general language interpreted very loosely, I think there is no basis for these assertions involving the national security."

• • • •

THE COUNCIL is the top-level advisory group which confers with the President in the formation of national security policy.

Its deliberations and directives are seldom publicized but the apparent conflict between the two presidents involves a pertinent point in the subcommittee's inquiry."

"We are looking into it," Stennis said Saturday.



ROGER TUBBY
Reassigned to Geneva

Rusk Aide to Become an Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department Saturday disclosed that Roger Tubby, assistant secretary for public affairs, is being appointed U.S. representative to the U.N. office in Geneva. He will have the personal rank of ambassador.

The announcement was made by George W. Ball, acting secretary in the absence of Staff Secretary Dean Rusk, who is at the hemisphere foreign ministers meeting in Uruguay.

• • • •

THERE HAVE been reports here for the last week that Tubby, 51, would be given a new assignment. Among various reported reasons for the change, it was said that Rusk and Tubby never had established a close working relationship.

Officals said Tubby's successor has not been designated. Speculation centered on Robert J. Manning, who resigned last December as Sunday editor of the New York Herald Tribune.

Manning, 42, is a native of Binghamton, N.Y. Among the news jobs he has held are Sate Department and White House correspondent for United Press and its chief correspondent at the United Nations. He also was a senior editor of Time magazine, chief of the Time-Life-Fortune London bureau, and worked at one time for the Associated Press.

As chief of public affairs in the State Department, Tubby has been known to newsmen as a persistent advocate of a policy of maximum disclosure of information about international relations and diplomatic developments.

• • • •

AS WITH his predecessors, persons familiar with his work said, this has brought him into some conflict with the traditional preference of diplomats for secrecy, especially on matters under negotiation.

Tubby is a former White House press secretary, having held that position in the closing months of the Truman administration in 1952. Earlier he held information positions with a number of government agencies, including five years in the State Department press office.

The State Department said Tubby will remain in the position of assistant secretary for public affairs for several weeks before taking on his new assignment. At Geneva he will replace Ambassador Graham Martin, 49, who will be assigned to the staff of Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary for international organization affairs, pending reassignment abroad.

2 Demos in Mayor Bid Runoff

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—State Sen. Adrian Duplantier, making his first bid for the mayor's office, and Mayor Victor H. Schiro topped a nine-man field Saturday and headed into a runoff.

Returns from 349 of the city's 351 precincts gave the 33-year-old Duplantier 56,421 while the 58-year-old Schiro attracted 52,217.

Duplantier ran with the backing of former mayor—and now OAS Ambassador DeLesseps Morrison — and promised the city a bright new future. Schiro, who took over when Morrison resigned last year, ran on a platform of experience in city government and segregation.

• • • •

THE TWO easily whipped a field that included City Councilman James A. Comiskey, who had the backing of an organization that opposed Morrison during his four terms as mayor. The 36-year-old Comiskey pulled 37,418, which many observers believed fell far short of preelection expectations.

City Councilman Paul V. Burkew as fourth with 18,852 votes.

The runoff between Duplantier and Schiro will be held March 3 with the winner to meet the Republican nominee.

Others in Saturday's Democratic primary — which is equal to election in New Orleans — included segregationist Roswell Thompson 737; painter Anthony Deckelmann 493; automobile dealer Frank Berg 399; butcher Joseph Janusa 195; and publicist Allen Lacombe 126.

NO 'STORE' CHICKEN

Attorney General Chef for Teeners

By JACK VANDENBERG

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy personally barbecued hamburgers and hot dogs in his office fireplace Saturday for about 80 teen-agers.

The President's brother invited 125 children of cabinet members, members of the House of Representatives, and heads of independent agencies to tour the FBI and have an informal picnic in his office.

About 80 youngsters who received personally addressed invitations showed up.

Kennedy said he plans to invite children of senators and of others in the executive branch later.

• • • •

THE IDEA WAS SOLELY that of the attorney general, but his wife, his staff and wives of the staff all pitched in to make it a success. Kennedy and staff dug into their own pockets to pay the tab.

The hamburgers and weiners almost were eliminated from the menu, which also included fried chicken, potato salad, beans, ice cream, milk, and punch.

William A. Geoghegan, assistant attorney general, who was in charge of the arrangements, thought there might be some objections to cooking in the attorney general's office. He wanted to limit the menu to pre-fried chicken.

Reluctantly, the attorney general, who likes to cook, agreed at first. He sent a memo to Geoghegan to order the chicken.

But the 36-year-old Kennedy changed his mind.

• • • •

"YOU'RE GETTING OLD and crotchety," he told the 37-year-old Geoghegan in reversing his decision. "We will not get to the moon first with this attitude."

While the youngsters squatted on the floor or lounged on desks or in chairs, Geoghegan pitched in to help Kennedy with the barbecue.

Before entering Kennedy's office, the teen-agers spent an hour in the office of Assistant Atty. Gen. Byron (Whizzer) White, who talked to them about juvenile delinquency problems and the FBI.

While they waited for the hamburgers, which had just begun to cook when they entered the attorney general's office, Kennedy spoke to the group about the importance of maintaining interest in politics.

President Appointed on College Testing

IOWA CITY (AP)—Paul J. Trump, director of admissions and registrar of the University of Wisconsin, was named president of the American College Testing Program.

The board of directors also announced the election of Ralph W. Tyler as a director of the program. He is the director of the center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Sciences at Stanford University.

France Acts to Patch Up Monaco Row

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle summoned Monaco's French minister of state to the Elysee Palace Saturday to try to end a sudden tempest in the teapot-sized state.

The dispute centered on the efforts by Prince Rainier, ruler of Monaco and husband of Grace Kelly, to fire Emile Pelletier, the Frenchman who is Monaco's minister of state.

De Gaulle met with Pelletier to hear his account of the squabble and then met with Premiere Michel Debre to try to decide what to do next.

• • • •

HERE IS the background: A French-Monaco treaty signed 35 years ago turned Monaco's foreign affairs and customs over to France. In return, Monaco agreed to accept a Frenchman as its minister of state.

In 1959 Rainier picked Pelletier as the new minister. The two were reported to have feuded over Monaco's state bank. The bank went into liquidation a few years back and sold shares it owned in a Monaco-based radio station. France bought 30,000 shares.

• • • •

THE BANK is now solvent and Rainier wants the shares back, it was understood here. French sources said Pelletier hastily approved the deal, then realized what France would lose and tried to persuade Rainier to withdraw his request.

Rainier refused and, according to one Paris newspaper, the two had "a very violent argument" which ended with Rainier withdrawing Pelletier's credentials.

Rule Muslims Can Practice in Cal. Prisons

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Court of Appeals has ruled that prisoners who are members of the anti-white Muslim cult must be allowed to practice their religion in the prisons of the state.

The state's highest court held that members of the cult were entitled to the same considerations given members of other sects.

The State Correction Department has said the Muslims advocate supremacy over white persons and that members of the cult among the prison population had been trying to recruit other Negro convicts.

Sheep Rustlers Halve Flock

AUBURN, Calif. (AP) — Rancher Edward A. Marshall thought his flock of 2,000 sheep appeared smaller.

It was.

He counted and found 496 ewes and 634 lambs missing. He valued them at $10,000.

He told the sheriff's office about it Saturday and said he suspected rustlers.

Cards, Clocks, Films Aid Language Program

Students Look Forward to 'Late' Spanish Classes

By ROBERT WILCOX
Education Editor

Staying after school has changed from a threat to a promise for more than 200 youthful Long Beach students.

When the closing-bell rings on two days a week, the sixth-grade pupils assemble for a half-hour of instruction in Spanish.

Thirty-five in number at each of six selected schools, the pupils are the first in the history of the Long Beach Unified School District to receive language instruction at the elementary school level.

When the pilot program started last September, school officials were fearful at first of not filling the classrooms.

After 140 pupils volunteered for the 35-member-capacity class at a single school the worries were dispelled. Today all classes are full, and the district hopes to add the subject at six more grade schools next fall.

Like the remainder of the system's booming language program, the sixth-grade instruction is "wired for sound." There is no textbook, no reading or writing.

"The emphasis today is on learning to speak and understand a language," said Dr. Jack Rhodes, foreign languages supervisor. "The first reading for the present grade school pupils will be introduced about half-way through their next year."

Rhodes said Spanish was chosen for the pilot program over French and German because the ratio of high school students taking Spanish is about 2-1 over a second choice.

The schools selected — Muir, Longfellow, Twain, Keller, Prisk and Lowell — were picked, said Rhodes, for their widespread geographical location as well as for their nearness to junior high schools which supply most of the teachers.

The pilot sixth-grade program is only part of a district-wide emphasis on languages which has seen an increase of 51 per cent in high school and junior high school enrollment in the past five years. The increase in students continuing in the third and fourth year of the same language during the period was 625 per cent.

Several factors, including over-all grades, were considered in choosing pupils for the special sixth grade program, which is conducted on Mondays and Wednesdays. The parents were told they would have to provide 4 p.m. transportation.

The district has no seventh-grade language instruction, but plans to add special classes so its youngest linguists can continue next year.

Rhodes cited impressive evidence of "sustained interest" on the part of the pupils in the voluntary, extra-hours program. "Dropouts in the six classes have ranged from none to two," he declared.

Polio Victim Is Named 'Mother of Year' to life of a normal mother of three youngsters.

Both legs and her left arm had been affected by the attack. She put them all to use — oil painting, making a model boat for her young son, gardening, helping her husband build a back yard patio.

Last fall she returned to school without her brace, a necessity under Los Angeles City Schools regulations. Going up stairs was difficult because she is unable to raise her left leg without support.

"The youngsters and the other teachers were wonderful, though, during my illness and after I returned to school," she says.

Apparently, the affection is mutual. Mrs. Sanders reached a milestone in her comeback only last Friday when she participated in graduation exercises at the high school as sponsor of the winter graduating class.

It was a satisfying moment for Mrs. Sanders, who had returned to school for her teaching credentials in 1958 after being laid off at Douglas Aircraft Co.'s Torrance plant, where her husband is in charge of the public address system.

The couple had literally "fallen in love" when both were sophomores at UCLA and the sightless Ron had tripped over Dorothy's feet in class one day.

"I remember reading about last year's Mother of the Year. I'm afraid mine isn't as good a story for the March of Dimes to use in their fund drive. After all, I've had things pretty easy."

Atomic Weight Figures Revised

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—Iowa State University chemists said Saturday they have made more precise atomic-weight measurements for nitrogen and chromium. The previous weights for the two elements had been in use more than 25 years.

Chemists Harry J. Svec, Gregor Junk, Gerald Flesch and H. G. Staley, using a mass spectrometer, improved nitrogen measurements from 1 part in 14,000 to 1 part in 140,000 and chromium measurements from 1 part in 5,000 to 1 part in 100,000.

80,000 to End Extended Duty

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 80,000 men will be affected by the Army's plans to release by July 1 regular Army personnel whose tours of service were extended by Congress last September, a military spokesman said Saturday.

The plans were revealed Friday by two members of the Senate Armed Services Committee after they heard testimony from Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. at a closed session. An Army spokesman said about 4,700 officers on extended duty also will be released by July 1 or soon after.

Police Study Luciano Links

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Italian narcotics investigators studied Saturday every possible link the international underworld may have had with the late Charles (Lucky) Luciano since his 1946 deportation here.

MARTIN GOSCH
Questioned 5 Hours

An autopsy is to be performed on the 64-year-old New York vice king, fatally stricken Friday night at Naples' Capodichino Airport. Luciano had just met American Producer Martin Gosch, arriving for final talks on a movie about his life, when he collapsed of an apparent heart attack and died.

Police here had kept their eye on Luciano since he was deported from the United States, nearly 16 years ago. But their surveillance intensified after a $150 million narcotics ring was smashed in the United States last year. A U.S. Narcotics Bureau official indicated in Washington, after getting word of Luciano's death, that his arrest in Naples had been imminent.

Gosch lives in Madrid, where three fugitives facing U.S. narcotics charges were arrested just four days ago. They are Frank Caruso, 50, Vincent Mauro, 45, and Salvatore Maneri, 49. Italian authorities said Caruso and Mauro were known associates of Luciano. Police questioned Gosch for five hours and then released him.

Bev Aadland in Booze Hassle

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Beverly Aadland, 19, former playmate of the late Errol Flynn, kept police busy in the early hours Saturday because of two drinks. One she poured, the other was poured for her.

The first incident took place around midnight in a night club where Miss Aadland has a singing engagement. She said a male customer irritated her when he made "disparaging remarks" about Flynn. So she poured a drink on his head. He began chasing her. Somebody called police, who settled the matter peacefully.

Beverly

Four hours later three officers walked into a speakeasy, operating after closing hours. Half a dozen persons were drinking.

There was Beverly with a drink in her hand. "Somebody gave me the drink," she insisted.

Police questioned her four hours and said her statement would be used as the basis of filing a complaint against the two men who operate the speakeasy.

Singer's Son Held in Assaults

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The 16-year-old son of singer Billy Daniels is under investigation in connection with attempted assaults on women and a series of car thefts.

Bruce Francis Daniels, arrested Jan. 20 and booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit rape and grand theft auto, was released to his father pending outcome of the investigation by sheriff's officers, police and probation officials. Sheriff's Sgt. Jesse Levy said Saturday the boy confessed the attacks.

Kills Self After Fatal Fight

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—A 26-year-old Arkansas State College student shot himself to death in a sheriff's car Saturday after being questioned about a fight Friday night in which a former student was fatally injured.

Morici

Rocco Morici of Ozone Park, New York, a lineman on the college freshman football team last season, ripped open a locked glove compartment, grabbed a .38-caliber revolver, and shot himself in the head.

Morici had been questioned in the death of Ronald Ingram, 19, of Jonesboro, a minister's son who dropped out of school last year. Ingram suffered a head injury in a brief altercation on the college campus.

Molotov Name to be Erased

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Supreme Soviet has decreed the name of diehard Stalinist Vyacheslav M. Molotov be erased from all geographical places and public landmarks throughout the Soviet Union, it was announced Saturday.

Also ordered erased were the names of the other members of the so-called "anti-party" Stalinist faction—ex-Premier Georgi Malenkov, ex-President Klement Voroshilov and former Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich.

8 DAYS IN SNOW 'EASY'

'Indoorsman' Wins Bet

CLARE, Mich. (AP) — Indoorsman Tony Wedal sauntered out of a snowbound central Michigan forest Saturday and proclaimed his eight days of self-imposed outdoor exile on the shore of a frozen lake were "surprisingly easy."

The 33-year-old Clare County probation officer emerged from the woods at 1 p.m. (EST) and was met by some of the 15 friends who had wagered $10 each he couldn't survive on his own there in wintry weather for eight days and nights.

* * * *

"I CERTAINLY was glad to see him return," said his wife, Sandra. "I think he's happy to be home."

The first thing Wedal did after arriving at his Clare home was take a bath. Then, he said he was looking forward to a home-cooked meal.

Wedal said he had lost five pounds since embarking on his adventure last Friday and was down to 190. His only supplies were what he could carry on his back three-quarters of a mile.

"I had more than I needed. I imagine I took in twice as much food as was necessary," Wedal said, adding:

"I think the next time I'm going to take in a lot less equipment."

* * * *

HE DECLINED to say when the "next time" would be, but volunteered that he wasn't planning any more eight-day campouts in the near future.

"It will just be overnight."

Wedal said he got along amazingly well for a man who had no camping experience and listened to modern jazz and read for relaxation, instead of hunting or fishing. Before leaving last week, he admitted that "whenever the temperature gets below 70 degrees in my house, I go to bed."

EIGHT DAYS in the woods ended for Tony Wedal Saturday at Clare, Mich. Wife, Sandra, greets Tony.

Red Sky Spy Transferred to Bari Jail

BARI, Italy (UPI)—Police Saturday transferred Bulgarian spy-pilot Milusc Solakov to a local jail where he probably will be held until official charges of spying are filed against him.

Solakov, 22-year-old air force 2nd lieutenant, was carried under guard from a hospital at nearby Acquaviva, where his Soviet-designed MIG17 jet fighter plane crashed a week ago a few hundred yards from a secret NATO missile base.

A high Italian government source said Friday that Solakov would be tried for espionage by a civil court, probably in Rome, with a possible entence of 15 to 30 years imprisonment.

It was believed that formal charges would be placed against Solavak soon. Guns and aerial photograpic equipment were found in the wreckage of his plane.

Funds for Research on Oil Shale Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bureau of Mines is asking money to step up its research in production of oil from shale.

President Kennedy's budget for the year starting July 1 calls for an appropriation of $3,450,000 for the research program. For the current year Congress allowed $3,271,000.

The research is being carried out largely in the bureau's laboratory at Laramie, Wyo. A plant at Rifle, Colo., is in standby status.

PCH Traffic Halted by Gas-Line Break

PACIFIC PALISADES (CNS)—Traffic was halted on Pacific Coast Highway between Sunset and Topanga Canyon boulevards Saturday from 9:35 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. due to a ruptured natural gas line.

Southbound traffic was diverted through Topanga Canyon Boulevard and northbound vehicles through Sunset Boulevard.

Southern Counties Gas Co. reported the break in the six-inch line, which serves nearly 1,500 families in the Malibu area, was repaired at 1:30 p.m., four hours after the rupture, which occurred 800 yards east of Topanga Canyon.

The company at first reported it had shut off the line, but later it said it was able to repair the damage without cutting off service.

The rupture occurred when the pipe sagged into a dirt trench dug for a water trench next to a gas line.

Because of danger of an explosion, the highway was closed during the repair.

Outdoor Program Drafted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration is drafting what informed sources described Saturday as the largest and most ambitious conservation program ever proposed by a president.

Emphasis will be on recreational facilities, the sources said.

President Kennedy is expected to give Congress the blueprint in a special message Feb. 21, but the details still are being worked out. Current thinking was described as contemplating that the expansion would be financed largely from new revenue sources, on pretty much a pay-as-you-go basis, due to the budget pinch.

* * * *

KENNEDY SAID in his budget message last week "one of our most pressing problems is the adequate provision of outdoor recreational facilities to meet the needs of our expanding population."

The program will be based at least in part on the comprehensive report compiled by the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission headed by Laurence Rockefeller after a three-year study Kennedy has described as one of the first of its kind. The President announced Friday that this study will be made public next Wednesday.

L.B. in Open Door Personnel Policy

By GEORGE WEEKS

Long Beach city management has introduced a new "open door" policy in personnel relations—so far with only moderate success.

At the first of a series of meetings with representatives of all major employe groups, City Manager John R. Mansell declared last week there will be no secrets in his drafting of recommendations for salary adjustments and other employe benefits.

Specifically, Mansell announced he will make available to the employe organizations the results of a comparative salary survey as soon as it is completed by his staff about April 1.

In past years the secrecy surrounding such surveys, until they were filed with the City Council in connection with the annual budget, had been a sore point with employes.

JOHN R. MANSELL
Announces New Policy

* * * *

"WE PLAN general discussions with you as we go along," Mansell told the 22 spokesmen for six associations of workers.

Although that announcement was well received, it developed soon afterward that one purpose of the new policy—to minimize last-minute salary appeals at City Council budget sessions—is a long way from realization.

Representatives of three groups—police, firemen and lifeguards—took exception to an announcement by Barney J. Walczak, personnel director, that the city will continue to base its salary surveys on the same public jurisdictions covered in the past.

These are the City and County of Los Angeles, Long Beach Unified School District, Santa Monica, Pasadena, Burbank, Glendale and San Diego. Figures derived from these agencies are generally used as one base for salary recommendations.

* * * *

THE THREE objectors argued that a better base would be one limited to Los Angeles City and County.

And Paul M. Marcus, general manager of the largest group, the City Employes Association, preferred an annual survey of pay scales in private employment in the Los Angeles area.

The only defense of the present survey system came from Harold C. Levy, representing the Municipal Engineering Association.

"It's worth $50 a month not to have to go to Los Angeles to work," he said.

Levy and others, however, objected to the city's policy of granting raises for only a portion of each fiscal year—usually effective Sept. 1 or Oct. 1 instead of July 1.

* * * *

MANSELL said he will compile information on prevailing wages in private industry and also will consider changing the wage-raise date. But management refused to yield on the established method of making the main salary survey.

The city manager announced that his staff will prepare specifications soon for a new contract to provide hospital and medical insurance for employes and their families. Employe groups will be consulted in this field also, he said.

Main complaints voiced by the workers were that it is difficult to find out exactly what coverage they have under the present policy and that the insurer does not intercede on their behalf to protest allegedly excessive bills.

Bids for the contract are expected to be received in June. Prudential Insurance Co. has had the contract since the policy went into effect in May, 1959. The city pays premiums for employes and the latter pay for sections of the policy covering dependents.

3 LBCC Sections Set Registration

Spring semester registration opens Monday for day and evening classes in all three divisions of Long Beach City College.

As previously announced, all students not in attendance during the fall term are required to fill out statements on polio immunization. The new state law does not make immunization mandatory but does require each student to supply information on the number of polio shots received.

Class instruction also begins Monday at the Business and Technology and General Adult divisions. Classes start Wednesday at the Liberal Arts Division.

At the Business and Technology Division, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., preregistered day students will go directly to classes and new day students will enroll in the gymnasium. Evening students will enroll in classes at the first scheduled meeting.

* * * *

GENERAL ADULT Division students will report directly to classrooms for enrollment in both day and evening courses at Polytechnic, Wilson, Jordan, Millikan, Lakewood and West adult centers and other locations in the school district.

At the Liberal Arts Division, 4901 E. Carson St., preregistered day students will report Monday to the cafeteria according to an alphabetical schedule. New day students will be enrolled Tuesday, by appointment, in the women's gymnasium. New evening students will register in the gymnasium from 6-9:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

Hall of Records Phone Tie-in Scheduled

By DON BRACKENBURY
IPT Los Angeles Bureau

The largest tandem dialing system in the world picks up another 750 stations next month when the Hall of Records in Los Angeles will be tied in to Los Angeles County's telephone system.

County government buildings in Los Angeles are served by 11 major switchboards, having a total of approximately 8,875 stations.

When the Hall of Records is added, during the weekend of Feb. 10-12, any county telephone extension can be dialed directly by any other county station.

* * * *

THIS DIRECT dialing system is known officially as tandem dialing. It was explained by John Crosby, chief telephone engineer for the county.

"No other place in the world, to my knowledge, has such an extensive system," he said.

Each of the telephone extensions has a five-digit number, and so the system also is known as five-digit dialing.

First county building to institute the five-digit dialing system was the courthouse, on Jan. 2, 1959.

* * * *

CROSBY EXPLAINED that, although it might appear that the simplest system would be to have one telephone number for county government with extensions to all branches, this is not practical.

Such a system would be inefficient and the cost would be prohibitive, Crosby explained.

Further, a disaster could knock out one main cable or the main switchboard — if such a system was used — and put the entire county government communication system out of service. Dispersal of communications thus is a safety precaution as well, he said.

The Hall of Justice telephone switchboard, which serves the sheriff's office, district attorney and county coroner, is open 24 hours a day. It is the nearest thing to a single Los Angeles County telephone number.

After other switchboards are closed at night or on holidays, operators at the Hall of Justice switchboard are tied in to the entire five-digit system so they can transfer a call to any county extension.

* * * *

THE MADISON 8-9211 switchboard has been in existence since 1925. The MAdison 8-9211 number was the first county number.

MISSILE WATCHING DRAWS OVERFLOW CROWD
Bird watchers jammed the beaches at Cocoa Beach, Fla., near Cape Canaveral, as launch time neared in an attempt to rocket astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. into orbit. Missile gantries at the Cape can be seen in the background. The crowd went home disappointed when the launch was postponed.

JFK Disappointed by Orbit Try Delay

had spent 5 hours and 15 minutes strapped in his cramped capsule.

Project Mercury officials lost a gamble with time. Aware that bad weather was forecast for about noon, they pressed ahead with their countdown and "the weather deteriorated before we could catch up." The clouds swept across the Atlantic ahead of schedule.

"I guess, maybe we are eternal optimists," said astronaut spokeman Lt. Col. John (Shorty) Powers when asked why the countdown was permitted to continue until 18 minutes before launch.

The thin-haired, freckle-faced astronaut emerged from his capsule atop the towering Atlas rocket with a shrug for his bad luck with the weather.

"Well, there'll be another day," he said.

The 40-year-old spaceman, oldest of this country's astronauts, was disappointed but undaunted by the cancelation. As Col. Powers put it:

"These astronauts are not particularly emotional fellows. He didn't cry. They take it philosophically and press on to the next one."

* * * *

NEITHER Project Mercury officials nor weathermen were willing to say yet what the weather might be next Thursday or Friday. The forecast was unfavorable for the Cape Canaveral area at least through Monday.

In any case, officials said weather was not taken into consideration in planning for a space mission except for a day or two at a time.

In setting the Thursday-Friday date, the space agency also said it depended on "technical evaluation." This referred to the fact that major systems inside a space capsule must be rechecked any time there is a launching delay. This check can take anywhere from hours to days.

There also was some problem of the Navy armada deployed in the Atlantic to recover Glenn once he splashes into the sea. They can keep essentially the same forces at sea until late in the week, but may have to come to port then, at least briefly.

* * * *

THE HEAVY clouds that covered the launch area became visible at daylight. Ernest Amman, weather expert for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said the bad weather was "not ordinary" for the Cape area.

Powers said there were "no specific problems" with either the Atlas booster or the space capsule. He said scientists decided on the rather liberal delay to make sure that all the systems could be rechecked as necessary.

Glenn's flight, the first U.S. attempt to send a man around the earth, had to be called off when the heavy clouds barred the full-scale camera coverage that scientists demand for the flight.

Glenn started what turned out to be his disappointing day when he rose at 2 a.m. He crawled into his space capsule at 5:10 a.m. He once talked by telephone from his capsule with his wife, Anna, who was watching on television along with daughter Lyn, 14, and son David, 16, at their Arlington, Va. home.

* * * *

FINALLY, with the clouds growing thicker and covering a good 95 per cent of the sky, the order came at 9:12 a.m. to "scrub" the flight. It was not until an hour and 13 minutes later that the process of ligerating the astronaut from his cramped capsule had been completed.

In Virginia, Glenn's wife and children echoed his "another day" philosophy. Said Glenn's daughter: "Oh well, it was just a dry run. My dad always tells me, 'there'll always be another day'."

In New Concord, Ohio, Glenn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Glenn Sr., expressed relief that their son was not sent into flight in bad weather.

An estimated 75,000 people lining Florida beaches, along with thousands of scientists, technicians, officials and newsmen, strained for the moment when the towering capsule-Atlas combination would rise from Launching Pad 14. But it wasn't the day.

Bandits 'Treat' All Customers of Bar

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Two gunmen took $900 from the safe of a bar Saturday after handing the bartender a bottle of whisky and herding him and 13 customers into the basement.

"Here, give everybody a drink while you're down there," one of the bandits told the bartender.

Delinquent, 17, Warns Brother, Then Hangs Self

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Robert J. Bullard, a 17-year-old juvenile offender, hanged himself Saturday in San Mateo County Jail after writing a long note containing a plea to his younger brother not to follow the same path.

Officers said the dead youth's note ended with this plea to his brother: "Listen to me, kid, quit trying to follow in my footsteps. It will get you nowhere."

ASTRONAUT JOHN GLENN climbs into Mercury capsule for the long wait that ended when he was told he would have to try to orbit the earth another day.

Man-Orbit-Project's Cost $400 Million

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—At the time that John H. Glenn Jr. completes his scheduled orbital flight — now planned for next Thursday or Friday—the overall cost of the Mercury Project will be more than $400 million.

That figure is about double the original estimates of Mercury's cost from inception of the program through the first orbital flight. The project was born in 1958 and manned orbit was expected in late 1960 or early 1961.

How much of the total cost could be ascribed to Saturday's cancelled effort to launch Glenn could not be calculated with accuracy, space agency officials said.

"I don't know how you could break it down that way and say so much is the cost of Saturday's effort," said O. B. Lloyd Jr., director of the space administration's office of public information.

He cited, as an example of the difficulty, the fleet of Navy ships assigned to the recovery effort. How many would have been steaming and consuming fuel anyway? And should the salaries of the sailors be counted? They, after all, are on duty in the Navy whether there is a space shot or not.

Much the same questions could be asked about many Cape Canaveral employes who worked Saturday on the launch effort and Air Force personnel around the world who would have been ready to attempt a rescue if Glenn had been forced down away from the planned recovery area.

AFTER THE LONG WAIT WAS OVER
Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. puts his hand to his head on the 11th deck of the gantry tower shortly after he was taken from his capsule, "Friendship 7." Bad weather postponed his attempt to orbit the earth on a shot from Cape Canaveral Saturday.

Soviet Press Links Glenn to Moonshot

LONDON (UPI)—The Russian people were told Saturday for the first time of the unsuccessful U.S. moon shot and of American plans to orbit astronaut John Glenn. The Glenn effort, Moscow radio claimed, was called off because of failure of the moonshot.

The government newspaper Izvestia told the Russians of the moon shot and the planned orbital flight but the postponement came too late to make the night edition. Moscow home radio filled in with a not too accurate account.

Under the headline "Disappointment and Hopes" the Izvestia article buried in the middle of the newspaper's foreign news section on Page 5 the account of the failure of Saturday's U.S. moon shot.

"The American press reacted painfully to this failure," Izvestia said.

L.A. COUNTY POOCHES LAX

City Dogs Law Abiding; Most Get Tags, Shots

By GEORGE ERES

Long Beach's pooch population for the most part is law abiding and comes in regular for its licenses and rabies inoculations.

Not so, countrywide, however.

C. O. Harvey, chief of the Los Angeles County Health Department's Division of Communical Disease Investigations, said:

"It is a particular attribute of the human race that the average dog owner does not like to license his pet and it seems to be a game between dog owners to avoid paying this annual license fee."

• • • •

CITIES AND the county do not make money from dog licensing, he points out.

"Intent of licensing is to protect the dogs themselves; first, to see that the dog is vaccinated as a health protection; second, to assist anyone finding a dog roaming at large to return it to its home and owner," he said.

Harvey said only an estimated 48 per cent of dog owners in the area served by the County Healtht Department have licensed their animals. The estimate is made on the basis of investigations where reports have been ade of dogs biting humans.

• • • •

JAMES BIBB, head of the Long Beach City Animal Shelter, in contrast reported that between 80 to 85 per cent of Long Beach dog owners comply with the law. Last year 27,220 licenses were issued in Long Beach.

Last date to get license without penalty is March 1—and, under law, no license can be issued until the dog is innoculated against rabies.

• • • •

SINCE THE rabies-inoculation program was instituted in 1957, cases of rabies in dogs has steadily dwindled even in the county area.

"Best proof of the effective result of the dog vaccination program in Los Angeles County,' said Harvey, "is the fact that rabies incidence has dropped from 137 cases in 1957 . . . to four cases in 1960. Of the four cases, three were rabid skunks and only one a rabid dog."

LONG BEACH'S record rabies-wise was clean as a hound's tooth—even before the mandatory inoculation law was passed. The last case of a rabid dog in Long Beach was reported in 1954—on the Long Beach-Compton boundary line.

But Long Beach dogs do bite.

Dr. I. D. Litwack, city health officer, said 1,827 dog bites were reported to officials last year. None of the animals were rabid.

"BUT THE POINT IS," said Dr. Litwack, "there is need for eternal vigilance in this matter." Immunity against rabies wears out in dogs, he explained, and the protection has to be renewed. There is a tendency for the public to become lax since the success of the anti-rabies program.

If it is known that the dog that bites a person has been inoculated, there is no need to treat the human.

"To my knowledge," said Dr. Litwack, "there has never been a case here of a human being suffering rabies if bitten by a dog that has been given rabies shots."

Kiwanis District Installs Weymouth

The one-day Mid-Winter Conference of the California, Nevada, Hawaii District of Kiwanis International was climaxed in Long Beach Saturday night with installation of Ray A. Weymouth of Redwood City as district governor.

Weymouth succeeded C. A. (Bud) Monroe of Antelope Valley. Others installed as officers for 1962 were William C. Batchelder, Sonoma, treasurer; and Fred S. Kistemann, Oakland, secretary.

More than 2,000 Kiwanians attended the conference in Municipal Auditorium's Convention Hall.

The session was sponsored by Kiwanis Club presidents Malcolm Epley, Long Beach Club; Lawrence D. Haarer, East Long Beach; and Charles L. Way, Uptown Long Beach.

An estimated 1,000 Kiwanians attended a "Fellowship Luncheon" in the auditorium to hear H. Park Arnold of Glendale, past international president speak on "Freedom, Our Individual Responsibility."

On the Conference committee were J. S. (Bud) Holton, general chairman; Weckford Morgan, Ted Corcoran, G. T. Davis, George Irwin and Merrill G. Scott.

BEACH Combing
with MALCOLM EPLEY

DESPITE a few well publicized flurries, there was, of course, no real snow in the urban area last week and there never will be. But the snow country in the nearby mountains, which got a heavy fall, is now what the auto salesmen like to call "freeway close." It's no longer much of a project for residents of the semi-tropical valley lands to get up there for skiing and snowball throwing.

Dr. Sutter Kunkel, who has a cabin at Snowcrest at the foot of the Mt. Baldy snow lift, can zip up there from his downtown Long Beach office in an hour and 15 minutes. He takes the Long Beach Freeway north to the San Bernardino Freeway, goes east to Mountain Ave. near Pomona, and then heads directly into the mountains.

Some of us accompanied him up there a day or two ago. We found a couple of feet of snow on the ground and an environment that was an exciting contrast to our usual surroundings. Although it was a weekday afternoon, there were a lot of people fooling around in the snow.

It was chilly enough to make the big fire in Kunkel's fireplace a welcome sight. Some of the gang, among them Ted Bowman, John Webster, John Wyatt, Dr. Logan Jackson, Bill Bennett, Chuck Breeze and Pic McIver, rode the chair lift to the high shoulder of Mt. Baldy. Those in ordinary business suits came back looking a little purple and bristling with goose pimples. The blazing Ponderosa log in the fireplace soon took care of that.

Once an awkward but determined skier, I've now reached that stage of life where I find the nicest thing about cold, snowy weather is to sit snug inside and look out the window. In fact, I found Kunkel's hearth so pleasant that, once we had decided to stay the night, I bedded down on it. That's the life.

ITEM here worrying a little about fresh water running into the sea in a rain storm evidently rang a lot of bells.

W. E. Harms wonders why the seasonal run-off couldn't be stored in the ocean. He suggests the possibility of an offshore reservoir created with a tight breakwater or membrane to separate it from the salt water. Or maybe a bag-like container into which the fresh water could flow, to be pumped out as needed.

Tom Kell wants to know why holes couldn't be bored in the flood control channel, covered with grating, letting the good old water run directly into the underground reservoir.

And another reader proposes that rubber, collapsible dams be provided to divert water from the flood control channel into settling basins. He says the L. A. water dept. did it in the San Fernando area.

On that point, it's noteworthy that runoff water is caught and put into settling basins in the Whittier Narrows area to the north of us. This trickles into the earth and helps to replenish the underground supply, including our own.

But no method has been devised for catching and storing the waters that flood surfaces here close to the ocean in a major rainstorm.

DRIFTWOOD — Couple of hospital items: Max G. Miller, electronics firm official, called with a glowing report after a stay at L. B. Memorial. "If they had a casino and a floor show in the lobby, I'd rather go there than to Las Vegas," he reported. . . . Patient Yvonne Troutner, an office secretary, was asked by friends what they could bring to her bed at the hospital. Her answer was quick and simple: catsup. . . . Torrance Chamber of Commerce gets out a periodical list of business licenses granted and cancelled in that area. Hu Gagos, reading the "out of business" firms, spotted one called "Rocky Enterprizes."

CIVILIAN SOLDIERS TRAIN IN DESOLATE DESERT

L. B. Guardsmen Turn Backs on Homes

BY LEE CRAIG
Military-Aviation Editor

"When they first marched into camp, they looked like professionals. I wouldn't be afraid to stack them up, right now, against most regular Army units."

It was a high ranking officer of Camp Irwin, near Barstow, speaking.

He was referring to Long Beach's own National Guard unit, the 123rd Ordnance Company (General Support).

• • • •

THE 123RD was one of many National Guard and Army reserve units called to active duty last fall, as part of this country's response to the heightening of tension in the Berlin crisis.

The 75 men who then comprised the company left their jobs and families here and, with scant notice, found themselves at Camp Irwin, a bleak, desolate post in the Mojave Desert where temperatures have two meanings: too hot or too cold.

• • • •

ALMOST to a man, their take-home pay dropped as much as $300. Instead of their own comfortable homes, they were placed in thin-walled, drafty huts, where small heaters fight a losing battle against icy winds that blow across the desert.

Almost all of them have elected to leave their families home, which means a long drive for a reunion when weekend passes are issued.

Adjustments have had to be made for the reduced income. Many men are dipping into savings, many wives have gone to work so that homes can be kept against the day that the 123rd is released and normal life can be resumed.

• • • •

MOST FINANCE companies and credit associations have relaxed payment requirements, under the circumstances. Mortgage holders, however, have usually insisted on adherance to their contracts.

"It's been pretty rough," admits Capt. Leslie H. Anthony, the company commander. "We've hit our savings regularly. But we'll hold out."

Anthony, 13702 Olive St., Westminster, was foreman of the 123rd's ordnance facility at 2200 Stearns St. before the callup. Most of the Long Beach contingent in the company worked there in various capacities as state employes. As a requirement of employment,

Optimism Mood of L.B. Community Progress Session

OPTIMISM WAS the mood and progress, hard work and co-operation were the words most heard at the highly successful second annual Congress for Community Progress sponsored Thursday by the Chamber of Commerce.

More than 500 community leaders representing more than 300 organizations in effect took a survey of the city's assets and liabilities and came up with concrete ideas of what to do about each category.

THE MAIN THEMES THAT RAN through the general and panel sessions might be stated in such broad terms as these:

We have many blessings. We are learning to work together. We need to do so, for many things have yet to be done to develop the kind of community of which we all dream.

There seemed to be general agreement on the next immediate action needed in the community—help provid the benefits and progress represented in the 12 ballot issues on the Feb. 27 municipal election.

We almost said that surprisingly there was agreement on this, but we really shouldn't be surprised. For many of the issues on this forthcoming ballot were listed as major areas of need at last year's community congress.

Delegate after delegate last year stressed the need for a new city hall and a new library in the civic center. A year ago they brought up the need for waterfront development through exploitation of our offshore oil field.

A year ago they brought up the problem of improving such city services as fire and civilian defense. A year ago they complained about unfinished development in the Alamitos Bay and Marina areas.

THIS YEAR, THE DELEGATES agreed that these things still need to be done. But this year they were much happier about these problems for the projects proposed Feb. 27 offer the solutions in these areas.

There were many problems listed last year that were solved in the intervening 12 months. Many, of course, are not solved nor is there an easy solution in sight.

But most delegates felt that by approving the issues in the upcoming city election, the voters of Long Beach can "kick off" the greatest era in our community's history.

As one speaker said Thursday:

"The ideas are here. What's needed now is the responsible and dedicated support of our greatest asset—the people of Long Beach."

CAPITAL CAREERS

Career Officials 'Un-Muzzled' but Must Be Pro-JFK

By THE I, P-T WASHINGTON BUREAU

WASHINGTON — Career government officers have been "un-muzzled" by edict of the Kennedy administration, but there is an important string attached. They have to be pro-administration.

Civil Service Commission Chairman John Macy has developed a policy for government careerists, at the request of the President, which brings them into the realm of policy.

At it is here, according to Macy's statement, that they have a "positive obligation" to explain, interpret and defend federal programs against "uninformed or unjust criticism."

Macy said:

"The extent to which federal career officials should publicly support and discuss proposed programs of their departments and agencies requires thoughtful judgment by all concerned. The role of the career official is still evolving within our system of government, with the consequence that the precedent of longstanding tradition is not available."

Uncertainty, he said, "has prompted requests from career officials, particularly in the field service, and from department und agency heads for guidance."

Macy said that no definite standard could be made, but that discretion and judgment must be applied.

He did say, however, that when making speeches on authorized programs the careerist, while divorcing his remarks from a strictly political context, had the duty to defend public policy.

In regard to pending legislation he said the decision was more difficult, but that "the career official may explain the position of the administration . . . before interested public groups."

CONGRESSIONAL CHILDREN—some 140 of them—were to tour the FBI building yesterday and have lunch with Robert F. Kennedy in his office. The Attorney General planned to serve them hamburgers, grilled in the fireplace in his office, but was talked out of it, with some difficulty, by an assistant.

Wrote Kennedy, in giving final assent—

"Okay, but I'd rather cook hamburgers. You are getting old and crotchety. We will not get to the moon first with this attitude. RFK."

The fireplace works, but has never been used by an attorney general to cook hamburgers. "But if any attorney general does, it will be this one," said William A. Geoghegan, Assistant Deputy Attorney General.

Kennedy Blasts Management, Ignores Excesses of Unions

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy is relying on the power of public opinion, rather than the restrictive powers of government itself, to bring about "statesmanship" in the field of labor-management relations. But somehow he fails to speak out forcefully against labor unions before they strike for unwarranted increases in wages, while he issues sharp warnings to management to forego price increases based on rising labor costs.

LAWRENCE

A good example of this omission is the case of the Electrical Construction Workers' Union in New York City which has just extored an agreement for a 25-hour week at higher wage rates, with overtime pay for at least an additional five hours per week. This means the electricians now will get approximately the same pay for 30 hours as they previously were getting for 35 hours, plus higher overtime pay for the additional hours they expect to work in view of the shortage of union electricians in the area.

Labor-union circles hailed this agreement as a "historic breakthrough," and the New York City Central Labor Council urged all affiliated unions to press for the shorter work week. At the same time, the Building Trades Employers Assn. was being told by construction cost analysts that, if all the industry's craftsmen in the city won the shorter week, the cost of commercial construction would go up by 10 per cent and of residential construction by 7 per cent.

• • • •

PRESIDENT Kennedy knew all about the electrical workers' demands and their strike, which caused the shutdown of practically all construction in New York City for a time. The Mayor of New York, a political ally of the President, was in the midst of it and took no action to denounce the labor union for its exorbitant demands. Public opinion apparently was not mobilized by the White House.

Yet, when the steel industry was reported last autumn ready to increase its prices because of wage increases won by the steel union after a costly strike, the President sent letters to the principal steel companies and put on a publicity barrage that placed them before the country as unmindful of the public interest. Actually, they didn't increase prices and the reason, it is believed, had to do with competitive conditions. Next summer, however, when another steel strike is threatened, the steel companies may have to go up in their prices if the unions succeed in demands for wage increases.

A belated step has just been taken by the President with respect to the electrical union's agreement for a 25-hour week. Although the strike ended Jan. 19 after a week of disruption of the construction industry in the largest city in the country, and although an agreement was signed almost a week ago, the White House said nothing before or immediately afterward. The issue was really untouched until editorial comment generally criticized the administration for its obvious onesidedness. Then came the following exchange at the President's press conference on Wednesday of this week:

"Q. Mr. President, in the face of your economic message urging both management and labor to moderate their policy regarding price and wage increases, would you tell us how you feel about the Electricians Union's contracts in New York which call for a 25-hour week?

"A. I have stated before—I think at the steelworkers convention before I was elected — and I've stated since then, that I thought that the 40-hour week — in view of the many obligations that we had upon us both at home and abroad — represented the national goal at this time.

"In addition, I thought that labor-management contracts should be settled within the realm of productivity increases, so that there would be a beneficial effect on price stability. Now, this contract does not meet either one of those two standards, and therefore I regret it."

• • • •

BUT WHERE is the remedy? The contract now has been made. The construction companies have surrendered. The costs undoubtedly will be passed on to the public in higher rents. The right of a union to bargain for an entire industry in the largest city in the country has been acquiesced in. But if the employers in that same city were to agree to fix prices to absorb the added wage costs, they would be promptly prosecuted by the U. S. Attorney General.

When is the President going to put the labor unions on the same footing as management? If a wage formula that provides for uniform payments by employers affects the price, the labor unions escape any penalty.

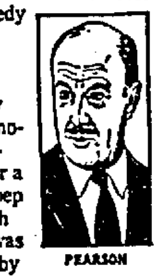
LBJ Acts as Cheer Leader, JFK as 'Prof' of Economics

WASHINGTON—During most of the history of the United States, it has happened that the President and the Vice President have been at odds—sometimes even at swordspoints. The Constitution wasn't written this way, but, human nature being what it is, that's how it has usually worked out.



PEARSON

At a secret White House briefing the other day, however, there was interesting evidence that it's the other way around between President Kennedy and Vice President Johnson.

Kennedy called Democratic senators in for a political pep talk, which actually was delivered by Johnson. Afterward, Kennedy, wielding a pointer and unveiling charts like a Harvard economics professor, gave a quiet lecture on his trade proposals.

As the President's space czar, Johnson reported that the United States still hopes to be first in landing a man on the moon and that the historic day may be hastened by using a "rendezvous technique."

This would overcome the U. S. handicap resulting from the fact that we have a booster rocket far less powerful than the Russians, by using two boosters. One would launch the spaceship into orbit. Then another booster, like a spare engine, would be joined to the capsule in space to give it the final push to the moon.

"Right now, neither the United States nor Russia can put a man on the moon and return him safely to earth. The scientists of both nations are feverishly working on large rockets. We gained on the Russians with the successful test flight of the Saturn vehicle, which was a big step forward in rocket capability.

"We are accelerating the rendezvous technique which may cut off time from our moon schedule."

• • • •

THE VICE President also disclosed that his anti-discrimination committee had signed up some of the nation's biggest industrial employers, outlawing racial discrimination in the employment of more than 2,500,000 employees.

With a glance at the President, Johnson declared: "I was proud when I stood beside the President on the steps of the Capitol one year ago and heard him plead with his nation to 'begin now.' After a year at his side, I'm prouder now than I was then."

When the President took over with his pointer, he cited charts to prove that industrial expansion will slow down, thereby causing a costly loss in profits and jobs, unless he is given more authority to bargain with the growing, new European common market.

He pointed out that the United States ships more of everything, except automobiles, to Europe than the European nations ship to the United States. The only way to keep this favorable balance of trade, he insisted, is by modernizing our trade laws.

California Demo Council Resents Left-Wing Label

FRESNO — Democratic Party leaders came to the weekend preprimary endorsing convention of the California Democratic Council (CDC) certain of a warm welcome but apprehensive about the sometimes warmer sendoff into state political wars.

That their apprehension is well founded is borne out by the fact that San Francisco Mayor George Christopher recited in Long Beach only last week a GOP chant against the CDC which never dies—a bill of particulars which the GOP says underlines the left-wing nature of CDC.

HOUSER

Now CDC has been eminently successful in its selection and election of Democrats in California. The meeting it held this weekend was the largest political conclave of its kind in California history. The throng included some 4,000 delegates and alternates and another 2,000 party observers, sprinkled with leading lights of state and national party politics.

So candidates can hardly ignore the grass-roots volunteers of CDC, representing some 60,000 members in the state, and aiming for 100,000 by June 7 primary time.

THE LEFT-WING brand aggravates the CDC when the imputation implies Communism or un-Americanism. But the organization is defiant when the brand is burned through a misreading or deliberate distortion of its stands. At the same time there is no denial of positions which it defines as liberal. Mayor Christopher said the CDC favors recognition of Red China. A conservative member of CDC itself asserts that State Sen. Richards advocated such a resolution. In fact, the CDC points out, it was Richards who interceded, wielding his considerable power and charm over the CDC to soften such a resolution, substituting a resolution of support for the United States posture advocated by Adlai Stevenson.

ROY GREENAWAY, chairman of CDC's political action committee and convention manager in his home town, added that CDC advocacy of Red China recognition has always been accompanied by conditions, including that Red China should demonstrate its desire for peace and live up to U.N. charter provisions.

"We're not pro-Red China," he said, "but we believe in the universality of the U.N.—that it should include all countries who act like civilized participants."

GOP and Demos twist again on their interpretation of the CDC stand on loyalty oaths. Christopher and other GOP spokesmen say CDC would abolish the loyalty oath.

Greenaway's answer: "We're all for loyalty. A positive statement of loyalty is fine. It's the 'non-disloyalty' oath that we oppose, in which a citizen is required to say he is not for something. We believe this is a real distinction. Further, abolition of the non-disloyalty oath is a part of the 1960 Democratic party platform.

CDC OPPOSITION to nuclear testing was formulated during the truce or moratorium period, Greenaway points out.

Greenaway acknowledged that more conservative elements of the CDC would have their work cut out for them in toeing a middle-road mark that would please state office seekers.

He feels state constitutional officers seeking reelection have a right to seek this middle-ground, principally because the issue of Red China recognition, for example, has little or no meaning in state elections.

Time to End 'Holy Terror Week'

EDITOR:

Quite often we discover that we humans are the victims of our own bad habits, created by motives long forgotten and continuing for reasons never completely understood.

Such is the situation, we think, in connection with Easter Week. Our teenagers are forced into a week of idleness, and by habit have been coming to Balboa; there to engage in rowdyism and mischief, with little consideration for the local residents. We who live in Balboa think it's time this ridiculous "HOLY TERROR WEEK" be ended.

We recommend, first, that the school districts do away with this vacation period. To further reduce the extreme annoyance suffered by our residents, a traffic control point is being considered at the entrance to Balboa Peninsula at 20th St. In the past, there were times when traffic congestion assumed such proportions that it became a hazard to life and property. We hope to improve the safety and welfare of all our residents and guests by reducing this congestion.

• • • •

WE ARE ALSO urging the property owners and real estate agents to rent only to groups that do not exceed the maximum number of persons per living unit as set up by the State Housing Act. We think it cheapens and degrades our community to have large groups occupy one apartment and have many use sleeping bags.

While we welcome visitors and vacationers to our beautiful beach and harbor, we feel that it is not unreasonable to ask that due consideration be given to those of us who make this our home.

Vulture, Not Dove, on Nehru's Shoulder

EDITOR:

At last that strange looking bird roosting on Nehru's shoulder (bearing the tag "Dove of Peace") has been identified. It is a Communist vulture and by a no greater authority on ornithology than Adlai Stevenson.

Anyone that knows anything about vultures knows what happens to a person with one roosting on them. Well—it has happened to Nehru.

They (vultures) are dirty birds. Is Nehru so naive that he did not know? I don't think so. He has now become an active aggressor as well as a condoner of aggression.

Those who have been selling Nehru and the other, so-called neutrals, to us, have not been fooled—they know what is going on. How stupid can we be?

Editorial Didn't Go Far Enough

EDITOR:

Your editorial on the need for a Navy hospital in Long Beach was very good as far as it went but it did not go far enough.

You made no mention of the thousands of retired men and their dependents who settled in and around Long Beach in order to be near a Navy hospital.

One of the inducements promised to Navy men in return for the poor pay and hardships of Navy life was adequate medical care for themselves and their dependents. It is no wonder that when the younger men see how poorly this promise has been kept that they decide the Navy life is not for them, and we who are experiencing being the forgotten thousands cannot encourage them to stay in the service.

• • • •

I HAD TO hire an ambulance to take my seriously ill husband to San Diego and stay at hotels to be near him in his last days. I met retired men and their dependents from Redondo, Pasadena, Garden Grove, Anaheim, Orange and other surrounding towns.

In order to fulfill that promise to Navy men both active and retired there should be at least a 500-bed Navy hospital in Long Beach.

Languages in the News

By Charles F. Berlitz and Robert Strumpen-Darrie

A new aim for the Berlin policy of the Western powers according to one report, is "to live and let live." Here is how this sounds in the languages of several other powers interested in the Berlin problem:

German: Leben und leben lassen. (LEH-b'n oont LEH-b'n lass'n)

Russian: Zhit i davat zhit. (Zheet ee dah-VHAT zheet)

French: Vivre et laisser vivre. (veevr eh leh-seh veevr)

A trenchant commentary on a situation like this was uttered at the time of the Russian Revolution by Leon Trotsky, who, along with Lenin, shared top revolutionary honors but who was long ago "deStalinized" by Stalin himself. Trotsky coined the famous expression Ni mir ni voina (nee meer nee voy-NAH) — "Neither peace nor war" to define Russia's relationship in 1917 with Germany.

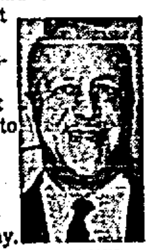
JFK Fight Seen for 'Urban Plan'

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In his first year in office President Kennedy was reluctant to provoke battles with Congress in a test of his personal popularity. But last week his wrath was aroused and he came out fighting for a cabinet-level department of urban affairs and housing.

He wants the department set up to give voiceless city dwellers a built-in lobby in the highest council of government such as farmers, workers and businessmen enjoy. These "forgotten citizens" compose 70 per cent of the population.

The President's previous soft-sell policy went overboard when five Republicans and four Southern Democrats on the House Rules Committee killed his urban affairs bill on a 9 to 6 vote. He promptly announced to a crowded press conference that he would submit the bill as a government reorganization plan and furthermore would appoint a Negro Federal Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver—to the cabinet post.



WEAVER

The plan goes to Congress Monday. It would become law within 60 days unless vetoed by a majority vote of either House or Senate.

The response was the most direct Kennedy has ever given to a legislative rebuff. It made it crystal-clear that in this election year he intends to fight for the New Frontier.

He said in effect that he was perfectly willing to let the voters decide whether he was right or wrong; that the plan would "give every member of the House and Senate an opportunity to vote their will on this."

* * * *

REPUBLICANS quickly cried foul. Chairman John W. Byrnes of the House GOP Policy Committee, charged Kennedy with a "callous attempt" to use the racial issue to win approval of the plan. Republicans had accused the President of retreating on racial matters. Byrnes said the policy committee opposed the plan "as a dangerous attempt to centralize more power in the government."

Members of both parties privately agreed that Kennedy had put the GOP on a political hot spot. He also caught Southern Democrats and Republicans by surprise by sponsoring a bill to ban literacy tests for voters in federal elections.

Under the constitution, cabinet appointees must be approved by the Senate. The House has no say. But by naming Dr. Weaver—"a man who has done an outstanding job"—the President put House members in the position of passing on the appointment when they consider the reorganization plan.

Kennedy's mood and his incisive answers to press conference questions hinted he has made up his mind to push his programs and fix the political blame for any defeats.

* * * *

HE ALSO said—in the face of a senate "muzzling" investigation—that his administration would continue to give "guidance" to military officers and other high officials when they speak on foreign policy and other sensitive problems outside their purview.

A Senate armed services subcommittee is probing charges the Defense and State departments—under the Truman-Eisenhower-Kennedy administrations—have unduly censored speeches of officers who denounced communism, sometimes inopportunely.

The President favored the inquiry. He said it should be useful. But he pointed out that the government deals with vital world problems, hence expressions of views must be corrdinated to avert dangerous complications.

Former President Eisenhower, who imposed such censorship during his regime, sent the subcommittee a statement. He said he had reappraised his position and now thought military men should be allowed to speak out. He said they have a role to play in alerting the nation to communism and should not be pushed "behind an iron curtain."

* * * *

KENNEDY refused to comment other than to say: "Everyone has given their views. I've given mine. President Eisenhower is entitled to hold his." But he suggested the military and civilian alike read the testimony of three high-ranking officers. They stressed the pre-eminence of civilian control and responsibility over the Army under the Constitution and the unwritten code that officers eschew "purely partisan politics."

Earlier last week the President sent Congress two important economic messages. The first set four goals for the national economy and requested stand-by powers to ease "the main and frustrations" of recessions.

The second asked for authority to cut tariffs so American factories can compete in foreign trade with the new European Common Market. Kennedy warned that world economic developments had outmoded traditional U.S. trade policies.

* * * *

IN OTHER news spheres the House passed a $700 million Kennedy-backed bill to raise postal rates and help liquidate the annual postal deficit. Senate action is pending.

The President flew to Palm Beach, Fla., to visit his convalescing father and to relax. Mrs. Kennedy's trip to India and Pakistan in March was labeled "semi-official" instead of private.

Directors of two domestic airline giants—American and Eastern—announced plans to merge to save money.

Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California announced for re-election and immediately charged his GOP opponent, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, would merely try to use the statehouse as a stepping-stone to the White House. Nixon replied that Brown's candidacy offered "four more years of indecision and bungling." Nixon again disavowed White House ambitions in 1964.

World's Press Features U.S., Uruguay Meet

LONDON (UPI)—The world's press printed a number of comments this week—and some outright attacks—on the United States and things or persons American.

There were comments on some matters of moment—such as President Kennedy's budget plan and the Organization of American States meeting at Punta del Este, Uruguay.

The Madrid newspaper Ya said the United States is ruled by what it called a "secret dictatorship," of "big government." The newspaper then said the late Franklin D. Roosevelt could be likened to Mussolini and Adolf Hitler in this respect.

But in Linz, Austria the Socialist newspaper Tagblatt had kind words for the United States. It said.

"One year after, we find the youngest president in U.S. history firmly determined to uphold the program he set and the principles he recognizes as true. It is certain that Kennedy has created valuable foundations for a policy which justifies some optimism on the part of the free world."

In Belgium, the Brussels satirical weekly Pourquoi Pas mentioned the Cuban problem at the OAS meeting in a tongue-in-cheek comparison between President Kennedy's troubles and those of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

"The U. S. president," it said, "has no anti-party group, no Albanians or Chinese. But he has got his Cubans, more contagious in Latin America than the Albanians in Europe."

In the Far East, Kennedy's budget message to Congress drew considerable attention. In Seoul, Korea, the newspaper Korean Republic said in an editorial "It is heartening to note that President Kennedy expressed his firm stand against the ever-existing Communist threat of aggression in the troubled areas of Asia."

The English-language paper, commenting on Kennedy's budget message, noted that the United States will place increased emphasis "on internal security, including guerrilla warfare," in its military assistance to less-developed nations in Asia and other areas.

In Karachi, Pakistan, the English-language daily newspaper Dawn said Kennedy is trying "to said in two boats simultaneously" on the Kashmir issue.

The paper said "nobody has yet been known to catch fish without getting a little wet. The issues involved in the Kashmir question are absolutely clear-cut and they have to be faced squarely.

President Outlines Plan for Economic Recovery

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy produced his blueprint for maximum economic recovery and asked for authority to tear down tariff barriers this week.

His proposals and views were outlined to Congress in economic and trade messages.

The President said the economy has regained momentum but "recovery has carried the economy only part of the way to the goal of maximum employment, production and purchasing power."

* * * *

THE GOAL, he said, is:

An economic growth rate of 4.5 per cent annually, compared with the postwar average of 3.5 per cent, a gross national product annual rate of $600 billion by mid-1963—it was $542 billion at the end of 1961; a decline in unemployment to 4 per cent of the labor force by mid-1963 from 6.1 per cent last December; continuation of a stable price level.

"To combat future recessions, to keep them short and shallow if they occur," he urged:

Standby power, subject to congressional veto, temporarily to reduce income taxes; a standby program of public capital improvements; strengthening of the unemployment insurance system.

* * * *

FOR 1962 AS a whole, he said, the gross national product is expected to increase $50 billion above the 1961 level of $521 billion.

"This," he asserted, "would be another giant stride toward a fully employed economy."

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, criticized the Kennedy administration, contending it isn't doing enough about unemployment.

"We have a solemn duty to remind the President that the recession is not over and done with when four million Americans cannot find jobs, when others are working only part-time and when almost a million more who want to work don't even bother to look for the chance," he said.

Kennedy appealed to Congress for support of his trade program under which he seeks power to negotiate tariff cuts up to 50 per cent on some groups of products and elimination of the tariff on others.

* * * *

HE SAID THIS would benefit workers, business men and consumers.

Biggest development elsewhere on the business front was the announcement of plans to merge American Airlines and Eastern Airlines into the country's biggest system. The proposal is subject to stockholder and Civil Aeronautics Board approval.

It immediately aroused a wave of protest from unions, other airlines and public officials.

The Transport Workers Union threatened to strike if employes of both lines weren't guaranteed job security. The companies said they intended to see that workers were protected.

* * * *

THE PROPOSED airlines merger came only a week after the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads agreed to merge and form the nation's biggest rail system.

Automobile production continued at a high level—an estimated 141,000 passenger cars this week, compared with 139,083 last week. General Motors production was running at the highest rate in two years as sales moved at a brisk rate.

General Motors, first of the automakers to report 1961 earnings, had profits totaling $893 million, equal to $3.11 a share, compared with $959 million, or $3.35 a share, in 1961. Sales dropped to $11.4 billion from $12.7 billion.

Steel production also rolled along at a lofty rate. The output of 2,341,000 tons last week was the greatest since the week ended April 9, 1960. The operating rate was estimated at 77.8 per cent of capacity.

* * * *

DEMAND CONTINUED high with orders reflecting increased consumption as well as hedging against a possible strike. Steel executives estimated first quarter production at 31 million tons, highest since the record 34.7 million tons in the 1960 first quarter.

The usual January flow of earnings reports started moving out of corporate board rooms with most showing that the fourth quarter of 1961 was the most successful.

Briefly around the business scene: Americans spent $50.29 billion on food at supermarkets and grocery stores in 1961, a gain of 3.6 per cent over 1960. . . . The Electronic Industries Association reports 3,541,772 stereophonic phonographs were sold in the first 11 months of last year. . . . Zenith Radio Corp. introduced a hearing aid weighing one-fifth ounce; it's powered by a battery the size of a child's aspirin tablet. . . . U. S. fire losses in 1961 totaled $1,209,042,000, or 9.1 per cent higher than the previous year.

4 Classes Slated for Reservists

Four new classes will be opened Thursday evening at the Naval Reserve Officers School at Long Beach State College.

Although designed to meet the needs of Naval reserve officers, the classes are open to reserve officers of all the armed services. At present, Marine, Air Force, Army and Coast Guard officers are also enrolled in these graduate level courses.

Three of the new classes will meet on the lower campus of Long Beach State College. These include space technology to be taught by Maj. H. L. Johnson, USMCR; public relations by Capt. Kenneth W. Laren, USNR; and logistics by Lt. Cmdr. F. H. Brown Jr., USNR. A fourth class in leadership will be taught by Lt. Cmdr. R. J. Williamson, USNR, at the Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center at Santa Ana.

The local NROS unit is the largest in the 11th Naval District, serving more than 400 officers. In addition to the four new courses, 16 classes which began in September are continuing through the new semester.

Each class provides retirement and promotion points. The instruction is designed to upgrade the training of reserve officers and to raise their combat readiness. Similar officer schools are now offered on a nationwide basis.

Enrollment can be completed at the officer school headquarters on the lower campus of state college during the day or at the first meeting of the new classes on Thursday at 7 p.m.

LBCC Adult Unit Offers Free Lectures

Three new lecture series will be presented this week by the Long Beach City College General Adult Division. All are admission free.

Dr. Charles R. Brantingham, chiropodist and a director of the California Podiatry Association, will be the first of four lecturers on "Health Problems of the Senior Citizen." He speaks on "Problems of the Older Foot" at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Dewey High School auditorium, Eighth Street and Locust Avenue.

J. A. Krancus, accountant and income tax specialist, opens a series of six lectures at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Washington Junior High School auditorium, 15th Street and Pacific Avenue. First topic is "What Income Is Taxable?"

"Current Trends in Landscaping Design" will be the opening program in a series on home landscaping and gardening to start at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Hill Junior High School auditorium, 1101 Iroquois Ave. Speaker will be Howard F. Troller, landscape architect.

Oroville Dam Contract Bids Set April 12

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Bidding will begin April 12 on the largest single state building contract in California history — the construction of Oroville Dam.

"We are hopeful of getting a number of good bids," Gov. Brown said Thursday.

The successful contractor will build the main portion of the dam, a 735-foot tall structure containing 80 million cubic yards of fill.

'Buildings for Youth' Drive Set by YMCA

Representing a cross section of community life, a volunteer army of men and women will take the field early in May to launch the Long Beach YMCA's $1,196,430 "Buildings for Youth" campaign.

Campaign workers will seek cash and monetary pledges, payable over a four-year period, to expand the YMCA's youth program facilities here.

According to Harry J. Moore, president of the YMCA's metropolitan board of directors, there exists today a critical need for the following:

1. A community center building to serve the Los Altos and East Long Beach areas. None exists now.
2. An all-purpose type gymnasium for the Lakewood Y branch.
3. Renovate and enlarge the North Long Beach Y branch.
4. Complete remodelling work at the Downtown Y.

Moore said the campaign army will number 1,000 volunteers. Public campaigning will begin following a kickoff rally slated for May 10.

Campaign directors include Charles Z. Walker Sr., Fred S. Dean, Paul A. Nichol, Marvin Tincher, Earl Fast, Jack A. Drown, Clyde Bronn, Virgil Spongberg and Gus A. Walker.

Deep Holes Left by Atom Blasts

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Earth depressions up to 50 feet deep have formed over the site of four underground nuclear explosions, the Atomic Energy Commission says.

Officials said the depressions—some several hundred feet wide—occurred 15 to 25 minutes after blasts in the test series.

Devices were detonated at the bottom of vertical shafts which had been drilled, then refilled over the explosives. The AEC said the surface probably collapsed into underground cavities formed by the force of the expanding nuclear fireballs.

Officials said there was no marked increase in radiation above the depressions.

Birch Society Hit by Michigan GOP

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A resolution denouncing and condemning the ultra-conservative John Birch Society and other extremist organizations was backed firmly Saturday by Michigan's Republican high command.

By a 9-3 vote, the Resolutions Committee of the GOP State Central Committee adopted a statement of condemnation of extremist groups both on the far left and far right.

MOVE OUT

Capt. Leslie H. Anthony of Westminster uses jeep to ride herd on convoy of vehicles as 123rd Ordnance Company prepares for training duty.

AT BLEAK POST

L.B. Guard Force Adopts Army Life

they were also guardsmen.

* * * *

THE 123RD has just completed a segment of training which all active units of the modern Army must undergo, intensive infantry combat training.

For their final examination a few days ago, they took to the field with their trucks and heavy equipment on a 50-mile "mission."

An "aggressor" force — composed of soldier-actors from another unit — harrassed them with grenade and rifle attacks along the way and at night, during their bivouac, to test how well they had established their perimeters of defense, using the infantry tactics they had learned.

* * * *

AT ONE stage, they were suddenly subjected to "air attack," with jet fighters from nearby George Air Force Base scheduled to scream suddenly and unnervingly overhead.

Officers from higher commands were along, to impartially judge their performance. At the end, elaborate score sheets would make the decision whether or not they could be classed as "combat ready."

There was little doubt in the mind of Capt. Anthony, or his superiors, before the test as to its verdict. Anthony, the previous week, had utilized free time to test his men himself.

* * * *

DUPLICATING expected test conditions as closely as possible, he had formed an "aggressor" detail, staged attacks and had his men deploy their trucks and maintenance equipment exactly as they would to perform their combat mission, which would be to keep in operable condition the tanks, artillery pieces, trucks and weapons of their assigned unit.

The 123rd, unlike some other Guard organizations, is made up largely of men who have seen active duty before, some of it during wartime.

They're doing the job they have been trained to do, philosophically and with good morale.

But they are still looking forward to this Spring, when, rumor says, they'll be free to come home without needing weekend passes.

Students' Polio Shots $1 Friday

A polio-immunization clinic to accommodate students who must comply with a new state law requiring inoculation will be held each Friday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. in City Health Department.

Injections will be offered for $1.

Under the new law, every pupil, kindergarten through adult education courses, must have been inoculated against polio before he can enroll in summer school or for the fall term.

* * * *

A THREE-SHOT series must be completed within one year, according to the law.

Dr. C. C. Campbell Jr., director of health service for the Long Beach Unified School District, said that Salk antipolio vaccine may also be obtained at any of the following locations:

Lakewood Health Center, 5110 N. Clark Ave., Lakewood, 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Mondays and Wednesdays and 1-3 p.m. Fridays.

Bellflower Health Center, 1005 E. Flower St., Bellflower, 8-10 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Norwalk Health Center, 12360 Firestone Blvd., Norwalk, 8-10 a.m. Mondays and Fridays and 1-3 p.m. Wednesdays.

Funeral Tuesday for Dr. Ransom

Funeral service for Dr. Charles W. Ransom, 92, will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m. in Mottell's & Peek Mortuary.

Dr. Ransom, of 2229 E. Ocean Blvd., died Friday. He had lived in Long Beach since 1912. He had been a member of the staff of Seaside Hospital and a director of Security-First National Bank. He retired in 1955.

Surviving is his wife, Myrtle. Donations may be sent to the heart clinic of Memorial Hospital.

Plans for the paperback, to sell at $1.45, were announced Saturday by Cambridge University Press and Oxford University Press, joint publishers of the new biblical translation.

It will be available on March 14, first anniversary of the publication of the New English Bible. Like the hardcover edition now on sale, it will contain only the New Testament portion of the scriptures.

Jewish Leader Calls Rightists a Public Danger

NEW YORK (UPI)—The executive director of the American Jewish Congress warned Saturday night that right-wing extremism in the United States has passed the "eccentric" stage and is now "a public danger."

Will Maslow said ultraconservative elements had joined forces "to shift the center of gravity of American political life so that the most moderate form of liberalism is made to appear as the rabid expression of the left."

"This new right-wing coalition can no longer be dismissed as a miscellaneous collection of eccentrics, 'loners' and political misfits," he said. "The far right is now a public danger."

Maslow said it was "the task of the liberal community to resist these forces, even knowing that everything to the left of the John Birch Society will be labeled as subversive."

'Program for Progress' Drive Goes Into High Gear This Week

The Program for Progress campaign in support of the 12 issues on the Feb. 27 municipal election will swing into high gear this week, Chairman Jerry S. Jacobs announced Saturday.

Jacobs said the community-wide citizens committee has opened a campaign headquarters at 237 E. First St. and at the same time announced the names of division chairmen for organization.

The general chairman also said that a speakers bureau is being activated this week.

"We want to tell the story of the importance of this election to as many groups as possible," Jacobs said. "Information about speaking schedules can be obtained by calling the headquarters — HE 6-5936 — or by stopping by. Fact sheets are also available."

• • • •

JACOBS SAID his committee members have found that people who have been able to study the ballot issues are convinced of their importance to the city. "We don't have to do a sales job," he commented.

Division chairmen are:

Wayne Hull, James Simmons and Pat O'Malley, labor groups; Mrs. Ida Frances Lowry, women's groups; Clarence E. Scott, commercial; Dr. Malcolm Todd, medical; Jack Duffy, professional; Norm Hyatt, educational; Don Gill, City employees.

Joe Bransby, churches; Norb Dean, welfare; William Harris, service clubs; Roland Bach, veterans groups; Vern Brustkern, goevrnment employees.

• • • •

GENERAL vice chairmen are Lee A. Stokes, Dave Feuer, Harry J. Moore, Ken Hemphill, Harry Buffum, Mrs. H. A. Hodges, Bob Graham, Lloyd Leedom, Llewellyn Bixby, Milt Arthur and Mrs. Louise Hoffman.

These are the ballot propositions:

1. Offshore oil development. Opens $1.7 billion oil field for controlled exploitation from four small ocean islands. Will provide funds for completion and expansion of shoreline development. Contains list of more than 20 safeguards to protect city's beauty and to prevent subsidence.

2. New main library. Provides $5,750,000 bond issue for building and equipping a main library in the civic center to allow for full use of library's material and to provide adequate service for neighborhood branch libraries.

3. New city hall. Provides $6,065,000 bond issue for city hall in civic center that will permit consolidation of government departments and will replace present obsolete building.

4. Senior Citizens Center. Bond issue for $200,000. If city hall proposition passes it is planned to convert the present Public Utilities Building to senior citizens center and for use as a central recreation department headquarters.

5. Fire Department Facilities. Provides $1,535,000 bond issue to build new neighborhood fire stations, replace obsolete ones, provide training center and improve alarm system. Is designed to correct deficiencies found in recent Fire Underwriters' Survey so that fire insurance rates will not be boosted for homeowners.

6. Alamitos Bay and Marina improvements. Provides for $3,130,750 to be spent from tidelands—not tax—funds for needed additions to development in this area. Seven projects are contemplated.

7. Belmont Plaza Beach Center. Provides for $908,760 from tidelands funds for recreation facilities — including meeting rooms, parks, parking, swimming pools, beach change stations — at site of former recreation building destroyed by fire.

A. Charter amendment to raise to $500,000 amount city can spend with state approval each year for minor projects on tidelands areas. Will expedite tidelands development and assure that full cost of small projects can be taken from tidelands funds, not taxes.

B. Charter amendment to lift restrictions on use of tidelands money for operation of the beaches and tidelands developments. Assures that tax money will not have to be spent for this purpose.

C. Charter amendment improving city's budget and finance methods to allow the accounting system to be brought up to date and to provide for tighter control by city manager and council of departmental budgets.

D. Charter amendment allowing leases on city land for periods up to 60 years rather than present 25 years. Necessary to attract major developments such as hotels. State allows 66 years for such purposes.

E. Charter amendment deleting six pages of description of the city's boundaries as they existed in 1921 and replacing them with a simple description of the present boundaries.

Storm Drains as Shelters Unavailable, Engineer Says

I-P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Although abandoned storm drains would make good fallouts helters, the only ones big enough to be of value rarely would be available.

This is the substance of a report by M. E. Salsbury, chief engineer of the County Flood Control District, which will be submitted to the Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

Last October, the board asked the district engineer to explore the possible use of abandoned storm drains for protection against fallout in event of a nuclear attack.

• • • •

SALESBURY'S report says an investigation revealed only one intact section of an abandoned storm drain which might be used. This is a section by-passed by the new Wilson-Mansfield Channel in San Fernando.

Use of this section as a fallout shelter was proposed last June by the 939th Air Reserve Squadron of the 9567th Air Reserve Center, the report states.

The section—9 feet 6 inches wide, 7 feet 6 inches high, and 1,400 feet long—was proposed as a supplemental shelter for storage and some living space. The Wilson-Mansfield Channel itself was suggested as a main shelter.

Salsbury said the channel is in the process of being turned over to the City of San Fernando.

• • • •

"STORM DRAINS LARGE enough for conversion to shelters are, of course, main drains," Salsbury's report states, "and only rarely would sections of such drains be abandoned."

The report suggests, however, that sections of main drains which may be abandoned be turned over to the cities in which they are located, if the cities so request.

"No unimpaired sections of abandoned drains suitable for shelter purposes are known to exist at present, other than the drain mentioned above," the report said.

Teachers also will attend a number of practice session demonstrations at the high school and at the Calle Mayor Elementary School.

Dr. J. H. Hall, Torrance superintendent of schools, will speak at a luncheon in the high school cafetorium after the meetings are concluded.

A record 690,000 pupils are expected to enroll in Los Angeles City Schools for the spring semester, which opens Monday.

Supt. Jack P. Crowther said an enrollment jump of at least 25,000 pupils is expected.

MOBS, MOLLS AND MICKEY

When Cohen Said, 'I'm Clean'--It Was True

By GEORGE FLOWERS
Last of a Series

Psychologists and psychiatrists have a field day, when they discuss the unusual habits of Meyer Harris (Mickey) Cohen.

Cleanliness is a fetish.

MICKEY COHEN ... CLEANLINESS A FETISH

Billie Lewis, a Hollywood private detective assigned to Cohen as a bodyguard (by a bail bond company that wanted to insure its investment) reported that Cohen often took three hours to wash up in the morning.

• • • •

"HE TOOK shower after shower," the amazed Lewis reported.

"Sometimes it took him an hour just to wash his hands."

Socks never worn twice, suits never worn long enough to be dirty, shirts often worn once and discarded, hats never worn more than a week . . . and clean, clean hands!

The whole business so infatuated a Los Angeles psychiatrist, Dr. Leonard Krause, that he told investigators he once loaned Cohen $25,000, just to have an opportunity to study the phenomena.

• • • •

WITH THOSE clean, clean hands, Cohen is now defending himself, back to the wall, against two charges that could eliminate him—at long last—from the crime picture in Southern California.

Like the late Al Capone, Cohen is a casualty of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, for income tax evasion. He is carrying his case to the United States Supreme Court.

And, once more, he is accused of murder. His trial is scheduled to begin this March.

• • • •

AS WAS HIS custom, Mickey had bathed and washed to perfection the evening of Wednesday, Dec. 2, 1959. After all, there was a party that night at Rondelli's Restaurant, on Ventura Boulevard. Among Cohen's guests were to be his friend, Sandra Hagen, then 19, and such cronies as Sam LoCigno, 35, a liquor salesman; George Piscatelle, Jack Leonard and Joe DeCarlo.

DeCarlo was an old friend. He had been the manager of Candy Barr, stripteaser once "engaged" to Cohen, but not serving a narcotics sentence in Texas.

• • • •

THE COHEN party was amusing itself quietly at a table when another figure often associated with bookmaking, Jack F. (The Enforcer) Whalen, strode in.

The sequence of events that followed might baffle a Perry Mason.

According to the very few, and somewhat reluctant witnesses, Whalen walked to the table next to Cohen—about six feet from Mickey—and punched a man on the nose.

Cohen says he ducked a table. Sandra says she did, too.

• • • •

IF IT WAS crowded under that table, soon there was plenty of room.

A shot was fired. A bullet entered Whalen's head, he fell dead to the floor. A hoodlum's career that began in 1938 was ended.

Nobody seemed to recognize the man who fired the shot. When police arrived, only Cohen's party (except LoCigno) was present, and all the tables had been neatly cleared. There were no guns about.

• • • •

COHEN WAS, of course, hauled to police headquarters. After questioning him, police said there were "discrepencies" in his story.

But Cohen was unperturbed. He predicted that the missing Sam LoCigno would show up, and that everything would be cleared up.

Just as Cohen predicted, LoCigno did show up. And, for a time, everything was cleared up. LoCigno told police that Whalen had struck him during a dispute over a $900 gambling debt, and that he killed Whalen in self defense. LoCigno just couldn't remember what happened to the gun. He also cleared Cohen of implication.

• • • •

LOCIGNO WENT to trial. The defense rested heavily upon his plea of self defense. The defense cited Whalen's record as a thug—his most recent conviction being for extortion.

Courtroom spectators believed LoCigno's case was going well, that the jury would scarcely go higher than manslaughter (minimum one year). But the jury returned a verdict of guilty in the first degree and LoCigno was dispatched to San Quentin for life.

• • • •

THE EXPENSIVE lawyers who defended LoCigno went through the usual motions, and finally appealed the case to a higher court.

In San Quentin, LoCigno was stunned and—for a time—silent. But last fall things began to happen.

According to the explanation given Los Angeles reporters by police, LoCigno "inadvertently" revealed information while he was in San Quentin. On the basis of this "inadvertent" information, police discovered some guns. They said they could trace these to Mickey Cohen.

• • • •

LOCIGNO'S STORY was related to the Los Angeles County Grand Jury. After hearing it, the grand jury returned indictments Oct. 31, accusing LoCigno, Piscitelle, Leonard and DeCarlo for murder and conspiracy.

The jury did not charge Cohen with firing the gun. But in the eyes of the law conspiracy to commit murder is equal to murder itself.

Meantime LoCigno's expensive attorneys "beat the rap." An appeal court ruled in his favor and ordered a new trial. All of his "inadvertent" revelations now haunt him as he awaits, in a distinguished company of hoodlums, another trial for murder.

• • • •

AS ONE prosecuting attorney put it:

"Any time Cohen goes into court, the record shows he has a better-than-even chance of beating the rap."

While Cohen's chances with local police have nearly always worked out in the gambler's favor, his record with the federal government is not nearly so good. After serving more than three years for income tax exasion, beginning late in 1951, he was convicted last July 15 again on the same charge.

• • • •

HE WAS sentenced to 15 years in prison—Alcatraz—and fined $30.000. Dutifully, federal marshals spirited their convict to the rocky island and closed the doors on him.

Meanwhile Cohen's attorneys went to work again. They appealed the case to a federal appellate court, and went all the way to the United States Supreme Court to get Cohen out of prison.

On Oct. 12, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas ruled that Cohen could be freed from Alcatraz on $100,000 bond pending the outcome of his appeal.

• • • •

COHEN'S SISTER and her husband, and his mother placed their assets in hock to a bail bond company, to bring about his release. Douglas made this comment:

"I cannot easily assume that an applicant, though he enjoys a poor reputation as a citizen, would cause his closest relatives to suffer vast financial losses by skipping bail."

Justice Douglas also declared that bail is "basic to our system of law" to "even a notorious law violator—if he has a substantial question to be resolved on appeal."

• • • •

SO IT WAS that Cohen became the first man to leave Alcatraz on bail, and he returned to Los Angeles for a warm reunion with Sandra Hagen.

It was during this period of freedom that LoCigno's "inadvertent" revelations brought the murder charges, and Cohen was jailed again. Once more he went to court for bail, and it was denied. His lawyers went to an appeals court and won again. For an additional $10,000, Cohen was freed to await trial.

Then he lost his income tax appeal.

• • • •

IN THE comparatively brief period of unsecure freedom, law enforcement officials in Los Angeles say, Cohen lived more quietly, and on a less lavish basis, than ever before.

But, as had been noted, the cocky little man who claims he lives on loans could afford a $200 a month home near Beverly Hills, the luxury of a swimming pool, and a retinue of expensive attorneys.

He continues to claim he is out of the rackets. The cynical, however, recall his experiences with evangelist Billy Graham.

• • • •

IN 1957 Cohen visited Graham once, the latter returning the call. There was, it was admitted, some talk of "conversion."

In New York, Cohen told the United Press International:

"I'm a good friend. Billy has converted me to a better way of life outside of Christianity. He has taught me to live correctly.

"For many years I did not believe in God, but I do now."

THEN, AT his income tax trial, Cohen claimed he had received $5,000 and expenses for his association with Graham — from an evangelistic friend who paid the money without Graham's knowledge.

Concluding his report on an interview with Graham, Cohen said:

"It was just a social call. Billy and I expressed our love for one another, and we kissed each other, as we usually do."

History records an earlier kiss . . .

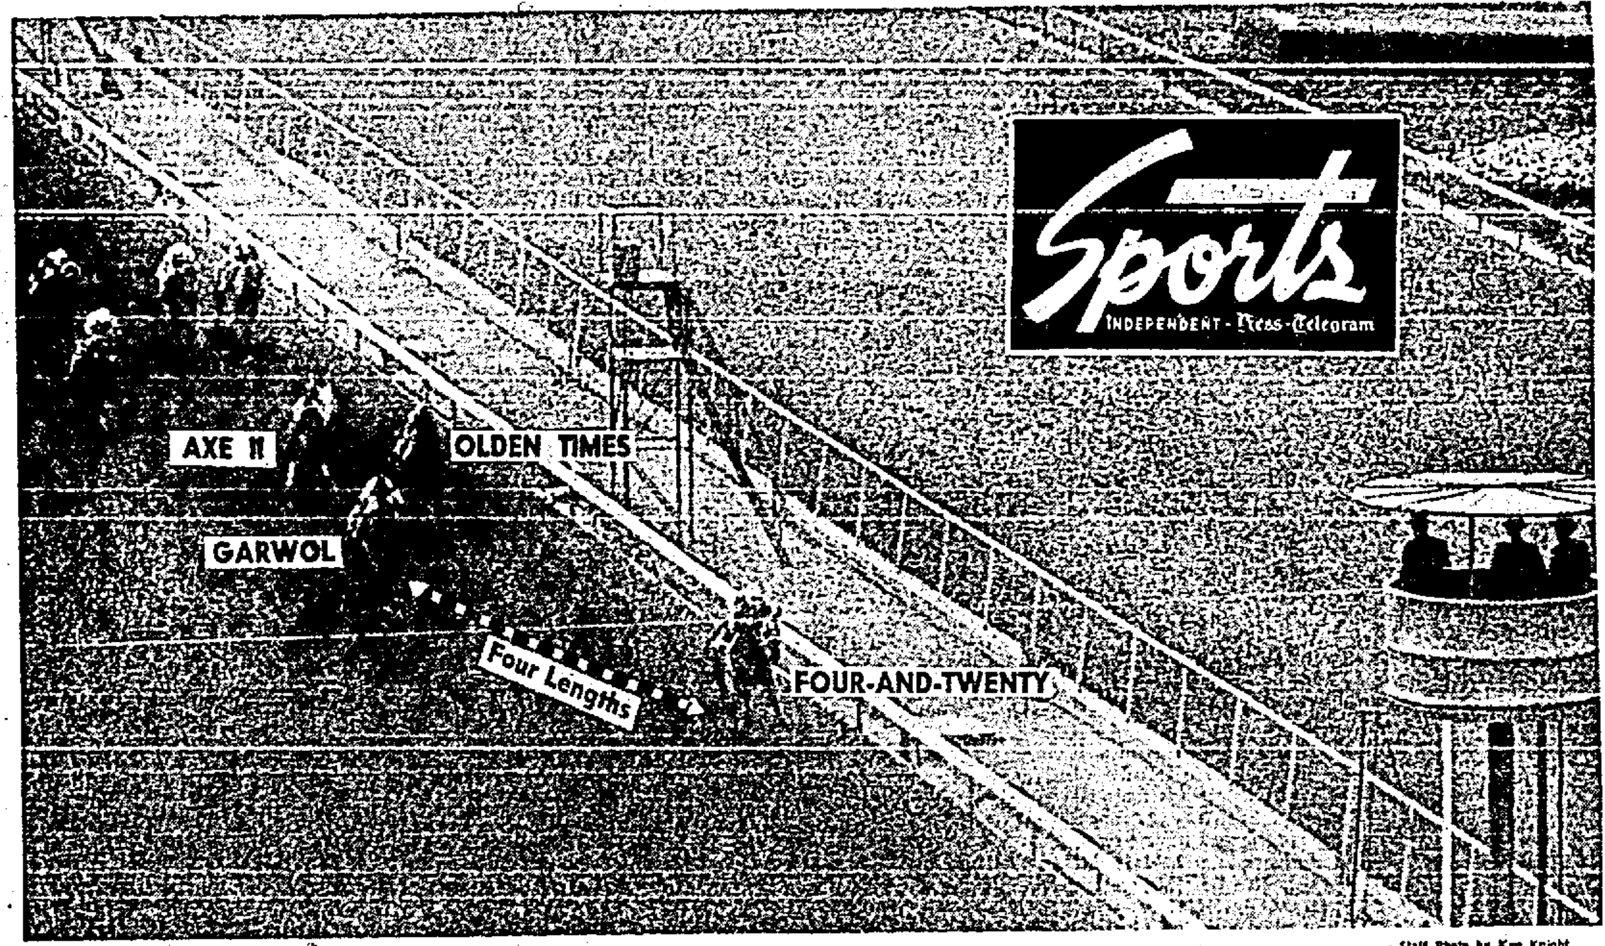
Four-And-Twenty Wins by 4



—Staff Photo by Ken Knight

Eased-up and looking back, Johnny Longden guides Four-And-Twenty to four-length victory in Saturday's Maturity.

Longden's First Maturity Winner Wire-to-Wire

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

The astronaut didn't get off the ground at Cape Canaveral Saturday, but one went into a quick orbit during the $153,190 Maturity at Santa Anita.

California's astronaut was a four-year-old colt named Four-And-Twenty, who shot to a galloping four-length triumph in the classic's 15th running.

Four-And-Twenty, the odds-on favorite, justified the 52,469 onlookers' patriotism by frolicking wire-to-wire. The Canadian-bred dandy traversed the mile and one-quarter route in 2:01 and might have cracked Round Table's 1958 record of 1:59 4/5 if anything had been available to extend him.

• • • •

THE RACE was such a breeze for Johnny Longden, who was astride his very first Maturity winner, that the 54-year-old horse pilot looked back at his "opposition" continually during the stretch run and had his colt eased-up at the wire.

Four-And-Twenty returned a surprisingly good $3.40 bonus for his backers, while Garwol—who arrived on the grounds only last Monday from Florida—paid $4.60 to place and Olden Times $2.60 to show.

Garwol was four lengths ahead of Olden Times, which was nearly a length in front of Axe II.

The race can be chronicled in one name — Four-And-Twenty. Longden's colt shot into the lead immediately, got a little pressure from Olden Times and a 63-1 shot called Park Royal, then let loose of his space capsule on the stretch curve — and breezed off with his prize of $79,910.

Garwol was no threat, merely passing tiring horses, but the $30,000 second prize was balm enough for his trip from Florida.

"To me it was one of his best races," declared Longden without cracking a smile. "I never even put my goggles down. There was no reason—nobody was kicking dirt into our faces. As fast as he went, it seems funny to say, it was no apparent effort for him.

"This is some race horse. I tapped him once just lightly between the eighth and sixteenth poles, he just looked around, kinda surprised, and took off again."

JOCKEY John Rotz, also a Florida import, said Garwol

L.B. State Explodes to Dump Diablos, 91-72

By AL LARSON

Even if astronaut John Glenn couldn't get off the ground, Long Beach State hoopmen blasted off midway in the second half en route to a 91-72 victory over Los Angeles State Saturday night before a crowd of 951 in the Diablo gym.

The victory had special meaning for the 49ers. It ended a three-game skid and cracked a long-standing jinx of having never beaten the Diablos at home dating back to the 1950-51 campaign. In addition, the win was only LBSC's fourth in 16 tries with L.A.

Coach Dick Perry's club now stands 4-2 in CCAA play and 10-8 on the season while the setback was L.A.'s fifth in six league starts and 11th of the year against two wins.

The 49ers scrambled L.A. State's "sonic scramble" with a blazing 30-point spurt in the last nine minutes to lock up the roughhouse contest which was marred by 46 fouls, 32 of which were whistled against L.A.

Bill Florentine exploded for 33 points while Dave Jones, Stan Andersen, Lyn Hodge and Randy Sandefur turned in equally big efforts for the winners. The game marked the end of conference playing careers of Jones and Sandefur.

• • • •

PERRY HAD nothing but praise for his entire club in the locker room. "I thought Dave did an outstanding job on the boards while the ball was really falling for Florentine." Perry added. "Everyone held their poise tonight when L.A. applied the pressure early in the second half. Last night we cracked; tonight we didn't."

Andersen was second to Florentine in the scoring column with 18 while Jones followed with 9. But Dave's big asset was on the boards and he led the winners with 10 caroms.

The game was a wild one for better than 30 minutes as LBSC gained a slim 45-43 halftime advantage on the strength of Florentine's 19-point burst. The lead changed hands six times and was knotted on eight other occasions as neither team could pull ahead by more than five.

THE SECOND half was even closer as the two clubs matched baskets for 10 minutes — neither team jumping ahead by more than two points—then Bobby Holland, Ron Batson and Andersen dropped in two-pointers and Long Beach suddenly led, 67-62.

The rout was on as Andersen slipped in two twisting shots from underneath and now the 49ers were up by nine, 73-64 with 5:43 to go.

Florentine took charge again and split the nets for eight points in a row and the 49ers were home free, 85-70. L.A.'s fouling tactics the final minute enabled Long Beach to run off a string of six free throws.

Jim Beck was outstanding for Los Angeles, scoring 21 for the night with a majority resembling Elgin Baylor's patented fade-away shots.

• • • •

LONG BEACH did a complete turnabout from Friday night when it couldn't buy a basket the final half. The 49ers scored 46 points after intermission and for the night dropped in 32 of 66 shots for a torrid 49 per cent average. They also cashed in 27 of 40 free throws which was the big difference.

In the prelim Long Beach State's JVs played the final three minutes with only three players and lost 76-56 to L.A.'s JVs. Three 49ers, Ken Amman, Doug Stockham and Carl Washington fouled out while two others were ejected.

READY FOR BIG FIVE FIGHT

Bruins Run Away From Tech Second Night in Row, 87-58

By JEROME HALL

UCLA is ready for a run at the Big Five basketball championship.

The Bruins played run, run, run Saturday night and corraled Texas Tech for the second night in a row by a wide margin. The score was 87-58.

Now the Uclans have a week to prepare for resumption of the conference race. They meet USC Friday night at the Sports Arena.

Their tuneup series was more impressive than anyone believed possible. Again the Bruins looked like legitimate conference leaders (they are 3-0 and on top of the Big Five standings) as they disassembled the Southwest Conference front runners.

• • • •

THEY ALSO did it by 29 points Friday night but were even more impressive Saturday night because the Texans put up a better fight.

A crowd of 1,400 in Santa Monica CC gymnasium saw the Bruins employ an awesome fast break that cracked open a tight game after 10 minutes and made it a runaway after a dozen minutes.

The Bruins' speed made the Texans look as if they were playing in their high heels and boots.

UCLA held a 14-point halftime lead but the Red Raiders started off with a rally in the second half and closed to 9 points. Then things went flooey for them. They went more than four minutes without a point and UCLA catapulted into a 21-point advantage before Tech tallied again.

• • • •

THE SURPRISE results have raised a sizable question mark over the Bruin basketeers. They were considered fluke leaders of the conference. They weren't supposed to be in the class of Texas Tech, champion of the Southwest Conference last season and winner of 9 of 11 games into this series.

But now there is reason to suspect that UCLA is a genuine contender and USC may have plenty of trouble winning the conference crown consigned to Troy before the season opened.

Guard Johnny Green was high scorer the second night in a row. He had 20 points—18 in the first half — and passed two former Bruin stars on the schools' all-time scoring list. He is the No. 5 man now with 896 points in three seasons. He passed Ron Livingston and Rone Bane.

Green got only two points in the second half, on free throws, because the Texans moved their ace, Del Ray Mounts, onto him after intermission. The Tech ace, the smallest man on the floor, also was his team's high scorer with 21.

Said UCLA coach John Wooden: "It was the nicest weekend I can remember in a long time."

Wooden called the results "a tremendous surprise." He pointed out that none of the onesidedness could be attributed to home court advantage. "We worked out

Hoosiers' Rayl Hits Record 56

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI)—Jimmy Rayl set a Big Ten scoring record Saturday night with 56 points in leading Indiana to a 105-104 overtime victory over Minnesota.

Rayl, a 6-2 junior guard, hit 20 of 39 shots from the field and dropped in 16 of 19 free throws. Rayl sizzled for 25 points in the first half and had pumped in 48 points at the end of regulation play.

The previous scoring record was held by Terry Dischinger of Purdue with 52.

Rayl's 20 field goals also tied a record set by John Tidwell of Michigan. The 104 points set a record for a losing Big Ten team.

In the overtime period, Minnesota led 104-103 with seven seconds to go when Rayl broke loose and hit with a 16-foot jump shot to give Indiana the win.

ANGELS WILL TELEVISE 26 GAMES IN '62

President Robert Reynolds and Mal Klein, general manager of KHJ-TV, announced Saturday a two-year television contract which will bring to Southern California viewers 26 Angel games this season.

Cannel 9 also handled the telecasts of Angel games during the Seraphs' initial season. The station will handle six pre-season games from Palm Springs and during the regular season its cameras will be in every American League park at least once.

Four-And-Twenty begins to draw out as Maturity field enters backstretch. Park Royal was in contention briefly, but faded soon and finished last.

NEW ZEALANDER SNELL RUNS 3:54.4

World Mile Mark Cracked

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP)—Peter Snell, smooth-striding 22-year-old New Zealander cracked Herb Elliott's world mile record by a tenth of a second Saturday night with a 3:54.4 clocking on a grass track.

Elliott, Australia's miracle miler, had held the world record since he ran the distance in 3:54.5 at Dublin, Aug. 6, 1958, on a cinder track termed exceptionally fast. Grass tracks are considered slower.

Snell, who won the 1960 Olympic 800-meter crown at Rome in an upset, came from the rear of the field that included two previous sub 4-minute milers.

• • • •

CONTINUING the assault on the mile record below the 4-minute barrier first broken by Roger Bannister of England with a 3:59.4 clocking at Oxford, England, May 6, 1954, Snell finished about 40 yards ahead of Britain's Bruce Tulloh.

Tulloh, normally a 3-miler, was pushed to his first sub 4-minute mile by Snell's performance. He finished in 3:59.3.

Australia's Albert Thomas and Murray Halberg of New Zealand, members of the under 4-minute club, finished third and fourth, respectively. Others in the race were Barry Cossar, who set the early pace, and Ernie Cunliffe of Claremont, Calif.

No signs of strain appeared on Snell's face after he split the tape in full flight. He jogged about with nervous excitement in the interval before the time was announced, muttering repeatedly:

"I must have done it. I was not that far back was I?"

Snell's coach, Arthur Lydiard, said his conservative estimate of Snell's potential was 3:48 — a full 12 seconds under the 4-minute barrier once thought impregnable.

Bannister, now a doctor, became the first man to crack the 4-minute mile when he broke the 4:01.4 record set by Gunder Haegg of Sweden in 1945. In Washington, D.C., where he is visiting his father-in-law, Bannister called Snell's record "a magnificent achievement."

"I have seen him run several times," Bannister said, "and he looked to me like a man who could run a record mile" despite his concentration on the half-mile or 800 meters.

ELLIOTT, reached at Oxford, England, said:

"I always knew my mile record of 1958 would have to go — and I thought Peter Snell would be the man to do it.

"I used to say 3:50 was the ultimate. Now I don't know. Maybe it could come down as low as 3:45.

Here are history's 10 fastest mile runs.

MARINE'S 15-10 VAULT SETS INDOOR RECORD

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John Uelses of the Quantico Marine Corps School broke the world indoor record for the pole vault with a leap of 15 feet, 10¼ inches Saturday night at the Interscholastic Invitational track and field meet.

Uelses' vault topped the existing indoor record of 15 feet, 9½ inches set by Don Bragg, Feb. 13, 1959 and the pending indoor mark of 15 feet, 9¾ inches set by J. D. Martin on April 12, 1960.

Indoor marks cannot be submitted for consideration as outdoor records.

Uelses set the record on his first try.

The former Florida schoolboy star, who attended Alabama before coming to Quantico, decided not to try again with the bar at 16 feet.

Following his record-breaking feat, Uelses said that his previous best effort was 15 feet, 6¼ inches made during the Sugar Bowl tournament at New Orleans last Dec. 31.

Post-Banquet Bouquets

The sixth annual Century Club banquet is packed in mothballs with the other five—and a genuine sigh of relief is in order for all who sweated through the laborious details.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

It's no easy matter to handle 200 athletes and award winners, in addition to 800 guests (and also to shut down four hotel bars in an effort to begin the program), thus the City of Long Beach owes a tremendous debt of gratitude to the Century Clubbers who spent hundreds of hours planning this fete—Wayne Bryson, Dean O'Hare, Claude Jennings, Frank Mansuy, Jim Judson, Andy Anderson, Jack Dilday, Lauren Proctor and many others.

A few comments on the banquet might serve as balm to the exhausted planners (and to their wives who didn't see much of them the past week):

Marlin McKeever of the Rams—"The only banquet that compares in size with this one is the one in Columbus, Ohio, where they have athletes from every part of the country."

Fred Schaus of the Lakers—"This is the biggest sports banquet I've ever attended . . . and I've seen 'em everywhere."

Pres Jenuine of Western Harness Assn.—"This one beats that big one in Los Angeles . . . Long Beach tops 'em 10-1 in athletes on hand."

Toughest assignment of all was the emcee task handled so capably again by the Serbian prince, Paul Salata. The prince almost started World War III with Ram boss Elroy Hirsch when he introduced Crazylegs as chief of the New York Giants' Far West farm club, but Elroy survived with his usual aplomb.

Another big bouquet is due Salata (even though he presented this writer with a literary award from the L.B. Sanitation Dept. as the author who had most columns wind up in the sewer during 1961).

A GOOD TIME was had by all, even though Bill Barnes had to suffer through Salata's Rose Bowl barbs, John McKay was forced to writhe at the prince's inquisition of the USC football team, J. C. Agajanian had to explain if auto racing was fixed, Ben Agajanian was forced to strip down to his T-shirt (which was secured from Les Richter and was adorned with names of every team for which the much-traveled placekicker had played), Gene Autry was introduced as the hero of today's Late, Late Movies, and Rocky Bridges was roasted on everything from his off-field activities to his chewin' tobacco.

A spur-of-the-moment highlight was the Giants' Cliff Livingston's performance of the Twist, while Mapuana McWhorter was doing a Tahitian dance. (Try either sometime if you want to dissolve a few pounds!)

BILL LOCKYER and Bert Bond were surprised with special awards as citizens and public official, respectively, who aided sports most in this city during 1961. Bond also had to survive Salata, who intimated that the councilman's award was given because he was "the city official most easily REACHED."

Also taken off guard by special mementoes were Shorty Kellogg and Lauren Proctor for their youth work over the years, and ex-Century Club prexy Jim Crooker "for his efforts on behalf of the organization." (The Crooker award has to be seen to be appreciated.)

Kellogg produced a prize crack after receiving his award.

"I wonder just how much I have helped youngsters," said Shorty, "when I look at Ron Fairly there. I spent hours teaching him to play basketball and he winds up as a major league baseball player."

FAIRLY WALTZED OFF with two trophies—for 1961 achievement and also as Long Beach's most popular athlete. The Dodger redhead must have a way with teenage lasses. Vicki Van Hook, last year's most popular winner, was so excited over presenting the trophy to Ron that she couldn't talk. Even my own teenage problem, Chris, goes nutty over mention of his name.

More than 60 athletes received most-popular votes through blanks in the I, P-T, including runnersup Billy Jean Moffitt, Dee Andrews, Greta Andersen, Stan Andersen and Chuck Stearns.

Even though the balloting was limited to Long Beach athletes, Elgin Baylor, Jerry West, Gil Hodges and Duke Snider captured votes, apparently by fans who can't read the fine print.

The people who vote for "Mickey Mouse" on presidential ballots also were in evidence during this poll. Such unlikely "athletes" as composing room makeup man Jim Wilson, Oscar Contratto, Pat Ahern, Melvin Miller, this writer, Eichman and Bob Wells were nominated.

Columnist Wells received four votes, one notating that his "ability to bend both elbows at the same time certainly is worthy of an award as gymnast-of-the-year."

By golly, I think the voter had a point!

13,702 See Blades Romp

By BOB SHIBLEY

With the largest crowd in Western Hockey League history looking on, the Blades staged a dazzling exhibition of stick-handling to defeat the Calgary Stampeders 7-1 Saturday night at the Sports Arena.

The attendance of 13,702 bettered the previous high of 10,403 at Portland Nov. 12. Previous Blade best was 10,266 in the season opener Oct. 13.

While Terry Slater's hat trick captured offensive honors, it was Wally Hergesheimer who broke the game wide open and started the Blades on the victory trail.

Hergesheimer scored two goals within a 29-second span during a wild second period which saw the Blades score five times, leaving the partisan crowd hysterical. Hergesheimer's first goal came with 3:33 gone, with assists credited to Real Chevrefils and Ed Panagabko. Wally's second tally was unassisted and came off a steal.

Slater made it 3-0 with 9:47 left after taking a perfect pass from Hoagy Carmichael. Other second period Blade goals were scored by Slater and Don McLeod, the latter coming with only three seconds left.

So continuous and furious was the Blades' offensive attack during the period, that Blade goalie Marcel Pelletier made only 11 saves.

Slater scored his third goal with only 1:01 gone in the final period and the final Blade goal was sticked-in by Chevrefils. Pelletier lost his shutout with 11:18 left when Gordon Vejprava drove the puck into the net from close-in.

FIRST PERIOD— Scoring: None. Penalties—Picard 5:27, Benthey 11:37. Saves—Pelletier 14, Babuk 11.

SECOND PERIOD—Scoring: Los Angeles, Hergesheimer (Chevrefils, Panagabko) 3:33. Hergesheimer (unassisted) 4:32; Slater (Carmichael) 10:11; Slater (Carmichael, O'Ree) 15:54; McLeod (Carmichael, Benthey) 19:57. Penalties—Barkley 2:37, Fizzell 9:54, O'Ree 9:54, McAvoy 13:31. Saves—Pelletier 11, Babuk 11.

THIRD PERIOD: Scoring—Los Angeles, Slater (Carmichael, O'Ree) 0:13. Los Angeles, Chevrefils (Konik) 2:31. Calgary, Vejprava (Leopold, Norris) 8:42. No penalties.

Total saves. Pelletier 14-11-13—38, Babuk 13-15-10—38.

Vikings Hit Win Circle

By KEN PIVERNETZ

No one could tell Saturday night that Long Beach City College had a losing record, but everyone could see how Santa Monica had come to town with a 33-game losing streak.

The Vikes executed a beautiful fast-break offense to run the hapless Corsairs all the way back to Santa Monica reeling from a 97-85 setback. For a team that was frustrated Friday night by Bakersfield, it was a wonderful sight.

• • • •

WITH ONLY eight players suited up, LBCC got a 27-point effort by Jerry Dick and 26 from little Tim Sweeney to lead the way.

Sweeney and Dick scored repeatedly on passes off the fast break sprung by a yeoman-like job by Mike Woodward on the backboard. Woodward also scored 18 points.

The key to the game and perhaps Santa Monica's downfall was four quick fouls in the first half on Gary Adams, the conference's leading scorer. Adams was held to 14 points, 10 below his season average. He fouled out midway through the final half.

It was a high-scoring first half with the surprising Corsairs holding a 44-41 lead at halftime, mainly on the good outside shooting of 5-8 Ed Cadis.

• • • •

HOWEVER, fouls played a big part in the second half, slowing the pace down somewhat. Woodward hit six free throws in a row at one point to pull Long Beach from behind and put it ahead for good, 52-49.

The win puts Long Beach at 3-4 in Metropolitan Conference play. The Corsairs are now 0-6, having lost 20 straight this season.

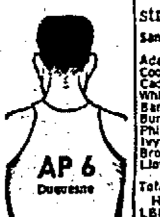
Duquesne Rips LaSalle

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Duquesne, with Mike Rice hitting for 24 points and Willie Somerset for 21, rolled to an 80-66 basketball victory over LaSalle at the Pitt Fieldhouse Saturday night.

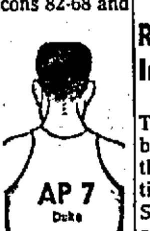


The Dukes, ranked sixth in the weekly Associated Press college basketball poll, built up a 10-0 lead in the first four minutes of play before Gene Park dropped in a field goal for LaSalle's first points.

The victory was Duquesne's 14th of the season against only two losses. The Explorers now have a 9-5 mark.

Duke Drubs Wake Forest

DURHAM (AP) — Seventh-ranked Duke pulled away from Wake Forest in the last seven minutes Saturday to wallop the Deacons 82-68 and tie idle North Carolina for the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball lead.



Art Heyman scored six of Duke's eight points in a two-minute scoring spree that erased a one-point Wake Forest lead and shot the Blue Devils ahead 67-60 with 5:30 to play.

Then Duke threw a zone defense at Wake Forest that stymied the Deacons the rest of the way, forcing them to take bad shots and make mistakes that lost the ball.

Heyman led the scorers with 26 points to retain fifth place in the national race.

Ex-Washington Bowl Hero Quits Football

SEATTLE (AP) — Don McKeta, 28, halfback for the Saskatchewan Rough Riders, announced Saturday he is quitting football and quipped: "I guess a guy has got to adjust himself to old age."

McKeta was a star for Washington in two Rose Bowl games — against Wisconsin in 1960 and Minnesota in 1961.

Reed, Douglas Gain Indoor Net Semis

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Top-ranked Whitney Reed breezed into the semifinals of the Salisbury indoor invitational tennis tournament Saturday, whipping Leif Beck of Philadelphia 6-1, 6-4.

Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., ranked second, also romped into the semifinals. Douglas scored a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Ned Neeley of Atlanta.

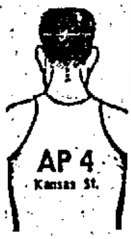
Kansas St. Preserves Long Jinx

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Kansas State's Warren Brown flipped in a layup with four seconds left to give the fourth-ranked Wildcats a 56-55 Big Eight basketball victory over Iowa State Saturday night and preserve their jinx over the Cyclones.



Kansas State, now 4-1 in conference play, has beaten the Cyclones in their last six meetings, and each game was decided by two points or less.

The victory was Kansas State's 14th in 16 games this season.

Gary Marriott was the Wildcats' leading scorer with 15 points. Bob Stoy led the Cyclones with 17.

Ironically, it was Stoy who was called for traveling to set up Kansas State's victory.

Indians Toppled Again

SEATTLE (AP)—Little Dick Reiten got Washington off to a fast start Saturday night and the Huskies whipped Stanford 65-49, their second Big Five Conference basketball victory over the Indians in two nights.

Reiten tallied 10 points in the first 10 minutes, pacing Washington to a 14-8 advantage. Stanford did not score for the first five minutes and was trailing by six when Tom Dose finally tipped in a rebound to put his team on the scoreboard.

• • • •

THE GAME was never close after Reiten's scoring splurge and Washington carried a 30-19 lead at the intermission.

Stanford's attack suffered when Dose went out on fouls with nine minutes still to play and was followed four minutes later by teammate John Windsor.

Burleson, Tabori Upset in Distances

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Jim Grelle sped past American mile record holder Dyrol Burleson near the start of the final lap to upset the Oregon star in the feature event of the second annual Oregon Invitational indoor track and field meet before 7,673 fans Saturday night.

Grelle won by about 15 yards in the slow time of 4:10.2. Burleson was second in 4:12.2.

Jim Beatty took the 1,000-yard run in 2:09.9, but Oregon's Keith Forman upset Laszlo Tabori in the two-mile in the meet sprinkled with upsets. Forman was named the meet's outstanding performer. His time was 8:52.1.

Parry O'Brien, the world record holder, won the shotput at 60-10¼ inches.

John Cramer of Washington took the pole vault with 15-½ inch, the same height gained by Ron Morris of USC. Cramer won on the basis of fewer misses, the same way that Phil Fehlen of Santa Clara Youth Village defeated Bob Avant of USC in the high jump. Both were at 6-8.

Wooden said there is no reason to believe his team won't keep right on winning. "They've improved steadily all the way through the season. They think they can be big winners."

Things have happened in a hurry to the Bruins. They were targets for sneers and snickers not long ago. Now nobodys laughing. Just wondering. How good?

UCLA's freshman team won its 11th game in its undefeated season, defeating Citrus JC, 80-56.

Freddie Goss scored 26 points and the other high scoring guard, Gail Goodrich, scored 22.

DISCHINGER SCORES 50 IN PURDUE LOSS

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin rallied brilliantly in the second half to score a hard-earned 89-86 Big Ten Conference basketball victory over Purdue Saturday despite a near-record 50-point splurge by the Boilermakers' superb Terry Dischinger.

The triumph made it three straight conference victories for the Badgers without a defeat. The loss evened Purdue's Big Ten record at 3-3.

ELGIN ON HAND AGAIN

Lakers, Packers Collide

By DON HARDIN

The Lakers engage in one of their rare afternoon games today when they meet the Chicago Packers at the Sports Arena. Game time is 2:30.

Chicago, led by towering Walter Bellamy, has made only one appearance this season at the Arena and that was in a losing cause. In fact, only three teams have been able to win against Elgin Baylor, Jerry West and Co. there this year and the Lakers will be attempting to stretch their home advantage to 19-3.

Although the Packers repose in last place in the Western Division of the NBA, they certainly are no pushovers. Bellamy is one of the game's leading scorers and rebounders and is near cinch for "rookie of the year" honors. Bobby Leonard, who was drafted from the Lakers when Chicago joined the NBA, has been a tremendous asset to the club and of late has been its second high scorer.

Elgin Baylor, who, with West, sparked the Lakers to their recent two-game sweep over Cincinnati Royals, will play again today. Elgin proved that even with a slight loss in timing due to inactivity he is still one of the game's greats by scoring 77 points and leading both teams in rebounds during the series.

The Lakers wind up their brief home series with the Packers Tuesday night.

CELTS' COACH BLASTS REFS

NEW YORK (AP)—Red Auerbach, coach of the National Basketball Association champion Boston Celtics, charged that referees Norm Drucker and Mendy Rudolph "choked up" in Boston's 129-121 loss to New York Friday night, the New York Journal-American reported.

"You go right ahead and print that," Auerbach told a reporter, "I've had enough of this. They (the Knicks) were fouling us deliberately time after time in the last period and they (the officials) were giving us one shot.

"Any time we foul someone like that, we get charged with a deliberate foul and the other side gets two shots. We haven't had a chance to shoot two all year."

AMERICA'S PASTIME: FOOTBALL OR BASEBALL?

Lane Lashes Back; Lethargy Only Problem

BESARIK or BENASIK
"Or Whatever It Is"

By FRANK LANE
Former Baseball Executive

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla (AP)—Baseball has only itself to blame for the ridiculous claim made by purposeful-minded persons that professional football some day will take over as the nation's No. 1 sport.

There's little question in my mind that this so-called struggle between these two major sports for supremacy of fan interest is a preposterously contrived scheme, initiated by certain football owners and spurred by football writers.

Pro football is a fine sport and it certainly is not my intention to tear it down. It has lots of things going for it; no minor leagues to worry about, few ball parks to be concerned with because most are owned by baseball, and it has a reservoir of talent developed gratis for it on college gridirons.

But even the most fanatic football fan must realize that because of its obvious restrictions and limitations, it cannot possibly ever hope to compete on an even basis with baseball.

Pro football points proudly to its increased attendances at the same time baseball attendances have decreased but it conveniently fails to add that pro football, a one-day-a-week sport, plays only on Sunday, the best potential drawing day, while baseball is played every day in the week.

At best, two football teams cannot play each other more than twice in a season, no sooner than a week apart. How many fans would two teams, playing each other three consecutive days, draw in their second and third games? In the 1959 World Series, the Dodgers and White Sox, playing in the Los Angeles Coliseum, drew more than 92,000 on three successive days. The NFL Pro Bowl game, also played at the Coliseum, drew 57,000 spectators. How many do you think would have come if the two teams played again the next day, and the day after that?

The mystery to me is why baseball makes no defense against the barbs hurled at it by football lovers. It's an old, old story . . . the little guy taking a rap at the big guy . . . but the big guy is smug, buries his head in the sand and feels he needs no defense.

Baseball is either blind or foolish. It must fight propaganda with propaganda. It must promote its wares. It must remind the people of its achievements, its accomplishments, its great tradition.

Football has no tradition to speak of. It has no great heroes to recall as baseball has in Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Lou Gehrig, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Honus Wagner, Mel Ott and countless others. Football has no modern day stars to compare with Stan Musial, Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio, Bob Feller and Jackie Robinson. Football players are in the limelight only about 12 or 14 weeks as compared to baseball's 52 weeks a year.

The average duration of a football player is two to three years with some exceptions like Besarik, or Benasik, whatever his name is (Chuck Bednarik of the Philadelphia Eagles). The average football fan doesn't know what record, if any, Paul Hornung set in the NFL championship game last month, but every baseball fan knows that Whitey Ford broke Babe Ruth's consecutive scoreless innings record in the last World Series.

I DON'T MEAN TO CONVEY the impression that baseball is infallible. It has a great product but no matter how good a product, it is never good enough that it can't stand improvement. Baseball should be more aggressive. The game should be more streamlined. The people in it should make more of an effort for the game to be more attractive and interesting.

I have some ideas of my own on what should be done. There should be an elimination of the period of immobility. There is too much wasted motion in baseball. They should take more of the rabbit out of the ball, make it more difficult to score cheap runs, restore the art of base stealing, and concentrate more on inside baseball, such as the hit and run and squeeze play.

I was tickled to death last year to see a kid like Dick Howser (rookie Kansas City shortstop) steal 31 bases. He's an exciting ball player. Speed is always exciting. Cobb was exciting not because of his tremendous batting ability but because of his daredevilish base running. The same for Robinson. Willie Mays is the most exciting player in baseball today. It's not just his hitting that makes him so; it's his actions on the basepaths and his wizardry in the outfield. Luis Aparicio, who steals 50 bases a year, easily is the most exciting player in the American League.

I'D RATHER SEE APARICIO steal home than Roger Maris hit a home run. Baseball has gone home run crazy. Time was when a home run was a big thrill. A homer means nothing any more.

There's too much stalling, especially by managers and pitchers. That long trek by a relief pitcher from the bullpen to the mound is a joke. I once actually put a stop watch on Satchel Paige and it took him 13 minutes to make his first pitch from the time he began his stroll from the bullpen.

There is nothing wrong with baseball that can't be remedied. It's currently in transition. Expansion has diluted the game. But once major league baseball settles down into three leagues, it should become much more interesting.

3 DODGERS OK PACTS

The number of contented Dodgers rose to 11 Saturday with receipt of signed 1962 contracts from pitchers Pete Richert and Larry Staab and second baseman Larry Burright.

Richert, bothered by a sore arm last season, was 5-10 with Spokane, but is given an excellent chance to make the varsity. Staab had a 7-6 record in his first season at Kokomo.

Burright, a Fullerton JC graduate, batted .291 with Atlanta and is being groomed as the likely replacement for Charlie Neal. Other signs of spring Saturday included:

White Sox: Signed veteran pitcher Ray Herbert and rookies Ken Lawrence (pitcher), Larry Johnson (catcher) and Brian McCall (outfielder). McCall hails from Long Beach and starred at Poly High.

Yankees: Bill Skowron became the ninth member of the Yankees to sign a '62 pact, agreeing to an estimated $35,000.

Reds: Signed second baseman Don Blasingame, pitchers Bob Krop and Tom Leder, infielder Frank Obregon and catcher Jesse Gonder, received in trade from the Yankees.

Pirates: Third baseman Don Hoak became the 21st Pirate to agree to terms.

ALSTON, RIG PREVIEW 'HOME'

By GEORGE LEDERER

A half-dozen bulldozers roaring in the background kept two dozen semi-dozers from snoring in the foreground Saturday morning while managers Walter Alston of the Dodgers and Bill Rigney of the Angels were given a sneak-preview of Dodger Stadium and/or Chavez Ravine.

Said Alston of Dodger Stadium: "It's the finest I've seen anywhere."

Said Rigney of Chavez Ravine: "It's absolutely marvelous."

Obviously, both managers were impressed by the home they will call their own in April. Strangely, the two were given little opportunity to discuss the park's many innovations, save for hot and cold running teams.

• • • •

THE ASSEMBLY at the joint press conference appeared more interested in opening day lineups than, say, the ground rules that might apply in case Willie Davis takes a dive into the center field water fall.

Alston, only 24 hours removed from four inches of snow on his Darrtown, O., ranch, was startled somewhat by the first question, "who's your first baseman?" He recovered neatly, however.

"That's one of the better questions," he answered (?). "We have three prospects and we want all to feel that they have a chance."

• • • •

AS YOU can see, Alston was in mid-season form.

Rigney, on the other hand, was 20 minutes late and a little rusty as well. He asked, "where's third base?"

When Rigney arrived, publicists Red Patterson of the Dodgers and Irv Kaze of the Angels made the press conference official. This was done by placing baseball caps on the respective and balding heads of the managers.

Rigney, who claims the listed world record for opening and closing ball parks, observed that "this place looks like Idlewild. I hope my hitters don't get upset.

"Actually, I think this park will make us play better. We're going to have to play better."

Rigney compared Chavez Ravine to the Minneapolis ball park, being careful to stress "distance-wise."

Both managers are convinced that the new park will make games more exciting with the accent on speed, defense and pitching. And both were ready to field the certain "will you platoon?" question on the short hop.

"Platoon? I hope I can find nine," said Rigney.

"Platoon? I think the park itself will eliminate some of the platooning," said Alston. "Of course, it will depend on whether we want power or speed and defense. We can't have both at the same time."

• • • •

DODGER vice president Fresco Thompson revealed tentative plans for a rapid transit system from the bullpen to the mound. Relief pitchers may be brought in on a motor cart with fire engine motif, complete with hook and ladder and a helmet for the driver.

"For a slight extra charge," Thompson told Rigney, "we'll let you use it to get Bilko back to first base."

Bullpens will be located adjacent to the center field bleachers, some 420 feet from the mound. Without the cart, it is feared relievers of both clubs might be worn out by mid-May.

Another distance problem may be the 70-foot area between home plate and the first row of seats. "After Roseboro chases those foul pops for a couple of months, he'll be able to ride in the Derby," said Thompson. "The catcher may have more ground to cover than the center fielder."

BASEBALL FISH DERBY SET TUESDAY

Walter Alston and Bill Rigney, who never alibi a baseball loss, get a legitimate chance to talk about the "big one that got away" this week.

The two managers will captain Dodger and Angel teams in the second annual Lake Mead baseball fishing derby Tuesday.

Joining Alston's team are Dodger officials Buzzie Bavasi, Red Patterson, Lee Scott, announcer Jerry Doggett, host Ben Goffstein of the Riviera Hotel and writers. Rigney's team includes Angels' brass Fred Haney, Irv Kaze, Cedric Tallis and scribes.

USGA Adds to Duffers' Problems

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U. S. Golf Association Saturday announced changes in the playing rules of golf which will make it just a bit tougher for the player who scatters his shots.

At its annual meeting, the USGA decided to drop a couple of rules experiments which it had been conducting for the past two years and go back to the old playing rules concerning balls hit out of bounds or into unplayable lies.

Under the rules experiment, a player who hit a ball out of bounds was allowed to take a one-stroke penalty and play the ball from a spot within two club lengths of where the ball crossed the boundary. Now, however, the game goes back to the old rule of a one-stroke penalty plus loss of distance.

For a ball in an unplayable lie, the old rule comes back—one-stroke penalty plus loss of distance or two-stroke penalty and playing a ball within two club lengths of the unplayable lie.

Another experiment dropped was that concerning the rule for playing a provisional ball on out of bounds. Now, a provisional ball will be allowed only for an original ball believed in an unplayable lie, or in water or in lateral hazards.

Officers elected were: president—John Winter, Tulsa; vice presidents—Clarence Benedict, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and William Foshay, Greenwich, Conn.; secretary—Bernard Ridder, St. Paul; treasurer—Hord W. Hardin, Creve-Coeur, Mo.

Littler Boosts Lucky Lead to 6

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Precision-shooting U.S. Open champion Gene Littler boosted his lead in the $50,000 Lucky International golf tournament to six strokes Saturday with a three-under-par third round 68, totalling 201 for 54 holes.

Littler hasn't won a tournament since he captured the National Open at Oakland Hills in Detroit last June, but his scoring here indicated a runaway over the Harding Park Municipal course for the stoic 31-year-old from San Diego.

• • • •

IN SECOND place at 207 came Billy Casper and Bob Rosburg, both with 68s, and Canadian George Knudson of Toronto with a 67.

While his nearest rivals fell back, Gene-the-machine nearly sank a hole-in-one and also hit two of the greatest recovery shots seen in this or any other tournament.

Littler's tee shot on the 166-yard 3rd hole stopped only a foot from the cup and he tapped in the first of his five birdies for the day.

On the 4th hole, a 570-yard par 5, Gene's second shot was off the fairway and under trees. He hooked his third 175 yards to the green and scored his five, turning an almost certain bogey into a par.

On the 7th, his tee shot lay stymied under a tree to the left of the fairway. Littler hit a low hooking No. 2 iron to within four feet of the cup and holed for his birdie.

• • • •

LITTLER carded a 4-under-par 32 on his opening nine over the par 36-35 course which measures 6,672 yards as close rivals struggled to match regulation figures. His birdies also included puts of 15 feet at the 6th hole and four feet at the 9th.

He proved he was human when he carded a double bogey five at the 183-yard par 3 11th hole. He missed the green, then three-putted. But he regained one of those strokes at the 16th with a birdie.

PLAYER RAPS S.F. GREENS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Defending champion Gary Player accused Harding Park greenskeepers of neglecting the golf course and allowing it to fall into "terrible shape."

The little South African pro made his caustic comments after finishing his third round with a par 71 for a total of 216, five over par.

"I've had 11 three putt greens in this tournament already and paradoxically, have never played better golf," Gary said.

Lopsided Duke for Rodriguez

NEW YORK (UPI)—Speedily persistent Luis Rodriguez of Cuba swarmed over Federico Thompson of Argentina Saturday night and beat the South American welterweight champion with such a lopsided 10-round decision in their TV fight that it may send him into retirement.

Rodriguez, weighing 150¾ pounds to Thompson's 150½, won the nationally televised bout at Madison Square Garden on a rounds basis as follows: referee Jimmy Devlin, 9-1; judge Joe Agnello, 9-1, and judge Jimmy Riccio, 7-3.

'WOULD TED SPLIT WITH ROCKY?'

No Date for Snead at Spa's $50,000 Hole-in-One Ball

By JERRY WYNN

It isn't fair.

You, fellow duffer, may hit thousands of golf shots and receive nothing in return but heartbreaks and backaches.

But one golfer, no duffer he, may hit just one shot this week and be $50,000 richer.

• • • •

THAT IS the stipend being offered again for a hole-in-one in the $50,000 Palm Springs Desert Golf Classic starting Wednesday and continuing through Sunday on five of the plush spa courses.

Inaugurated in 1960, the $50,000 ace has become the most rewarding and electrifying gimmick in sports. Lloyds of London was extremely optimistic that year when it insured against the hole-in-one possibility for $4,500.

Joe Campbell rapidly proved them wrong by spanking a 3-iron into the cup on the 205-yard fifth hole at Tamarisk. Then he rapidly proved himself wrong by revealing that he had agreed to split the prize with little-known Buddy Sullivan.

The premium was raised to $13,500 last year. Lanky Don January made "Big Ten" chime on the Tower of London with an 8-iron arched into the hole on the 148-yard 15th at Indian Wells.

Lloyds is back fighting this year, but its price has jumped to $18,800. If an ace is made again, the company will be $113,000 "in the hole" on the venture.

JANUARY CAMPBELL

One of the pros taking aim at the giant jackpot (in a tournament appropriately set among groves of oranges and lemons) is a hungry hillbilly from the mountains of West Virginia. At least, that is the legendary calling of Samuel Jackson Snead.

• • • •

IT WOULD be just like Mr. Moneybags of golf to play in the tournament only at the prompting of his equipment sponsor and leave with all the loot . . . shades of Las Vegas last year.

While practically all the pros will make pre-tournament deals to split the $50,000 on the theory that two chances for $25,000 is better than one at $50,000, Snead is a certainty to go at it alone.

You can just hear him saying, "Shucks, would Ted Williams split with Rocky Bridges? Old Sam doesn't split with anyone!"

Bayer Fires Ace

George Bayer, who'll be competing in the spa-tacular, may have missed the $50,000 by one week. He fired an ace during the Lucky International at San Francisco Saturday. His only reward: "A big thrill."

Crum, Creed Gain Four-Ball Finals

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Schoolteachers Maurine Crum of Plant City, Fla., and Clifford Ann Creed of Alexandria, La., upset the defending champions 1-up Saturday and moved into the finals of the women's international four-ball golf tournament.

Misses Crum and Creed beat Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., and Barbara Williams of Richmond, Calif.

TALK ABOUT FANTASTIC SHOTS—

Barber's Putts Kindle Golf's Hot Stove

CHICAGO (AP) — Jerry Barber received the "putter-of-the-year" award this week and it kindled a fire in golf's hot stove league.

He sank successive putts of 20, 40 and 60 feet on the last three holes of the 1961 National PGA at Chicago's Olympia Fields.

Should this feat be rated No. 1 on golf's major tournament "fantastic list"?

Barber's climactic 60-footer dropped for a birdie 3 with night closing in. He barely could see the hole. It gave him a 72-hole total of 277, sending him into an 18-hole playoff the next day with Don January for the title.

Barber won 67-68, becoming the oldest (45) and smallest (5-5, 135 pounds) National PGA champion in history.

What are the odds of sinking three such long clutch putts in a row?

Are they greater than the following "fantastic list" favorites?

In 1953, Lew Worsham was on the 72nd hole of the "World Championship of Golf" at Tam O'Shanter. He had hit a booming drive, leaving him about 130 yards from the pin, located on the back side of the green.

JERRY BARBER
Three Putts: 120 Feet

Worsham's threesome was the last on the course. Dusk was settling and Lew was eager to take his second shot. Lew needed a birdie to tie Chandler Harper for the title. Television cameras were trained on him. The huge gallery was hushed.

Worsham took a wedge and whacked the ball. As far as wedge shots are supposed to go, it was lousy. It hit several feet on the front part of the green. Instead of biting, it rolled a good 20-25 feet and plopped into the cup without hardly touching the pin.

The eagle deuce beat the stunned Harper by one stroke.

In 1935, Craig Wood was being congratulated as winner of the Masters at Augusta after playing the last eight holes in 4-under-par for a 282. Gene Sarazen was three strokes behind with four holes to go.

On the 485-yard 15th, Sarazen sent a fairway spoon shot screaming toward the green from 220 to 230 yards away. The ball went into the hole for a double-eagle deuce. Gene parred each of the tough final three holes to tie Wood, then won the 36-hole playoff.

LEW WORSHAM
Hit "Lousy" Wedge

The feats of Sarazen, Worsham and now Barber must head the "fantastic list." But if you want argument try rating them in order.

Many other amazing accomplishments have been recorded in major tournaments, perhaps under less pressure. These include:

Arnold Palmer's successive birdie putts of 35 and 6 feet on the last two holes to win the 1960 Masters.

Byron Nelson's birdie-eagle-ace in succession on the 505-yard 9th, 475-yard 10th, and 135-yard 11th, en route to tying Clayton Heafner in the 1942 Tam O'Shanter. Nelson won the playoff with a string of three holes of birdie-eagle-birdie.

Sarazen's 100 strokes on the last 28 holes (3.5 average) in winning the 1932 National Open at Fresh Meadows, L.I., with 278.

Mets See Banner Dollar Season

HITTIN' THE HIGH SPOTS: Baseball men agree that the most successful first-year operation of the four new major league teams will be recorded by the New York Mets during the forthcoming season.

Neither the Angels nor Washington Senators set the world on fire at the gate in their first season in the American League in '61. And the Houston Colts are expected to have just a so-so year when they make their National League bow this spring along with the Mets.

FLOYD PATTERSON
Afraid of No Man

But the Mets could have a banner season in the dollar department. First of all, as we pointed out recently, they have signed a million-dollar radio-TV contract which also calls for the sponsor to ante up another $100,000 for tickets.

Furthermore, the club has sold 1,100 season tickets to date for its first season in the Polo Grounds. That tops anything the Giants ever did in New York.

For instance, the Giants' season-ticket high was 950, registered the year after Bobby Thomson hit the home run off Ralph Branca of the Dodgers in the memorable playoff for the N.L. pennant.

The Mets, of course, will be able to offer the Dodgers and Giants in their triumphant return to New York and those 18 games alone should produce attendance well in excess of a half-million.

There are still thousands of loyal Dodger and Giant rooters in the big city and it figures they'll turn out in force, especially since the two clubs will be in the thick of the pennant fight.

THE BITTER FEUD BETWEEN the NCAA and AAU over basketball and track domination on both the national and Olympic levels actually was ignited during the Olympic cage playoffs at Denver in March, 1960.

During the tournament, there was constant bickering over the selection of game officials and the players named to the Olympic squad for competition in Rome.

The AAU, it is charged, had both pet officials and players it tried to shove down the throats of the collegiate representatives. These differences of opinion touched off one incident after another and launched the buildup of today's explosive situation between the two ruling bodies of U.S. athletics.

Pete Newell, who coached the Olympic squad, revealed afterward that "it was something like a political convention. Everytime a name was mentioned, the AAU group wanted to make a trade to include some friend of one of the badge-wearers. Merit as the NCAA attempted to define it was completely forgotten."

Similar situations in the track and field setup during the Rome Olympics bolstered the NCAA's position in the rhubarb.

THE OLDEST PUBLICITY TRICK in boxing is for one fighter to make the rounds declaring that the champion or a future opponent is afraid to fight him.

Sonny Liston, of course, is presently on that "kick."

It is getting under Floyd Patterson's skin, since he is the target of Sonny's barbs.

Even though Floyd realizes it is part of the publicity buildup, he thinks such talk should be toned down. "I don't mind when a fighter says he can beat me," he points out. "I expect every man who steps into the ring with me to feel that way, or else he shouldn't be in there.

"But I don't like it when a man says I'm afraid of him. I don't like it at all. I'm afraid of no man."

THE STORM LAST SUNDAY, which forced postponement of the Pebble Beach golf tournament for a day, led veteran observers to recall an interesting item concerning the Bay Area weather.

Until 1938, tournament golf never was postponed. But in '38 a terrific rainstorm and 55-mile-an-hour winds hit the San Francisco Match Play tournament.

Conditions were terrible. Caddies even had to hold onto the golfers putting on the greens to keep them from toppling over.

The PGA rules did not cover such conditions, but as the scores kept mounting, Fred Corcoran, then director of the PGA tournament bureau, stepped in and postponed the event a day.

It was an historic decision. At the next meeting of the PGA tournament committee, a rule was passed empowering the PGA representative to cancel or postpone an event if he found the course to be unfit to play.

McLaren Nips Moss in 75-Mile Race

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI) — Bruce McLaren of New Zealand drove his 2.5 litre Cooper to a half-lap victory over Stirling Moss of Britain Saturday in the 75-mile Tertonga International auto race.

McLaren, who won this race in 1959, led all the way over a track made slippery by oil. He completed the 50 laps of the mile and one-half Invergargill course in 60 minutes, 7.6 seconds at an average speed of 75 miles per hour.

ROUSH TOP CANDIDATE FOR BASEBALL SHRINE

NEW YORK (AP)—Edd Roush, former Cincinnati Reds outfielder who wound up with a .325 lifetime batting average, may be picked for baseball's Hall of Fame today when the oldtimers' committee makes its annual selection.

The oldtimers' selections are limited to players who have been out of competition for at least 30 years.

The baseball writers, who pick from the players out of action at least five years but no one more than 30, last week named Bobby Feller and Jackie Robinson to the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y. They were the 87th and 88th members.

Last year, the oldtimers picked Max Carey and Billy Hamilton after 45 candidates were considered.

"gave it all he had, but the way Four-And-Twenty was running I don't think any horse in the country could have caught him."

Olden Times "came up empty after we'd gone a quarter of a mile," commented Willie Shoemaker, "and I was driving him from then on. He didn't run his race at all."

The Axe, whose effort might have been termed dull (if you'll pardon the wit), ran "real spotty," according to his pilot, Bobby Yanez. "The pace was so fast that I had to stay in a contending position and I couldn't save him at all for the last part of it. He ran a game race, but John's horse was just too much."

• • • •

ALBERTA Ranches' trainer, Vance Longden, said he instructed his jockey father "to ride Four-And-Twenty as though he were the only horse in the race. I didn't want dad to worry about Olden Times or someone else forcing him into a false pace."

Old dad read the script perfectly.

A surprising element about the race was that a refugee from Caliente, Joshua's Command, a $2,500 claiming plug with little to recommend wasn't the longest shot in the chase.

Joshua's Command was a modest 52-1, while Park Royal, as mentioned was 63-1 and Rablero was 66-1. The people who plunged $13,151 on Joshua's nostrils must have thought they still were fighting the Battle of Jericho. At least they could have found a worthier charity for their donation, instead of the Santa Anita foundation.

EVEN THOUGH Four-And-Twenty wasn't pushed to any mark, a record was set in the day's final event. Sixteen claims were filed for a six-year-old fellow named Knotty Problem. The claim was won in a draw by trainer Farrell Jones, who's got a knotty problem all his own right now.

Knotty Problem (the horse), one of the favorites, finished a less-than-rousing sixth in a chase that would never be billed as next May's Kentucky Derby.

Western Speedway Features Twin Bill

Western Speedway's first doubleheader of the year highlights a slim auto racing slate today.

Rain last Sunday forced the postponement of the CJA super-modified racers and thus they are being combined with the stock cars today.

Vallie Engelauf has a narrow lead over Downey's Jack Austin in the super modified classification while Gene Davis of Venice is atop the stock car point standings.

First race starts at 2:30 p.m., preceded by time trials at 1.

A TWO-OUT-OF-THREE match race between Leland Kolb and TV star Tommy Ivo for the No. 1 national rating in the gas fuel class headlines the weekly card at the Long Beach Lions Drag Strip, 223rd and Alameda.

Kolb, from Buena Park, will drive the Howard Cam Special that is generally recognized as the No. 1 dragstar in the country.

Making their first appearance in several years today will be the return of unlimited fuel dragster competition. A $500 bond will go to the winner in both the fuel and gas classification.

Time trials begin at 9:30 a.m., eliminations at 1:30 p.m.

$44,162 Payoff to Lucky Bettor in Caliente Pool

AGUA CALIENTE (UPI)—Popacatepetl pulled away for an easy four-length victory Saturday in the mile and 70-yard feature at Caliente race track and completed a single $44,162 winning ticket in the 5-10 handicapping contest.

The 5-year-old's victory completed a perfect card of six winners for an unidentified bettor who collected the big prize.

Jockey Raul Caballero brought Popocatepetl up at the head of the stretch and whipped him home over a soft track in 1:43 4/5. The winner paid $10.00, $6.80 and $4.40. Pyrrhus returned $12.60 and $11.60, while Solvang paid $5.00 to show.

Fullmer Sees Early Title Solution

WEST JORDAN, Utah (UPI) — Gene Fullmer, back home after a month on the winter banquet circuit, said Saturday he was anxious to tie the lose ends of the split middleweight championship together by June or July.

However, Fullmer indicated he probably wouldn't have another fight until early summer "because I have too much to do to take another fight before June."

U.S. Skier 19th

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (UPI)—Carl Schranz of Austria won the downhill race of the Ilio Colli skiing cup Saturday while Chuck Ferres of Houghton, Mich., winner of the slalom at Kitzbuehl last Sunday, finished a disappointing 19th.

BELLAMY SELF-MADE NBA STAR AS ROOKIE

CHICAGO (UPI)—Walt Bellamy accepted pro basketball as "the biggest challenge of my life," and after half a season in the National Basketball Association, it still is.

Bellamy, a 6' 10½" college all-America star at Indiana, has become almost a super-star in his first season in the league, with the newly organized Chicago Packers, and but for him the Packers might not have won a game. He is among league leaders in scoring, rebounding and field goal accuracy.

"It's a lot tougher game here than in college," Bellamy said. "I've never been so beat up in my life. Every game is rough, and then you play a lot more games."

Bellamy said he had invented his own style of play this season because "practically nothing I learned in college is any good here. The opposition is too smart."

"I'm moving outside more now," he said, "and shooting outside more. Of course, I do something different every game, and I learn something every game."

RACING ROUNDUP

Royal Palm 'Cap to Hitting Away

MIAMI (AP)—Hitting Away led all the way and won the $32,100 Royal Palm Handicap at Hialeah Park Saturday by five lengths.

South American horses finished second and third as Angel Penna's El Loco from the Argentine was a surprising second and Walnut Hill Farm's Zumbador 2nd, from Uruguay, finished third in the field of 11 handicap stars.

Hitting Away, owned by Ogden Phipps and trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, ran the mile and an eighth in a brisk 1:48⅕, a record for this feature.

Hitting Away, an entry with Wheatley Stable's Royal Record, also trained by Fitzsimmons, was second choice with the crowd of 21,821 and paid $9.70, $5.80 and $4.80 in the $2 mutuels. El Loco paid $17.30 and $10.10, while show price of Zumbador 2nd was $13.60.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Bull Story, a dark-brown front-running colt, boomed into the lead at the head of the stretch to win the $13,075 Pelleteri Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

The speedy colt, who set a track record for six furlongs here last month, was a driving winner over longshot Curran'O. Dale Clavo, from the Wilson and Hall stable, took the show spot.

Bull Story returned $6.60, $4, and $3.20. Curran'O paid $9 and $6 and Dale Clavo returned $4.

The victory was worth $9,575 to Bull Story, who ran the six furlongs over the muddy track in 1:12⅗.

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Two unidentified fans collected $21,670.60 each for a $2 bet Saturday while the crowd of 10,278 wagered a total of $827,521 for a one-day record at the Charles Town race track.

The two luckiest fans collected by picking the four winners of the fifth through the eighth races in what is known as the twin double.

KID RAYO . . . Has large L.B. following

TICKET SALE BRISK

Rayo Early Favorite Over Lopez at Aud Wednesday

By FRANK HARVEY

Kid Rayo, flashy Nicaraguan welterweight, has been installed an early 10-6 choice over Tony Lopez in the 10-round main event at Municipal Auditorium Wednesday night.

The Managua mauler picked up quite a local following in 1959-60 when he turned in three outstanding fights at the Auditorium. His wins included an upset decision over highly rated Gaspar Ortega, a knockout victory over Karl Heinz Guder and a loss to Frankie Belma, which caused a near riot when the decision was announced.

A win is almost a must for Rayo who has been signed to meet Kenny Lane, the No. 6 ranked lightweight in San Antonio, Feb. 13. The handsome Nicaraguan has been working with Tombstone Smith in Los Angeles and is said to be in top shape for the coming encounter.

• • • •

LOPEZ, WHO dropped a hard fought decision to undefeated Johnny Newman at the Auditorium last month, will complete training in San Diego Monday and will arrive here Tuesday.

Veteran manager Onyx Roach, who handles Tony, believes he has a potential champion in the Tijuana youngster. Lopez, a former amateur champion of Baja, California, has won 20 of his 23 pro starts, eleven of them by knockout.

Promoter Don Taylor pointed out Saturday that the advance ticket sale attests to the popularity of both fighters. He said that the early demand for ducats has surpassed any fight he has promoted here.

Four 4-round bouts, featuring ambitious young scrappers from the harbor-Orange County area, complete the card.

• • • •

A PAIR OF classy lightweight boxers, Baby Vasquez and Auburn Copeland, top Friday night's card at Olympic Auditorium.

Vasquez, a 11-year pro veteran, lost a close decision to Lou Molina in his last fight. Copeland just returned from a successful tour of Australia and the Philippines.

• • • •

ELIMINATION bouts for the Southern California Golden Gloves championships continue Thursday night at El Monte Legion Stadium.

Both open and novice division boxers will see action. Winners qualify for the Feb. 10 and 24 finals at Olympic Auditorium.

Abalone Violators Learn the Hard Way

Three teen-agers who appeared before Judge Fred A. Schenk Jr. in Morro Bay Justice Court a few days ago learned the hard way that you can't possess nearly 100 abalone.

Actually they had 97, and that's 82 over the legal limit of five for each person. The fact that they were teen-agers didn't influence the judge's emotions. He did, however, release one defendant, a 16-year-old Torrance boy, after a severe lecture.

The others, C. E. Hamilton, 18, and Michael G. Oliver, 19, both of Hawthorne, got suspended 30-day sentences and $250 fines and lost their licenses for one year. The judge told them he was letting them off easy; that he could have confiscated their automobile and boat. All of their skin-diving equipment was confiscated.

The older boys were apprehended near Piedras Blancas Lighthouse north of San Simeon by game wardens Harris and Stewart. They were leaving the water with their tremendous haul of abalone.

News of the case was relayed to this department by Les Williams, a retired I, P-T printer and an oldtime fishing buddy of this columnist. Les now lives in Morro Bay.

IF YOU HEAR STRANGE BEEPS on your radio while touring Yellowstone National Park next summer, you may be picking up Ol' Br'er B'ar's broadcasting apparatus. It has come to that; grizzlies are being wired for sound so that certain humans will know where they are by turning to 870 on the dial.

Remington Research Bureau says that the project has a serious purpose. The big bears are becoming scarce and what scientists learn about their habits today may save them from extinction tomorrow.

Dr. John Craighead, of the Montana Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit, and his brother, Dr. Frank Craighead, of the National Geographic Society, have been working on the program. It is sponsored by the NGS and the National Science Foundation.

The bear-broadcasting is simple enough. The Craigheads rig steel culverts as traps and bait them with such tempting items as bacon, honey or pineapple juice. When Br'er B'ar steps inside for a quick lunch, an air gun fires a syringe loaded with a harmless tranquilizing drug.

While in a happy sleep, the bear is fitted with a plastic collar carrying a tiny radio. From then on he has no secrets. A continuous signal can be heard over a five-mile radius.

THE $90 MILLION TRINITY DAM, world's highest earthfill structure, has been finished two months ahead of schedule. Construction of the dam began in April, 1957. It and its related features comprise the Trinity River Division of California's Central Valley Project. Completion of all features of the Trinity unit is slated for 1966.

Laying all statistics to the side—and there are plenty—the great Trinity Reservoir opens another vast area to sportsmen in California. Currently, water stored back of the dam amounts to 1,035,000 acre feet. Ultimate capacity is 2,500,000 acre feet. An acre foot is the amount of water needed to cover an acre one foot deep.

Trinity Lake will cover 16,400 acres and have a scenic shoreline of 145 miles in heavily timbered mountains.

Benefits to Southern California naturally are indirect. You'll be eating citrus fruit and vegetables grown with the water that will be released from Trinity for Central Valley irrigation.

Aside from that, it will afford recreation-minded Southern Californians another body of water for skiing, boating and fishing.

While the dam is primarily a conservation structure, it also will afford a measure of flood control to downstream communities.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—New Jersey nimrods are being treated to a special one-day deer hunt Jan. 31. However, only those hunters who failed to get a deer in the regular 1961 season may participate. I don't know how the hunt is going to work in New Jersey, but I do know that if California tried such a venture, about nine out of 10 who tried hunting last fall would be back in the woods.

President Kennedy wants Congress to appropriate more than $19 million to study salmon runs. Most of the money would go for development of facilities and research on the Columbia River and in the North Pacific and the Bering Sea. In the program is another item asking for $2.5 million to build a modern research vessel equipped for biological and physical oceanographic research to replace the schooner Black Douglas at La Jolla.

Of boating interest: Chris-Craft Corp., subsidiary of the Nafi Corp., of Oakland, and largest producer of pleasure boats, has just bought the Thompson Boat Co., of Cortland, N. Y.

Michigan, with 429,000 motorboats, has outdistanced all other states in registrations—and that includes California, Florida, New York, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Bass, Craig, Latman Join Mauch Stars

BARRY LATMAN
In Benefit Game

Gene Mauch never had it so good with the Phillies.

The manager of the Major-Minor League All-Stars Saturday announced the addition of five pitchers to his squad for next Sunday's medical benefit game against the Dodger All-Stars at La Palma Park in Anaheim.

Joining Mauch's staff are righthanders Barry Latman of the Cleveland Indians, Norm Bass of the Kansas City A's, Hal Reniff of the world champion New York Yankees, Johnny James of the Angels and Roger Craig of the New York Mets.

The Mets also are supplying second baseman Charlie Neal and first baseman-outfielder Jim Marshall, the batting star of the last two medical benefit games.

• • • •

MAUCH CAN call on eight pitchers, who won a total of 51 games in the major leagues last season. Mauch's entire Philadelphia staff accounted for only 47 victories in 1961.

Seven major league clubs already have contributed players to Mauch's roster and more are expected. The roster includes:

Angels—Tom Morgan, Rocky Bridges, Johnny James, Earl Averill and George Witt. Red Sox—Jim Pagliaroni. White Sox—Camilo Carreon. Athletics—Norm Bass. Mets—Charlie Neal, Jim Marshall and Roger Craig. Yankees—Bud Daley and Hal Reniff. Indians—Barry Latman.

Today's City League Baseball Schedule

At Wilson High—Noon, Tyer Bros. vs. Orange County Braves; 2:30 p.m., Tampico Cardinals vs. Li'l Abner.

At City College—Noon, Coast Federal Savings vs. Local 148 UAW; 2:30 p.m., 50 Per-Centers vs. South Seas Cafe.

At Park Ave. Field—1 p.m., Westminster Rebels vs. Black Sox.

L.B. Rockets Face Angels in Exhibition

The Long Beach Rockets, home division champions of the semi-pro Winter League, will be playing strictly for the exercise today when they host the L.A. Angels at Blair Field.

The Rockets scheduled today's exhibition game as a filler while waiting for the Dodger Rookies and White Sox Juniors to settle a tie in the traveling division. Game time today is 2 p.m.

Brian McCall, slugging at a .600 clip, and $175,000 bonus baby Bob Bailey, spark the Rocket offense. Butch Hughes is the probable starting pitcher, to be followed by Don Rowe and Mike Linck.

The Rockets will be idle next Sunday as are all semi-pro clubs, when the Southern Baseball Assn. stages its annual medical benefit game at Anaheim.

WHAT'S INSIDE COUNTS

Nancy Kwan Shines in Movie Star Orbit

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—No one quite knows how to define it. Either you have it—or you don't. Publicity, ever trying, can't manufacture it.

Over the years Hollywood has labeled it "it," "oomph," "sex appeal" "that magic quality,"—and a dozen other things.

Whatever it is, Nancy Kwan has it—and she uses it where it counts.

• • • •

In person, Nancy is demure, petite in the best traditions of her Chinese and English parentage. She is pretty but no Elizabeth Taylor. As Eurasian beauty goes, one might even say that in person she is only a little above average.

But when cameras turn and lights go up, it's something else again.

She's Hong Kong's answer to Marilyn Monroe.

All of this is accomplished with little outward help—may be a little eye shadow and lipstick. In person, Nancy seldom wears makeup.

But it's what's inside that counts.

• • • •

NANCY'S Hollywood story is the Chinese version of cinderella — but no starry-eyed cinderella is Nancy.

The daughter of a wealthy Hong Kong architect, she enjoys every minute of her orbit in the Hollywood stellar system.

But she is not the least bit awestruck by it.

Barely out of a convent school, she met producer Ray Stark by chance in a Hong Kong studio her father was designing.

• • • •

STARK WAS there looking for his "Suzie Wong." He brought Nancy to Hollywood for three months training in the role. It was her first taste of dramatics.

But when the role was cast, Stark gave it to France Nuyen who had created it on the stage.

"Naturally, I was disappointed. I almost quit and went home to Hong Kong," Nancy recalls. "But Stark soothed me by making me one of the 'Yum Yum' girls and an understudy of France on the stage."

• • • •

WHEN FRANCE went to London and Hong Kong to shoot the picture, Nancy was sent on the road with a touring company. This time she played "Suzie Wong."

When a million dollars was spent on the movie, a long-brewing feud between Miss Nuyen and Stark erupted into international headlines.

The producer fired France and along with her, director Jean Negulesco.

• • • •

FEUDS ARE famous and chronic in the movies but never had any producer allowed one to cost him a million. A highly reliable source gives this insider's view of the feud.

"France was great on Broadway in the part but she also had a reputation for being difficult. I believe Josh Logan called her impossible.

"She came to London and Hong Kong in the midst of a romance with Marlon Brando. The separation made her unhappy. Then came reports of Marlon being seen along the Sunset Strip with another Oriental beauty.

• • • •

"FRANCE GOT increasingly difficult. She went on an eating binge. I sat beside her one night while she downed a whole pound of chocolate candy, punctuating each bite with a glance at Ray and saying: 'I hate him!' She tried to make it appear as if she meant Stark but she could have meant Marlon.

"France got plump. Ray had a picture with his star looking svelte in earlier scenes and hefty in later ones. Camera and makeup could cover some but not all.

"Stark got tough but France got tougher — and plumper. Ray fired her and when Negulesco sided with her, he fired him too. Stark, in the tradition of Hollywood gallantry, blamed France's dismissal on chronic laryngitis."

• • • •

MISS NUYEN later charged that she got fired because Stark had wanted Miss Kwan in the first place.

Stardom has brought Nancy some problems — mostly romantic.

"I have a boy friend in every port," she once quipped to an interviewer but the two serious romances of her stay in Hollywood are an unnamed actor and currently the Swiss star, Maximillian Schell.

She lost the unnamed actor when she became "Suzie Wong."

"He was not successful and I was—and he didn't want to date a star. So we broke up."

• • • •

HER ROMANCE with Schell is in the serious stage—but apparently not marriage.

Schell, since "Judgment at Nuremberg," has established himself as a major star.

"Marriage is a serious business," says Nancy, "even when the wife is only a housewife. When she is an actress, the problems increase.

"Max is European. In the European household, there can only be one star in the family. I don't know. It will take a lot of decision."

• • • •

OF ALL THE Oriental actors and actresses in Hollywood, Nancy has the best chance of a continuing career. She can pass for Oriental but can also look English, American, Jewish, Italian, Spanish.

In "Maria," with Pat Boone, she will play an Italian girl.

The picture will give her a chance to display versatility. From the comedy of "Suzie Wong" and the musical comedy of "Flower Drum," she goes to a sensitive love story with many serious moments.

TURNING IT ON

What makes Nancy Kwan a sizzling movie star shows in this still from her second film, "Flower Drum Song." Nancy, who is from Hong Kong and a Eurasian, is demure and reserved off the set. But put her in front of the camera and she's as hot as the Klieg lights.—(Associated Press photo.)

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Movie Star Dolores Hart Unruffled by Temptation

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Now I don't think a thing'll come of it, but Delores Hart, the movie star, said to me a few nights ago, "Just to be a movie star—what good is that?"

Miss Hart then added, "You know, I can do a lot of things just as rewarding as being a movie star."

"What, for example?" I asked her.

"Cartooning!" she said instantly — and proceeded to cartoon some things in my notebook. We were sitting at the Gaucho Room of the Summit Hotel and nobody but me appreciated that Delores Hart was sitting there drawing a picture of herself. As a matter of fact, I didn't appreciate it too much myself — because her picture of herself wasn't very complimentary.

"I used to do some work for a greeting card company." She went on sketching herself and her dog. (It didn't look like her or her dog to me but what do I know about art?)

Here was this girl who lots of experts say is the next Ingrid Bergman claiming she wasn't delirious about it.

HART

"Who can say that five years from now I'm another Ingrid Bergman?" she said. "God hasn't written it out in a contract saying 'Miss Hart, honey . . .'"

Finally she said, "It's the compromising."

Goodness, I hadn't heard anybody speak of compromising — getting compromised, yes!—for a long time. It was refreshing!

"You start in — you start blunting the point of the thing that tells you which direction to go," she frowned. "Your whole existence flounders.

"A hundred times a day I get off the track. Something says 'Don't go in for that nonsense.'

• • • •

"THE WORST thing is, you start thinking, 'I'm pretty hot stuff.' You let that take root, and what happens when the day comes when nobody wants to interview you or take your picture? What can you do then to make your life bearable? Are you supposed to spend the rest of your life reading yellowed newspaper clippings—or slash your wrists—or become a drunk—or take narcotics?"

Miss Hart wasn't talking like one who's being built up here because of two new pictures, "Sail A Crooked Ship," and "The Inspector." She was talking more like that little girl from Chicago who was in a convent school in California when she got discovered as an actress.

Lloyd Silent Film Classic to Be Shown

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The nation's younger folks, those who missed silent pictures and early talkies, will meet comedian Harold Lloyd when his old movies are released later this year.

"People up to the age of 25 have never seen me on the screen," Lloyd said. "And those 35 years old have only seen me in a couple of pictures. To many of those people I'll be an entirely new character."

Lloyd's plans for reintroducing himself to movie fans began more than 10 years ago when he put together some scenes from his old pictures to show friends.

• • • •

THE EFFORT was well received and Lloyd's friends encouraged him to get back into the movie swim with his old hits.

Lloyd began his movie career in 1917. His last picture was made in 1945. He has appeared in some of filmland's brightest comedies.

The urging of friends set Lloyd to thinking that perhaps there was a place in the modern world of entertainment for his type of comedy, a style that made millions laugh and Lloyd millions of dollars.

• • • •

"I'VE BEEN working on this film since 1950," Lloyd said. "We previewed it seven or eight times over the years. People laughed but I wasn't satisfied. Laughs were not enough."

Lloyd's strong demands on the artistic aspect of his return to movie houses are strong. He won't settle for laughs alone.

"I was always trying to give a continuity to it, a beginning, middle and finish," he said of the film which contained scenes from pictures he made between 1917 and 1939.

• • • •

"I DIDN'T want to have a variety show situation," he explained, adding that he finally set aside the project and concentrated on one of his earliest silent pictures, "The Freshman."

Lloyd put a musical score, sound effects and a short narration into "Freshman" and made plans to show it in theaters.

"I did a little introduction to 'The Freshman' in which I said the film circumvented the time barrier, despite talking pictures and wide screens we have today," he said. "I think that if any of these pictures can be called a classic, 'The Freshman' comes close to it.

"The theme is so simple. This is a boy who went to college with an obsession to become the most popular. He went about it the wrong way. As his father said, he would either break his heart or his neck. He almost did both."

Sledding Fan, 10, Asks Senate Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., came under strong pressure recently from the 10-year old sledding set.

Beall revealed he had received the following letter from one of his constituents:

"Dear Senate: — I would like to pass a law that a boy or a girl 10 or over can go sleigh rideing. Because I think a person 9 or under is to young and 10 or over is just right. Because a person can't help it if his or hers brother or sister is born before him or her."

STARFIRE ABOVE MOUNTAIN HOTEL RESORT
1962 Oldsmobile Starfire tour car hangs in sky abover Mountain Shadows luxury hotel located in Scottsdale a few miles from Phoenix, Ariz. In background is famed Camelback Mountain.

Olds Starfire Visits Scottsdale

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Snow . . .? In Arizona's fabled Valley of the Sun?

That's just about as unlikely as Brigitte Bardot doing a boudoir scene in long johns, but snow it did, ever so lightly, as we toured Scottsdale, Arizona, on our first motorlog of the new year.

Our trip was made two weeks ago and the snowfall doesn't see quite so dramatic now that the white flakes fell right here in Long Beach a few days back when Ma Nature went on her weird-weather binge across the nation.

And although it shook up the Scottsdale natives a bit, the unlikely snowfall only served to accent a week-end of fun at Mountain Shadows resort, a luxurious hotel nestled at the foot of Camelback Mountain a few miles from Phoenix.

A long, 417 miles from home, this was no time for mediocre transportation so our choice was a big, luxurious 1962 Starfire hardtop, leading lady of the Oldsmobile line. It was loaned to us by Dick Browning who operates the big Olds dealership at 1227 Long Beach Blvd. . . . and what a car.

Whichever Oldsmobile publicity man dreamed up the name Starfire came up with a good one. It suggests beauty, flashing speed, heavenly glamour, and the Starfire has all this — along with a lot of down-to-earth touches such as comfort, a super-smooth ride and amazing gasoline economy for a car of such power.

Ours was a sharp, all-white job with an interior of charcoal and silver leather that drew raves from all that saw it. Unique to the Starfire is a handy control console located between the two front bucket seats. Trimmed in chrome, it holds the electric window controls and the handy "stick shift" for the hydromatic transmission. At the front of this control tower is a tachometer to give the Starfire a sports car touch and at the rear of the centerpiece is a convenient glove or map compartment.

Three ash trays, all with lighters, were an additional luxury touch and the car even had a foot control for the radio where you could change stations with the touch of a toe.

And, as we left the agency, Bill Blankenship, manager of the Olds emporium, told us a little sidelight on Oldsmobile history. Just last week, we learned, Oldsmobile produced their 7½ millionth car since the factory was founded in Lansing, Michigan on August 21, 1897. Appropriately enough this milestone Olds was identical to the one we were driving this week-end, an exciting 1962 Starfire hardtop.

It was early Friday afternoon as we headed the Olds south to Riverside, through Indio, across lonely Highway 60-70 to Blythe and the Arizona state line. One of the Olds gadgets that intrigued me as we barrelled along was the Safety Sentinal on the speedometer. Before leaving Browning's agency I had set it at 65, and whenever we reached that speed a warning light flashed and a buzzer sounded until I eased back on the throttle. No need to glance continually at the speedometer with this speed watch-dog in the car.

It was dark when we crossed the Colorado River, just beyond Blythe, for the 166-mile run to Scottsdale and Mountain Shadows. Here the Safety Sentinal had to be set back to 50 mph as that's the night speed limit in Arizona, with 60 the daytime speed.

It seemed such a waste of that pent-up power under the hood to be crawling along at 50, as you can be sure the performance of the Starfire matched its sleek lines. But limits are limits, and finally after seven hours and 40 minutes behind the wheel, we arrived at our desert destination.

Nothing, it seems is overlooked in making each visit to Mountain Shadows a memorable occasion. We were ushered to a suite tastefully furnished in the decor of the modern west, with deep carpeting and huge picture window overlooking the hotel's golf course and rugged Camelback Mountain beyond. TV and HI-FI were standard equipment as well as air-conditioning for which we had no need this night of the desert snowfall.

Extra little touches were a cellophane-wrapped basket of fresh fruit and a "welcome to Mountain Shadows" note from the management. In the bathroom was a supply of aspirin, Alka-Seltzer and Kleenex, all the compliments of the house. A luxury suite such as this brings $32 a day on the European plan with other rooms, depending on location, ranging from $24 to $48 a day for two.

After breakfast next morning, we had a chance to meet Jon Burger, who along with his brother, Don, manages the sprawling Paradise Valley resort. Mountain Shadows, we learned as we took a tour of the grounds, was begun three years ago with 100 rooms and today there are over 300 suites clustered around the two large pools, which cater to devotees of the Arizona sun.

Del Webb, noted real estate developer, built and operates the luxurious resort and was here at Mountain Shadows enjoying a game of golf this nippy Saturday morning, we were told by our manager-guide.

And the golf course here is unique in that it adjoins the hotel and you can walk right from your room a few yards to the first tee to enjoy a sporting 18 holes. Green fees for hotel guests are $5, and full club house facilities, carts and caddies are available.

In addition to catering to individual family guests, Mr. Burger disclosed Mountain Shadows has complete convention facilities with private meeting rooms, flexibly arranged for groups large or small. A new ballroom enables them to serve over 1,000 persons at one time at luncheons, dinners, dances and meetings. We noted four conventions in progress this weekend as we toured the various meeting facilities with our host.

It was a huge, well-equipped resort, we could see, but for all its size it was one of the most friendly spots we had ever visited with everyone from parking lot attendant to manager doing their best to make us feel at home.

Now it was afternoon and with the sun in hiding, neither of the Shadow's pools were getting much of a play. But, golfers being the fearless breed they are, the course had its full complement of players. For the indoor sports, the intimate, softly-lit cocktail lounge with its rock waterfall and cheery center fireplace offered a welcome afternoon haven.

Our own late afternoon hours were spent in touring Paradise Valley, exploring the base of Camelback Mountain and shooting pictures for this Motorlog page.

Dinner that evening in the lavishly decorated dining room was a festive affair. The superb food was accented by the song stylings of January Jones, a curvaceous blonde whose songs and mimicry were a delight to the guests. Freddie Davis and his orchestra play for dancing and there is no cover or minimum. The menu offers a list of gourmet delights from $4 to $6 and most drinks are 85c per.

In the morning a tasty Sunday buffet brunch consumed, we were back in our Starfire for the long but comfortable journey back to the coast. A Monday morning gas check showed we had traveled 894.4 speedometer miles and had used 58.2 gallons of gas for an average of 15.2 mpg. As I said earlier in the article, that's remarkable mileage for a car with the performance of a 1962 Olds Starfire. But, then again . . . it's a remarkable car.

Way to Tame Sonic Boom Under Study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sonic booms, triggered when airplanes fly faster than sound, used to be considered a harmless novelty.

Then in 1953 a pilot practicing for a demonstration at a western Air Force Base dived his jet to supersonic speed and pulled up at 8,000 feet.

The resulting boom shattered windows in almost every building on the base and damaged door frames and floors.

* * * *

IN ADDITION to being potentially destructive the sonic bom also is widely regarded, particularly by people living near air bases, as an irritating nuisance.

So, if supersonic transports are to enter commercial service as scheduled in 1967, something must be done about the sonic boom.

One thing seems certain, according to Herbert A. Wilson Jr. of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) — the sonic boom is here to stay. But, says Wilson, if it can't be eliminated it perhaps can be reduced to acceptable proportions.

WRITING IN the Scientific American, Wilson says government agencies and airline operators are searching for a way to do this.

"When an airplane moves faster than sound," according to Wilson, "waves of suddenly compressed air, shock waves, build up and are thrown off to the sides like the wave that spreads from the bow of a speedboat.

"These waves (which produce the boom) cannot be eliminated if the airplane flies faster than the speed of sound; they are an inherent part of supersonic flight."

* * * *

THE FIRST sonic booms were produced by the X-1 rocket research plane in level flight in 1947. Then it was discovered that subsonic fighter planes created booms when they were dived to supersonic speed.

One fact suggests a possible way of making booms endurable. The intensity of boom-generating shock waves that reach the surface of the earth falls off as the airplane gains altitude.

So it might be a good idea to keep the speed of supersonic transports at a subsonic level except when they are at about 40,000 feet or higher. Says Wilson:

"Although a breakthrough that will eliminate the sonic boom as a problem seems most unlikely, it may be feasible by designing flight plans carefully to keep the booms from reaching the ground in objectionable intensity."

Loss Biggest in 6 Years

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Forest fires in state and county protected areas last year burned 338,493 acres and caused $10.8 million damage, the Conservation Department revealed today.

It was the greatest acre loss in the past six years, although the damage figure was below the $11.1 million of 1959.

Figures for national forest areas were not available.

Most of the burned acreage was in areas protected by the State Division of Forestry—315,551. It was far above the next highest figure for the past six years, 1959's total of 144,274.

Boston's Curley Estate $3,768

BOSTON (UPI)—James Michael Curley, whose political enemies once charged he had cached millions during his long career, left a net estate of $3,768.

The former Massachusetts governor and Boston mayor, who believed his was the central character in Edwin O'Connor's best selling book, "The Last Hurrah," died Nov. 12, 1958.

According to an account of his will filed in Suffolk Probate Court, Curley left an estate of $21,151 and debts totaling $17,382. The estate could not even cover the many bequests he made.

Changes Few Since 1812

War, Indian uprisings on the western frontier, secret British agents and lack of space to print all the news occupied the mind of one H. Niles, printer and publisher of "The Weekly Register" in Baltimore in his issue of July 4, 1812.

Niles' establishment was not identified by a post office address. The address listed on the 6½ by 10¾-inch publication was: "South-st. next door to the Merchants' Coffee House."

* * * *

W. S. McKINNEY, 3045 E. First St., found the publication when he was looking through some papers left to him by his grandfather A. S. McKinney, a Pennsylvania farmer. McKinney gave it to the Long Beach Public Library.

Librarian Blanche W. Collins said the paper "is a rare document, valuable to the Library's collection of historical items. . . ."

* * * *

THE BIG STORY in the Register on that July 4, 1812, was titled "The British Plot."

The United States had protested to England about the activities of one "Capt. Henry" a British agent, charging that he had been sent to the United States to foment treason prior to the declaration of war on June 18, 1812.

The Register carried a report of the debate on the question raised in Parliament on May 5, 1812.

In the House of Lords a member arose to inquire about this Capt. Henry who was charged with being sent to the United States" . . . not for the purpose of procuring intelligence, for that . . . was a legitimate object, but for the purpose of procuring some of the provinces or states of the union to throw off their allegiance to their legal government, and to separate themselves from the rest. . . ."

Needless to say, the debate and vote in Parliament cleared the British government of any complicity.

* * * *

THE INDIANS WERE on the warpath on the Western frontier and the British were believed to be inciting the redskins.

Item in the Register, quoting an excerpt from a letter dated May 25, 1812, from the postmaster in Erie to a gentleman in Washington, (Pa.):

"This day his majesty's ship Queen Charlotte, of 22 guns, passed this place, laden with INDIANS. What their intention is, we know not, but have many conjectures. We understand that there are about 1600 militia at Buffaloe and Lewistown, (N. York) waiting until war is declared, and the Indians, designed for an attack upon them."

Item: "Aaron Burr is said to have arrived at Newbury port from England, and to have been 10 days incog. in Boston. We should keep a sharp look out, Burr's and Henry's are numerous."

Item: "The paper's war correspondent, one Paul Jones, continued his series of eye-witness reports on the war at sea.

BUT IT WAS not all war news in the Register.

Item: "A gentleman who has had some opportunity of forming a pretty correct opinion of the fact informs us that Messrs. Dupont and company, near Wilmington, Delaware, are manufacturing WOOLEN goods to the value of from 150 to 200,000$ per annum. The adjacent country is filled with sheep. . . . Ten years hence we may send broad cloths to England if her government will permit us, or at least, supply her manufacturers with the Merino wool, having enough for ourselfs and to spare; for it is ascertained that the sheep rather improve than depreciate with us. The stock is increasing with unheard of rapidity."

Item: "Doctor Herbolt, an eminent accouchear and surgeon . . . has made the following important discovery. That the cause of apparent death in still-born children, is their having the wind pipe filled with water. By the simple process of placing the infant in such a position as to procure a gradual and total discharge of the water, Dr. Herbolt has had the happiness to rescue, in the proportion of 12 out of 13 of the innocents fortunately submitted to his care."

* * * *

THEN, apparently as now, the editor's life was one of difficult choices of what to print and what to leave out.

Item: "The quantity of interesting matter which these eventful times so abundantly furnish, renders it no easy task to make our selections; so many things presenting themselves and claiming a precedence, as well from their own importance as from the various taste of our readers."

The Register's editor in 1812 was bothered with almost all the problems of a modern newspaper editor with one exception: no telephones. At least there are no items in the Register noting that organized viewpoint were conducting telephone campaigns threatening subscription cancellations because a news story wasn't given the prominence partisans thought it should have.

* * * *

THE ENTIRE gymnasium floor of Ford Park community building at 7840 Scout Avenue, Bell Gardens, will be devoted to the displays.

On Thursday, Feb. 22, the show will be open from noon to 9 p.m. On Friday and Saturday, Feb. 23-24, it will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

Lothario, 82, Says He Pleases Girls 20 and 23

CAEN, France (UPI)—"You're never too old for love," said Jean-Marie Philibert, 82. "I only have to open my arms and the women fall into them."

Philibert was released on bail after being charged with stealing 10,000 francs ($2,000) from the home of his neighbor, Marcel Lequertier.

He said he spent the money entertaining two girl friends 20 and 23. Most of it went on a week's trip to Paris with one of the girls, he said. He said he gave the other a handbag, a coat and a watch.

Asked if he did not feel a little old for romancing, Philibert replied, "Oh, they never had any complaints about me. After a glass of white wine I was always in top form. Anyhow, I've always known how to please the women."

Egg Cracked Delightfully at Magnolia

By ROBERT C. WYLDER

Star Robert Cornthwaite, director David Sievers, playwright Felicien Marceau and a talented cast whipped up a thoroughly delightful souffle this weekend as the Magnolia Theater opened a limited run of "The Egg."

Taking the long view, the uproarious comedy conveys a somewhat disillusioned and pessimistic aspect. In it the hero, a shy but shrewd fellow who catches on slowly but surely, finally cracks "the egg," as he calls the world of conventional morality and success.

* * * *

AT LAST he figures out the system and gets inside, but not by the means one might expect. A little duplicity, a bit of opportunism even a spot of murder, it turns out, are necessary.

But putting that aside—and it's easy to do—the play is a comic masterpiece as presented by Cornthwaite and his cohorts. The whole thing is an elaborate monologue, really, with some scenes thrown in here and there for extension and variety.

The scenes all add something, but it is mainly Cornthwaite who makes the show. He is a monologist of rare ability, who never palls even when, toward the end, the play does. Walking around the periphery of the clever egg-shaped set, he talks in the most confidential way to the audience, drops onto the set for a scene here, a skit there, almost never leaving the stage, and always deserving to be the center of attention. He makes one of those typically talky French plays into something more than just words.

* * * *

"THE EGG" is thus a one-man show, but the biggest one-man show in town: Seventeen players support Cornthwaite in 32 roles, all of them excellently done. There isn't a weak performance in the lot.

Among the best, mostly because they have the most to do, are Carol Feeney as the wife, Walter Crockett as the wife's lover, and Joan Strickland as the hero's mistress. Bill Wildman and Kenneth Shanks are particularly good in small roles.

Others in the cast are Lou Lyda, Marland Proctor, Marie Junger, Delores Trent, Virlee Stickels, Henry Lawrence, Lois Dalton, Elizabeth Nielsen, Tam Lipson, Beau Lavendre, Walter Romanski, and Evelyn Finer. Most play two, some three, roles.

* * * *

DIRECTOR Sievers apparently got the best out of his cast; one can't imagine their being much better. He got the best out of the play, too, emphasizing the comic elements and submerging pretty much the existential element. His imaginative use of the space available on the small stage made what might have been a collection of fragments into a smooth, coherent, and unfailingly lively theatrical evening.

"The Egg" is the fourth in the current subscription series offered by the Magnolia Theater under the general managing directorship of Gerald Brown. So far, it has been a distinguished season. This show more than lives up to the quality of its predecessors.

The production continues on weekends, curtain at 8:30. Better make reservations early.

Golf for Convicts

NOTTINGHAM, England (UPI)—Nottingham prison announced Saturday it had completed a nine-hole golf course for its inmates.

ROYALTY VACATIONS--HOMEFOLKS RESTLESS

Meg, Tony Face Rough Return

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, are due home today to face the music—and in all probability a swift interview with Queen Elizabeth.

During the three weeks they have been enjoying a Caribbean second honeymoon a national debate has been going on over whether Snowdon should go to work on the Sunday Times. And this week a new storm blew up over the announced cost of decorating the couple's new Kensington palace home — $238,000.

As Anthony Armstrong-Jones, the man who was to woo and win the sister of the queen, Snowdon once worked as a newspaper photographer. The job he has accepted with the Sunday Times is that of "artistic adviser" on the paper's new color supplement scheduled to make its debut next week. Occasional camera work would be included in his duties.

* * * *

MOST OF London's national newspapers have been arguing that as the consort of a royal princess Tony is wrong to take the job — and the queen was wrong to approve it for him.

The objectors claim that Snowdon by working for a newspaper will be unavoidably thrown into politics, and into "commerce" by affecting the circulation of his newspaper to the disadvantage of the Sunday Times' competitors.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is believed to have discussed the situation with Queen Elizabeth. It is now expected the queen will discuss it again with Tony and Margaret, for a possible second-look at the wisdom of Snowdon taking the job. His scheduled starting date is Feb. 1, and his rumored salary is in the neighborhood of 10,000 pounds ($28,000) a year.

* * * *

THERE has been speculation Tony may resign the post before he ever starts it although there has been not the slightest hint of such a development from the palace.

Persons outside Britain might well be puzzled why there should be such an uproar about Snowdon going to work for a newspaper and using the talents he already was using successfully before he married Margaret in May, 1960. He hasn't worked since except as a nonpaid adviser to the British Council for Industrial Design.

"Why," ask his defenders, "shouldn't the man be allowed to go to work at whatever he chooses? He has been heavily criticized for not earning his keep. Now that he has decided to go to work he's still in trouble. What's he supposed to do?"

* * * *

THE TRADITIONAL British viewpoint is something like this: Britain's royal family must stand aloof, from all matters of business or policies. Armstrong-Jones, married to a royal princess, is now "royal family." The royal family has no vote; it takes no part in elections. It must involve itself in no commercial venture lest profit or prestige be made by firms or individuals exploiting their royal connections.

This tradition, the current argument goes, would be flouted if Tony went to work for the Sunday Times. It is a conservative newspaper, supporting the government. How, objectors ask, could Snowdon disassociate himself from the newspaper's policies and politics? And, commercially, how can the hiring of Snowdon be regarded as anything but a circulation-boosting move by his employers? He's a good photographer, but not that good.

* * * *

A SUBSIDIARY problem, also argued about, is whether as a newspaper employe Snowdon would be asked to join the British newspapermen's union, the National Union of Journalists.

The big row over the cost of giving Margaret and Tony a new home is in a different category. There are those who simply claim flatly the money could be put to better national use and why do the Snowdon's have to be all that fancy? And then those who defend the expense as royalty's due and, anyway, Kensington palace is a national monument and repairs would have to be made, in any case, to preserve it.

Ask $60,000 Budget to Lure Conventions

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

The county will be asked Tuesday to allocate $60,000 of its 1962-63 budget for the Los Angeles Convention Bureau, Inc.

The bureau, a department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce for 30 years, is in its second year as an independent organization.

Sidney Hoedemaker, president, said the bureau has increased its contributions from private business from $23,000 to $60,000 annually. Its goal, he said, is an annual income of $150,000, of which $90,000 would be subscribed from private business.

For the past 10 years, Hoedemaker said, the bureau has received $30,000 annually from Los Angeles County. The $60,000, if granted by the county, "would put us in an excellent position to meet our competition," he said.

Hoedemaker said the larger budget still would fall short of the budgets of such cities as San Francisco, Denver, Chicago and New York.

He said the bureau currently has two staff members working full time on convention solicitation. Plans call for the addition of one field man.

Wives in Open House Friday at Legal Aid Foundation

Open house in the redecorated Legal Aid Foundation office, at 115 Pine Ave., will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday.

The organization is a non-profit corporation set up about six years ago to furnish legal aid to persons unable to pay for services.

Under the program the applicant pays a $2 registration fee. Legal aid is furnished free to indigents in need of immediate, emergency assistance.

A referral service also is operated in connection with the office under which fixed minimum charges are set up.

The program was set up by the Long Beach Bar Association under the leadership of the late Will Winston in 1955. It is supported by the association and from contributions, but most of the $25,000 a year budget is defrayed by attorneys either through donations of money or subscriptions to the Lawyer Reference Program. The Lawyers Wives' Club also makes substantial contributions and is sponsoring the open house.

The Legal Aid office last year handled 1,351 cases and referred 578 cases through the Reference Service.

NEW LOOK FOR LEGAL AID

Approximately 800 invitations have been extended to civic and community leaders to attend the open house of the Legal Aid Foundation here. The Lawyers Wives' Club spent approximately $1000 to remodel the office. Two club members above are Mrs. Edison J. Demler (left) and Mrs. Preston W. Johnson.

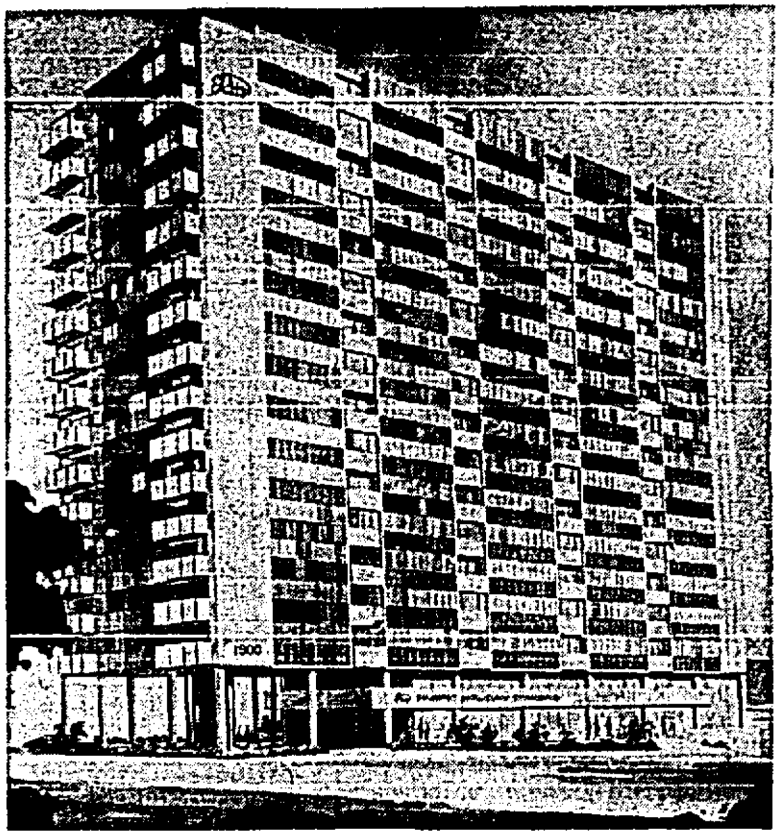
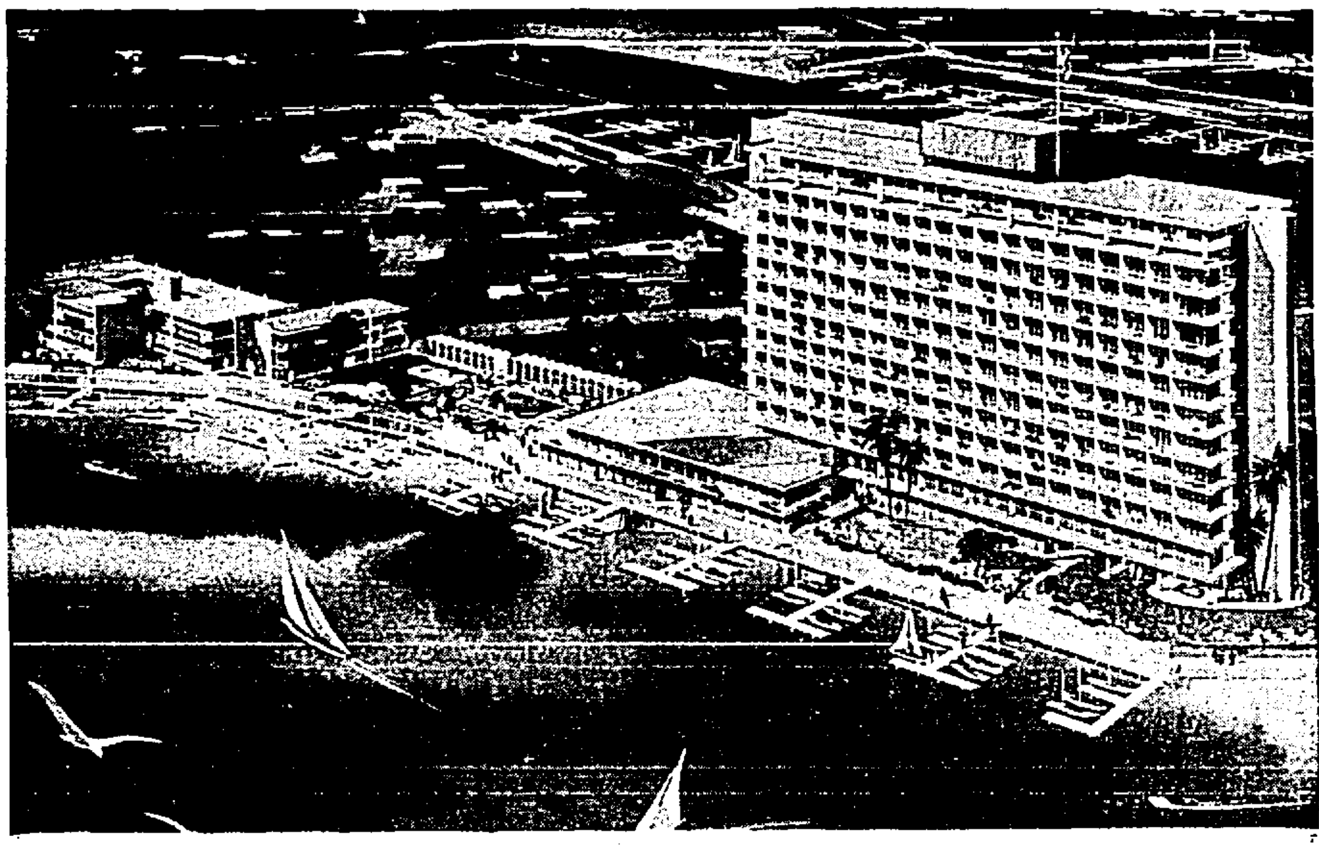
Two Towering Hotels Along Ocean Front Announced for Long Beach



SET FOR CONSTRUCTION SOON

Pacific Holiday Towers, rising 21 stories from the beach and 17 stories from Ocean Boulevard, will be constructed as a senior citizen project with 288 separate rental units offered. It will be located at 1900 E. Ocean Blvd., and construction awaits only final FHA and city approval of architectural and engineering plans. The $6,000,000 project is being built by a Hollywood film director and two Beverly Hills contractors.



LUXURY HOTEL DEVELOPMENT HAS 1,100-FOOT MARINA FRONTAGE

Here is a drawing by Architect Hugh Gibbs of the $6,000,000 Marina Shores Hotel which will be built at the end of Appian Way on the west side of the Long Beach Marina. The hotel tower will be 14 stories with 290 single hotel rooms and 40 double room suites, each unit having an outdoor private lanai area. There will be a 300-seat observation dining and cocktail lounge on the top floor, a 450-seat banquet room on the mezzanine and a dinner house on the terrace adjacent to the entrance. To the left will be three-story luxury garden type apartments available for guests. Boat slips will be available to guests along the 1,100-foot Marina shore.

Senior Citizen Rental Units in 21 Stories

Rising 21 stories over the beach level and 17 stories above Ocean Blvd., Pacific Holiday Towers will be the next addition to the rapidly expanding skyline of Long Beach.

The $6,000,000 modern rental apartment hotel, designed for senior citizens as part of the Federal Housing Administration program, soon will begin taking shape at 1900 E. Ocean Blvd. (14th Place), according to a spokesman for the owners of the property.

Vincent Sherman, outstanding film director for 20th Century-Fox, Myron Bayer and Herb Klein, two Beverly Hills contractors, are the owners and developers. They have offices at 195 S. Beverly Drive, Beverly Hills.

• • • •

SITE APPROVAL and a letter of feasability were obtained several months ago but the developers waited until completed architectural and engineering plans had been submitted to FHA and Long Beach authorities for final approval before announcing the big project.

The towering structure will have 288 separate living units consisting of 112 singles, furnished and unfurnished, 12 one-bedroom unfurnished, 56 unfurnished two bedrooms and 8 penthouse luxury units.

All apartments will have wall-to-wall carpeting, air conditioning, the latest innovations in utilities and a choice of sweeping vista view sites overlooking the city and ocean from balconies or large picture windows.

• • • •

THREE HIGH-SPEED elevators will carry passengers from the top floor to the ground level in seconds with one elevator going directly to the beach level.

Providing the utmost in beauty, comfort and convenience, the facilities also will include four stories of garage space with attendant parking; a restaurant and snack bar overlooking the ocean; reading and recreation rooms; a putting green; banquet and club rooms; a reception room on each floor and a complete health and therapy section on the beach level equipped with steam room, whirlpool baths and massage rooms.

• • • •

GRACIOUS AND tasteful community living with planned social activities at modest expenditures will keynote the operation, the builders said.

Rentals the scheduled to start at $125 for singles with a graduated scale for the larger units.

Legal counsel for the enterprise is being provided by Jonah Jones Jr. and Konstantine P. George, well known attorneys. Coldwell-Banker represented the owners in the real estate transactions and Robert E. Donald A.I.A. and Associates of Beverly Hills designed the structure.

• • • •

SHERMAN AND his two associates lauded Long Beach city officials or their help in the development.

"Never have we had such fine cooperation in a building project as we found at the Long Beach City Hall," said the film director. "With this cooperation we will be able to start construction much sooner than we anticipated."

Attorney Jones said excavation will begin immediately upon final approval by the FHA and city Building Department. The structure will require approximately one year to build and should be ready for occupancy in the spring of 1963.

The developers already have spent over $400,000 on purchase of the land, and in making deep soil tests on the site.

Arrowhead Plant Opens

Arrowhead Products opened its new Southern California facility in Los Alamitos at dedication ceremonies Friday.

Located at 4411 Katella Ave., the new building, with over 100,000 square feet of floor space, will be another unit of Arrowhead Products, a division of Federal-Mogul-Bower Bearings Inc., Detroit, serves the aerospace industry exclusively.

The firm designs and manufactures aerospace ducting and flexible products, utilizing various types of metal, rubber and plastics.

G. S. Peppiatt, president, and S. E. MacArthur, executive assistant to the president, came from Detroit for the opening.

14-Story Marina Hotel

A $6 million resort development, including a 14-story luxury hotel, ocean-edge dinner house and garden-type apartments in an ideal recreation setting will be erected on the west side of the Long Beach Marina. The three-block-long development is just south of the Long Beach Yacht Club.

Barry H. Taper, who recently announced plans to build a 33-story apartment on the ocean bluff in Belmont Shore, will be the owner-developer of Marina Shores Hotel. He is the son of Mark Taper, one of the developers of Lakewood and builder of many homes in Long Beach, Los Angeles and Beverly Hills.

Located on Naples Island at the end of Appian Way, the resort development will face Alamitos Bay and the entrance of the Long Beach Marina.

• • • •

THERE WILL be three major units in the development: the hotel tower structure; the dining and recreational facilities, and the three-story luxury garden-type apartment units.

Architect Hugh Gibbs, AIA, who has designed the entire development, said: "It would be difficult to find a better site for a resort hotel. By its excellent location there will be a unique view toward the ocean, all activities at the Marina, and there will be sweeping views of Naples Island with its charming family homes and canals."

Main structure is the 14-story hotel tower with 290 single rooms and 40 double-room suites. Each room will have an outdoor, private lanai area which serves a double purpose, giving sun protection for the hotel rooms and providing space to enjoy Southern California outdoor living.

• • • •

BANQUET facilities for 450 persons with cocktail waiting lounge will be on the mezzanine level overlooking the Marina. At the top floor of the tower will be a 300-seat observation, dining and cocktail lounge and a coffee shop. An unobstructed view can be enjoyed from all of these areas, overlooking the Marina and ocean.

On the ground floor, adjacent to the hotel lobby, will be a dinner house with a protected dining area seating 300 persons, a cocktail lounge and a coffee shop.

To the right of the hotel will be the recreational area and then the three-story luxury garden-type apartments.

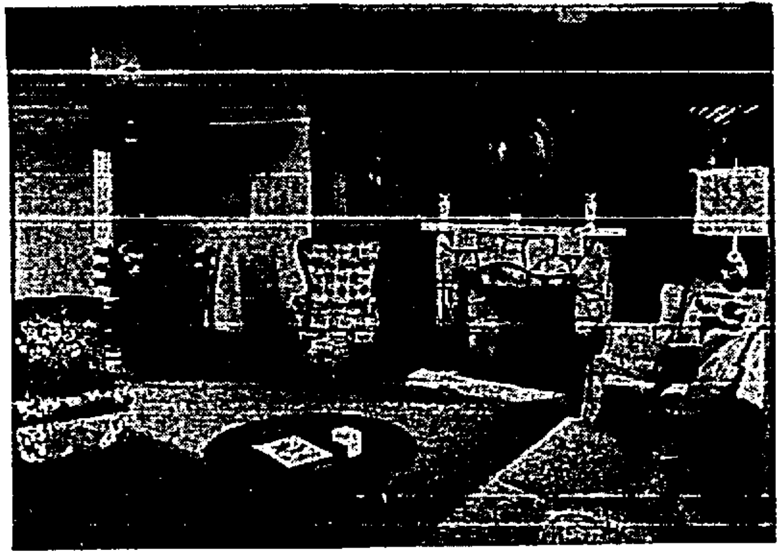
Growth of Huntington Beach Matched by Dutch Haven Units



IN DUTCH HAVEN HOME

A portion of the large living room and dining area in a Dutch Haven Home in Huntington Beach is shown. Moderately priced, the homes offer many luxurious extras.

Keeping pace with the phenominal growth of Huntington Beach, now claimed to be the most rapidly expanding city in the Southland area, are two new Dutch Haven communities, Unit 18 on Beach Blvd. and Unit 19 on Edinger Ave., near Bolsa Chica.

A spokesman for Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of Dutch Haven communities, said that the combination of ideal location at Huntington Beach and the maximum values available in Dutch Haven homes have proved dynamic factors in attracting potential home buyers. Traffic at both units has never been better and sales have peaked to a new high during the past week.

* * * *

IN ADDITION to the advantages of ideal year-round climate enjoyed by residents of the Huntington Beach area, the seaside municipality offers innumerable community and recreational facilities.

Huntington Beach schools are immediately convenient to both Dutch Haven communities. A large shopping center is nearby and major department stores will soon be opened.

In the realm of recreation, it is difficult to surpass the many advantages offered by this resort community. Several of California's finest beaches are only minutes away, construction is beginning on a mammoth new marina and facilities for boating, surfing and picnicking are excellent. Golf courses are also nearby.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH moderate in price, all of the Dutch Haven "American Home Series" models have unusually spacious living areas, generous play areas and larger-than-usual storage facilities. Several of the floor plans have won national recognition in home magazines.

Dutch Haven homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Prices start at $14,950 with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at the newly authorized 5¼% interest rate are also available.

Because of the vast buying power of Luxury Homes, Inc., more than the usual number of custom features are offered in the homes, the spokesman said. They include front-yard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top gas range, colored range hood with fan and light, custom ash cabinets, decorator wallpaper, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, copper plumbing service and marble pullmans in bathrooms.

To visit the homes from Long Beach drive east on Seventh St. to Beach Blvd., turn right to models.

Plan 14 Story Development

recreation facilities as well as the apartments have been carefully planned to blend into the over-all design while providing an important and pleasant transition to the surrounding residential area, Gibbs explained.

There will be 410 guest parking spaces, he added, with the largest portion of the parking spaces being underground.

The development has 1,100 feet of water frontage and will provide slips for guests who arrive by boat. A helicopter landing will be on the roof of the tower for visitors flying into the Southland for a vacation or convention.

All the land has been acquired and preliminary plans completed, Gibbs said. He estimated it would be from four to six months before actual start of construction will get under way.

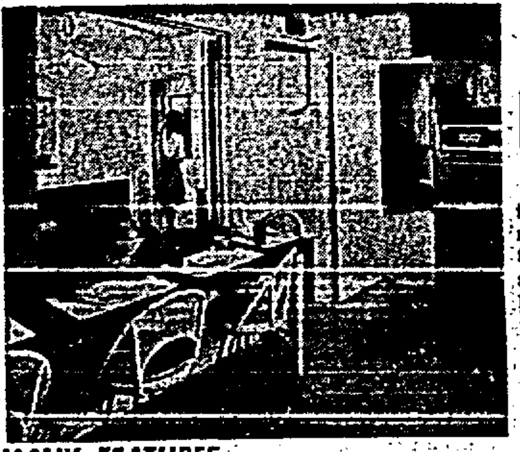
Private Roads Estates Near Sell-Out of Homes



MANY FEATURES

Separate den or convertible dining room is offered with a score of other features at the final unit of Private Road Estates in Garden Grove. Just minutes from the Long Beach area, the walled community of 23 individualized homes offers both three and four-bedroom homes from $21,650.

Popular Private Road Estates in Garden Grove were nearing the sell-out stage this weekend, but with homes still available in every floor plan, developers George M. Holstein and Sons report.

Priced from $21,650, Hawaiian, Provincial, Contemporary and Ranch exteriors are still for sale in nearly all of the well-arranged three and four-bedroom floor plans, the firm assured. FHA terms and VA terms can be arranged at the location that has been called one of the West Anaheim-Garden Grove area's very finest, a spokesman for the company pointed out.

• • • •

ALL PLANS have two baths, family room, built in all-electric kitchen, tile eating bars, custom light fixtures, sliding doors to rear yards, and feature decorator type fireplaces that blend with the home's exterior design.

"If you want provincial, modern, or "far east." your home will blend inside and out with your favorite decor," the pioneer Southland development firm explained.

Just opened before the holiday season, sales at the Private Road location point to a sell out early this year and buyers interested in a home in this area at the low current prices should act quickly, the firm's sales head, Louis Sowinski declared.

To reach the homes from Long Beach, drive east on Seventh St. to Hwy. 39 then turn north to Chapman. Drive east again on Chapman to Euclid then north about one-half mile to the walled community. The location is on Euclid about half way between Chapman and Katella.

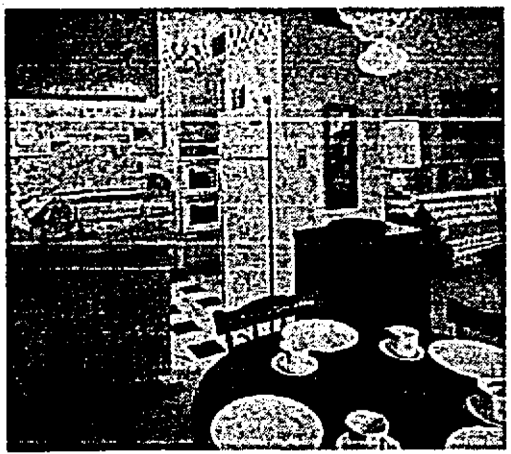
Douglas Expansion Boosts Home Sales



BOLSA PARK HOME

This view shows a portion of the interior of a Bolsa Park home. Several Douglas Aircraft workers transferred to Long Beach bought homes in the development the past week, a spokesman said.

Approximately half of last weekend's sales were to engineers and technical employes being transferred to Douglas Aircraft's Long Beach facility, said Ernie Merrill, sales director for Bolsa Park homes in Huntington Beach. The weekend's sales confirmed Bolsa Park's appeal to higher-income buyers, he said.

Many are purchasing homes for the second or third time. The consensus among these experienced buyers, Merrill said, is that Bolsa Park has succeeded in bringing custom quality and design to the development-home field. Buyers place a high rating on Bolsa Park's lath and plaster ceilings and walls, and laud the extensive use of ceramic tile.

• • • •

STILL AVAILABLE in the new Bolsa Park second unit are a limited number of choice cul-de-sac and corner lots. Although prices from $19,250 still prevail in the second unit, rising costs are expected to force higher prices in future units, it was said. Offered are VA no-down-payment terms, 35-year FHA financing, with 5¼% interest, and 6% conventional financing.

Features include custom entry and loggia areas, floor-to-ceiling fireplace of brick or Palos Verdes stone, shake or cedar shingle roof, ash kitchen cabinets, O'Keefe & Merritt colored gas range and oven, garbage disposal, range hood with recessed light and fan, dishwasher, floor-to-ceiling sliding glass doors, forced-air heating and concrete rear terrace.

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via Seventh Street east to Bolsa Chica, turning right and continuing south two miles to models.

$46 Million Sales for Realty Concern

RECORD SALES YEAR

Checking statistics on $46 million worth of home sales with head bookkeeper Sylvia Trull of McFarland & Mattocks are Frank McFarland Jr., Frank H. McFarland and Verdie Mattocks. The 1961 sales set an all-time record for the well-known sales agents.

In selling more than $46 million worth of homes during 1961 a new record was established for McFarland & Mattocks, home development sales agents, according to Frank H. McFarland.

"Steady growth and expansion of Southern California, a generally rising economy and a strong demand for better new homes contributed greatly to the highly successful year," commented McFarland. "In addition, the staff of 30 trained and experienced salesmen under the supervision of Verdie Mattocks, sales manager, coordinate the home buyer, the sales department and management."

SAVINGS-LOAN

Home Makes Most Loans for Realty

Home Savings and Loan Association led all financial institutions in Los Angeles County last year in real estate lending volume with nearly $258 million on 11,110 loans, according to a yearly summary of realty financing prepared by the Realty Tax & Service Co.

The report stated that lenders on real estate in the county in 1961 had made 255,718 loans amounting to more than $4 billion. Home Savings broke an association record by eclipsing the $197 million lending volume set in 1960.

• • • •

MANY Long Beach area families with savings accounts at California Federal Savings shared in the association's 1961 total dividend payment of $23,533,785, according to Donald L. Fylpaa, assistant vice president and manager of the firm's Lakewood office.

"The 1961 dividend, including a record fourth quarter payment on Dec. 31 of $6,248,017 at the annual rate of 4½% (now 4.6%), was the highest ever paid among the nation's federal savings associations," said Fylpaa. "Assets reached $730,683,511 as of Dec. 31—another milestone in California Federal's growth.

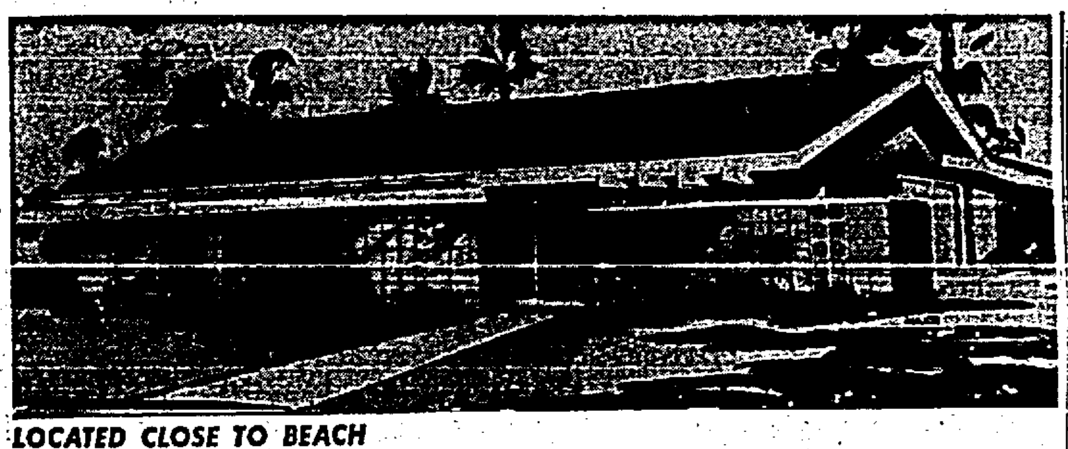
• • • •

UNION FEDERAL Savings reported an increase of total assets to $47,000,000 in its 1961 annual report.

The new mark represents a gain of 17.5% from the end of 1960, according to Wm. S. Martin, president.

He said that the association forged ahead in all phases of its business activities during 1961. Loan volume as well as savings activities increased considerably.

Net savings gains of $6,000,000 were listed in the 1961 report, bringing Union Federal Savings total savings capital to an all-time high of $39,000,000.



LOCATED CLOSE TO BEACH

Homes like this are offered at Pacific Sands in Huntington Beach where pricing starts at $13,500. A big recreation area is planned by the developers to include swimming pool, tennis courts and playgrounds. The homes are one block from beach area.

Pool, Play Areas for Pacific Sands

Planned at Pacific Sands, near Huntington Beach State Beach, is a new community recreation area with extra-large pool, cabana, tennis courts, and shuffleboard facilities, said Betty Patterson, sales manager for Walker & Lee, the development's sales agency.

Recently added to all Pacific Sands models are such features as a table-top gas range and separate wall oven, ceramic title around tub and shower, marble-top pullmans in both baths, living-room paneling, and wall-to-wall carpeting in living-dining-family room area, hallway and master bedroom. Also newly available are heavy cedar shake roofs.

Pacific Sands homes are offered with pricing as much as $5,000 below the market, the sales manager said. Valued on today's market at $18,000 to $25,000, the homes sell for just $13,500 to $19,950, she added.

DESIGNED FOR beach-close living, the homes offer outdoor beach showers for easy washing up after surf fun. Some models include special garage boat doors which permit moving a boat into the back yard for storage or maintenance.

Included in the new Pacific Sands homes are three or four bedrooms, family room, and two baths, plus such desirable features as ceramic tile counter tops, built-in gas range and oven, cabinets of birch, garbage disposal, breakfast bar, sliding doors, gas forced-air furnace, Pioneer Flintkote roofs and floors, used brick fireplaces, and 26 different exteriors enhanced by used brick, concrete block and Palos Verde stone.

Less than 10 minutes away is the Long Beach Marina, with complete facilities for small boat enthusiasts. Five minutes away is Newport-Balboa. Also nearby are such pleasure areas as Knott's Berry Farm and Disneyland.

Pacific Sands development is located on Hwy. 39 (Beach Blvd.), one block from Pacific Coast Hwy. 101.

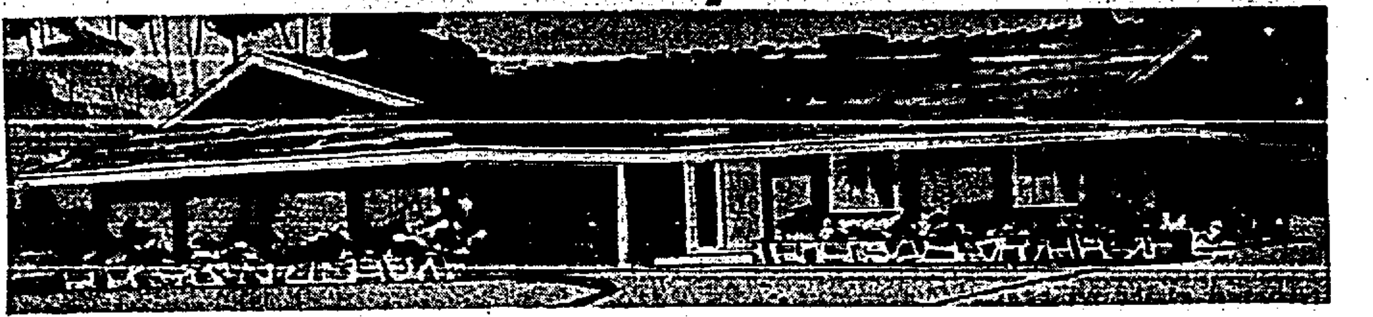
Newest Sol Vista Unit Already Half Sold Out



ONE OF 23 LUXURY SERIES MODELS OFFERED
Alco-Pacific Construction Co., builders of Sol Vista Homes in the Southland, offer 23 models in their newest Luxury Series. This is one of the 23. The new development in Huntington Beach already is 50 per cent sold. Model homes are on Beach Boulevard, three miles south of Garden Grove Boulevard.

Al Solomon, president of Alco-Pacific Construction Co., Inc., announced that the fourth unit of the Sol Vista Luxuriy Series Homes in Huntington Beach is 50 per cent sold.

"Our fantastic sales not only indicate Sol Vista's success, but strengthens the position taken by many that Huntington Beach is stepping into its greatest decade of growth, surpassing even that the coastal community witnessed after oil was discovered in 1919, and families looking for a home affording this prime location and unique qualities will find their desires fulfilled here at Sol Vista," according to Solomon.

These Sol Vista Homes are located only a few minutes from the ocean and within the vicinity of several fine golf courses. Their proximity to these outdoor recreation facilities — beaches, fishing and golf — is ideal for those who cherish typical California style indoor-outdoor living.

• • • •

THESE HOMES offer a selection of 23 exterior elevations and six floor plans. Strikingly individual in design, they range from provincial to modern and from picturesque shake shingle to colorful large rock roofs.

Featured are gleaming "hardwood" floors on raised foundations and supported by two-inch tongue and groove sub-flooring for added strength. There are floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, forced-air heat, colored bath fixtures, stall showers, insulation by Johns-Manville, large "walk-in" wardrobe closets and many other quality features.

Regardless of price range, the homes include the Medallion "all electric kitchen" featuring the Frigidaire double oven, range and the all-important dishwasher. Also included is color coordinated range hoods and light with electric fan, whirlaway disposals and ash cabinets.

• • • •

The homes are near schools of all grades, churches, and some of California's greatest employment centers. They are priced from $18,000 with FHA minimum down. VA, Cal-Vet and conventional terms are also available.

Everyone is invited to visit the model homes located on Higway 39 (Beach Blvd.), three miles south of Garden Grove Boulevard. Alco-Pacific Construction Co., the builder, has produced a 15-minute sound movie (The Sol Vista Story) which you may see when you visit the models. The movie shows you the Orange County West area—school facilities, recreation, etc. It further goes into detail pointing out the quality features and construction.

From Long Beach, go out Carson or Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St.) to Highway 39 and turn right to models.

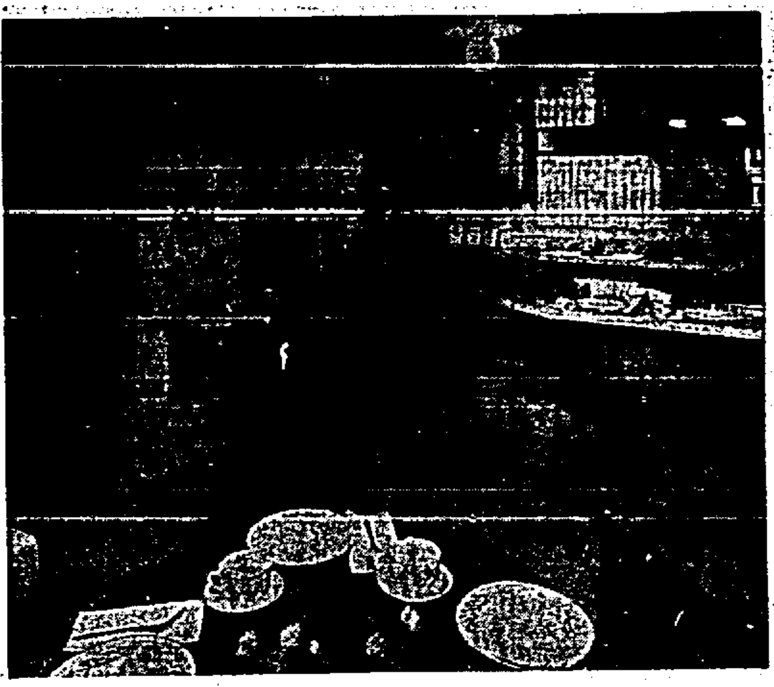
Huntington Village Is Holding to Moderate Price for Homes



HOME LOADED WITH 'EXTRAS'
This view in a Huntington Village home shows some of the many extras provided, such as the kitchen desk and phone stand, breakfast bar, built-in stove and oven and wall of glass in the living room.

Land surrounding fast-growing Huntington Village has virtually doubled in cost while prices of the three and four-bedroom Village homes are still being held down, developers Doyle & Shields declared.

One of the last opportunities for non-vets within the $15,600 price to $18,500 bracket homes in Huntington Village's new unit 9 "Sea Breeze" series of homes are available for as little as $195 down, according to Larry Shields.

Corner lot homes and others fronting on quiet cul-de-saces can be brought within the low-price range although they could not be duplicated elsewhere at present land-and-building costs, the Doyle & Shields executive pointed out.

• • • •

MORE THAN 800 families already occupy homes in this recreation-centered development which is bordered by a golf course and is within minutes of the Southland's finest beaches.

Unit 9, just opened to the public, includes a choice of 21 widely-varied exterior designs and six new "wife saver" floor plans, said Shields, adding that several choice designs still are available for immediate occupancy in adjacent unit 8.

Every home boasts such luxury features as wall-to-wall carpeting in the living room, master bedroom suite and all hallways. There are deluxe built-in RCA Whirlpool gas ranges and ovens and central air heat. Walnut panel adds to the elegant interior decor.

AN ATTRACTIVE residential community whose occupants have added to their home landscaping to compliment the wide, safety-engineered streets, Huntington Village enjoys full city services. Schools, within the community are on full-day sessions.

Handy to residents are shopping areas and employment centers are close by.

To visit Huntington Village when coming from Long Beach take Seventh St. to Hwy. 39 then right to Edinger, then right and follow the signs.

Ray Shaw Will Manage Buffums' Pomona Store

RAY N. SHAW
Moves From Santa Ana Store

Ray N. Shaw, manager of Buffums' Santa Ana store, will be the manager of the big, new Buffums' which will open in October in Pomona.

This was announced Saturday by Harry Buffum, board chairman, who also disclosed that the store expansion started late last year will include future locations in the Palos Verdes area and in Corona del Mar. First step in the expansion was the opening of Buffums' Marina Sportswear at the Long Beach Marina and the Pomona store will be the next step.

Shaw started his career in retailing as a trainee with Buffums' in 1936. After studying law at the University of Nebraska, he served in the Navy from 1943 to 1945. On his return to Buffums' he was appointed special assistant to the general manager of the Long Beach store and in 1950 became operating superintendent.

Going to the Santa Ana store as manager in 1955, Shaw directed growth and expansion of that unit. In 1957 he was elected to the Buffums' board of directors.

Until a successor to Shaw has been named R. M. Stebbins, personnel superintendent in Buffums' Santa Ana will be acting manager.

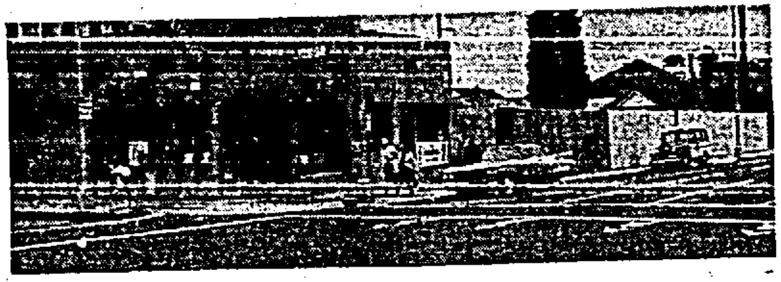
Construction Started on Luxury Motel and Restaurant at Magnolia-Broadway



SITE OF THE ROYAL LANCER
The southwest corner of Broadway and Magnolia Avenue will be the location of a de luxe motel and restaurant, the Royal Lancer. It will be a half-block square. The owners have razed several older buildings where fence is shown and construction already is under way. The corner liquor store will be remodeled and embodied in the new construction.

Construction is under way on a de luxe motel, restaurant and cocktail bar on the southwest corner of Broadway and Magnolia Ave.

To be known as The Royal Lancer, the new motel adds another tourist facility near the heart of downtown Long Beach.

Owners of the $200,000 motel are Attorney Patrick Phelan, C. Robert Langslet, contractor, and Mitchell Land and Improvement Co.

• • • •

THE OWNERS purchased the full half block running south and west from the busy thoroughfare and razed all structures except a liquor store on the corner which will be embodied in the new construction.

The two-story structure will be designed around a large inner court which will have a swimming pool. Off-streeet parking will be provided for all patrons.

On the ground floor along Magnolia will be The Century Room, a cocktail bar and restaurant with seating for 75 diners. On the second level will be a sun deck for outdoor luncheons. Room also will be provided on the second level for banquets and convention parties.

"WITH THIS PROPERTY located close to the heart of the city, a block from the beach and on Broadway which is the main off thoroughfare from the Long Beach Freeway we plan to offer visitors de luxe apartments plus exceptional dining facilities," said Phelan.

"The Century Room will feature a luncheon attractive to patrons and officials at the County Courts Building and Public Service Building, just across Magnolia Ave."

Phelan said construction plans call for completion of The Royal Lancer in time for a June opening.

Finished Steel Shipments Off

NEW YORK (AP)—Shipments of finished steel products in the first 11 months of 1961 were 60,350,942 tons, off appreciably from 67,046,-359 tons in the similar 1960 period, the American Iron and Steel Institute said.

Shipments of electrolytic tin plate were at a record rate of 5,015,981 tons, compared with 4,836,139 a year earlier, and boosted the product's share of the market to 8.3 per cent from 7.2 per cent a year earlier.

Many States Using Lures for Industry

Norman Masterson, chairman of the Industrial Committee of the Long Beach Board of Realtors reports that a large percentage of states now offer some form of assistance to attract industries.

"When one state comes up with a new gimmick, others are forced to follow suit with similar inducements. It is a snowballing trend that grows each year, and there is no doubt that it will continue in 1962," said Masterson.

Paul Starrett, the new head of the 800-meter society of Industrial Realtors, affiliated with the National Association of Real Estate Boards stated at a recent meeting of the NAREB that more and more states are entering the constant battle to attract and keep industries through the use of such lures as property tax exemptions, bond issues, state financial assistance, and development credit corporations.

• • • •

DANGLING SUCH bait in front of industry is a perfectly fine method of attracting industry and demonstrates a state's interest and aggressive action in trying to create more jobs for its citizens . . . Starrett said.

Surveys show, however, that industry is more interested in such things as the market area, transportation network, access of raw materials, availability of utilities, community attitudes, and the supply and cost of labor than in the shortrange benefits provided by various forms of state financial assistance, Starrett continued.

"The site is really the major determining factor in an industry selecting one location over another. But when favorable site factors appear to be equal, a state may well win an industry from another becaues of a particular gimmick it offers."

Masterson pointed out that in 1962 competition for industry will be such that many states which presently offer no lures will have to add inducements to their industrial development programs to keep pace with neighboring states.

NOTES OF BUSINESS

Note More Young Couples Buy Home

Thousands of today's young couples are breaking with the old pattern of starting married life in rented quarters by buying a home soon after marriage, James A. Edmonds Jr., President of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, reports. This development is one of the newest and most encouraging in the real estate market, he said.

Edmonds cited figures of the FHA which show that in the second quarter of 1961 more than 14% of the buyers of new homes who used FHA-insured mortgage financing were under 25 years old, and that an additional 26% of them were between 25 and 29 years of age.

• • • •

"THIS DEVELOPMENT is not surprising when we consider the gains in home ownership that followed the end of World War II, making 62% of American families home owners," Edmonds said. "A larger proportion of the young people now approaching marriage age were brought up in owner-occupied homes. In addition, the wage-earners in new families to be formed in the immediate future will enter the labor market with better education and with salaries far higher than those that were available to their parents at the outset of their careers."

• • • •

BAKER OIL TOOL earnings for the first fiscal quarter were up 37 per cent on a 22 per cent revenue gain. Sales have held up for January, usually a low period, President T. Sutter announced. To keep pace for product demand, directors voted to authorize immediate purchase of $500,000 in machine tools for the Los Angeles and Houston plants . . . NORMAN H. HANEY of Long Beach, vice president of the California Chapter of the American Association of Oil-well Drilling Contractors announced that John C. Skeehan of Montrose has been retained by the association to coordinate a program to establish sound business practices among its 50 member firms engaged in exploratory drilling.

WESTERN AIR LINES sold 31 per cent more transportation in December than in the same month the previous year as revenue passenger miles topped the 100 million mark. Increased air coach facilities helped the boost . . . ROLLS ROYCE was hard hit when the British government limited the amount a company may spend for cars and charge it to expense. The limit is $5,600. Rolls' big market has been executives paying considerable more for a car.

• • • •

BONDS SOLD to finance public elementary and secondary schools set a record of over $2.4 billion in 1961, according to Investment Bankers Association. Sale of the bonds usually precedes construction by several months so the nation's school building program should be a boon this year . . . Aero-Space, Gardena, and Sterling Industrial of near Downey will be merged as Lionel Pacific Inc., and move into new facilities in Orange County.

• • • •

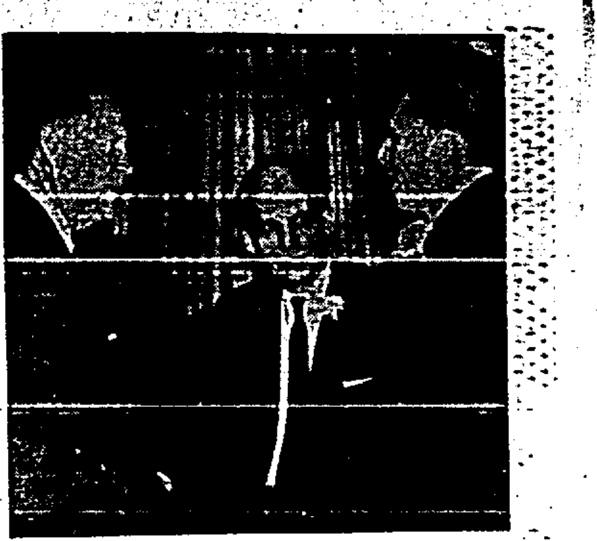
REEM MANUFACTURING Co.'s coated products division has moved from Fullerton to a new plant at 10134 Shoemaker Ave., Santa Fe Springs. The new facility houses a complete line of sandblasting equipment and ovens for specialized coatings . . . PLASMADYNE CORP., is building a two-story office and laboratories building in Santa Ana at 3839 S. Main St. Engaged in space research products, the firm plans two more expansions this year.

• • • •

COLWELL CO., statewide morgage bankers, reported that its morgage loan portfolio reached a record high of $427 million at the end of 1961.

This represented an increase of 40% over the $305 million reported at the end of 1960, Bundy Colwell, president, said.

First trust deed loans in the portfolio increased from 26,663 to 34,259 at the close of the year.



GIBBS TAKES HELM
Hugh Gibbs (left) was installed president of the Long Beach Chapter of the American Institute of Architects at a dinner meeting at the Captain's Inn. Shown with Gibbs are Samuel Lundeen, installing officer, and Dean Samuel Hurst of the USC School of Architecture.

Architects Install Hugh Gibbs Prexy

New officers of the Long Beach District of the Southern California Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and their feminine counterpart, the Women's Architectural League, were installed at a dinner at the Captain's Inn.

Samuel Lundeen, a former national vice president of the AIA, reminiscing back 50 years ago when Long Beach still had the Pavilion on its beach, installed into office Hugh Gibbs as president of the local architectural group. William Lockett is vice president. Arthur V. Hoyer is treasurer and Richard O. Prior was named secretary.

Mrs. Richard Poper became the second president of the WAL. Mrs. Richard Prior is vice president, Mrs. Edwin Ripperdan, secretary and Mrs. Arthur Hoyer, like her husband, is treasurer.

• • • •

SAMUEL HURST, newly appointed dean of the School of Architecture at USC, was the speaker.

Dean Hurst saluted local architects and the community for their efforts in behalf of city planning. Speaking on "Architecture at the City Scale" he lamented that we are "possibly too late to redesign urban America—but not too late to control its future." Listing the desirability of bringing "Safety, order, health and beauty into the city," Hurst urged Architects and Planners to "convert blight into amenity and even profit."

Unemployment Tax Filing Due

Jan. 31 is the deadline for filing California Unemployment Insurance wage reports and contribution returns for the fourth quarter of 1961, W. P. Nebergall, auditor in charge for the State Department of Employment in Long Beach, reminded employers.

Employers who need help in preparing their returns may contact the audit office at 1315 Pine Ave., Long Beach, or by telephoning HEmlock 7-0171.

BUILDING CONTRACTORS ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA, INC.

PAUL McKENZIE, JR., BUILDER AND CONTRACTOR:

"I BUILD ALL KINDS BUT I LIVE IN A MEDALLION HOME"

"After fifteen years as a Long Beach builder, I've learned about homes inside and out. Built all kinds—houses and apartments, too. At home, however, we've cooked electrically for the past 12 years. And our house is built to Medallion Home standards.

"As so many other folks do these days we prefer the cleanliness and efficiency of electricity. Of course, it's cooler. And, as a businessman, I figure my Medallion Home is built for the future."

Mr. McKenzie is considered one of his area's best builders. He builds exclusively to Medallion Home requirements. His years of experience can now point your way to better living. Wherever you buy or build, make sure the home bears the Medallion Home Award.

Only one new home in five earns the Medallion Home Award. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.

2. Full "Housepower" wiring—Only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.

3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty throughout the home.

A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

GARDEN PARK ESTATES CONVENIENTLY LOCATED

Luxury homes such as this are offered in the walled "city within a city" of Garden Park Estates with full price from $17,450. Convenience of the location has been a big selling factor, with schools, churches and shopping facilities within the area. The homes are built by the S & S Construction Co.

Garden Park Estates Close to 'Everything'

Boasting one of the most convenient locations in all of "exploding" Orange County, Garden Park Estates on Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Freeway where the "1962 Series" of luxury homes recently was introduced, is just minutes from major family conveniences, officials of S&S Construction Co., the builders, point out.

A walled "city within a city" in the midst of lovely homes similar in caliber, Garden Park Estates is almost literally surrounded by fine schools, most of which are within walking distance. There are excellent business and shopping centers, many churches and top recreational facilities. Just five minutes from Long Beach State College, it is 10 minutes from downtown Long Beach, and 10 minutes to the beaches, harbors and marinas, via fine streets, highways and freeways.

BUILT BY S&S Construction Co., buyers are assured of design excellence and quality construction. Exteriors are diverse, and the flexible plans offer three or four bedrooms, dining area and family room and two baths. All have concrete driveways leading to the oversize two-car garages.

Financing is as convenient as the locale. Buyers have choice of four plans. For veterans there are Cal-Vet loans, or veterans terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs on VA loans with monthly payments from $97, including principal and interest. Non-veteran financing offers excellent conventional loans or the new 35-year FHA financing. Full prices are from $17,450.

* * * *

THESE MODERATE prices include the many luxurious appointments such as fireplaces, sliding glass walls, forced-air heating, baths with colored plumbing fixtures, and special lighting fixtures.

Kitchens are equipped with color-matched built-in gas wall oven and range with matching range hood with fan and light, semi-automatic dishwashers, and superamic tile countertops.

Sound construction is a feature of every home with lath and plaster walls and ceilings, rockwool insulation and roofs of red cedar shingle or crushed rock.

Furnished models, open daily, are reached (from Long Beach) by driving east on Seventh St. past Long Beach State College, straight to Knott Ave. and Garden Park Estates.

Shell Sets Newspaper Ad Program

Shell Oil Co. will continue in 1962 to be the largest national newspaper advertiser among oil companies and will be one of the largest of all national newspaper advertisers in the country, the company's marketing personnel from four states was told.

A. P. Hynes, manager of Shell's Los Angeles Marketing division, spoke to a group of more than 200 Shell personnel from Southern California, Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico gathered at the Beverly Hilton in Los Angeles for an all-day session previewing advertising and merchandising aspects of the company's 1962 sales campaign.

Shell advertisements will continue to inform the consumer of factual information about Shell products, just as it has during the past year, according to Hynes.

During 1961, the company converted most of its marketing advertising to newspapers, becoming the largest user of that medium among oil companies.

THIS IS THE TOWER at Woods Ridge where two girls kept lookout for fire from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.—in good weather. When fire danger rating was high, watch was extended, sometimes around clock.

THIS IS THE VIEW, as sighted from Woods Ridge, of fire burning near Yosemite National Park. Alert forest service workers battle to prevent, control fires which destroy priceless forest.

In the High Sierra

...vigil in the sun, storm

By ELISE EMERY

The responsibility, merriment, wonder and tragedy of a summer spent as forest fire lookout in the High Sierra are vivid memories for a young Long Beach bride.

In her home, 334-B Redondo Ave., the former Anne Elston Graham, who became Mrs. Ralph W. Adams in October, recalled the eventful summer of 1960.

The end of June that year, Anne and her cousin, Jean Elston of Carmel, learned that an immediate replacement was needed for the fire lookout tower at Woods Ridge in Groveland District. The area is just below Cherry Valley in Stanislaus National Forest near the western border of Yosemite National Park. They applied for the job and were hired.

Both 19, the girls were the youngest to be assigned as fire lookouts.

"This is an experiment—we've employed only older women or couples in the past. Once you're there, you'll be on your own, but we'll look in when we can," the fire control officer told them.

* * * *

FURTHERMORE, the two must begin work on July 1 and agree to stay to the end of the season — until two inches of rain or snow fell.

Anne, 5 feet tall, with tawny hair and brown eyes, and her red-haired cousin had three days to pass physical examinations and assemble supplies: a month's ration of food, summer and winter clothing, bedding. For recreation they took books, sewing materials and a portable radio.

"Fire patrolmen drove us to our cabin and tower. My mouth fell open when I first saw the 132-foot tower and its 133 wooden steps stretching up 9 flights to a 7-foot-square glassed shelter.

In the center of the glassed-in lookout was the fire-finder, a circular 20-mile radius map mounted on a stand 4 feet high, leaving a 3-foot border around the room. The only other furnishings were the battery-operated forest service radio with sending microphone, two straight chairs, and a broom.

* * * *

"THE RADIO was strictly for business; no personal messages were allowed. It was turned on all the time

THIS IS ANNE ELSTON ADAMS, who, with her cousin, Jean Elston, manned Woods Ridge tower. Their great-grandfather pioneered in vicinity of nearby Coulterville; grandparents have ranch at Bean Meadow in Greeley Hill community. They have spent many vacations there and in Yosemite, know forest area.

'Traveling' Orchestra Scores With Audiences

"Long Beach audiences? Wonderful!" said David Frisina, concertmaster of Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

"There are so many young people, and they seem to enjoy the concerts so much."

Frisina and 99 other members of the orchestra, along with the conductor, soloist, stage manager, personnel manager, musical instruments (everything except the piano), and the sheet music travel to Long Beach five times a year by moving van and two buses. They play a series of four concerts and two children's concerts.

BECAUSE THEY perform in 16 other Southern California cities besides Long Beach, they are probably the most traveled orchestra in the nation.

Orchestra members enliven their trips with games of charades, bridge and poker, Frisina said. Some conductors prefer to drive their own cars, but others—Sir John Barbirolli, for instance—seem to enjoy the bus rides.

It costs between $6,000 and $6,500 to bring the orchestra to Long Beach for each concert. This includes salaries for the musicians, conductor and soloist as well as travel and transportation.

THE CONCERT HALL at Municipal Auditorium, where concerts are played, seats 1,332. Fifty-five of these seats are occupied at each performance by students who receive tickets distributed by Long Beach Unified School District's music department and purchased for them by Long Beach Auxiliary to Southern California Symphony Association, and Symphony Juniors. Other complimentary tickets are available to foreign students.

NO SYMPHONY orchestra is self-supporting. Funds from ticket sales must be augmented by such special events as balls, teas, pop concerts, and by endowment, revenue from recordings and public subscription.

Monday, Southern California Symphony Association will open its annual Continuance Fund drive.

IN LONG BEACH Mrs. Raymond C. Peterson will head the drive, assisted by Mmes. Ira O. Wallin, Geza J. Krempels, Stanley Fedderly and Martin Wolfson.

Mrs. Peterson will entertain in her home, 612 Devon Place, at a coffee hour and kick-off meeting for volunteer workers of the Continuance Fund committee.

"In the past, financial contributions to the Symphony Association which make it possible for Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra to come here have been given by a very generous few," said Mrs. Peterson.

"This year, we hope to add a wider support with small contributions from every music-lover in Long Beach."

"THE BIG OOM-PA comes out here!" discovers little Julia Driscoll, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Driscoll, 3208 Roxanne Ave., as Herbert Jenko, member of Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, demonstrates tuba for tot. The 100-member orchestra travels to Long Beach five times a year for performances which include two youth concerts. Tickets are purchased for school students by Long Beach Auxiliary.

TEEN-AGERS also serve as volunteer workers. Here, checking Concert Hall just before performance time are ticket-taker Ronald Lyders, 19, of Long Beach City College, and head usher Judy Hart, 17, of Wilson High School.

LIBERACE -- FASHIONS, TOO

Champagne Luncheon Saturday

Fashions to go anywhere, anytime will be featured during the Long Beach Osteopathic Hospital Guild's annual champagne luncheon and fashion show Saturday in the Petroleum Club.

From the drawing boards of some of the nation's foremost designers—Oleg Cassini, Herbert Sondheim, Larry Aldrich, Paul Parnes and Harvey Berin—will be clothes for cruise, sport, travel, bridge teas, luncheons and formal occasions.

The bonus: ageless styles for women 5-feet-5 and under; also sophisticated styles for teens.

COMMENTATOR for the showing, featuring fashions from Gibson Style Shop, will be local fashion authority Wilma Hastings.

Music will be provided by George Liberace and his combo, currently appearing at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel, Los Angeles.

Champagne will be served, 11 a.m. to noon, in the Terrace Room. Luncheon will follow in the dining room.

Fashions will be modeled by Mmes. Lloyd G. Hallamore and William Irwin, members of the Long Beach Osteopathic Hospital Guild; Mmes. Philip Reams and Ward DeWitt, of the Auxiliary to the Long Beach Osteopathic Society; also professional mannequins from the Wilma Hastings agency.

PROCEEDS FROM the benefit will go to purchase needed equipment for Long Beach Osteopathic Hospital.

The Guild, which also maintains a gift shop in the foyer of the hospital for convenience of patients and visitors, has raised close to $20,000 for the hospital.

For luncheon tickets and reservations, contact Mrs. William Laufer, 5500 El Jardin St.

Girls Keep Fire Watch Over Forest

we were on duty, and off at night. Then we were completely out of contact."

By radio they made their reports, relayed information to patrolmen in the field, heard dispatches from other districts and all forest service trucks.

• • • •

FROM THEIR high watch they saw storms rolling in and were the first to report the big Mt. Gibson fire. During stormy periods they stayed at their post, sometimes for 24 hours, although there was no light in the tower. Once the lookout was struck by lightning which bounced across the room in great fiery sparks.

"The elevation at our wooden cabin by the base of the tower was 6,000 feet. We had a living room-kitchen and a separate bedroom, a small wood stove, butane stove and refrigerator, but no running water.

• • • •

OCCASIONALLY patrolmen and other district workers would stop by for an evening of singing, cards or conversation. One who kept a watchful eye on the girls was Jean's fiance, Roger McLean, 26.

On Sept. 9 Anne was visiting her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Elston at their ranch near Coulterville. She knew that Jean had reported a storm and a lightning-set fire 400 yards from their tower.

A midnight telephone call summoned Anne back to the lookout. Roger had been injured, Jean was accompanying him in the ambulance bringing him down the mountain.

• • • •

"ALL THE WAY back I watched for the ambulance, but I never passed it; I was afraid then that something more serious had happened."

Her fear was justified. Roger had been killed instantly by a limb falling from a tree. He had been sent to work on spot fires set by sparks from a burning tree top near the tower. When they seemed to be under control, he stopped by the cabin to say goodby, then remembered his portable chain saw was still by the tree. Jean walked down with him to retrieve it.

She heard the sudden swish of the falling limb, turned to find Roger dead.

• • • •

"EVERYONE thought Jean wouldn't want to go back to the tower, but after the funeral we both returned and stayed until the season ended, Nov. 7. This summer we went back to Woods Ridge for a few days, then Jean was assigned to the tower at Jones Point and I worked in the Groveland District office."

Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris J. Graham, 3724 E. Third St., was married in October and plans to enroll as a recreation major at Long Beach State College where her husband is a physical education major.

Would she return to Woods Ridge?

"Oh, yes! Very much so! Ralph and I talk about spending a summer there when we finish our education."

Novelty Acts Set for Show

All-star troupe from Dorothy Castle Dance Studio, directed by Mrs. Robert Leidler, will provide the variety stage show for the community program in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium Monday evening.

Featured performers will be Kirk Price, 9-year-old guitarist and tap dancer; Judy Lauer, Hawaiian dances; and Margaret and Valerie Gavora, novelty duet, "The Old Swimmin' Hole."

The Recreation Department sponsored free civic program opens with community singing and two hours of old-time dancing follow the stage presentation.

Auditorium doors open at 7 p. m. The public is invited.

WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson ● I. P-T Women's Editor

LOOKING back on it, funniest story to develop out of last weekend's storm was what happened, in absentia, to Frances and Henry Clock.

"When muddy, 40 is a lot"

Can you imagine yourself being host to 40 muddy, dripping Boy Scouts—and not even present to defend yourself?

Their son, Phil Clock, aided and abetted by Norm Hastings, was in charge of taking a troop for a three-day trip into the Banning Hills above Palm Springs. Friday night the whole gang was almost washed down the creek. Quick as they could get out early Saturday the bedraggled crew descended into the comparatively mild desert to "camp out" at the senior Clocks' Palm Springs home.

Fathers in Long Beach were hastily summoned to form a motorcade to bring their sons home earlier than expected. But not before a delighted throng of 11- to 13-year-olds had the best camping-out experience of their young lifetimes.

IN OLD Arizona are Ina and Willie Harris and Millie and Frank Vessels. Trust they aren't referring to it as in %@&$ old Arizona by now.

Any old ways, they drove off Tuesday for Phoenix and Tucson in search of sunny golfing weather.

MIDWEEK returnees from a flying business trip to Miami are Middy and Mel Masterson. En route home they detoured through Mexico City where the business was all pleasure.

ONLY FOR old timers—Evelyne (nee "The Imp" Ross) and Capt. Marshall Thompson with their three children will go to Rome in the spring from current duty in Washington, D. C. Understand he will head up the Navy's MAG (Military Assistance Group) in Italy; anticipate anything from two- to four-year assignment.

DUE HOME Saturday were those vaqueros of the Greyhound Line Pauline Dilday, Dora Gardner, Port Ives and Grace Dean. They've been on a 20-day charter bus tour of Mexico—and having a fiesta all the way. Glad to be rid of their bachelor-husband roles are Jack, Earl, Dean and Elwin, in that order.

"TERRIFIC night" say Jaycee members Myron Godwin and his date, Janet Clarke, of the recent U. S. Jr. Chamber of Commerce banquet in Santa Monica when the national honored its 10 outstanding young men of the country. Myron was the only Long Beach Jaycee to attend. Wotsa matter, fellas? Can't stand the competition?

MOST important thing in Louise and Ernie Belcher's lives right now is the littlest—their baby grandson. He's their star board-and-roomer. He and mother, Elke, are currently here while dad, Kerry, is Army stationed near Boston. But as soon as that young man is ready to travel, Elke hopes to go back, too.

VISUAL deterrents—you know, like rain raining and trees being blown into a courtly bow—weren't enough. Doughty sailors George and Bea Hart and Betty and "Bix" Bixby with their guests, Margaret and Dick Russell and Mil and Sam Cameron, didn't give up a planned cruise to Catalina until after listening to the 8 a.m. weather forecast last Saturday.

So, they cruised all day ashore to celebrate George's birthday. Provisions were unloaded with half going to the Harts' for luncheon and the balance to the Camerons' for dinner. Ah, yes. This boating can be fun.

IF YOU want to know when the most advantageous time to do something will be, don't consult the wizard. Just ask Swami Don or Dee Horton.

"Had a snow ball"

They made long-range plans last weekend in search of snow. With their two children and Don's mother, Cecelia Stathis, they rendezvoused with a whole mob of others in Squaw Valley.

Occupying a big (it had to be) cabin were Don's sister, Betty, and her husband Cmdr. Chris Christofferson of Los Altos and their three children; plus two other couples from up north with their assortment of five kiddies.

They left S. V. Monday, with its 4½ feet of snow, only to find themselves marooned in Bakersfield with all mountain roads closed. They were finally allowed to edge their way home on Route 466, through Tehachapi, about 1 p.m. Tuesday.

TALKED UP a storm with Bob Cornthwaite on one of those do-you-remember-when reunion dates the other day. Bob is in town a portion of each week now as he stars in "The Egg" which opened at Magnolia Theater Thursday.

Now a feature actor of considerable note in television and motion pictures, Bob had his early training here at both City College and Community Playhouse.

I asked him if he was still satisfied with show biz life. Every once in a while, he said, he examines his theatrical career with a view to going into something else a little less strenuous, like maybe sky diving. Then he decides he'd rather be batting cues and lines than anything else so he stays on.

Golden Tea Set for S. Morse Travers'

Mr. and Mrs. S. Morse Travers of 905 Magnolia Ave. will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary next Sunday when their children, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arnold and Mr. and Mrs. Morse A. Travers, give a tea for them at Assistance League House.

The goldenweds met while both were students at the University of Illinois. Mrs. Travers, then Deborah Akers, later took graduate study at Bryn Mawr College and in Europe before coming to Long Beach with her family in 1911 where her father was active in Security First National Bank.

Travers, whose father was a banker in central Illinois, came to Long Beach to visit his college sweetheart and they were married in February 1912, going to Honolulu on their honeymoon trip.

Their first home was on E. Broadway and they have resided at the Magnolia Avenue address since 1921. In addition to the two children who will host the tea they have three grandchildren.

* * * *

MR. TRAVERS was active in the management of Long Beach Peoples Ice Co. for 28 years and retired in 1939. During World War II he was secretary-manager of the ration board. He is a member of University Club and a charter member of Long Beach Lions Club which recently honored him at a luncheon celebrating his 40 years of membership. He also is a 50-year member of Fairview, Ill., Masonic Lodge and a member of the Knight Templars of Long Beach and of Al Malaikah Shrine Temple of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Travers, also keenly interested in civic and organization affairs, is a charter member of Friday Morning Discussion Club; life member of Ebell and the YWCA; member of PEO; and has participated in countless door-to-door campaigns for welfare funds. Their church affiliation is Congregational.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

A Master at Upstaging

DEAR ABBY: Every time we are in a crowd and someone tells a joke, my husband says, "I've heard that one before." Or else, when they finish, he'll say, "Here's the way I heard it"—and he'll tell it over, only a little different.

I was taught that it is bad manners to do that and whether you've heard a joke or not you should pretend you haven't and laugh for courtesy's sake. My husband says that is being phony, and he would rather be honest. Who is right?

—PHONY BUT NICE.

ABBY

DEAR PHONY: I vote with you. It's more important to be kind than frank.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: The man I married has always detested eye make-up of any kind. I went to a makeup consultant and she told me to fill in the blank spaces in my eyebrows with a little eyebrow pencil.

I used the pencil for a month and my husband didn't even notice it. I thought it made me look a lot nicer. It wasn't painted looking, Abby. It was neat and hardly noticeable. One morning my husband saw me using the pencil and he started to rave about how cheap eye makeup was. I told him I'd been using it for a month and he called me "deceitful" and cursed me as though I had taken a giant step toward degradation. The next time I went to use my eyebrow pencil, it was missing. I later found it broken to pieces in the waste basket. I am very angry. What would you do in my place?—SHAGGY BROWS.

DEAR SHAGGY: Obviously it wasn't the "work" of the pencil—it was the principle of it that irritated your husband—but he certainly behaved in a childish manner. You knew he "detested" eye makeup when you married him. Write off the pencil entirely.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a man who can be the sweetest person on earth at times, but there are other times when he is so mean and ugly it is frightening. I have cried my eyes out over him. He gets on the subject of my cheating on him, and he won't give up. He spends hours trying to make me confess that I have been a sweetheart to his brother. Once he accused me of something terrible with an old man who has a room with us. He even accused me of awful things with my own brother. All his accusations are false. After he torments me, he laughs and says he was only kidding. Should I marry a man like this?—TORMENTED

DEAR TORMENTED: Not unless you want to be tormented this way all your life. The man sounds sick.

Ahoy! See Worthy Styles

...salty 'port of fashion' theme to background colorful children's benefit league style show

Everything will be ship, shape and see-worthy when Children's Benefit League presents its major spring fashion show and luncheon benefit Feb. 8 at Lafayette Hotel.

In a salute to Long Beach harbor the theme will be "Port of Fashion" with all decorations to follow an authentic nautical motif.

The benefit will feature newest spring styles by California designers selected from local stores by Ethel Joutras of Beverly Hills, couture and commentator.

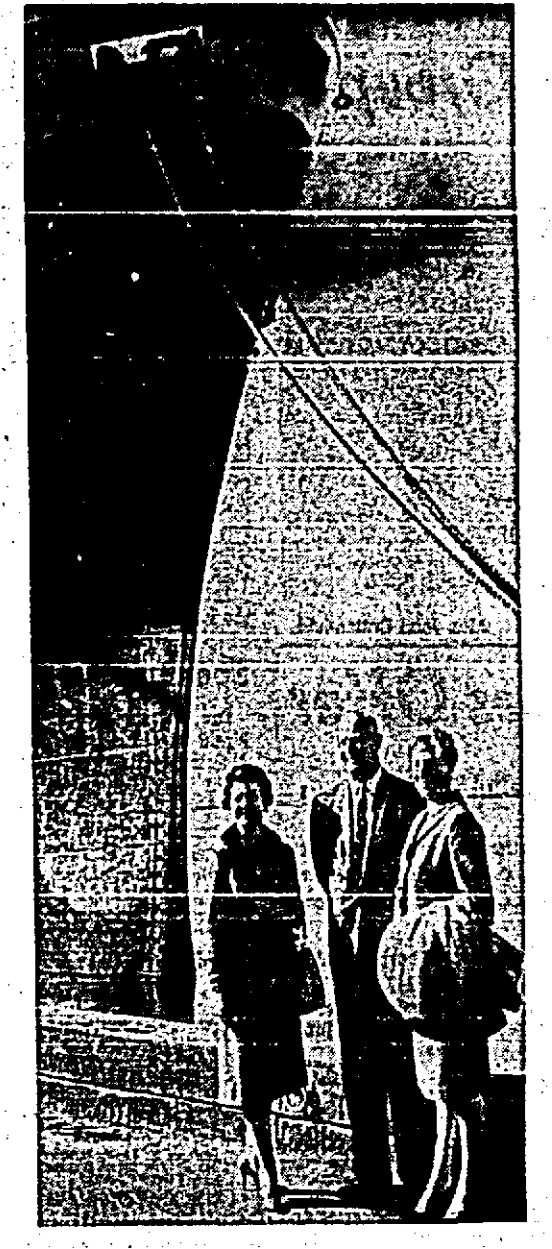
Lyle Talbot, star of stage, screen and television, will be master of ceremonies. In captain's uniform he will preside from a stage setting resembling the deck of an ocean liner with portholes, signal flags, gangplank and all.

INDIVIDUAL TABLES will reflect the gaiety of a cruise ship party, serpentine strewn, with champagne bottles in buckets for centerpieces.

Seating arrangements are being made for approximately 700 women in the hotel's International Ballroom with festivities slated to begin at noon.

The affair is open to the public. Tickets may be obtained from any league member. A few tickets will be available at the door on show date, however for best seats advance reservations are recommended.

Show chairman is Mrs. Albertis Hulen with co-chairmen Mmes. Loyd Landes and William Fenwick. Assisting with the myriad details are Mmes. Lawrence Chaffee, Fred Long, Robert Dick, Milton Jenkins, Ray Frankel, George Lawson, C. B. Shell, Francis Kerr, George Watts, Anthony Affree, Thomas Comiskey, Fred Russell, Andrew Bourassa, Richard Butzback and Donald Hubell.



"CARGO" WILL be high style when Children's Benefit League presents Port of Fashion show luncheon Feb. 8. Salute to harbor, through fashions, is discussed by, from left, Mrs. Albertis Hulen, Robert Metzger, public relations director Port of Long Beach, and Mrs. Richard Gripp, CBL president.—(Staff photo by Joe Risinger.)

PLANNING AUTHENTIC port-themed background for CBL show, committee members, from left, Mmes. Thomas Comiskey, Milton Jenkins and Lawrence Chaffee climb to highest vantage point for first hand view of bustling harbor. They are pictured on seventh floor observation platform of Long Beach Harbor Building. On a clear day view is terrific of port, shipping activities and city's skyline. Observation area is open to public weekly from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, excluding holidays.

LONG BEACH will be home port for one of spring's first major fashion showings when Children's Benefit League presents nautically themed affair at Lafayette. "Next best thing to an ocean voyage," promise members, from left, Mmes. F. J. Kerr, Anthony Affre and William Fenwick. Tickets are available to public.

Days of Forty-Niners

MUSIC FRATERNITIES IN IMPORTANT ROLES

The current lull in activities at Long Beach State College gives us an opportunity to take a closer look at two music groups which are playing an increasingly important role on the campus—Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music fraternity for women, and Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, ditto for men.

SAI's Gamma Pi chapter, the older of the two, dates from the 1958-59 school year and holds the singular honor of being the first chapter installed at a national convention—in San Francisco in the summer of 1959.

The group now has 22 active members, a number which will increase after rushing and pledging in February.

Members currently are selling tickets for the forthcoming scholarship fund concert, an event at which they also will serve as hostesses.

Very shortly they will begin rehearsals for Spring Sing, where they hope to successfully defend the first-place trophy their choral group won last year.

Other projects include participation in the program of Visiting Artist's Week in May and combining talents with Phi Mu Alpha for the annual public musicale early in April.

Jean Hockney is SAI president and Mrs. Mary Ticknor is the fraternity's adviser.

PHI MU ALPHA SINFONIA'S Kappa Omicron chapter was established at LBSC in the spring of 1961. Its purpose is to advance music in America through performance and study and its specific interest is in contemporary American composers.

Within the group are four distinct units: chorus, woodwind quintet, brass ensemble, and saxophone quartet.

The 32-active member roster should increase to more than 40 in the spring.

The program for the near future includes participation in the all-province concert at San Fernando State in March, their own spring contemporary concert featuring this area's only known performance of the Stravinsky Octet, collaboration with SAI in the public musicale in April, and participation in Spring Sing and Forty-Niner Day.

Roger Johnson is president of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia and Dr. Paul Stroud is adviser.

City Club to Celebrate Its Birthday

Woman's City Club will have its annual birthday party Wednesday noon in the clubhouse, 1309 E. Third St.

A quartet composed of women from the Ladies Ensemble will sing and card play will take place during the afternoon.

Mrs. O. J. Wiborg, will welcome members and guests. Mrs Vada Cox, fifth vice president, will head the hostess committee comprised of group chairman.

* * * *

FORMER fifth vice presidents, who have served the club as chairman in charge of groups, will be honored guests.

Among those planning to attend are Mmes. Fannie Hammond, S. F. Stipp, Sam Landsworth, L. H. Jarnagin, T. O. Richardson, Marble Wells, Eva Marquardt, Bryan Johns, E. S. Luther, Hazel Reed Wells, T. L. Freeland and Norman T. Martin.

So Appetizing

Combine desert grapefruit sections and pineapple chunks; add a dash of aromatic bitters and drizzle with a little honey for a refreshing dinner appetizer or fruit salad for a luncheon party.

Young Artists to Audition for WMC

Woman's Music Club will hold its annual Young Artists' Competition auditions March 4 in Long Beach State College music building.

Application forms for the event are being handled by Mmes. Robert W. Hailey, 5455 Oleta Ave., and Clifford A. Rohlfing, 2831 Charlemagne Ave. The competition is open to all students of music in the area and all students of Long Beach teachers.

The purpose of the contest is to encourage talented young students to further their musical education. Three categories, piano, strings and voice, will be judged.

* * * *

EACH DIVISION must have a maximum of 20 applicants and minimum of five. Applications will be accepted not later than Feb. 23 and will be honored according to postmark date.

Judges for the piano division which will include two age groups, students to 15 years of age and those from 15 to 18 years of age, will be Julien Musafia, LBSC music department and Margaret Woodruff and Alice Durham, teachers.

* * * *

DR. LEON DALLIN and Gaylord H. Brown, LBSC music department, and Alex Leber, teacher, will judge the strings division.

The voice division, open to students from 17 to 22 years of age, will have as judges Phillip Ellithorpe, Wilson High music department, and Dr. Charles Neiswender, LBSC music department, and Wayne B. Gard, LBCC music department.

First place winners will be presented in concert for the Woman's Music Club meeting the evening of March 14 in Ebell Club patio.

Denim Does a Big S-t-r-e-t-c-h

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Stretch fabrics now have reached out to the golf course. Also the boat dock, the beach, the tennis court, the garden and the bowling alley.

Latest member of the warp-and-woof family to join the big pull is denim!

This one-time-work-horse of the fashion world, now turned glamorous, has a new elasticity, built right into the fiber by a special process.

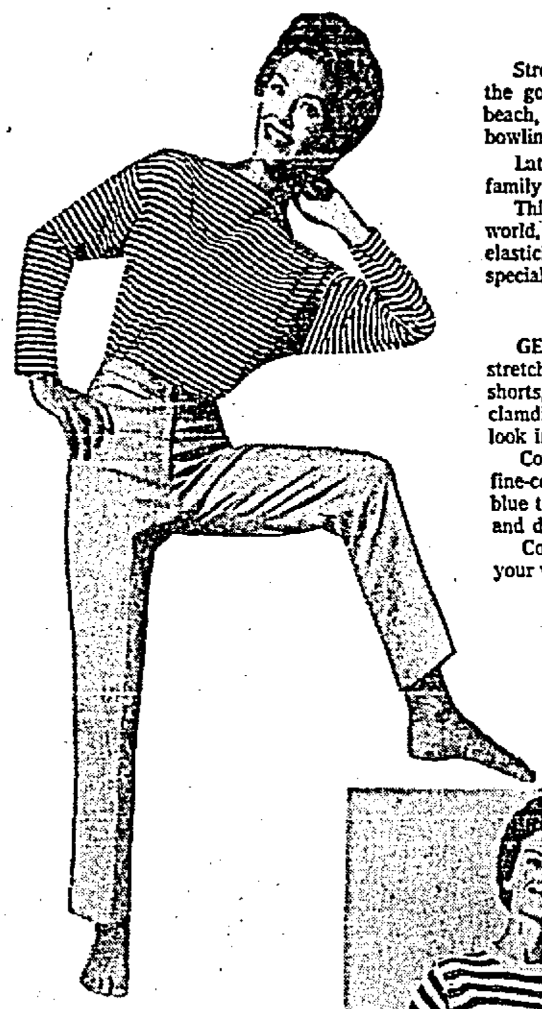
GEISTEX, one of the first houses to use stretch denim, works it into a collection of shorts, St. Tropaz pants (hip-huggers), jeans, clamdiggers and jackets for a fresh new look in sportswear.

Coordinated with them are T-shirts of fine-combed cotton, done in red, white and blue to give flag-color appeal to both faded and deep blue denims.

Coming soon: yellow denims to stretch your wardrobe prettily.



STRETCH DENIMS, fashioned (above) in new-look St. Tropaz pants and (right) in walking shorts for comfort and style on fairways. Also available: drawstring jackets in red, white or blue denim, featuring sailor collar, flat pockets on sleeves.

DENIM GOES to the beach as a fetching tunic, stitched and belted. Recently developed elasticized treatment gives fabric new style, comfort for active sportswear. Denim collection is coordinated with T-shirts of fine-combed cotton in all styles. By Geistex. (All fashions available locally.)

How About a Squeeze for Bridge?

One of the nicest tools in the expert's kit bag is the squeeze. It is surprising how often there is a chance for this play if you only know how to find it.

West's queen of clubs held the first trick and he shifted to the deuce of hearts. East took his ace and returned the suit and West's king made the third trick for the defense.

West led a trump and South was in the lead.

Things did not look good. He could not lose another trick, but it looked as if he were going to do so.

He needed the diamond finesse, but even if it worked he could not pick up the king unless it were singleton or doubleton.

• • • •

HOW about a squeeze? Of course!

South played three rounds of trumps just in case there were a 14th trump somewhere and then led the six of diamonds and finessed dummy's queen. Then he played dummy's king of clubs. East covered with the ace and South ruffed.

Now the squeeze was set up. South just played the rest of his trumps and on the last trump lead West had to unguard the king of diamonds in order to keep the jack of clubs.

SCHMIDT-ISSERSTEDT WAS CHILD PRODIGY

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

Our usual, balmy Southern California weather was not putting its best foot forward that cold, windy afternoon recently when we called on the famous German conductor, Hans Schmidt-Isserstedt in Laguna Beach. But once his big, cheery voice had called to us to "come in — come in" we forgot the chill outside by the warmth and cordiality inside.

The luxurious apartment had great plate glass windows that seemed to bring right into the room the incoming surf of the Pacific, white with foam. The sun was going down and the afterglow on the wide horizon over the sea was vibrant with beauty, reminding me of the music this man evokes from an orchestra he is conducting. Just as I had found him handsome and strong on the platform, so he loomed over us in solicitous concern for our comfort.

* * * *

YOU WOULD have to be strong," I remarked, "to undertake this schedule of 10 concerts in 14 days."

"Yes, I am strong," he replied, "but it is sometimes difficult to stand for long periods of time because of the polio I suffered when I was a boy."

"From your resonant, deep voice I would say you had also been a singer," I ventured.

"I had hopes of becoming a singer," he answered, "but love of conducting was stronger."

Hans (his real name is Johannes) Schmidt-Isserstedt was born in Berlin, Germany. Although his parents were not professional musicians, they loved music.

* * * *

THEY took me regularly to the opera as a little lad and I heard my first opera, 'Lohengrin, when I was only five."

He was taught to play the violin and at the age of seven was a "wunderkind," a child prodigy, appearing in concerts.

At the "gymnasium," or high school, in Berlin the boy received a typical European musical education with instruction in piano, violin, harmony, theory, composition and conducting.

"You play the piano, too," I exclaimed.

"A conductor has to be able to play the piano," he countered.

At the age of 15 young Schmidt-Isserstedt was conducting in the classes. "Then I knew what I really wanted." he told us. "I wanted to become a conductor."

* * * *

AFTER graduating with honors, Schmidt-Isserstedt traveled the way of all aspiring young European conductors. He was a chorus master in a small opera house in Germany, getting experience and learning the repertoire. He also accompanied the singers. Then he moved up to be an assistant conductor and at 24 he became the first conductor of the opera in Darmstadt. From there he went to Hamburg where he now makes his permanent home, although he travels in all the countries of the world, guest-conducting the great orchestras.

Craighead in Recital on Tuesday

David Craighead, chairman of the organ department at Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., will play an organ recital Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in First Congregational Church, Third Street and Cedar Ave.

Craighead, who began his training n California is well known in this area and in his native Pennsylvania; he has held organ positions at many churches in both states.

In 1955, while organist at First Presbyterian Church in Pasadena, he was called to Eastman. At Pasadena, also, he taught at Occidental College where he had been a student of Olga Steeb in piano and of Clarence Mader in organ.

In the East he studied with Alexander McCurdy of Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia. He began his concert career in Southern California.

The program is under the auspices of the music committee of First Congregational Church, headed by Spicer Ramsey. There is no admission charge; an offering will be taken.

Farrell, Peerce Head Quartet

Led by dramatic soprano Eileen Farrell and tenor Jan Peerce of the Metropolitan Opera, nine notables of the music world combine their artistry in the famous Bach Aria Group which will come to Los Angeles for a Philharmonic Auditorium concert at 8:30 Feb. 6.

The vocal quartet includes alto Carol Smith and bass-baritone Norman Farrow, supported by flute, oboe, cello, piano and violin, under the direction of William H. Scheide.

On Stage--

Italian Futurist Show Is Zestful, Audacious

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The Italian Futurist artists were struck with an "iron network of speed enveloping the earth." An exhibit of 100 of their works will be at Los Angeles County Museum until Feb. 25. Gathered from museums, galleries, and private collections in Europe and this country, the collection is an astonishing one. While the movement flourished from 1909 until World War I, it anticipated accurately the restless movement, the dynamic pace, and complicated relationships of our time, 50 years later.

It is fashionable in some circles of art criticism to take a deprecatory view of the Futurists, a view to which this writer does not subscribe. The zest with which these young men grasped the pace of a new era is evident in their subjects and the audacious methods of depicting them—astonishing in an age when 15 miles per hour was good speed for an auto, the first planes were barely airborne, and radio was in its infancy.

• • • •

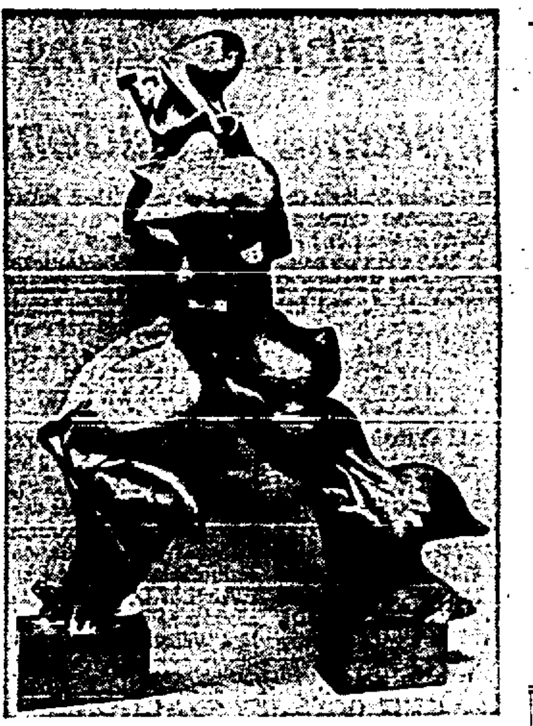
BOCCIONI'S "Unique Forms of Continuity in Space" seems molded by enormously powerful jet streams of air. Again in "Development of a Bottle in Space," also a bronze, he anticipated contemporary theories in sculpture which treat space as a shape rather than emptiness.

Each of his oil paintings like "The Laugh," "Mourning," and the "States of Mind" series pulsates wildly with color and brings together many aspects of the subject. Included is a large selection of his sketches which show how much preparation went into these works.

• • • •

THE OTHER four "greats" of the movement—Balla, Carra, Russolo, and Severini—are well-represented in the show, as are several lesser but still brilliant lights. The impact of the architectural drawings of Sant'Elia derives from his concepts as well as from the brilliant rendering. Earlier works of several artists are shown; Balla's "The Stairway of Farewells" of 1908 evokes a mood of real-unreal with dramatic design and lovely color.

The exhibit is packed with personality, dynamism, and optimism that is hard to resist and is well-worth the 50 cents admission.



BOCCIONI BRONZE

"Unique Forms of Continuity in Space," by Umberto Boccioni (1882-1916), is in Futurism show at Los Angeles County Museum in Exposition Park. The bronze is from the Museum of Modern Art collection in New York City.

Laguna Pageant of Masters to Add Festival of Opera

"Carmen," "La Traviata," and "The Barber of Seville" will initiate a sequel to the 27th Season of the Pageant of the Masters in Laguna Beach, with the full endorsement of the Festival of Arts directors.

President of the board Morgan Cuthbertson announced the decision to guarantee the Festival of Opera project which will include three operatic productions to run three consecutive weekends, beginning Friday, Aug. 24, in the Irvine Bowl which seats 2,500.

As proposed, Eugene Ober, who conducted the 1961 Pageant of the Masters orchestra, will serve as conductor for the Festival of Opera. Former president of the Los Angeles Opera company Sylvain Robert will act as general director in charge of production.

• • • •

MRS. T. K. SUN, president of the Anaheim Symphony Association acting as coordinator, said that Festival of Opera in Irvine Bowl complements the Pageant of the Masters program. "Top soloists from the Metropolitan and San Francisco Opera will be selected for the principal roles," she added.

Auditions will be held in Orange County for the supporting roles and choruses.

Szigeti Concert Features Rarely-Heard Bach Works

Making his only appearance of the season in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area, violinist Joseph Szigeti will present a concert of rarely-heard works by Bach at 8:15 p.m. Friday in Long Beach City College Auditorium.

Tickets will be available during the week at Humphrey's Music Company, the college bookstore fountain and music department office at 4901 E. Carson St., and at the box office Friday night.

Szigeti will play the Bach "Sonata in A Minor," "Partita in D Minor" and "Partita in E Major," all for unaccompanied violin.

"Only very occasionally is the concert-goer privileged to hear a single sonata on a recital program," comments Gaylord Browne of the LBCC music department. "To hear a concert devoted exclusively to these great masterworks will be a unique experience, especially when the performer is an artist of Joseph Szigeti's stature."

• • • •

SZIGETI made his debut in Budapest at the age of 12, when a brilliant future was already predicted for him by the great Joachim. His American debut came in 1925 as soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Stokowski. Since then, Szigeti has made several concert tours around the world, has played with every major symphony on five continents, and has taken part at major music festivals here and abroad.

No strangers to this part of Southern California, the noted violinist and his wife resided for 18 years in Palos Verdes.

RECOGNIZE ACHIEVEMENT WITH VIKING AWARDS

Liberal Arts

Viking Awards, highest honor of the Long Beach City College Liberal Arts Division student body, are proudly being displayed this week by the eight latest arrivals in a select circle.

Receiving the award at Thursday night's Sweetheart Prom were Jerry Schulte, Jerald Dick, Larry Herb, Garry Regier, Barbara Miller, Judy Bleasdell, Linda Gallagher and Rosemary Koons. Winners are chosen for scholarship and outstanding achievement in student government, athletics, publications and other campus activities.

With all the emphasis on activities in this column, let it be duly noted that City College is also promoting culture in a big way these days: the Joseph Szigeti violin concert here Friday night, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo on Feb. 15, and Ogden Nash, America's most noted comic bard, on Feb. 24.

Speaking of poets, LAD's newly crowned Poet Laureate, Greg Gregory, read his impressive "Many Green Manhattan Summers Ago" at the recent publications banquet. The full text of his prizewinning poem will be published this spring in Vertex, the campus literary magazine.

FAREWELL TO DEL — And a final note of appreciation for Del Daniel, recently retired "Voice of the Vikings" columnist who transferred last week to the University of Wichita. During his career on the Carson Street campus Del was a tennis star, a Silver Key and Viking Award winner, and everything from copy boy to editor-in-chief of the school newspaper.

New LAD correspondents for this column, starting next week, will be Pat Estelle and Mary Callos.

Business, Technology

New officers of the Associated Student Body, Business and Technology Division, take over their duties officially on Monday, first day of the spring semester.

Formally installed at Saturday night's ASB Council dinner were president Fred Ashley, vice president Ken Kilfoyl, secretary Jan Mason, treasurer Edward Buras and representatives Kathryn Altman, Roy McBride, Cathy Ross, Cindi Burrill, Sally Towner, Leonard Montgomery and Tom Wood.

At 11 a.m. Wednesday new Council members will be introduced and club presidents will launch spring membership drives. First social event of the new term will be the Lounge Dance on Wednesday, co-sponsored by Sigma, Theta, Norsemen and Kisab.

Special programs planned for technology and business students, and sponsored by several professional clubs on campus, will include a film, "Engineering for Tomorrow," and an outside speaker discussing "Tomorrow's Advantages for Today's Business Student."

Casting Call

Tryouts for "The Deadly Game," from the novel by Friedman Durrenmatt will be held at 2 p.m. today at Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave. The cast calls for six men and one woman.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

He's King of the Barbecue

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I-P-T Food Editor

This is the story of a man who parlayed an enlistment in the Navy into a lucrative electronics business. Chef of the Week Leland (Lee) A. King joined the navy to see the world. Uncle Sam complied and he made 15 trips to the Orient aboard a naval transport.

Whether or not he saw the world is a bit vague—but the compass landed him on the Island of Hawaii so many times, he can almost stand up in a native canoe.

* * * *

KING WAS selected for advanced study in electronics and electrical engineering which he took at the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C. Upon graduation, he was sent to New York for additional specialized training.

With his degree tucked away, he returned to sea duty, and was put in charge of communication and fire control aboard ship. After completing this tour he was again sent to Washington, D.C., and assigned to recruiting duty.

With the advent of World War II, King was made officer-in-charge of recruiting and induction activities for Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. He also assisted in developing the Sea Bee program. After several operations for a back injury, his career was terminated in 1946, and he and his family moved to Long Beach.

* * * *

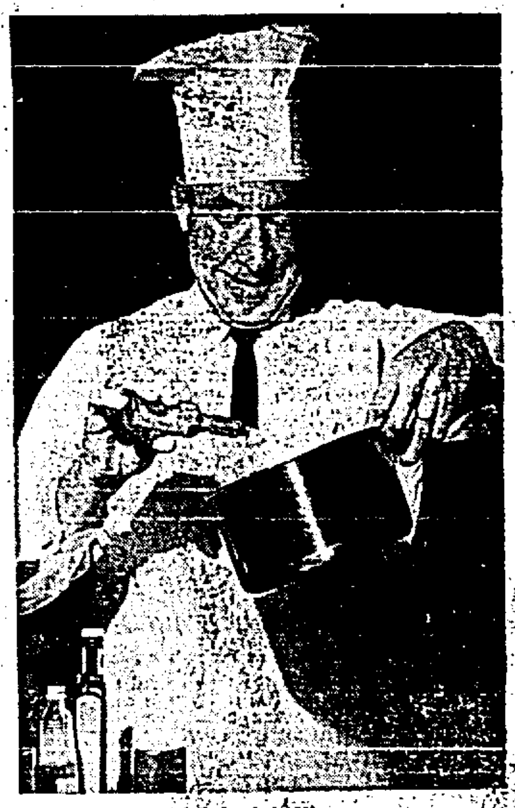
IT WAS quite natural that he should make his debut into the business world in the field of electronics. He went to work for one of the leading communications firms in Los Angeles of which he later became general manager. He has extended his operations to become owner of the L. A. King Co., a sound contracting firm, and to serve as a communications consultant for architectural and engineering firms.

A member of the Long Beach Rotary Club, he's active in the Builder's Exchange and the Bixby Knolls Masonic Lodge.

* * * *

"THE KINGS"—"Mrs. K", by the way, also is a native Californian—have four children, Carol, married and a teacher of art at Garden Grove High School; Judy, a college sophomore, Larry in Junior High, and Christine, still in elementary grades.

His hobbies are accumulative and include all types of fishing both ocean and fresh-water, camping, bridge and whipping-up a barbecue for friends. He also likes doing things with his children which accounts for his having been trapped into being head umpire for Rossmoor Little League in its first year of activity. Today he appears to be quite satisfied with a barbecue sauce for chicken.



Leland A. King

BARBECUED CHICKEN

Use the larger pieces of chicken (breasts, legs) or split young broilers. Soak in olive oil three or four hours with a liberal seasoning of coarsely ground black pepper. Grill over a bed of coals cooking inside first, skin side last. Baste frequently with the sauce:

- ⅔ cup butter
- ⅔ cup hot water
- 2 tsp. A-1 Sauce
- 1½ tblsp. lemon juice
- ¼ tsp. Tabasco Sauce
- 2 tsp. sugar
- 1 tsp. salt
- A few grains of cayenne
- 2 tsp. flour

Melt butter and add water and other liquids. Blend the dry ingredients and stir into the liquid, stirring well. Cook for two or three minutes or until mixture thickens slightly.

A BLIZZARD IS ON THE WAY AND THE POWER MIGHT FAIL
OH, DEAR--- THAT MEANS THE FURNACE WON'T RUN
WE URGE EVERYONE TO BE PREPARED FOR AN EMERGENCY

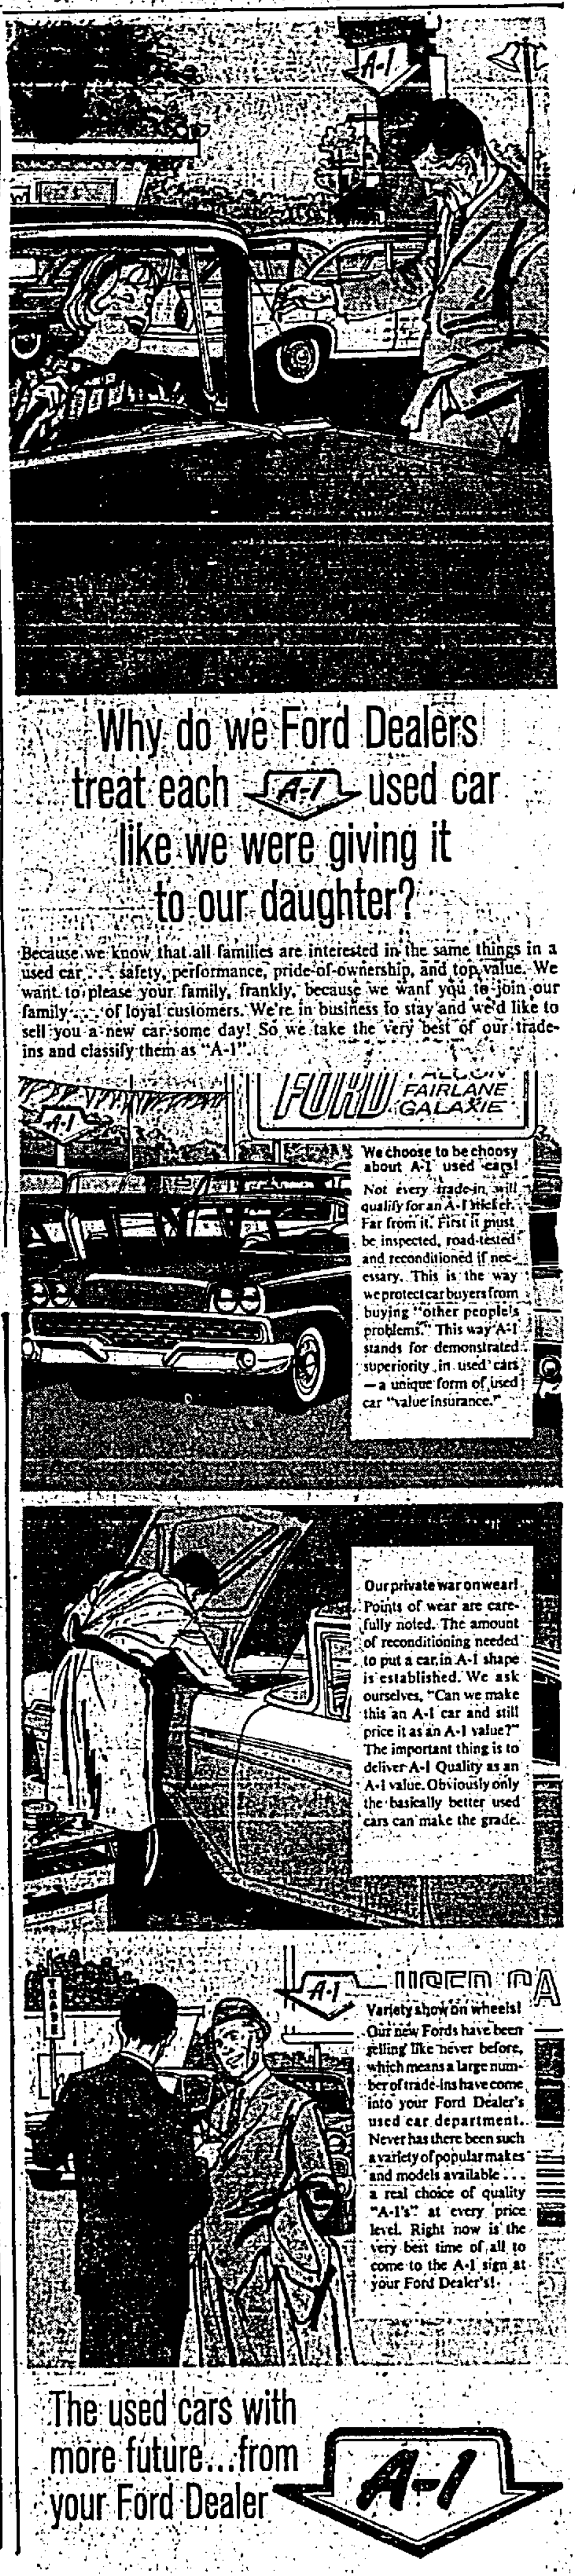
I HATE TO PUT A PILE OF DIRTY OLD WOOD ON OUR NICE NEW RUG



Why do we Ford Dealers treat each A-1 used car like we were giving it to our daughter?

Because we know that all families are interested in the same things in a used car . . . safety, performance, pride-of-ownership, and top value. We want to please your family, frankly, because we want you to join our family . . . of loyal customers. We're in business to stay and we'd like to sell you a new car some day! So we take the very best of our trade-ins and classify them as "A-1".

We choose to be choosy about A-1 used cars! Not every trade-in will qualify for an A-1 sticker. Far from it. First it must be inspected, road-tested and reconditioned if necessary. This is the way we protect car buyers from buying "other people's problems." This way A-1 stands for demonstrated superiority in used cars—a unique form of used car "value insurance."

Our private war on wear! Points of wear are carefully noted. The amount of reconditioning needed to put a car in A-1 shape is established. We ask ourselves, "Can we make this an A-1 car and still price it as an A-1 value?" The important thing is to deliver A-1 Quality as an A-1 value. Obviously only the basically better used cars can make the grade.

Variety show on wheels! Our new Fords have been selling like never before, which means a large number of trade-ins have come into your Ford Dealer's used car department. Never has there been such a variety of popular makes and models available . . . a real choice of quality "A-1's" at every price level. Right now is the very best time of all to come to the A-1 sign at your Ford Dealer's!

LIONS HAVE A LONG CHILDHOOD AND ARE DEPENDENT ON THEIR PARENTS FOR A YEAR OR MORE
BY THE TIME THEY ARE A LITTLE LARGER THAN HOUSE CATS, HOWEVER, THE CUBS BEGIN FOLLOWING THE LIONESS AROUND
THEY WATCH HER STALK AND KILL GAME, AND AFTER A FEW WEEKS THEY EVEN JOIN IN THE HUNT...
BUT THEIR BABY TEETH ARE NOT STRONG ENOUGH TO BRING DOWN ZEBRA OR WILDEBEEST...
IN FACT, IF THEY WERE LEFT ON THEIR OWN BEFORE GETTING THEIR PERMANENT TEETH, THEY WOULD PROBABLY STARVE
SO IT'S NO WONDER THEY STICK SO CLOSE TO MAMA, THE CHIEF BREADWINNER OF THE FAMILY, WHEREVER SHE GOES
TRAIL WAYS
ONE OF THE FEW WILD CREATURES THAT MANAGES TO REACH OLD AGE AND PEACEFUL DEATH IS THE AFRICAN LION
THE GREAT FANGS AND SHEARING TEETH OF THE LION REPLACE THE BABY TEETH AT ABOUT ONE YEAR OF AGE
AT FIVE OR SIX YEARS OF AGE THE LION REACHES HIS PRIME, WEIGHING IN AT FOUR OR FIVE HUNDRED POUNDS, MEASURING AROUND SEVEN FEET LONG, PLUS THREE FEET OF TAIL, AND STANDING THREE TO THREE AND ONE-HALF FEET AT THE SHOULDERS

OUR COVER

Sharing a happy life where the front yard is the horizon, Donald and Donna Hall are pictured on our cover, relaxing in the salon-living room of their floating home. Don, a naval architect and an associate professor at Long Beach State College, built their boat, a 36-foot cabin cruiser which they named the Hallaweigh, and his pretty wife took charge of the interior design and decor. The Halls are typical of a growing number of Southlanders who are attracted to boats. More about the Halls and the Hallaweigh on Page 7.

Baby Enjoys a Book Toy

By Ruth C. Ikerman

WHEN I WALKED into the house of the young mother who lives in the tree-shaded yard in our neighborhood, her blonde baby was playing with a book. I wondered why the pages did not fall open as the baby fondled it, and enjoyed watching the child have so much fun with an adult "plaything."

Then the mother showed me where she had taped the pages of the book together with transparent tape all around the cover. To the happy baby this book apparently looked just like a large block.

She stopped to pet the picture of the kitten and puppy on the cover. Then holding the book in two chubby hands, she offered it to me to inspect more closely.

THAT MORNING was five years ago, so now this little girl is in school. Yet I remembered the morning vividly when calling in this same home recently to sample warm cookies. The "baby" was engrossed in reading one of her school books.

"She just loves to read," her proud father told me. And I remembered how a pretty baby had fondled a book as though it were a favorite toy or doll. It seemed to me that from this original contact could have come much of her eagerness now to read. Naturally her curiosity would want to know what was inside the pretty "toy" she had early loved.

Wisely this family which cherished books as a part of its way of life had found a way for the child to begin to enjoy them before she was out of her baby bed. That trusty friend to mothers, transparent tape, had provided a means of guarding the pages until the baby was old enough not to tear them.

These parents had found a way to let the baby have books since they did not want to keep all volumes out of her reach for fear that the child might feel that reading is something to fear or forbidden.

SOME BOOKS may need to be kept out of children's hands because of rare bindings, or for sentimental reasons as cherished heirlooms best appreciated later. But surely there are other books in most family homes that can be shared with even the smallest children.

For something momentous happens the first time a child has a book placed in its hands. From this book "block" the child can build a lifetime of reading happiness.

Q. What town in Arabia contains the legendary burial place of Eve? G.W.

A. Jidda, an ancient Red Sea port which is now a modernized city and port of Saudi Arabia, has long been credited in legend as the burial place of Eve. For generations a rude stone structure outside the walls of the city was venerated as her tomb; it included a small dark chapel that contained a black stone known as El Surrah (the navel). The tomb was demolished in 1927 by the Wahabis, Muslim reformers opposed to saint worship and veneration of tombs. In 1945, the ancient walls of the city were also demolished, by order of the late King ibn Sa'ud.

SAUDI ARABIA

Q. Who said that the difference between things built and things created is that the latter are inspired by love? T. F.

A. In his preface to Dickens' "Pickwick Papers," Gilbert Keith Chesterton wrote: "The whole difference between construction and creation is exactly this: that a thing constructed can only be loved after it is constructed; but a thing created is loved before it exists."

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain the origin of WAGNER. — A.M., Long Beach.

A.M.: WAGNER has more than 24 different spellings. It may be either German, Dutch or English. Some Wagners in America have German ancestry, the name stemming from an Old High German occupational term, "Waganar." This name was introduced to England by the 10th century Saxons as Waegenar. A Waegenar or Wagenere meant "constructor of carts and wagons." The Wagner lineage of the German provinces of Saxony, Rheinland, Bavaria, Wurttemburg and Prussia were knighted in the 15th century. Their ancient coat-of-arms has a golden griffin centered on a black shield. Jacob Wagner of Germany arrived at New York in 1643. Tobias Wagner of Wurttemburg came to America in 1742. Among Wagner descendants of England was Peter Wagner, who settled in Virginia in 1740. The English Wagner coat-of-arms has a gold bar and a red stripe crossing a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze BRUNELLE. — Mrs. J. B., Long Beach.

J. B.: BRUNELLE is French in origin, and is an extremely rare surname that incorporates within it a physical description of a female ancestor. This matronymic name means "Brown-haired lady." No other historical data is available on Brunelle.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on DU BOIS. —C.D., Long Beach.

C.D.: DU BOIS is one of the oldest, most honored French names. "Bois" meant "forest." The surname Du Bois describes "Land owners with a forest on their property." The Du Bois lineage achieved a coat-of-arms in the northwest French province of Artois. Their shield is silver, emblazoned with two black hammers. Among the ancestors was the French Cardinal Guillaume DuBois (1656-1723). U.S. Senator Fred DuBois, born in 1821, secured the admission of the State of Idaho to the Union.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on WARREN.—C. W., Long Beach; L.W., San Pedro.

C.W., L.W.: WARREN is from the trusted occupation of "Warrenere" or keeper of game preserves on old royal English estates. The Warrenere guarded deer, pheasants, rabbits and partridges so that nobility could hunt them at their leisure. This family's distinguished ancestor was William de Warrenne, who fought with William the Conqueror in the Battle of Hastings, 1066, when England was subjugated by the French. Warrenne was later awarded large baronies in Yorkshire, Sussex and Norfolk for his valor in battle. The Warren shield has a rampant silver lion on a red background. Richard Warren and his wife arrived in New England on the famous Mayflower in 1620.

LBSC professor and pretty wife build their own floating home

Seaurbanites (Slip 208, Marina)

By Lou Jobst

Independent, Press-Telegram Marine Editor

DONNA AND DONALD HALL are "seaurbanites," Southlanders who make their year-around home aboard a boat.

"You're liable to get a screwy look when you tell someone you've got to rush home to paint the bilge," explained the 32-year-old associate professor of industrial technology at Long Beach State College. "But it beats life in the subdivisions.

"No lawn to mow, no crab grass to fight, no fences to mend."

"Don't forget the door-to-door salesmen and noisy, nosey neighbors," interjected his pretty blonde wife, carrying a coffee service tray into the beautifully-appointed salon of their cruiser, Hallaweigh.

THE HALLS DESIGNED and built the all-wood 38-foot cabin cruiser from the keel up. Hall, a former Navy officer, is a naval architect.

From blueprint to boat slip 208 at the Long Beach Marina the project took two years.

"We planned it as a permanent home," said Hall, a Long Beach City College and UCLA graduate, "so we wanted it to be as comfortable and liveable as possible."

The Hallaweigh's hull was molded in a single unit of nine layers of plywood, two of glass and one of rubber to make it leakproof, a necessity for such home-like comforts as wall-to-wall carpeting.

EVERY FIXTURE aboard was made as compact as possible or capable of being used for several purposes or tucked away in one of the Hallaweigh's score or more closets and cabinets. Even the "his and her" toothbrush holder folds into the wall which, on the other side of the aft bulkhead, is the headboard of a king-size bed.

The stairway from the salon living room to the kitchen is a lift-up hatchway to the engine room and the dinette set converts to a full-size bed, two of eight sleeping spaces aboard.

Wood paneling and acoustical tile throughout, made possible by the boat's impermeable bulkheads, a cantilevered ladder from the flying bridge to the salon, stainless steel and glass kitchen appliances and more than 60 feet of sliding glass windows were built into the cruiser to satisfy Mrs. Hall's taste and homemaking instincts.

"Most of the construction was by hand and pretty tedious," continued Hall. "We used 15,000 toothpicks and 400 pounds of glue in the hull alone."

AT FIRST, RELATIVES and some scholarly associates on the LBSC faculty weren't too approving of the Hall house-

If Donna and Donald Hall want to see the sunset over Catalina while they eat their dinner, they just cast off and head out to sea in their floating home, Hallaweigh.

Compact is the word for the Halls' home afloat, as evident here as they chat while Hall takes time out for a cup of coffee. Their boat is moored at a Marina slip.

FIVE-PRONGED JUNCTION: THE EAST LOS ANGELES INTERCHANGE

Vital Link to Freeways Takes Shape

By Raymond F. Law

AS THE NETWORK of freeways being built in the Long Beach-Los Angeles metropolitan area begins to take shape, two of its major objectives come into focus—system operation and a loop around the Los Angeles downtown business district. The East Los Angeles Interchange is a vital part of both.

System operation means that traffic moves smoothly from one freeway to another, and spreads to city streets in an orderly manner to avoid congestion and delay. It provides a choice of routes to accommodate a wider variety of traffic patterns. To the individual motorist system operation will mean greater speed, safety, convenience and comfort in the movement of himself and his goods between points of his choice at times suitable to him.

The purpose of the downtown loop is to lead through traffic around the central business district, while making the area easily accessible to the large numbers of people who move in and out every day.

The East Los Angeles Interchange is a five-pronged complex composed of one "Y" and two "X" type junctions, with numerous access ramps to nearby city streets. It covers an area of 135 acres, bounded by Sixth and Eighth Streets, Boyle Avenue and Lorena Street.

THE EXISTING and future freeways forming the interchange are:

(1) The Santa Ana Freeway, Interstate Route 105, built in 1947, which angles northwesterly through the area. By 1975 it will be carrying an estimated 135,000 vehicles per day.

(2) The Santa Monica Freeway, Interstate Route 10, is under construction westward as a viaduct section to a point just beyond its intersection with the Harbor Freeway. Construction cost is $37.5 million. It will be open to traffic from the interchange to the Harbor Freeway in April, forming a portion of the downtown loop. It is expected that traffic on this freeway will reach 180,000 vehicles a day by 1975.

(3) The Golden State Freeway, Interstate Route 5, joins the interchange from the north as a portion of the loop, and when the final links now under construction are completed it will bring traffic from the San Joaquin and San Fernando Valleys to downtown Los Angeles. Its estimated traffic volume in 1975 is 155,000 vehicles per day.

(4) The Pomona Freeway, State Route 172, will form the easterly leg of the complex when built, and will carry an estimated 163,000 vehicles per day by 1975.

The East Los Angeles Interchange was opened and dedicated last May 23. It required two years to build and cost $10.4 million. It consists of 32 single and double bridges and two miles of two and four-lane roadway, with as many as 27 lanes in cross section.

Before 1980, the Interchange is expected to be handling 450,000 vehicles a day, or nearly 600,000 individuals. By comparison, the downtown four-level structure at the junction of the Harbor, Pasadena, Hollywood and Santa Ana Freeways now carries 350,000 vehicles a day.

THE CONTRACTOR on the Interchange construction project, Peter Kiewit Sons' Co., was confronted with many problems arising from special features of the job. Initially it was necessary to detour traffic on such heavily traveled streets as Boyle Avenue and Soto Street. The Santa Ana Freeway, carrying an average daily traffic of 118,974 vehicles at Indiana Street, was periodically closed to traffic during the off-peak morning hours to allow the erection of huge structural steel girders spanning it. The closures necessitated detouring traffic over city streets, and made the timing and scheduling of operations an exacting task.

As the working area was prepared, such utilities as water, gas, telephone, telegraph and electrical lines were relocated and kept in service while the bridge structures were being built, at which time they were either incorporated into or adapted to the new structures. Grading operations could then follow for ramps and structures, for the interchange and for the future Pomona Freeway.

Storm drain and sewer work followed as working space became available. A storm drain from Hollenbeck Park Lake to the Los Angeles River—a 69-inch reinforced concrete pipe—was built and jacked under the Santa Ana Freeway to handle storm overflow from the lake.

AS A VISUAL AID to designers, traffic engineers, construction crews and others concerned with the project, an exact scale replica of the Interchange was built on a scale of 1 inch = 50 feet. This work was done by the Division of Highways Bridge Department in Sacramento. The model was first displayed in Los Angeles, then moved to

Whimsey With a Camera

CAMERAMAN John H. Neagle has an inquiring mind. For instance, while consorting with leisure late one afternoon on a deep-cushioned chair at home, John absently studied the dial of a clock. Finally he asked himself: What other connotation might one get—aside from the obvious one—from the time-worn phrase, "A stitch in time"? Suddenly he leaped to his feet and produced the picture at the right. He was so pleased with the result that he worked out several other masterpieces of whimsey which are also reproduced on this page. Maybe more of this type of thinking would help make this topsy-turvy world more turvy-topsy.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Schizophrenics Can Adjust

By Ben Zinser

Independent, Press-Telegram Medical-Science Writer

CHRONIC schizophrenics often adjust well to reality, British researchers have found.

At Cheadle Royal Hospital in England, 12 patients who had been hospitalized with mental illness for 3 to 43 years (average: 17 years) were trained to perform a certain task. Twelve normal persons were recruited for the same job.

The task: Gluing the edge of a cardboard hat-shape and affixing a piece of crepe paper.

Both schizophrenic patients and the normals were given a half-hour's training and were paid a fixed price for each job turned out.

Findings:

- Production by the mental patients was related to intelligence. The most intelligent patients were the best workers.
- Patients did not display the fatigue so often ascribed to chronic schizophrenia.
- When incentives were offered, the mental patients, unlike the normals, showed a high potential of improvement.

Conclusion: Incentives may be required to produce or sustain improvement among chronic schizophrenic patients.

The study is reported in the journal Lancet.

EMOTIONAL disturbances apparently can be communicated by specific acoustic signals.

A San Francisco psychiatrist found a difference in degree of loudness of a patient's voice after treatment. Acutely disturbed psychiatric patients had louder voices after electroshock. Voices of those patients treated with drugs were softer.

Dr. Peter F. Ostwald, reporting in Archives of General Psychiatry, says that this change in loudness occurs at a level along the acoustic spectrum that corresponds with the fundamental tone of the human baby-cry. Significance: Sounds produced by acutely disturbed psychiatric patients stem, apparently, from a primitive pattern of response.

A HUSBAND AND WIFE both complained of a bald patch on the scalp at about the same time, a Los Angeles skin specialist reports.

It's not certain who first noticed the hair loss. However, the couple thought perhaps the husband was the first to lose hair.

Dr. Sheldon Swift, Los Angeles, theorizes that emotional factors were involved and that the symptoms of the husband, 46, were transferred to the wife, 40.

The phenomenon, he believes, is akin to the psychiatric reaction known as folie a deux—where two closely related persons mutually share the same mental disturbances.

Dr. Swift's description of the case appears in Archives of Dermatology.

Graciousness and elbow room are features of this handsome, split-level home which has four bedrooms on the upper level and a fifth, if desired, on the lower level.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Multi-Level Living With Privacy

By Jules Loh

FIVE ENTRANCES plus an oversized central foyer would give any home uncommonly fine circulation features—but that isn't the only advantage this handsome, four-bedroom split offers.

The house is so well zoned the entire lower level could be used as a rental apartment without disturbing activities in the rest of the house at all, and vice versa.

"If this were desired," said architect Herbert W. Neumann who designed House of the Week B-76, "it would be a simple matter to convert the lower level laundry into a kitchenette. The family room would become a living room, complete with its own outdoor terrace."

THAT'S JUST one possibility, however.

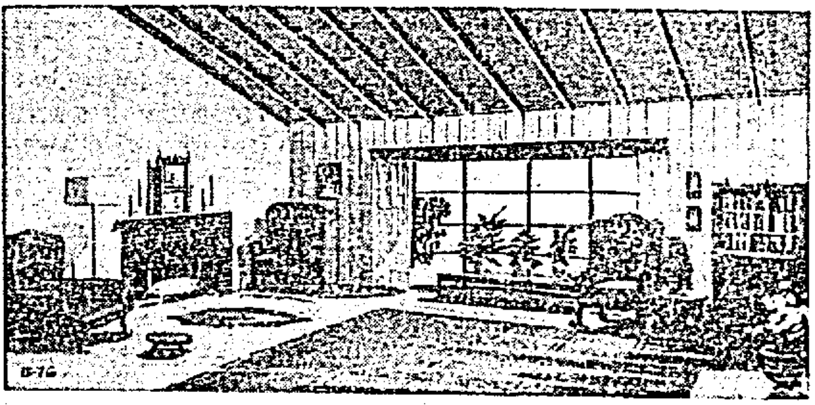
For a large family, the 11-foot 3-inch by 7-foot lower level room (with adjacent bath) could easily become a fifth bedroom or, as Neumann's floor plans suggest, a sewing room, maid's quarters, den or what have you.

The circulation features of B-76 deserve further mention. Note that not a single room in the house needs to be entered by passing through another room; and that every room on the living level has a least two entrances—three in the kitchen, which is the control center of the house.

The entrances from outside are through the front and back doors, the family room, dining room and garage.

A FURTHER advantage of the design is that it combines open-planning with privacy. Each room on the living level flows into the other, yet each is separate. In the case of the living and dining rooms, the all-important separation is maintained by an arch which also serves to blend the rooms together.

The house contains 1,791 square feet of living area on



Bow window and traditional fireplace are attention-getters in the spacious living room. A cathedral ceiling with exposed beams enhances innate open appearance.

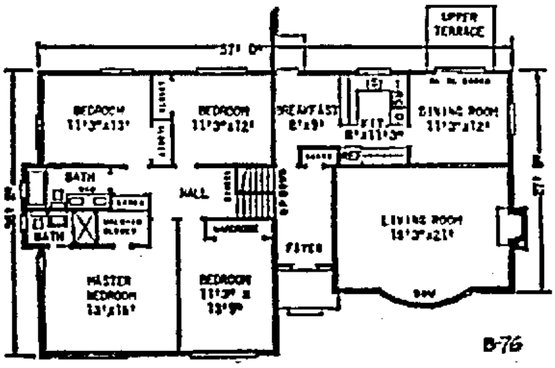
LOWER LEVEL & CELLAR



UPPER LEVEL & FIRST FLOOR

Five entrances combine with a large foyer to provide good circulation in this home, as floor layouts show.

the upper level and first floor and 379 square feet on the lower level for a total of 2,170 square feet not counting the double garage and basement.

Cabinet space in the kitchen is usually commodious. Placed side to side, the hanging and counter cabinets would stretch 40 feet—nearly five feet more than the depth of the house itself.

CLOSET SPACE also is ample in B-76. Note the fine walk-in closet in the 13 x 16-foot master bedroom, the wardroom in the other front bedroom, the oversized closets in the two rear bedrooms, plus the extra large linen closet in the upstairs hall and the coat closet in the foyer.

The house also has basement with wide open storage space and there are other storage opportunities in the garage.

The 57-foot width of the house is divided almost evenly with two levels on one side, two on the other. The house is 27-feet 8-inches deep on the living level side and 35-feet 2-inches deep on the bedroom level side.

GRACIOUSNESS with plenty of elbow room is the hallmark of this larger-than-average home.

The foyer, lighted by vertical window panels on either side of the decorative front door, is proportioned (7 x 12-foot) in the grand style of a reception hall.

Extra depth also balances the 21-foot width of the living room. The bow window in front adds to the effect—and rivals the fine fireplace as an attention getter.

The kitchen also has bonus room; enough, in fact, for an 8 x 9-foot breakfast area. The work area is 8-foot by 11-foot 3-inches, is U-shaped for convenience, and has another counter completing the square which not only adds extra work space but is especially handy for placing items removed from the refrigerator and for serving food in the dining room.

Customized Setting

By Stella George

STREAMLINED contemporary furnishings in a brand new custom setting mark the decor of the home belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Denny, 3737 Pine Ave.

The entry hall leads to a spacious living area which encompasses the large living room, adjoining dining room, and open kitchen. The living room commands a view of a partially enclosed patio. Aggregate paving of the floor near the glass wall of the living room extends into the patio, and helps create an illusion of even greater space.

The color scheme of the area is worked in blue, with orange touches. Furniture was chosen with an eye for comfort as well as looks and easy maintenance. Excellent taste was shown in the selection. The fireplace group includes a wide couch facing two matched chairs and the TV set. In the center is an outsized, round coffee table of inlaid wood. Carpeting is of a cantaloupe color, a good choice for the contemporary furnishings.

THE KITCHEN is a fine example of modern design, with special attention given to details that are often overlooked. For example, sink and work areas were built slightly higher than the average, according to Mrs. Denny's particular request. A large picture window at the far end of the kitchen, in the dinette area, overlooks the garden and pool.

The large master bedroom features picture windows that overlook the patio. Its size, and the adjoining dressing room and bath, give it the luxury quality typical of custom homes.

Special attention was given to the frequently overlooked service room area. A door from the dining room leads to a spacious laundry-workroom, functional and easy to maintain.

THE PATIO is really an outdoor family room, ideal for dining in the warm weather. Translucent glass panels at the far end are an attractive partial enclosure. Outdoor plants, receiving plenty of sun, enhance the appearance of the area. A swimming pool is located in the rear of the lot and a convenient shower room is located on the side of the house near the pool.

Many factors contribute to the apparent size of this unusually charming one bedroom home. For one thing, the "U" design around the patio creates a spacious feeling because the latter appears to be a part of the interior of the home. Also, the fact that the patio floor continues into the living room up to the edge of the carpeting adds a great illusion of space.

NOW... DEFENCIN: A NEW MORE EFFECTIVE ANSWER TO ARTHRITIS AND RHEUMATISM PAIN

New muscle-relaxing tablet works through the muscle fibres... gives more effective relief from pain of minor arthritis, rheumatism, body aches and stiffness in the 8 major areas of pain.

Today there has been a breakthrough against the pain and muscle stiffness of minor arthritis and rheumatism. Scientists have developed a new kind of medicine that you can take frequently, according to directions, for prolonged relief.

This medicine works by a new principle—through the muscle fibres themselves. It has been tested extensively on patients suffering from arthritis, rheumatism, body aches and stiffness in the 8 major areas of pain and has proved dramatically superior in bringing relief.

In case after case, pain and stiffness were relieved. Twice as many patients found relief, compared to those who took the most widely used pain tablets. Many patients found the new medicine acted faster, or relief lasted longer, or was more complete. They could reach, lift, walk, bend and move with greater ease and freedom.

This new medicine is DEFENCIN—a two-layer tablet with prescription-type ingredients—now available without prescription.

Here is an explanation of how DEFENCIN works, what it does, and its three-action relief.

Arthritis and its chain of pain

The pain of arthritis or rheumatism is not a simple matter. It is like a chain with many links. Muscles, joints and nerves make up these links.

When muscles around the painful joint stiffen and "lock" they restrict joint movement. Every time we do move, it hurts. This pain, in turn, irritates nerves, making the pain still worse.

Muscles, joints, nerves—this is the chain of pain of arthritis and rheumatism.

The key that unlocks the chain

Aspirin, common pain tablets and ordinary non-prescription "arthritis" pills are designed essentially to blunt pain. They act primarily in one way . . . give only part-way relief, do relatively little for muscles, joints or nerves. They don't have the key that unlocks the chain.

DEFENCIN does. It goes to work in minutes, right at the source of the trouble, relaxing tight, tense muscles that aggravate the pain of minor arthritis and rheumatism. DEFENCIN checks pain impulses as well as soothes nervous tension due to pain. It attacks pain and stiffness at its source, unlocks the chain of pain.

And, while there is no known cure for arthritis and rheumatism, you can take DEFENCIN frequently according to directions for continued relief of pain and stiffness.

A unique new three-action formula

Each DEFENCIN tablet contains:

(1) An exclusive muscle relaxant that quickly acts through the muscle fibres—relaxes muscle tension, loosens stiffness, reduces pain at the source, and helps restore movement.

(2) An effective pain reliever that eases pain from the affected joint areas for hours.

(3) A nerve calmative to relieve the nervous tension that accompanies and aggravates painful conditions.

How DEFENCIN has helped others

People with body aches and stiffness in all 8 areas listed below—from arthritis and rheumatism to simple "Charlie Horse"—have taken DEFENCIN under the supervision of doctors in clinical tests.

The results of these tests bear repeating:

Compared to the most widely used pain tablets, DEFENCIN helped twice as many of these people. For many it acted faster, or relief lasted longer, or was more complete. In most cases, people found they could move, walk, stoop, bend with greater freedom. In some cases, all symptoms were completely relieved.

For more effective relief get DEFENCIN.* Sold in drugstores —$1.00 for 24 tablets.

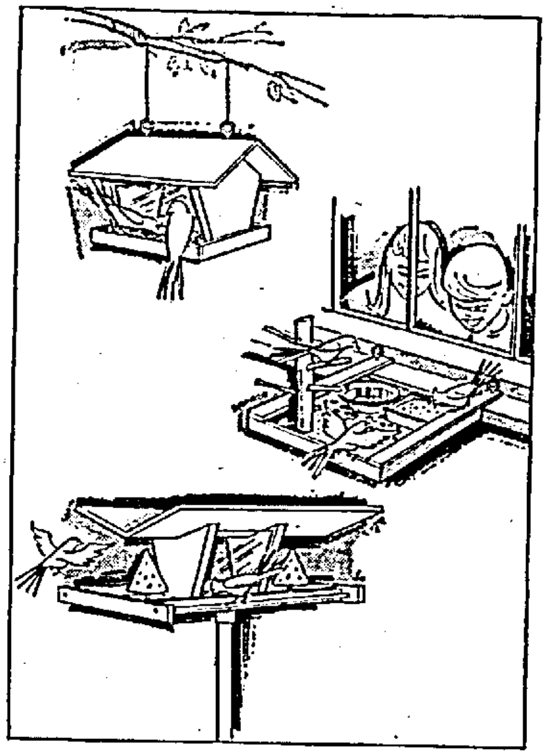
WHICH OF THESE MUSCLE OR JOINT PAINS DO YOU HAVE?

Arthritis, rheumatism and related pains can strike anywhere in your body . . . most often causing painful conditions listed below. New DEFENCIN can relieve pain and stiffness in any of these areas.

1. Stiff back—pain in muscles especially in the small of the back. Overexertion can cause stiffness here.
2. Stiff shoulder—pain in muscles that raise and lower the arm.
3. Stiff neck—pain in muscles that bend and turn the head.
4. Sore elbow—pain in muscles around the joint that flex the arm. Arthritis often attacks here.
5. Sore hip—pain in muscles of hip often extends down back of thigh.
6. Stiff knee—pain in these muscles may keep whole leg stiff.
7. Stiff wrist—pain in muscles that move the wrist and hand. These muscle areas are quite susceptible to rheumatism.
8. Cramped leg—pain in the leg muscles. When they stiffen, it hurts to move your ankle.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook



Bird feeding stations help to develop a child's natural interest in wildlife. These are easy to build.

By William Meyerriecks

TODAY'S PROJECT: Three simple designs for bird feeding stations are presented because observing and caring for birds is a useful and satisfying hobby, particularly for youngsters. It is interesting from the start, educational and requires no expensive equipment.

The three feeders shown in the illustration are all very easy to build, using detailed plans. The window sill station, which permits the closest observation of feathered guests, is so simple it is suggested that the child be given the opportunity to adopt this entire project himself — from construction right through learning to identify the bird customers.

The other two models, which have glass-enclosed feed hoppers to replenish the grain as it is consumed, are somewhat more complex.

TO ORDER: Specify Bird Feeders Plan S-42 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Two-Timer Table Is Handy

For dining, buffet serving, sewing—for many uses—this fold-up table, shown by Judy Rawlins of NBC-TV, becomes a knickknack shelf when on the wall. It's easy to build with a full-sized pattern. To order, specify folding wall table, pattern No. 173 and send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. You'll find it a worthwhile project.

APPLES HAVE figured in food and fable over the centuries and the modern counterparts of the ancient fruit — Washington State Delicious apples—enjoy high popularity for eating out of hand and for serving in cooked form.

For those who want some interesting variations in methods of serving apples, try individual cheese-apple turnovers, a cousin to the old favorite, apple pie; or apples baked in foil, or apple muffins. Small fry will like Peanutty-Apple Sandwiches. Here are the recipes:

Cheese-Apple Turnovers

1 pkg. pastry mix
⅓ lb. American cheese
4 apples, peeled and sliced
¾ cup sugar
1 pkg. dessert-topping mix

Prepare pastry mix according to the directions on the package. Roll out on a floured board and cut in 4-inch squares. Place a thin wedge of cheese on half of each square, cover with apple slices, sprinkle with sugar. Fold over pastry flap and crimp edges together. Prick top with a fork to let steam escape, place on a baking sheet and put in 425° oven and bake 25 minutes. Cool and top with the new dessert-topping mix for party flare. Makes 8 tarts.

Baked Apples in Foil

6 Washington apples
⅛ cup melted butter
¼ cup sugar
¼ tsp. cinnamon
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup white raisins (puffed)
¼ cup bite-size marshmallows
⅛ tsp. salt

Core and peel aples an inch down from top. Dip peeled apple into melted butter. Fill with the marshmallows, puffed raisins and spiced sugar. Drizzle lemon juice all over, wrap in heavy foil leaving peeled area exposed to heat. Place in baking pan and bake at 375° for 1 hour. Serves 6.

Apple Muffins

1 cup peeled and diced apples
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsps. sugar
4 tbsps. melted butter
1 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
Sugar
Cinnamon

Sift together dry ingredients. Combine butter, milk, egg and diced apple. Stir into flour mixture until flour is just dampened. Spoon into greased muffin cups. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Bake in a 400° oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 9-12 muffins.

Peanutty Apple Sandwiches

Spread matched slices of bread with butter. Next, spread half of the slices with chunky peanut butter. Spread mayonnaise on other half of slices, add romaine leaves, then overlapping slices of unpeeled apple. Sprinkle apple slices with lemon juice. Complete sandwich by placing peanut butter-spread slices over apples.

boating idea "but now Donna's folks are our biggest boosters, bringing people down on the weekends to show the place off."

Hall admits there are a lot of problems you won't find in a split level trap on the mainland such as scraping barnacles off the hull, overhauling the engines and the inevitable and endless chore of chipping paint.

"Mobility is the biggest attraction. We can go anywhere at a moment's notice. If we want to eat supper while enjoying an unobstructed view of the sun setting behind Catalina we just pull up anchor," Hall asserted. "Or we can run to Balboa while Donna does the dishes.

"During that record hot spell in October we laid off the coast where there was a fair breeze."

"We've found there is much more social life living aboard a boat because most of our neighbors are either on vacation or down for a weekend of fun," added Mrs. Hall.

"BUT YOU'D also be surprised how many people have made permanent homes on boats around here.

"Everyone helps each other and I've found boating neighbors are more interesting and friendly than those you'll find in an apartment house."

The Halls' neighbors are a retired petroleum engineer and his wife on the port side and TV and movie actor Bill Williams and his actress wife, Barbara Hale, on the starboard.

Williams, fresh paint on his sweat shirt and khakis, popped in for a cup of coffee and to offer Hall the use of one of his skin diving wet suits to work on the Hallaweigh bottom.

"You're never really done working on a boat," said Hall, "and when you are it's time to get a new one."

"Also," inserted Williams with a laugh, "when your family begins to grow."

"OUR NEXT boat will be 55-footer with a longer range of, say 1,200 miles. That'll really make us portable," continued Hall.

The Halls don't agree that life afloat is an expensive luxury although the Hallaweigh is worth in the neighborhood of $30,000.

the job site, where it was of material assistance in showing at a glance the relative positions of the many elements of the project.

With completion of the Interchange, the principal activity in the area is construction of the Santa Monica Freeway westward toward the Harbor Freeway. When that point is reached in April, one of the last segments of the downtown loop will have been added, and by tying two more freeways together, full system operation will be another step closer to reality.

Egghead Visits Library

By Roberta Nichols

EGGHEADS studying nuclear fission can be expected in the upstairs area of the adult section of the Long Beach Public Library. But there is one true egghead on hand who hobnobs with Little Madeline and the books of Dr. Suess in the children's department.

In spite of her glamorous appearance and a fan held cozy and ready to flutter at first sight of Prince Charming, she is a real egghead. Just ask Mrs. Betty Remy, clerk in the department. She made the doll for the enjoyment of children who come to the library, and the head really is an egg shell.

IF SOMEONE surreptitiously touches Miss Egghead and discovers under the lace and velvet the feel and shape of a real body, Mrs. Remy says that it is just a plastic container, the kind for packaging liquid dishwashing detergents.

The luxuriant black hair is a piece of black karakul from an old coat. And if a child wants to know what karakul is, and if it was curled to give the current casual look, Mrs. Lorna Kugler, the librarian, will show her how to look up information about the central Asian sheep from which the fur comes. This in turn may lead to more reading about the geography and customs of another part of the world.

Eggshell for head, plastic bottle for body, this doll teases inquisitiveness of children at L. B. library.

"Children like things made from odds and ends," Mrs. Remy says. "You never know when you gather materials such as an egg shell, a plastic bottle, scraps of fur and lace, and a tiny fan, just what new reading projects they may stimulate."

Unique Park

Hamburg is being encircled by a quaint kind of park, now that citizens can buy little plots of land to grow flowers and shrubs. City regulations specify that public paths must thread these gardens for all to enjoy, reports the German Tourist Office.

BOOK REVIEWS

Navigator's Guide for Trek Into Tomorrow

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

JULIAN Huxley wrote the title essay and brought together the contributions of 25 experts for "THE HUMANIST FRAME" (Harper, $6.50), which Miles A. Smith, book editor of Associated Press, calls "a navigator's handbook for the long journey into tomorrow."

The authors, most of whom are British, are concerned mostly with what man could be in the future, and in their essays they portray aspects of "evolutionary humanism."

In essence, the idea is that man can—and should—make the fullest use of his potential to direct his own destiny. The authors believe man has the ability to find himself, decide where he wants to go, and then put forth the effort to get there.

Humanists, as they appear in this book, consider science as only part of the answer to solving man's problems. They acknowledge threats of cataclysmic war, etc., but they count on the "knowledge explosion" to supply man with the raw materials to build his future.

And they think if man pays as much attention to feelings as to facts, searches for human values and thinks in terms of world society while retaining the creativity of the individual, he is on his way to a worthwhile future.

PRE-COLUMBIAN South America's broad panorama of widely divergent cultures is described in "NOMADS and EMPIRE BUILDERS" by Carlton Beals (Chilton, $7.50).

Beals, who has spent a lifetime studying Latin America, tells of the splendid empire of the priestly Incas, whose realm in the Andes and along the West Coast boasted engineering and artistic marvels that in many respects were superior to those of their European conquerors. Beals also examines the more primitive peoples, such as the cannibalistic head-hunters of the Amazon basin.

The author, who speculates that early South Americans emigrated from Asia via Polynesia, fails to bring the Mayan and Aztec cultures of Central America and Mexico into this work. However, he does describe the idyllic life of the early Caribbean natives, the first Americans encountered by Columbus.

DESPITE AN explanation that has persisted for decades, the word "gringo" applied by Mexicans and other Spanish-speaking peoples to Americans did not come from American soldiers singing "Green Grow the Lilacs."

In "SINGERS AND STORY TELLERS" (Southern Methodist University Press, $5) the "green grow" theory of the Mexican concoction of "gringo" is shown not to hold water.

"This explanation," the book declares, "is pleasing, plausible, logical, and wholly erroneous," and in detail is given an explanation to please the most fastidious stymologist.

The book, in fact, contains a wealth of folklore of Texas and the southwest. It has a foreword by the veteran storyteller J. Frank Dobie, setting the tone for this 30th collection of fabulous folklore from Texas.

HIGHLY REGARDED in his native Spain, Miguel Delibes has had books translated into French, German, Portuguese and Italian. Now, appearing for the first time in English translation, his novel "THE PATH" (Day, $3) introduces him to American readers as a writer of outstanding quality. "The Path," set in a remote Castilian village, centers on Daniel, 11-year-old son of the local cheesemaker, who must leave his friends and go away to school. The account is vivid, tender and hilarious.

Ghost of Colorado mining days

Todd Webb, winner of the Guggenheim Award for Photography, offers a photographic tour through the historic mining camps and ghost towns of California, Nevada, Colorado, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana in "GOLD STRIKES AND GHOST TOWNS" (Doubleday, $4.95). The above photo of mining in Willow Creek, near Creede, Colo., is one of more than 100 photos by the author which illustrate this work.

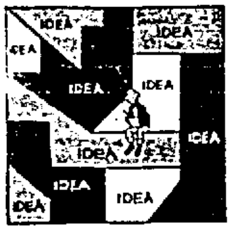
Learn to Outline

By Harry Karns

OUTLINING is one of the most important skills any student can learn.

The ability to outline helps him understand the things he reads; it helps him put his own ideas on paper in logical and persuasive order.

To outline is to trace the skeleton of a body of words.



As a reader, the outliner can readily pick out the framework of a book from its surrounding substance. As a writer, he can build a solid framework to support his ideas and facts. He can read with a more critical eye and test his own writing for faults.

Encourage your child to outline the material he reads. It is best for him to start with a brief assignment in which the arrangement of ideas is simple and direct.

HE SHOULD take pencil and paper and do the following as he reads:

1. Write down the main divisions, the big ideas, and make them stand out from everything else.

2. Write down the supporting ideas and facts in their proper places under the big ideas.

To keep these ideas apart and in their proper places, he must use letters and numbers of greater and lesser values.

But let's illustrate.

This column, for example, was visualized in outline form before it was written.

Here is the way the skeleton looks without the flesh of details:

I. Why outlining is a helpful skill—
    A. It helps students read.
    B. It helps students write.
II. What outlining is—
    A. Outlining is the act of distinguishing or building a framework of ideas.
III. How to develop skill at outlining—
    A. Practice outlining reading material.
        1. Write down main ideas.
        2. Put subordinate ideas under them.
        3. Distinguish between main ideas and other ideas by using different signs.
IV. A practical example of how to outline.

AS HE ADVANCES in school, the student will have more work to do and less time in which to do it. He will find greater use for this swift, simple, and effective means of analyzing his reading and shaping his own ideas.

Outlining will save him time by cutting away the underbrush so he can get to the solid trunks of knowledge.

Arizona's Legend of Lost Gold

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

LESS THAN 100 years ago, when the gold boom of the 1870s and 1880s fevered men's minds, a bearded German named Jacob Waltz wandered into Phoenix, Ariz., with rich samples of the precious metal.

When his gold dust was gone, Waltz disappeared, too, supposedly into the Superstition Mountains east of Phoenix where his rich lode was located. Would-be claim jumpers attempted to trail him, but like a will-o-the-wisp Waltz always vanished before reaching the mine.

The mystery of the mine and its location died with Waltz and the lode became known as the Lost Dutchman mine.

Dozens of people since have lost their lives searching for the Lost Dutchman. A few have met violent deaths in unexplained fashion, as though the vicious gods of the Superstitions still were exacting tribute. Many have perished from thirst because they became lost when supplies gave out.

Books have been written about the lost lode. Dozens of persons claim to have located the mine and removed its treasure. Yet they've never produced a grain of gold as evidence.

Waltz and his mine have become a legend, an unforgotten legend.

Each March, Phoenix's Spanish-attired Dons Club stages a mock search for the mine, allowing tourists to get in on the fun. And each March some 1,500 persons—all that are allowed—join the Dons in the search.

They have never found the gold on their treks, but the Dons Club does prove itself a master at entertainment. Around their campfires the Waltz legend is recounted by master storytellers. Lively guitar music echoes through the canyons, and the steaks on the barbecue are huge and juicy. Visitors have a ball.

GREYHOUND LINES has inaugurated five-day "Western Leisureland Tours" to provide "off season" vacations into scenic and sun-drenched areas of the Southland and Arizona. Cities on the tour include San Diego, Phoenix and Tucson, and Palm Springs, with excursions to interesting spots en route. Tour departures may be arranged for any day of the week through March, with departure from Los Angeles. Total per person cost (double accommodations) is $54.47, plus transportation tax.

DELTA AIR LINES, whose attractive "you-all" stewardesses are a pleasant memory to all travelers, officially opened Long Beach offices last week at 108 E. Ocean Blvd., Jergins Bldg. John Crabb is resident manager.

Delta has been flying the Southern route from Southern California since June 11, 1961, and now has five jet flights daily to provide Southlanders with direct service to Dallas, New Orleans, Atlanta and Orlando, Fla., with connecting flights to other Dixie cities, the Caribbean and Caracas, Venezuela.

TRAVEL TALK: A new ticketing-by-mail plan for air travelers has been put into effect by Western Air Lines, making it possible for airline passengers to obtain tickets without visiting a sales office . . . James E. Hawthorne, vice president-marketing of Greyhound, has been named to the travel advisory committee of the new U. S. Travel Service . . . Pan Am has increased direct jet service between Los Angeles International Airport and Tokyo to three flights a week — Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays . . . Japan Air Lines will add three new U. S.-to-Tokyo flights April 1, bringing its total Los Angeles-Honolulu-Tokyo flights to five weekly . . . Alitalia, the national airline of Italy, registered a 47 per cent increase in passengers on scheduled flights to and from Europe in 1961 — 86,738 passengers in both directions.

CONTINUING to devote his time to travel, Harry Owens, good will "ambassador" to Hawaii, leaves Los Angeles on March 18 on his annual spring air cruise via United Air Lines jet to the island state. Harry will personally accompany his group through Oahu, Hawaii, Maui, Hilo, Kana Koast, Kuai, and the lost village of Kapoho. Return by ship is optional.

Through his Royal Hawaiian Orchestra appearances Owens—composer of "Sweet Leilani" and 400 other Hawaiian songs, has become known as Mr. Hawaii.

OPEN HOUSE scheduled Jan. 19 aboard the SS Acapulco in Los Angeles Harbor was cancelled at the last moment and a large crowd gathered to go aboard and inspect the funship was disappointed. Reason given: The captain said his crew needed the time to make necessary preparations for the initial voyage.

WEEKEND GADABOUTS should keep in mind the Pacific Coast Midwinter Soaring Championships, Feb. 24-25, in San Diego's scenic Torrey Pines Park. Glider enthusiasts from throughout the nation will be there, too.

Other February events worth noting:

Feb. 3-4: Join with celebrities such as Jayne Mansfield, Dennis Weaver, Barbara Stanwyck and Mamie Van Doren in witnessing Palm Springs' 22nd annual rodeo. A rodeo ball will be held Friday night and a two-hour parade at 10 a.m. Saturday precedes the bronc busting.

Feb. 8-11: See more than $1 million worth of exhibits, from three-bedroom luxury moving mansions to small trailers at a Mobile Home and Trailer Show in Los Angeles Pan-Pacific Auditorium.

The gayest and most colorful carnival held in the U. S. is the annual New Orleans MARDI GRAS with its lavish parades, floats, masked balls and fun-filled activities starting in mid-February.

In the British West Indies, MARDI GRAS celebrations fittingly climax the Calypso season which feature highly competitive native Calypso singing, exotic dancing and throbbing music by steel bands.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"What is the least expensive way to go to Europe—time not being a problem?"

ON ICELANDIC, flying DC6Bs; go before April 30 and you get round-trip from New York for $320. (Landing at Luxembourg, which is central.)

If you take the family during this time, wives and children, 12 through 25 years (!) go at about half fare.

This is quite cut-rate. Reason: They're not members of IATA, the international group of airlines which sets similar prices for everybody. No jets, but cheap.

"Can I have my paycheck mailed to me in London (while on vacation) and cash it there?"

Might be some problem. Why don't you have it deposited here and pick up the credit with a corresponding bank there? Bank of America, for instance, has a big branch in London, about a block from Claridge's Hotel.

"Many people have recommended Mazatalan in Mexico for a week. But my husband and I like more primitive places . . ."

Try Puerto Vallarta some miles south — fly in from Mazatlan or from Guadalajara. There's no road. Or Manzanillo is plenty on the primitive side. Even further south.

I think almost ALL ports without roads are primitive—Puerto Angel in the far south is lit by charcoal. Saturday night is one guitar. And Maidenform never arrived in this part of the world.

"We plan a year in Switzerland. What about schools?"

The best. Plenty of boarding schools, universities, etc. $1 to U.S. National Student Assn., Education Travel, Inc., 20 West 38th St., New York City, brings you a good booklet: "Work, Study, Travel Abroad." Covers ALL Europe.

Another source: Swiss National Tourist Office, 10 West 49th St., New York City.

"How much can you take into France in dollars? To spend?"

The French are generous about this. Take in any amount. Take a million.

"Any idea for a couple of college girls (21-22) going to Europe for the first time?"

Italian boys are pinchers and want you to pick up the restaurant check. French boys are petulant—you have to smooth their feelings all the time.

Spanish and Portuguese are elegant but apt to be short on walk-around money. German boys resent the Occupation—and you. Swiss boys are okay, I guess. British will be more to your taste.

Stay at the Youth Hostels and meet traveling American kids. You'll understand them better. ($2 to Pan American, World Airways, Department 24, Box 2255, New York City, gets you into a new PanAm club giving service to young women. Sounds good to me.)

GOING PLACES —

—with the Sloanes

SINCE international air travel came of age, the airlines have been wondering how to give their money's worth to the one-fifth of their passengers who can afford to pay nearly double the fare of economy class to fly first class. It hasn't been easy; the rear of the plane, after all, lands at the same time as the front.

The first and most obvious solution was to provide roomier seats and a systematic program of stuffing the guests with cocktails, caviar and coq au vin every three hours on the hour.

However, about five years ago, there occurred to a Southern theater operator named David Flexer an idea which undoubtedly had crossed many another traveler's mind: Why not show movies in the air? It would be relaxing, help pass the time, and would give the airline smart enough to snap up the idea a selling point more exclusive than champagne.

FLEXER worked with the Reevesound Co. of New York, developers of Cinerama, and employing space age techniques of miniaturization, they developed a fully automated, lightweight projector, screen and audio system which could be built into a jet airplane.

Nearly five years after his brainstorm, Flexer succeeded in selling the package to a company with good American horse sense — Trans World Airlines. Since last August, TWA has been showing movies on nearly all its international flights and some of its transcontinental trips.

The projector is built into the cabin ceiling and weighs only 75 pounds fully loaded. It operates by a flick of the flight engineer's switch. The screen, hung from the ceiling by a cabin attendant, weighs only three pounds. Earphones —less than an ounce each— are distributed to each passenger and plugged into an outlet built into the seat.

AS FOR the one, or more, in every crowd, the picture can be seen clearly even if some passengers choose to keep their shades up and look out the window instead. Those who want to sleep need not take the earphones, though—here's a tip, TWA— they're great for shutting out cabin noise. And if you turn on the sound real low, it will lull you to sleep like the Late, Late Show.

TWA may be running the most expensive movie theaters in the world but the line has taken a step towards breaking the barrier of restlessness, boredom and weariness, the classic enemies of travel since the invention of the wheel.

WHAT'S YOUR HOBBY?

She's Too Busy to Grow Old

By Virginia M. Crill

Staff photo by Byran Hodgson

Art is a major interest of Mrs. Dora Kirkland, 89, who finds her years no handicap to keeping active.

PONCE DE LEON with an army to aid him, died in his early sixties hunting desperately for the fountain of youth that still defies the search of man. Here, in Long Beach, a quiet little woman of 89 has exceeded Ponce De Leon's span by several decades because she was too busy to grow old.

Mrs. Dora Kirkland, 362 E. 8th St., has no spare time. She lives alone, does her own housework and gardening, attends her church and club, walks six to eight blocks a day, gives advice to friends and neighbors who want to know what color to paint this or that, and devotes as much time as possible to her own painting.

Like Grandma Moses, she began painting seriously around her 80th birthday. Unlike Grandma Moses, Mrs. Kirkland received a small amount of group art training in her youth in Iowa. Even then her work showed the love of nature which is today expressed in the pleasant California sea and landscapes in her own and other Southland homes. When asked if she ever sold any of her paintings she seemed surprised, "Why no—whenever I finish anything, I have so many friends," she says.

She takes particular pride in one of her early works picturing her sister's mountain cabin where she visited in her early twenties.

HOME and family took all her time after she married. Sewing clothes for her daughters, she discovered that with care she could make eight dresses, no two alike, from the same pattern.

When Dr. Kirkland was forced by ill health to give up the practice of medicine in Iowa, the family moved to Long Beach. Much rest in the Southern California warmth eventually brought Dr. Kirkland from an ill 135 pounds to a happy, diet-watching 190-pounder who then served 2½ terms during the turbulent reform ticket 1930s on the Long Beach City Council.

Her husband's second lingering illness, and death, placed Mrs. Kirkland in a situation which many now, or eventually will face. She was alone. Her three daughters had completed college and had lives of their own. The art which was once a pleasant hobby and then forgotten, now became an important part of everyday living as she returned to it with the same devotion once given her family.

She prefers to work with pastels and water colors rather than oils because they are easier to leave and return to later. The beauty everywhere from the ocean to the desert and back to her own attractive yard lives in her pictures.

SOME OF her work will be shown publicly for the first time the last week in January, in the window of the Belmont Savings and Loan Assn., 5200 E. 2nd St. Ben Messick, 133 St. Joseph Ave., Long Beach artist and art instructor, considers her work "sensitive to nature and attractive in its direct simplicity."

He further states: "Mrs. Kirkland and her painting activities prove beyond a doubt that art and its relation to life keeps one always young and vibrant, interested and interesting."

Camellia Pruning

Pruning camellias is a most pleasurable task, for it consists primarily of cutting a bit of stem when you cut blooms for display indoor. This is usually sufficient to keep the plants bushy and compact.

However, an occasional camellia insists on growing faster than you can keep it pruned by bloom cutting. Don't hesitate to cut growth back.

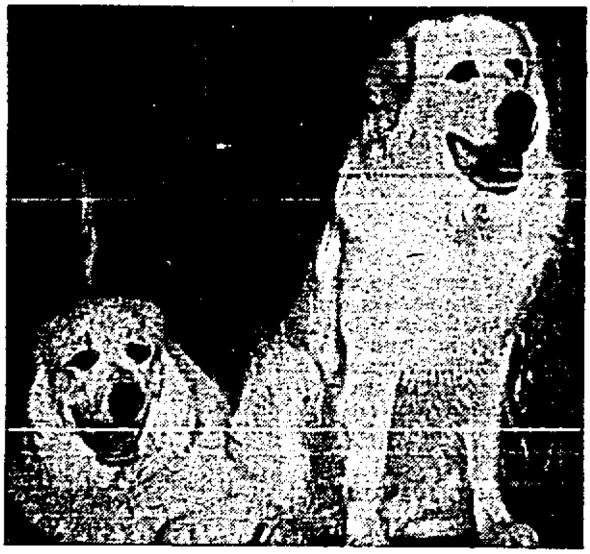
PET PARADE

'Most Beautiful' Dog



"Most beautiful dogs in the world" is the description applied to the white and regal Great Pyrenees.

By Eleanor Avery Price

TODAY, for the first time, the Great Pyrenees Club of California will hold a specialty show in Southern California, a benched event as part of the Orange Empire Dog Club show and obedience trial at the National Orange Show Grounds in San Bernardino.

The Great Pyrenees is one of the oldest of purebred dogs, having been found in fossil deposits in Europe of the date of the Bronze Age, between 1800 and 1000 B.C. He was a court favorite in France and is depicted on bas-reliefs at Carcassone bearing the Royal Arms of France. He became the guard dog of the Chateau of Lordes and other chateaux where he was given a special place in the sentry boxes along with the armed guards. Both Louis XIV and the Dauphin of France, later Louis XVI, greatly favored the breed.

ALSO, IN THE middle ages, the Great Pyrenees, whose name means "great dog of the mountain," was used by peasant shepherds of France and Spain to protect their flocks from packs of wolves and bears, as well as human mauraders. Having a keen sense of smell, good eyesight and tremendous strength and courage, the dog was an invaluable sentinel yet withall sympathetic and understanding with master and friends. He makes a fine family pet, gentle, never nervous, affectionate but not maudlin, and he is good with children. There is also pride in ownership, for this breed is called "the most beautiful dog in the world."

One seldom sees the Great Pyrenees in obedience trials, yet he excels in this work because he is serious, tractable, and easily handled. The Great Pyrenees, Champion Brigadier Jerramagne Larue, C. D., owned by Philip and Twila Jones of Hemet, recently completed his open class work and earned the highest score at the graduation, topping 10 German shepherds and eight poodles, two breeds noted for high scores in obedience. This is considered a noteworthy record.

MRS. JONES has some excellent advice for those who wonder if obedience training ruins a dog for the breed ring. She says: "Certainly not! A good obedience dog is more capable of galting on the loose lead, quicker to strike a show stance, and willing to be examined by the judge without moving. Of top importance is training obedience with a slip chain collar and training for the breed ring with a slip leather collar. A dog soon learns the difference and will only sit on the stop when wearing the chain collar and will gait and stand with the leather collar."

Other events at the Orange Empire show today include an exhibit of upland gun dogs handled by Bill Koehler; Herb Wegner's TV dog obstacle course; hound racing on the football field; and dogs in drill team maneuvers.

NEW OFFICERS for Long Beach Dog Obedience Club: president, Roy E. Wheeler; vice president, Norman Breen; recording secretary, Omer St. Pierre; corresponding secretary Helen B. Wheeler; treasurer; Marie Breen; obedience chairman, Edward Malsberg; show chairman, Betty Shanahan; directors, Betty Malsberg and Al Schroeder.

DOROTHY DIGS in the garden

By Dorothy Jonson

Sometimes bud structures accumulate at a terminal on camellias; that is to say, three or four buds grow in a cluster. Many times, in these cases, one bud will prove susceptible to a fungus ailment and one or two buds will drop off. In many instances, this is just a natural process. The plant is simply not able to take care of the number of buds that are set and this is nature's way of eliminating the superfluous demand on the strength of the plant.

Inspect your camellias to see if too many buds have developed at the tip of the growing branches. If so, disbud, leaving only two, or at most three, in one place.

Only in cases where a good deal of this condition is prevalent is it necessary to spray. And in those cases use a good fungicide.

Renovating Keeps Lawns Green

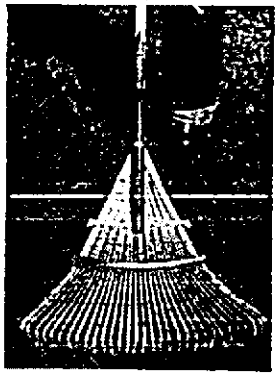
By Bob Gilmore

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA'S worst midwinter garden pest is Bermuda grass. To those whose lawns are afflicted with it the plant is better known as devil grass. It grows admirably in warm or hot weather. In fact, few varieties hold up as well when abused or treated roughly. But when the temperature drops this grass tends to go dormant; the colder the air the more complete the state of dormancy.

Throughout the winter Bermuda grass shows little signs of life. Its bright green color disappears. The runners, the stalks and foliage take on a sickly and yellowish tone. Exactly what you don't want in your garden.

Whether your lawn contains small spots of Bermuda or is completely overrun with it, seems to make little difference. Wherever spears of this grass crop up you will be faced with a disheartening ordeal. Yet there is no need to despair. The problem can be solved and it is possible to maintain green lawns in Southern California throughout the winter. This can be accomplished in spite of devil grass or any other comparable form of growth.

LAWN RENOVATION is the answer to the Bermuda problem. There are several methods to choose from. The easiest . . . because someone else does the work . . . is to hire a commercial lawn renovation service, the kind that utilizes heavy equipment. These power machines quickly rip off all top growth as well as a certain amount of the root growth. This mass of waste material is then removed and the entire area reseeded. The benefits are obvious . . . the pestlike Bermuda is removed. A beautiful new grass will grow in its place.



A wide rake that is reinforced for heavy usage should be used for raking up all debris before reseeding lawns for the winter.

There are times when a commercial job might prove too expensive. Perhaps you're the type of gardener who enjoys doing the renovating work. You can accomplish the job singlehanded. It may not be as perfect as the commercial operation but still will provide a green lawn. All that is necessary actually is to

How to Get Vertical Accents

By Walter Finch

VERTICAL ACCENTS are necessary in every landscape. Either trees or tall growing shrubs may be used for this purpose. The latter are highly valuable for producing pleasing effects at the corners of buildings or in angles formed by the structure of a house.

Before purchasing any plants that are to be used for vertical accents you should obtain their size at maturity. Your nurseryman will be able to give you this information. The point to keep in mind is that these ornamentals must blend attractively with their surroundings when they attain maturity. If they remain dwarfed or, on the other hand, grow out of bounds you will have accomplished nothing.

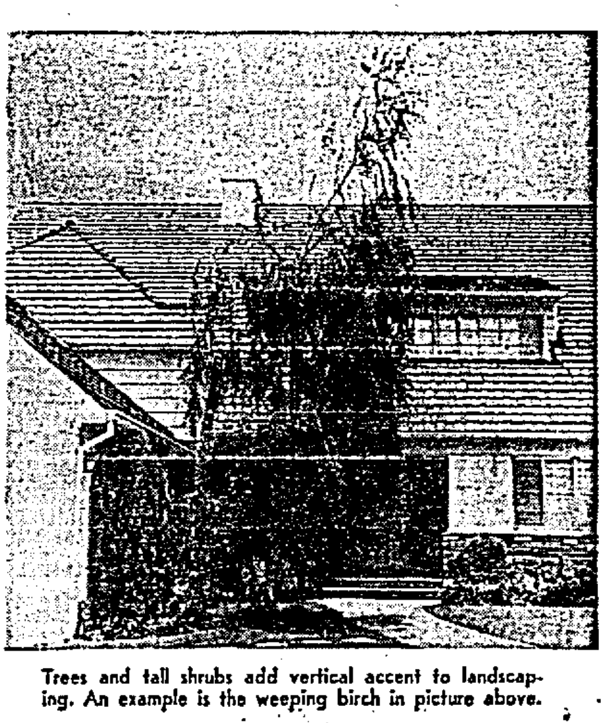
A rather novel but extremely popular vertical accent plant for this area is juniper variety twisted. There are many junipers available for landscape purposes but this is certainly one of the most interesting. The branches are tufted and twisted, a characteristic that gives the plant its name. This juniper attains a height of eight feet at maturity and thus fits admirably into even small landscapes. It is extremely hardy, tolerating cold down to five degrees below zero. It does well in either sun or half shade.

ANOTHER VARIETY that has an aspiring habit of growth is the arborvitae, variety thuja orientalis Beverly Hills. This plant is perhaps better known as the golden column arborvitae. The foliage is a delightful shade of golden-green and for framing doorways or as a specimen plant this is one of the best. Keep in mind that at maturity it may grow to a height of 20 feet.

Eugenias are one of our most prominent landscape plants, thriving generally throughout Southern California. One fairly new variety is eugenia Armstrong which reacts favorably to pruning and is not quite as tall growing as other related varieties.

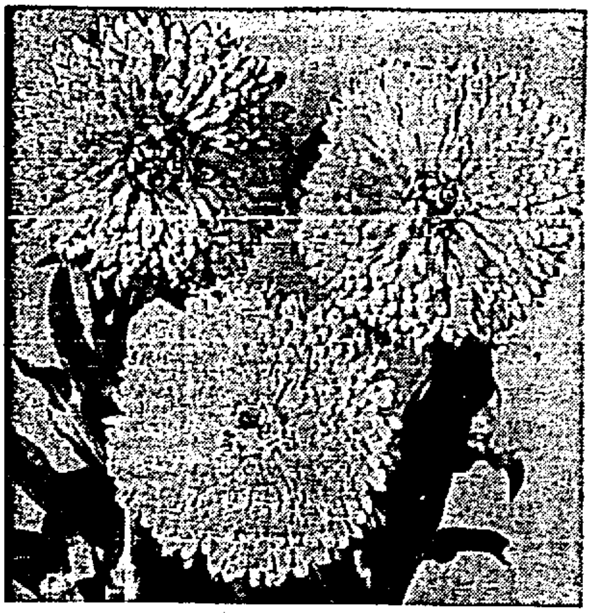
EUGENIA myrtifolia is also quite popular for vertical accents, growing to 30 feet or more. Also tall growing is variety hookeri which is extremely hardy and produces leaves considerably larger than those of eugenia myrtifolia.

The Italian cypress, cupressus sempervirens, makes a tall, slender accent and is quite valuable for formal patterns. This variety grows to a height of from 30 to 40 feet. The tecate cypress is an aggressive grower and may put on 10 or 12 feet of growth in just a few years. The foliage is quite attractive, being a beautiful silvery green.



Trees and tall shrubs add vertical accent to landscaping. An example is the weeping birch in picture above.

Calendulas Bring Early Color



Calendulas are quick to grow and provide bright orange or vivid yellow flowers to color early spring gardens.

By Joe Littlefield

WINTER and spring blooming annuals all have their desirable qualities: Stocks furnish spicily fragrant flowers, pansies produce an abundance of riotous color, snapdragons burgeon into warm colors, delphiniums send out stately stalks of various blue shades of blooms and so they go.

All these annuals take some time to become established in the garden, some a little sooner than the others. But, of all those mentioned, calendulas with bright orange, or vivid yellow, double flowers are earliest to bloom.

Where you need fast bright color, plant calendulas, whether bordering a flower bed, along a walk or driveway, or massed with other annuals in a tastefully arranged flower bed. Space them about 10 to 12 inches apart.

Renovating Will Keep Lawns Green

seed on top of the existing turf.

While rye grass is a good winter variety, it is not the most refined. The leaves are coarse and frequently difficult to mow in time the individual plants tend to become bunchy. For slightly more money you can obtain a well-balanced mixture of the better grasses such as blue grass, seaside bent, red top and creeping fescue.

SEVERAL STEPS are required for a satisfactory renovation. First, mow the existing turf as closely as possible. Perhaps the cutting blade on your lawn mower will have to be reset. But don't slip up on this. It takes just a few minutes, yet adds greatly to accomplishing a good job. Remove as many weeds as possible and if time permits spray the entire area with one of the 2-4D weed killers.

Apply a top dressing to the surface. Use good, clear topsoil that has been enriched with liberal quantities of peat moss and steer manure. Apply the top dressing carefully but not thickly enough to smother the grass. Spread it evenly by working with the back of a garden rake. Then sow the seed at about half the regular rate. Keep the area moist until the new grass seedlings are established.

Don't mow the renovated area until the new growth is about two inches long.

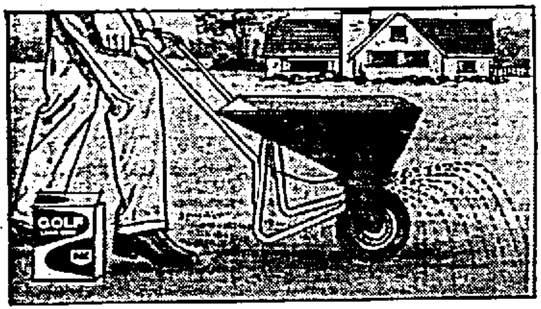
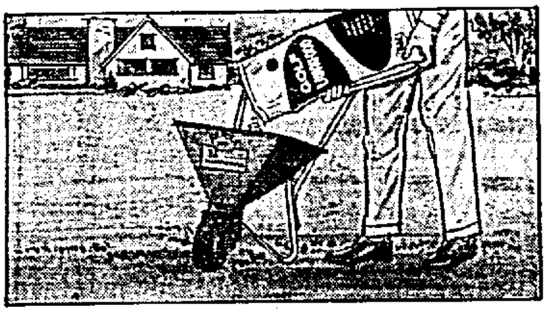
This Golf Brand team gives you a lawn so thick it crowds out weeds!



SEED IT with Golf Brand Lawn Seed, the all-purpose mixture of fine grasses that outsells every other lawn seed in this area.



FEED IT with Golf Brand Lawnfood. One application gives your lawn all the nutriment it needs for months of thriving growth.

That thick, deep-rooted lawn you've always wanted is yours when you put this Golf Brand team to work for you.

Golf Brand's blend of seeds is selected from proven performers in this local area. Each grass variety has a special value. Some like it sunny, others thrive in the shade; some are resistant to heat, others to cold. And all combine to form a beautiful turf that will take plenty of day-to-day punishment. Golf Brand also contains both fast-sprouting Park Kentucky Bluegrass and Newport Kentucky Bluegrass, the sensational new variety that gives your lawn late-season vigor and color.

Golf Brand Lawnfood is the other thing you need for a thick, thriving lawn. It gives your grass immediate healthy color with its chemical nitrogen. And after that the organic nitrogen takes over, releasing its storehouse of nutrients in measured amounts for steady, season-long growth and root development.

BOB CROW

Lots of Plans

AND HERE'S why there's such a bright smile these days on the face of restaurateur (and councilman) Bob Crow.

He's progressing rapidly with plans for his new restaurant to be erected at 5305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. just south of East Anaheim Street. Work will start shortly and be completed the latter part of May.

Featuring the initial of his last name, Crow will call his new place "Mr. C's." It will be a large, elaborate, Polynesian-style restaurant adjoining the 80-unit Outrigger Inn, a motel owned by John Economou. Construction recently started on the Inn.

"Mr. C's" will have total seating for 360 persons, with accommodations for 180 in the main dining area, 100 in a private dining room and 80 in the cocktail lounge. The food will be a combination of Polynesian, Cantonese and American.

Crow's restaurant at 503 W. Willow St. has been a popular gathering place for diner-outers for many years. The dinners there (served Sunday from 2 p.m. on) include a $2.20 family Cantonese spread which consists of light-bodied egg flower soup, fried shrimps, barbecued ribs, pork mushrooms chow mein, pork foo yong, pork fried rice, Chinese noodles, fortune cookies and tea. If additional persons order, sweet and sour pork is added. Crow's Mandarin dinner, for $3 includes all the foregoing plus chicken mushroom almond, chop suey and a Chinese egg roll.

Fine American dinners are also prepared, including soup du jour, salad with choice of dressing, entree, baked potato, sourdough bread, pumpernickel and beverage. Among the entrees are a variety of char-broiled steaks from $3, chicken, ham steak and sea food items, price from $1.95.

Paraplegics Teach TV Actor 'Lesson of Life'

By STEVE HILL
As Told to 'Tele Vues' Editor Bert Resnik

(Editor's Note: Steve Hill stars as a paraplegic war veteran in the "City of Wheels" drama airing on "Route 66" at 8:30 p.m. Friday, channel 2. The sequence was filmed at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital.)

ACTOR STEVE HILL (center), who portrays a paraplegic veteran on Friday's "Route 66," discusses the program with Bill Johnson of Long Beach (left) and Roger Latham of Westminster. Both are patients at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital where the sequence, "A City on Wheels," was filmed.

The paraplegic veterans at the Long Beach VA Hospital taught me something I'll never forget.

You can't separate courage from a sense of humor. They are part of the same coin.

The veterans with whom I worked are living examples of courage at its peak.

And how that courage is tested.

One day they were just like you and me, healthy, in full possession of all the uses of their limbs.

The next day they were helpless, paralyzed — their legs useless or their arms or both. Other parts of their bodies didn't function right or function at all.

How do they get over this shock? How do they make this hurdle?

I'm not sure I know how they do and I pray to God I never have to find out myself.

BUT ONCE they get over this hurdle — and this it what I noticed with the fellows I worked and talked with —they see it as a fact of life.

It's as if their condition was a simple fact of nature. It's as if they were born with it.

They go on with their normal state of affairs. And they make jokes about their condition. I heard one say to another:

'You'll never stand up to me on that issue."

I heard another say:

"I'm feeling fine. Can't kick."

I must admit I got a kind of erie feeling when I heard them joke about themselves.

But you come away from these fellows with a different feeling about yourself.

Here are men dealing with the guts of life. Here are men who have oriented themserves, who have made a complete adjustment, who have a philosophy of life that leaves them room to laugh at themselves in wheelchairs.

Isn't it ridiculous the terrifying importance so many of us — I'm including myself — place on the trivialities we call problems?

Besides these men, our so-called problems pale into insignificance.

I'll never forget them. I'll never forget their courage and their sense of humor. I'll never forget the lesson of life they taught me.

"YOU DON'T WANT ME, LADY, YOU NEED A PLUMBER!"

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Patricia Blake is a worm.

And a frog.

And a crocodile.

But first and foremost, she is "The Princess."

And "The Princess," first and foremost, is a story-teller.

It is in her story telling that she is Georgie the Worm, Frankie Frog and Conrad the Crocodile, not to mention a dozen other voices vocally ranging from Zasu Pitts to Lionel Barrymore.

They are voices which emanate daily from KTTV (channel 11) at 9 a. m. with varied facial characteristics to match the personalities.

The emanating voices, so far, have never had their personalities mixed up.

Georgie the Worm is a pip-squeak soprano. Frankie Frog is a booming bass. Frankie has never got himself tangled in a pip-squeak and Georgie has never boomed.

Such a mix-up would be disenchanting and if there is anything a TV princess cannot afford to be, it is disenchanting.

AS AN ENCHANTRESS, "The Princess" appeals to children of all ages. Witness the following sample letters:

"May a 56-year-old child acknowledge that you make my TV a magic instrument of the mind."

"To tell you the honest to goodness truth, my father will sit and watch you as if he was a child (ha ha)."

"We just love your show. Our Mommy does too. At first she worked around the house."

Mainly, of course, it is children-aged children who enjoy the program the most.

Patricia, in fact, got the idea for "The Princess" when she was telling stories to her own children-aged children, Kathleen and Gayle. Other neighborhood youngsters drifted in to listen.

"If I could hold their attention dressed as I was in jeans, I thought to myself, I probably could do even better in the costume of an elf or a princess," she said.

Television executives in San Francisco did not initially share her enthusiasm. They told her that she couldn't simply just tell stories. She needed to show cartoons and be able to draw.

But one station, KRON, gave her an on-the-air audition in 1950. The 2½-year-old son of a businessman watched the program, liked it and told his father. The father agreed to sponsor Patricia.

"THE PRINCESS" was in TV business and has been ever since.

She is a story-teller, not a story-reader.

The stories are written by herself and her husband, Milton, who also prepares newscasts for ABC-TV.

After the stories are written—some take two hours, some take two weeks—she memorizes one every evening.

At the KTTV studio, she declines use of "idiot" cards—movable placards with all the words largely printed—because that would be reading, not telling, a story.

Concerning her ability to vary her voice tones, Patricia said: "I just can do it. It's really no credit to me.

"It's just something I was born with—like some people are able to sing."

Her stories are music to thousands of youngsters and such groups as the 10th District of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, which rates her program tops.

Impeachment Drama Set

An original drama about impeachment proceedings brought against a state Supreme Court judge will be aired by CBS-TV on Feb. 3.

The drama, a "Westinghouse Presents" special, was authored by Robert L. Joseph.

In the fictional script, the judge faces impeachment by the state legislature when he is charged with manipulating a fund.

NEEDED FOR TEENAGERS:

An annual physical checkup

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

Consultation between doctor and teenager, as shown with girl patient above, is important part of any annual medical checkup.

HEALTH AUTHORITIES are constantly urging regular physical checkups for infants, small children and adults. But what about teenagers?

Why are they the orphans of preventive medicine—the "forgotten generation" when it comes to regular thorough health checkups?

One reason is that teenagers are commonly thought to be a transitional group virtually exempt from serious disease—a highly erroneous notion.

Experts in the new and growing field of adolescent medicine are proving that regular checkups can produce amazing results. They can reveal hidden, serious illness. They can also decrease the emotional turmoil common to today's adolescent—a turmoil he experiences even when he is maturing normally. Here are actual examples of serious problems that could have been averted by checkups:

- A 14-year-old New Jersey boy developed a slight limp but didn't go to the doctor. Finally, an examination revealed a hip disorder—too late. He will grow up with one leg two inches shorter than the other. An earlier checkup and treatment could have prevented this life-long handicap.
- A 15-year-old Michigan boy became depressed because he thought he was too short and would be ridiculed by his friends as a "shrimp." He ended up in a psychiatrist's office. Examination would have revealed that his growth was in the normal range for his age. The whole experience could have been avoided.
- A 16-year-old Pennsylvania girl who suffered rheumatic fever as a small child was told by her doctor to "take it easy" for life. Examination revealed that her condition did not warrant this type of semi-invalidism. She was healthy enough to grow up having her normal share of fun.
- A 16-year-old Massachusetts boy was examined in a Boston hospital after not having seen a doctor in four years. A "silent" kidney disorder was discovered. Untreated, it might have been fatal.

Statistics show adolescents to be the healthiest age group in our society. They have the smallest incidence of serious disease and death; they bounce back quickly from illnesses they do get. But these statistics are deceptive, for due to the lack of regular checkups, information is lacking on diseases that do occur in the teen years. Many illnesses or malformations go undetected in teenagers. Medical specialists list the following as the most common:

Scoliosis, or curvature of the spine. This is often missed, especially among teenage girls. Adult patients are frequently surprised to be told they had spine curvature as youngsters which was never treated. Other orthopedic disorders also go untreated. Boys' athletic injuries and hip joint troubles are among the most common.

Tuberculosis. The teen years are a peak period for new, active cases of TB. Several thousand occur each year. Early detection is very important in checking this potentially serious disease.

Urinary tract infections. A recent University of Virginia study shows these are much more prevalent than formerly believed. These infections are sometimes difficult to detect, may not be found until after repeated examinations.

Venereal disease. Despite antibiotics, VD has emerged once again as a major public health problem in the U.S. Among teenagers new, active cases have tripled since 1955. Many more are unreported.

Peptic ulcer and chronic ulcerative colitis. Generally considered adult diseases, these have a high and growing incidence among teenagers. Another "adult sickness," high blood pressure, is also invading the teenage ranks. Doctors see a significant upswing among youngsters in such emotionally-connected illnesses.

Retarded sexual development, real or imagined. Some adolescents are normal "late maturers," as doctors term them. However, some have abnormally slow physical maturation, which usually can be corrected by means of hormone therapy.

Thyroid disease. One of the most easily detectable and preventable thyroid disorders, goiter, occurs in teenagers. If untreated, serious effects can result.

Diabetes. Medical authorities estimate as many as one million undetected cases of diabetes in the U.S. Untreated diabetes can have fatal consequences. Twenty-thousand-plus new, active diabetes cases between ages 13-19 are found in the U.S. each year.

The teenager has still other—and less hidden—health worries. Overweight is one. A New York high school for girls reports more than 200 students weighing 220 pounds or more.

Adolescents also suffer vision defects, acne, dental troubles, menstrual irregularities. Even occasional tumors are discovered in teenagers. As diagnostic techniques improve, the incidence of teenage tumor cases is expected to increase.

Teenage boy gets stethoscope check. Diabetes, TB, emotional stress are among points doctors look for.

This teenage health picture is partly the fault of parents, whose attitude is too often neglectful, and partly of doctors, who have failed to stress the importance of teenage disease prevention.

Many parents take the attitude that the school examination is "good enough." But, says Dr. Alfred M. Bongiovanni of the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, "the school exam is no substitute for examination in the doctor's office." Dr. Bongiovanni characterizes the school exam as merely a "crude screening to pick up serious problems apparent at that moment."

The rest of the blame falls largely on the doctors themselves, who are only just beginning to look upon adolescent medicine as important. Many interviewed by PARADE admitted checkups for teenagers have been underplayed. Here are typical reactions, once the subject was mentioned:

"A marvelous idea...greatly overlooked...a contribution to the national health and fitness picture."

Repeated tests show that American teenagers are not as fit physically as youngsters overseas. A Presidential commission on fitness is trying to stir up interest nationwide to change that picture.

In addition, U.S. draft rejection rates run between 30 and 50 per cent each year. Many who are rejected would have been excellent specimens, doctors believe, if preventable problems had come to treatment at an earlier stage.

What can be done about all this, to make sure that teenagers do get the same benefits from preventive medicine that other age groups enjoy?

Push for Program

The answer is clear. We need to encourage doctors, parents and teenagers themselves to push for a program of physical checkups for teenagers paralleling the programs already well under way for other age groups.

One major necessity for such a program is to find or educate a type of doctor exactly suited to the teenager. This problem stems in part from the make-up of the teenager himself.

CHECKLIST FOR TEENAGE HEALTH

A teenager's physical examination, of course, covers standard points like heart, lungs, digestion, blood, urine, sight, hearing, and nervous system. But some other points of special importance to teenagers ought to be checked as well. These are:

HEIGHT WEIGHT
DEVELOPMENT OF FRAME
SEXUAL DEVELOPMENT
MENSTRUAL IRREGULARITIES
ATHLETIC INJURIES
FATIGUE
EATING HABITS
EMOTIONAL DISTRESS

For example, an adolescent is likely to feel isolated, to be an abnormal worrier. If he has an illness, he is worried about its implications for the future, explains Dr. Joan Morgenthau of New York Hospital-Cornell Medical College. The teenager is anxious about his appearance, about his acceptance by his own group, about his progress in school.

The doctor must have "a profound interest in kids"—that's the No. 1 requirement to Dr. J. Roswell Gallagher of Boston's Children's Hospital, a pioneer in adolescent medicine.

Wanted: A Good Listener

Beyond that, the doctor must be willing to listen because teenagers want to ask questions, unbend, reveal their fears and anxieties.

As Dr. Arthur Roth explains in his book, The Teen-Age Years, "Teenagers say they're looking for a doctor 'who can laugh it up,' or 'one who understands us,' or 'one that's cool.' They need one who is a reasonably secure adult and who is at ease with teenagers."

Will youngsters in this age group visit their doctors regularly and follow his orders? In most cases the answer is yes, according to Dr. Morgenthau. Perhaps their overwhelming self-concern makes them good patients who accept the basic notion of preventive medicine—to detect and treat illness early.

Perhaps, too, teenagers who do get annual examinations are learning that the good health habits established in adolescence will benefit them for the rest of their lives.

Slowly, a movement is starting in U.S. medicine to bring the teenager into the fold of preventive medicine. In a few cities, like New York, Denver, Washington, Oakland and Boston, adolescent clinics are beginning to spread the word about the value of prevention for teenagers.

PARADE hopes that civic and medical groups throughout the U.S. will take up the cause for annual physical checkups for teenagers. The result would be a healthier America. ■

JOHN RESKO

He painted his way out of prison

Resko poses next to picture he painted of a prison scene

JOHNNY RESKO was a dark, handsome boy of 17. Hunger gnawed at his entrails, the stomach walls contracting rhythmically over emptiness until he thought he would faint. He filled his stomach with water.

It was 1930, the start of the Great Depression. Johnny Resko, unemployed seaman, son of Hungarian immigrants on New York City's Lower East Side, needed a job desperately. He had a wife and child, another baby on the way. His wife complained of hunger. His little girl cried for milk.

Each day Johnny would walk around Manhattan Island searching for a berth on any ship. There were none.

One evening he found a gun. It had been hidden by neighborhood mobsters under the stairs in his tenement. He would hold up a store, he decided, to get some money for his wife and child — just enough for one full meal.

With his last nickel he took the subway to the Bronx. He got off at 149th Street. He roamed the neighborhood. It was night. A small grocery was open. "Guts," he muttered to himself. "You've got to have guts."

He entered the store. No one was there. A small woman, dark, fiftyish, pleasant—she reminded him of his mother—came out from the rear. "What can I do for you, sonny?" she asked. Johnny grinned shyly. His hand closed over the gun in his coat pocket. "Gee," he mumbled. "I forgot."

He raced out of the store, began to walk faster and faster in the cold winter night. Each time he put foot to pavement, the word "money" coursed through the echo-chamber of his brain: "Money, money. You've got to get some money. Your wife and kid are starving. Money, money, money."

He saw another store. Possessed, he ran in, waving his revolver. "This is a holdup," he screamed. "A holdup."

The man behind the counter thought he was joshing.

"I tell you," Johnny screamed. "This is a holdup. Give me all your money."

The man took hold of a broom. "Get on with you, boy," he said, advancing toward Johnny.

Johnny pulled the trigger. The man clutched his stomach, slumped to the floor dead.

The police found Johnny Resko ten minutes later. It was an open and shut case. Murder in the first degree. At age 18, John Resko was condemned to die in the electric chair in Sing Sing.

TODAY JOHN RESKO, 50, lives, obliged to report to a parole officer once a month in Los Angeles. He has illustrated several books, sold many of his paintings to the best museums and galleries in the country, has acquired valuable collections of African primitive paintings and Japanese prints. His second wife, a charming, cultured woman who writes children's books, occasionally works as a saleswoman to fatten the family treasury.

Resko is news because he has just finished working as technical adviser on Reprieve, the motion picture of his life story starring Ben Gazzara, Rod Steiger, Stuart Whitman, Vincent Price, Broderick Crawford, Sammy Davis, Jr.

Why is Resko alive today? Simply because he rehabilitated himself in jail by becoming so accomplished an artist that even then Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, reportedly tough on convicts, was compelled by public clamor to commute Resko's sentence to time served.

When Resko was sent to the "death house" in Sing Sing in 1930, his cell neighbor was the notorious "Two Gun" Crowley. Together they plotted a desperate escape. A squealer foiled the plot. Crowley was electrocuted. It was Resko's turn next. He was sent to the "last-minute" cell, 1200 seconds away from the chair when Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor of New York, reprieved him.

Johnny's mother proved to the authorities that her son had never before been convicted of a crime, that he came from decent, hard-working parents, that he was a soulful, artistic boy who had started giving violin lessons at the age of 12, that he was a victim of tragic circumstances.

"What good does it do society," she asked, "to kill such a boy?"

MEMBERS OF THE TRIAL JURY who had convicted Resko were paneled. Each stated that he thought the death penalty too harsh. The trial judge, the district attorney, and the governor all agreed; eventually Resko's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Transferred to the "Siberia" of prisons, Dannemora, he joined a class in sign-painting. When the convict teacher was released, John became the instructor. He introduced oil painting, sculpture, and illustration. He made paint brushes from human hair in the prison barber shop, boiled his socks to extract the various dyes, which he turned into paints. His idea that art classes could aid prisoners to rehabilitate themselves has since spread to prisons all over the world.

When John Sloan, the noted painter, visited Dannemora to inspect the first art exhibit given by convicts, he became excited over Resko's work. He showed it to other famous painters. They said some of it belonged in museums. One of Resko's canvases was bought by the Museum of Modern Art, New York. Another went to the Boston Art Museum. Sam Lewisohn, the copper king, bought some of Resko's paintings. So did writer Carl Carmer. Columnist Franklin P. Adams and editor Norman Cousins of the Saturday Review began to take an interest in Resko's case.

Headed by Carl Carmer, the movement to release Resko became so strong that in 1950 he was paroled—the first man to paint his way to freedom.

Since then he has written and painted for a living, helped hundreds of prisoners, has gotten to know his daughters and grandchildren.

"What's happened to me," he says, "is unique. But as a man, I'm not unique. The sad truth is that today behind the walls of so many of our prisons there are dozens of Johnny Reskos, dozens of men who have conquered the terrible environment of prison and must be rescued before prison conquers them." —LLOYD SHEARER.

AN EASY ONE-DISH DINNER

By BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

A hearty dish for a chilly evening—meat and vegetables in a single dish—dinner for four! If you like, you can prepare and cook the frozen vegetables and bake the meat crust in the morning, cover with foil or saran and store in the refrigerator. Then, half an hour before dinner you can heat to serving temperature, add the potato ring, and bring to the table with pride.

"ALL IN ONE" DINNER

¾ pound ground veal
½ pound ground pork
¾ cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon oregano
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup milk
1 egg
1 package (10 oz.) frozen mixed vegetables, cooked
Hot mashed potatoes

Heat oven to moderate, 350°. Mix together all ingredients except mixed vegetables and potatoes. Line bottom and sides of 10-inch pie plate with meat mixture. Bake in preheated oven, 350°, 40 minutes. While meat is baking, cook mixed vegetables according to package directions; season to taste with salt, pepper and butter or margarine. Fill center of meat "crust" with drained vegetables and return to oven for 5 minutes. Garnish with mashed potato ring, made quickly with a packet of instant mashed potato mix. Makes 4 servings.

the wonderful wonderment of a baby...

Bright eyes, alight in a beautiful face, are a wonderful sight to behold. (Know anything more appealing than a baby trying to figure out what the world is all about?) But the wonderment of a baby is more than a delight to the eye... it's an important part of his (or her) mental development. For what is wonderment but curiosity? And what is curiosity but the key to knowledge?

The eyes that search, the hands that reach and touch, the little ears that listen ... all help unfold untold mysteries for your baby.

Baby's physical development depends on a well-balanced diet to give the many different nutrients your baby needs. A babyhood basic, Gerber Cereals supply some of the most important food values: Iron for strength and rosy cheeks! Calories for "get-up-and-go"! B-vitamins for appetite and growth! Calcium for sturdy bones and sound teeth. And all these nutritional benefits come in the creamiest form imaginable when the cereals are mixed with milk or formula.

Refreshment unlimited ... vitamin C guaranteed. That's the good word on the new Gerber Apple-Cherry Juice. Delicately delicious, it has just as much vitamin C as Gerber Orange Juice.

Helping hand dept. Curiosity, so natural to a baby, should be encouraged by exposing him to stimulating objects, play devices and sounds. Like glint and glitter things to look at ... bright toys to reach for ... various textured things to hold and touch ... a spot of sweet music to listen to. Fun for one can be a real educational force.

Delightful story for cuddlers, creepers and toddlers with a vitamin viewpoint. Gerber Strained and Junior fruits have a flair for flavor (sun-kissed 'n scrumptious), provide a variety of vitamins. Have you treated baby to Bananas with Pineapple, or Peaches, lately?

Seeking new ideas for home or yourself? Try these . . . by PETER DRYDEN

Hanger spacers: New and attractive solution to the problem of crowded closets and tangled hangers are brass-plated spacing devices you can bend to fit over—and slide easily along—any wood or metal closet rod. Each has three slots to hold hangers properly spaced so clothes can hang freely and neatly all the way down. Set of 30: $2.79. Four Sisters, Dept. PP, 31 Chesley Road, White Plains, N.Y.

Moist air: Readily installed in a duct of any forced air heating system, a new humidifier adds moisture to the air to increase comfort throughout the house—and does it without motor or wiring. Humidification starts as soon as furnace blower starts. A water wheel is actuated automatically as forced air passes over it. $25.65. For details: Royal Humidifier Co., Dept. PP, 211 Dewey Ave., Royal Oak, Mich.

Easy cleaning: Packaged in a plastic squeeze bottle with a brush top, a new liquid quickly cleans vinyl leather and plastic upholstery, then acts to repel dirt and reduce static electricity. You can use it, too, on other upholstery, automobile interiors and, according to the maker, for cleaning automobile convertible tops. 12-oz.: $1.49. Westley Industries, Dept. PP, 1898 Scranton Road, Cleveland 13, Ohio.

High and youth chair: Here's a new high chair (right) you can use from the time an infant first sits up through the period of need for a youth chair—and it will aid good posture throughout. Molded of polyethylene, it's shaped to hold both back and head in correct position. Tray adjusts to 3 positions—and can be removed to turn the chair into a youth chair, seating the child close to the family table. Spilled food is easy to clean off with damp sponge. Yellow or white. $14.95. Comfort Lines, Dept. PP, 1735 W. Diversey Parkway, Chicago 14, Ill.

Something new in medicine chests: This one (right) has a clock with panelescent dial built right into the upper left-hand corner. The clock does not interfere with mirror space, serves as a reminder to late-for-work-or-school risers, and gives off enough light at night to act as a night light. Another feature: a locked safety chest which keeps medicines away from children. Fluorescent lights on sides provide glare-free illumination. Details: Kent Corp., Dept. PP, 3414 Decoursey Ave., Covington, Ky.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by BILL COLEMAN

Editor's note: Bill Coleman, son of George Coleman, the old-time vaudeville headliner, broke into show business at the age of five. Since then he's appeared on radio, television, played supper clubs in New York, Chicago, Miami, and Las Vegas. Coleman specializes in topical humor, reads newspapers industriously so that he can incorporate the morning's headlines into his nightly routines. Herewith a few of his timeless jokes. The timely ones are often dated in 24 hours.

A sweet young lady oyster was confiding to her girl friend about her romance with a dashing young lobster. "He's dark, handsome and real smooth," she sighed. "He took me to that secluded rock near the sand bar, looked into my eyes, whispered sweet nothings in my ear, and . . ." As she uttered these last words, she clutched at her throat, "Oh, good heavens—my pearls!"

The best way to avoid a hangover is to keep drinking.

I can honestly say that since I married my wife, I haven't looked at another woman. I'm completely discouraged.

Where I come from we allow 14-year-olds to drive. They're too young to be pedestrians.

Two very English Englishmen were in a shipwreck. After swimming near each other for some time, one turned to the other and said, "Pardon me for speaking to you without having been properly introduced, but could you tell me the nearest way to Southampton?"

I come from a town that is so small, when I plug in my electric razor, the trolley stops.

The other day a real fat lady—she weighed about 300 pounds—edged her way into a crowded bus. Before I could get up to give her my seat, she stepped on my toe, almost amputated it.

"Please, ma'am," I said, "get off my foot."

"Why don't you put your foot where it belongs?" she answered sharply.

"Please, ma'am," I retorted, "don't tempt me."

The Treasurer of the United States is a woman. No wonder money talks!

Just bought a new foreign car. Gets 45 miles to a pedestrian.

Buying your own home is a wonderful experience for the kids. Without it they could go through life without knowing what a bankruptcy proceeding is like!

My brother never completed his education. He died a bachelor.

A nephew of mine in the ninth grade was given an aptitude test in school to find out what he was best suited for. The results proved he was best suited for the eighth grade. ■

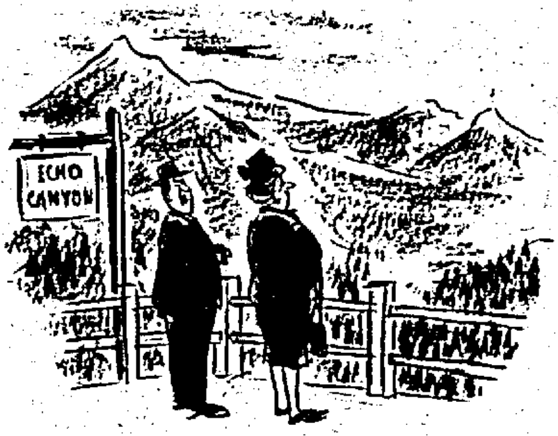
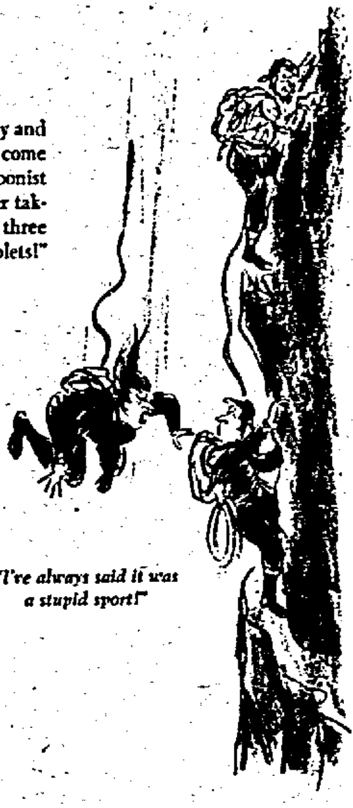
'These are my funniest'

by PHIL INTERLANDI

"THERE ARE TWO WAYS to look at everything—funny and funnier," says Phil Interlandi. His outlook must come naturally, because his twin brother Frank is a cartoonist too. "When I'm not drawing," Phil adds, "I'm either taking photos or acting in amateur theatricals. I love all three occupations equally. Maybe I should have been triplets!"



"Oh, shut up! All of you . . ."



"I've always said it was a stupid sport!"

ANECDOTE of the WEEK

OLIN D. JOHNSTON, the beagle-eyed, saggy-faced Senator from South Carolina, likes whenever possible to vote on the basis of his convictions in legislative matters without offending the voters back home.

A few years ago, he decided to vote in favor of a foreign aid bill and asked his assistant, the late James Lever, to write a Senate speech for him on the subject.

"Put a few reservations in the speech," Johnston directed. "A lot of folks back home don't like foreign aid."

Johnston delivered the speech, cautiously supporting foreign aid. But when the Senate roll was called, he astoundingly voted against the bill.

From the back of the Senate chamber Lever hustled over to him and whispered urgently: "Senator, you must have made a mistake. You just voted against foreign aid."

Johnston nodded solemnly.

"Those reservations you wrote into my speech," he said, "convinced me."
